Reg. 9. All applications for power permits, whether preliminary or final, to occupy and use Interior Department lands under these regulations shall, if the applicant be an individual, be accompanied by an affidavit by the applicant that he is a citizen of the United States. If he is not a native-born citizen he must submit the usual proofs of naturalization. If the applicant is an association of citizens, each member must make affidavit of citizenship, and a complete list of the members must be given in an affidavit by one of them. Associations must, in addition, submit their articles of association; if there be none, the fact must be stated over the signature of each member of the association. Applications by individuals or associations must also be accompanied by the information called for in paragraph (G) of this regulation.

If the applicant is an incorporated company, its application must be accompanied by the papers below in this regulation specified:

(A) A copy of its articles of incorporation, duly certified by the proper officers of the company under its corporate seal or by the secretary of the State where organized.

(B) A copy of the State law under which the company was organized (if it was organized under State law), with certificate of the governor or secretary of the State, under seal, that the same was the law at the date of incorporation. (See par. (H) of this regulation.)

(C) If the State law directs that the articles of incorporation or other papers connected with the organization be filed with any State officer, there must be submitted the certificate of such officer that the same have been filed according to law, and giving the date of the filing thereof.

(D) When a company is operating in a State other than that in which it is incorporated, it must submit the certificate of the proper officer of the State that it has complied with the laws of that State governing foreign corporations to the extent required to entitle the company to operate in such State.

(E) An official statement, by the proper officer, under the seal of the company, that the organization has been completed, that the company is fully authorized to proceed with construction according to the existing law of the State in which it is incorporated, and that the copy of the articles filed is true and correct.

(F) A true list, signed by the president, under the seal of the company, showing the names and designations of its officers at the date of the filing of the items by this regulation required.

(G) A copy of the State laws governing water rights, with the certificate of the governor or secretary of the State that the same is the existing law.

(H) If certified copies of the existing laws regarding corporations and irrigation, and of new laws as passed from time to time, be forwarded to the General Land Office by the governor or secretary of the State, the applicant may file, in lieu of the requirements of paragraphs (B) and (G) of this regulation, a certificate of the governor or secretary of state, under seal, that no change has been made since a given date, not later than that of the laws last forwarded.

Reg. 10. All applications for preliminary permits to occupy and use Interior Department lands for the purpose of securing the data required for an application for final permit for power projects of more than 100 horsepower total capacity shall consist of the following items, (in addition to those specified in regulation 9), each of which shall be dated and signed by the applicant:

(I) An application in quadruplicate, on Form 3.

(J) A map, in duplicate, on tracing linen, and two print copies, cut to a uniform size and not larger than 28 by 40 inches and not smaller than 24 by 36 inches, with scale so selected as to show upon a single map the power project or projects applied for, showing the approximate location of the dams, reservoirs, conduits, power houses, and other project works. The map shall show: All lines of public land subdivisions by official survey and the protractions on unsurveyed lands of section and township lines, such protractions in any national forest conforming to the diagram accompanying the proclamation establishing the boundaries of such national forest; for each reservoir site, the distance and bearing of one extremity of the dam from the nearest existing corner of the public survey and approximately the position of the maximum-flow line; and for each water-conduit line, the distance and bearing of each terminus from the nearest existing corner of the public survey and the approximate location of the conduit. If on unsurveyed land, the distances and bearings may be taken from a permanent mark on some natural object or permanent monument that can be readily found and recognized.

(K) Estimates in quadruplicate for each power project of (1) the total average effective head to be utilized, and the per cent thereof to be obtained from dam and from water conduit, respectively; (2) the stream flow, and the per cent thereof to be made available from storage by the project works and by other works, respectively; (3) the area to be flooded by backwater from the diversion dam; (4) the length of the proposed water conduit (from intake to tailrace outlet); (5) the area and available capacity of each proposed storage reservoir; (6) the probable load factor of the power system; and (7) the distance, in miles, of proposed primary transmission.

These estimates should be accompanied by complete statements in detail of all data on which they are based, including stream measurements, rainfall, stream flow and evaporation records, drainage areas, probable points of delivery of power, and any other pertinent information.

(L) A duly certified copy of such notice or application, if any, as is required to be posted or filed, or both, to initiate the appropriation of water under the local laws. This notice or application should provide for use, by the applicant for a power permit or by his predecessors, of sufficient water for the full operation of the project works.

Application must be made for the occupancy and use of such lands for a definite, limited period only, which period will allow a reasonable time for the preparation and filing of the final application as prescribed in regulation 11. The time prescribed in the preliminary permit may, upon application, be extended by the Secretary if the completion of the final application has been prevented by unusual climatic conditions that could not reasonably have been foreseen or by some special or peculiar cause beyond the control of the permittee.

An application for a preliminary power permit shall not be complete until every map or paper required by regulation 9 and by this regulation shall have been filed in the form prescribed.

REG. 11. All applications for final permits to occupy and use Interior Department lands for power projects of more than 100 horsepower total capacity shall consist of the following items (in addition to those specified in regulation 9):

(I) An application in quadruplicate, on Form 5.

(J) Maps of location, in duplicate, on tracing linen, and plans of structures on tracing linen, with two print copies of each map and plan cut to uniform size not larger than 28 by 40 inches and not smaller than 24 by 36 inches with graphical scale not less than 6 inches in length drawn thereon. Separate sheets, numbered consecutively, shall be used for maps whenever the whole survey can not be shown upon a single sheet, and each sheet shall contain a small diagram showing the entire map and indicating the portions shown on each sheet. Each separate sheet of maps and plans shall contain an affidavit of the applicant's engineer and a certificate of the applicant in form prescribed by the Secretary. (See Form 6.) The maps shall show reference lines that can at all times readily be retraced to initial points of survey, to termini of water conduits, to termini of transmission lines (when within 2 miles of Interior Department lands, measured along the proposed right of way), and to intersections of surveys with boundaries of national forests and other reservations of the United States; all lines of public land subdivisions by official survey and the protractions on unsurveyed lands of section and township lines, such protractions in any national forest conforming to the diagram accompanying the proclamation establishing the boundaries of such national forest; and the status as to ownership of all lands of the power project or projects, designating separately lands patented, lands of the United States entered or otherwise embraced in any unperfected claim under the public land laws, unreserved lands of the United States, and, separately for each reservation, lands included within national forests and other reservations of the United States. Elevations and contour lines shall be based on United States Geological Survey datum whenever available.

(1) The following maps and plans shall be submitted for each reservoir that will be a part of the power project or projects applied for: (a) A contour map of each reservoir site, dam, and dam site on a scale of not more than 400 feet to the inch, with a contour interval of not more than 10 feet. The contour map for each reservoir site shall show the high-water flow line and, in case the reservoir is to be used in whole or in part for diversion purposes, the flow line fixed by the estimated average effective head, and also a table of areas and capacities for each flow line and each contour line. (b) A cross section of each dam site along the center line of the proposed dam, with a graphical log properly located thereon of each boring, test pit, or other exploration, and a brief statement of the character and dip of underlying material. (c) Plans, elevations, and cross sections of the dams, showing spillways, sluiceways, or sluice pipes, and other outlet works; and also a statement of the volume of the dam, the character of the materials used, and the type of construction.

(2) The following maps and plans shall be submitted for the entire length of each water conduit, from intake to tailrace outlet, that will be a part of the power project or projects applied for: (a) A contour map of the entire water-conduit location, except pipe lines and tunnels, on a scale of not more than 400 feet to the inch, with contour interval of not more than 10 feet and a profile of the pipe lines and tunnels. The contours shall cover either an area of 100 feet in width on each side of the center line of the water conduit or a difference in elevation of at least 25 feet above and below the grade line of the conduit. This map shall show the transit line of the survey and the center line of the proposed final location of the water conduit, including curves between tangents, and the distance from the nearest section or quarter-section corner of the intersection of the transit line with section lines. This map shall also show what sections of the water conduit will be in flume, ditch, tunnel, pipe, etc., and the grade of each section. (b) Plans, elevations, and cross sections of each type of water conduit, showing material, dimensions, grades, flow line, and capacity and plans and elevations of intake works and fore bays.

(3) A contour map on a scale of not more than 50 feet to the inch, with a contour interval of not more than 5 feet, showing the proposed location of the power house, other buildings, etc., shall be filed for each power-house site that will be a part of the power project or projects applied for. This map shall also state the proposed type and estimated number and rated capacity of the water wheels and generators to be used.

(4) A map of the survey of the proposed final location of the center line of the transmission line, on a scale of not more than 1,000 feet to the inch, shall be filed for such portion of the transmission lines as are located upon Interior Department lands.

(5) A general map of the entire power project or projects applied for (except transmission lines) on such a scale that the entire survey may be shown upon a single sheet; also a similar map showing the entire primary transmission system.

(K) Copies of field notes in triplicate of the entire final location survey of water conduits and transmission lines and the exterior boundaries of power-house and reservoir sites, bearing an affidavit of the applicant's engineer and a certificate of the applicant in form prescribed by the Secretary. (See Form 7.)

(L) Estimates in quadruplicate for each power project of (1) the total average effective head to be utilized and the per cent thereof to be obtained from dam and from water conduit, respectively; (2) the stream flow and the per cent thereof made available from storage by the project works and by other works, respectively; (3) the area to be flooded by the dam below the flow line fixed by the estimated average effective head; (4) the length of the proposed water conduit (from intake to tailrace outlet); (5) the area and available capacity of each proposed storage reservoir; (6) the available storage capacity of fore bay (or diversion pond); (7) the probable load factor of the power system; and (8) the distance, in miles, of primary transmission.

These estimates should bear an affidavit of the applicant's engineer and a certificate of the applicant (Form 8) and should be accompanied by complete statements in detail of all data on which they are based, including stream measurements, rainfall, stream flow, and evaporation records, drainage areas, total static head and losses in head, probable maximum, minimum, and average power output, load curves of the power system, efficiencies of machinery, probable points of delivery of power, and all other pertinent information.

(M) Such evidence of water appropriation as is specified in regulation 10 (L). If such evidence has been filed with an application for a preliminary permit, only such additional evidence will be required as will cover appropriations or transfers subsequent to the date of the evidence filed with the application for preliminary permit. A certified statement from the proper State agency setting forth the extent and validity of the applicant's water right, if consistent with the State law, must also be filed together with the evidence required by regulation 5, or a showing of cause why such evidence can not reasonably be presented.

(N) A detailed statement in quadruplicate by the applicant of the time desired for making financial arrangements, for completing preliminary construction, and for beginning "construction of the project works," as defined in regulation 7.

Maps and field notes shall designate by termini and length each water-conduit and transmission line, and by initial point and area each reservoir and power-house site. The termini of water conduits, the termini of transmission lines, and the intersections with boundaries of reservations of the United States and with surveyed township and section lines, and the initial point of survey of power-house sites shall be fixed by reference by course and distance to the nearest existing corner of the public survey; and the initial point of the survey of reservoir sites shall be fixed by reference by course and distance to the nearest existing corner outside of the reservoir by a line or lines not crossing an area that will be covered with water when the reservoir is in use. When any such terminus, intersection, or initial point is upon unsurveyed land, it shall be connected by traverse with an established corner of the public survey, and the distance from the terminus, intersection, or initial point to the corner shall be computed and noted on the map and in the affidavit of the applicant's engineer. When the nearest established corner of the public survey is more than 2 miles distant, this connection may be with a permanent mark on a natural object or a permanent monument which can be readily found and recognized. The field notes shall give an accurate description of the natural object or monument and full data of traverse as required above.

Each separate original map, plan, set of field notes, estimates, and data, evidence of water appropriation, articles of incorporation, and evidence of right to operate within any State shall be plainly marked "Exhibit A," "Exhibit B," etc., respectively, and referred to by such designation in the application. Maps and plans shall in addition be described in the application by their titles as "Exhibit A, map of location of," etc., "Exhibit B, plan of," etc. Duplicate and triplicate copies, etc., should be marked "Exhibit A, duplicate," "Exhibit A, triplicate," etc. Maps should be rolled for mailing and should not be folded.

An application for final permit shall not be complete until every map or paper required by this regulation has been filed in the form prescribed.

REG. 12. No applications will be received for preliminary permits for the occupancy and use of Interior Department lands for power projects of 100 horsepower total capacity or less. Applications for final permits for such occupancy and use shall be in writing, dated and signed by the applicant, and, in addition to the items specified in regulation 9, shall be accompanied by:

(J) A map in quadruplicate showing the location of dams, reservoirs, conduits, power houses, and transmission lines or other works.

(K) Field notes of the survey in quadruplicate.

(L) A statement in quadruplicate of the amount of water to be diverted for use, the maximum capacity of the diversion works, and the total average static and effective heads to be utilized.

(M) Such showing as is specified in regulation 11 (M).

The map shall consist of duplicate originals on tracing linen and two print copies, and shall not be larger than 28 by 40 inches or smaller than 24 by 36 inches, and may be on any convenient scale. The map shall show all lines of public-land subdivisions by official survey and the protractions on unsurveyed lands of section and township lines, such protractions in any national forest conforming to the diagram accompanying the proclamation establishing the boundaries of such national forest; and the status as to ownership of all lands in the power project, designating separately lands patented, lands of the United States entered or otherwise embraced in any unperfected claim under the public land laws, unreserved lands of the United States, and, separately for each reservation, lands included in national forests and other reservations of the United States. The map shall also show: For each reservoir site, the distance and bearing of the initial point of survey from the nearest existing corner of the public survey, the location of the maximum-flow line, and the area and available storage capacity of the reservoir; for each water-conduit line, the distance and bearing of each terminus from the nearest corner of the public survey, the location of the center line of the conduit, and its length; and for each power-house site, the distance and bearing of the initial point of survey from the nearest corner of the public survey, the location of the exterior boundaries of the site, and the area. If on unsurveyed land, the distances and bearings may, if the nearest existing corner of the public survey is more than 2 miles distant, be taken from a permanent mark on some natural object or permanent monument that can be readily found and recognized.

REG. 13. Before a final power permit will be issued for a power project of 100 horsepower total capacity or less, the permittee shall execute or file an agreement which, upon its approval in writing by the Secretary, shall constitute and express the conditions of the permit. Such agreement shall expressly bind the applicant to such of the items enumerated in regulation 14 and such other conditions as may be required by the Secretary.

REG. 14. Before a final power permit will be issued for a power project of more than 100 horsepower total capacity, the permittee shall execute and file an agreement which, upon its approval in writing by the Secretary, shall constitute and express the conditions of the permit. Such agreement shall expressly bind the applicant—

(A) To construct the project works on the location shown upon and in accordance with the maps and plans submitted with the final application for permit, and to make no material deviation from said location unless and until maps and plans showing such deviation shall have been submitted and approved. (See reg. 15.)

(B) To begin the construction of the project works, or the several parts thereof, within a specified period or periods from the date of execution of the permit, and thereafter to diligently and continuously prosecute such construction unless temporarily interrupted by climatic conditions or by some special or peculiar cause beyond the control of the permittee.

(C) To complete the construction and begin the operation of the project works, or the several parts thereof, within a specified period or periods from the date of execution of the permit.

(D) To operate the project works continuously for the development, transmission, and use of power, unless upon a full and satisfactory showing that such operation is prevented by unavoidable accidents or contingencies this requirement is temporarily waived by the written consent of the Secretary.

(E) To pay annually, in advance, such amounts as may be fixed and required by the Secretary under these regulations. (Reg. 8.)

(F) On demand of the Secretary to install at such places and maintain in good operating condition in such manner as shall be approved by the Secretary accurate meters, measuring weirs, gages, or other devices approved by the Secretary and adequate for the determination of the amount of electric energy generated by the project works and of the flow of the stream or streams from which the water is to be diverted for the operation of the project works and of the amount of water used in the operation of the project works and of the amounts of water held in and drawn from storage; to keep accurate and sufficient records of the foregoing determinations to the satisfaction of the Secretary; and to make a return during January of each year, under oath, of such of the records of measurements for the year ended on December 31, preceding, made by or in the possession of the permittee, as may be required by the Secretary.

(G) That the books and records of the permittee shall be open at all times to the inspection and examination of the Secretary, or other officer or agent of the United States duly authorized to make such inspection and examination.

(H) On demand of the Secretary to install a system of accounting for the entire power business in such form as the Secretary may prescribe, which system as far as is practicable will be uniform for all permittees, and to render annually such reports of the power business as the Secretary may direct: Provided, however, That if the laws of the State in which the power business or any part thereof is transacted require periodical reports from public utility corporations under a uniform system of accounting, copies of such reports so made will be accepted as fulfilling the requirements of this clause.

(I) To protect all Government and other telephone, telegraph, and power transmission lines at crossings of and at all places of proximity to the permittee's transmission line in a workmanlike manner according to the usual standards of safety for construction, operation, and maintenance in such cases, and to maintain transmission lines in such manner as not to menace life or property.

(J) To clear and keep clear the Interior Department lands along the transmission line for such width and in such manner as the officer of the United States having supervision of such lands may direct.

(K) To dispose of all brush, refuse, or unused timber on Interior Department lands resulting from the construction and maintenance of the project works to the satisfaction of the officer last aforesaid.

(L) To build and repair such roads and trails as may be destroyed or injured by construction work or flooding under the permit, and to build and maintain necessary and suitable crossings for all roads and trails that intersect the water conduit constructed, maintained, or operated under the permit.

(M) To do everything reasonably within the power of the permittee both independently and on request of the Secretary or other duly authorized officer or agent of the United States to prevent and suppress fires on or near the lands to be occupied under the permit.

(N) To pay the full value as fixed by the Secretary for all timber cut, injured, or destroyed on Interior Department lands in the construction, maintenance, and operation of the project works.

(O) To pay the United States full value for all damage to the lands or other property of the United States resulting from the breaking of or the overflowing, leaking, or seeping of water from the project works, and for all other damage to the lands or other property of the United States caused by the neglect of the permittee or of the employees, contractors, or employees of the contractors of the permittee.

(P) To indemnify the United States against any liability for damages to life or property arising from the occupancy or use of Interior Department lands by the permittee.

(Q) To sell power to the United States, when requested, at as low a price as is given to any other purchaser for a like use at the same time, and under similar conditions, if the permittee can furnish the same to the United States without diminishing the quantity of power sold before such request to any other customer by a binding contract of sale: Provided, That nothing in this clause shall be construed to require the permittee to increase permanent works or install additional generating machinery.

(R) To abide by such reasonable regulation of the service rendered and to be rendered by the permittee to consumers of power furnished or transmitted by the permittee, and of the prices to be paid therefor as may from time to time be prescribed by the State or any designated agency of the State in which the service is rendered: Provided, That for the purposes of this paragraph any such regulation shall be deemed to be suspended pending proceedings in the courts of such State, or in the Supreme Court of the United States on appeal from said State courts where such proceedings are in the nature of an appeal taken direct from the officer, commission, or board prescribing such regulation to said State courts.

(S) Upon demand in writing by the Secretary to surrender the permit to the United States or to transfer the same to such State or municipal corporation as he may designate, and to give, grant, bargain, sell, and transfer with the permit all works, equipment, structures, and property then owned or held by the permittee on lands of the United States occupied or used under the permit, and then valuable or serviceable in the generation, transmission, and distribution of power: Provided, (1) That such surrender or transfer shall be demanded only in case the United States or the transferee shall have first acquired such other works, equipment, structures, property and rights of the permittee as are dependent in whole or in essential part for their usefulness upon the continuance of the permit; (2) that such surrender or transfer shall be on condition precedent that the United States shall pay or the transferee shall first pay to the permittee the reasonable value of all such works, equipment, structures, and property to be surrendered or transferred; (3) that such reasonable value shall not include any sum for any permit, right, franchise, or property granted by any public authority in excess of the sum paid to such public authority as a purchase price therefor; and (4) that such reasonable value shall be determined by mutual agreement of the parties in interest, and in case they can not agree, by the Secretary under a rule, which, except as modified by the requirements of this paragraph, shall be the then existing rule of valuation for power properties in condemnation proceedings in the State in which the properties to be surrendered or transferred are located. But nothing herein shall prevent the United States or any State or municipal corporation from acquiring by any other lawful means the permit or the works, equipment, structures, or property then owned or held by the permittee on lands of the United States occupied or used under the permit.

(T) That in respect to the regulation by any competent public authority of the service to be rendered by the permittee or the price to be charged therefor, and in respect to any purchase or taking over of the properties or business of the permittee or any part thereof by the United States, or by any State within which the works are situated or business carried on in whole, or in part, or by any municipal corporation in such State, no value whatsoever shall at any time be assigned to or claimed for the permit or for the occupancy or use of Interior Department lands thereunder, nor shall such permit or such occupancy and use ever be estimated or considered as property upon which the permittee shall be entitled to earn or receive any return, income, price, or compensation whatsoever.

(U) That the works to be constructed, maintained, and operated under the permit will not be owned, leased, trusteed, possessed, or controlled by any device or in any manner so that they form part of or in any way effect any combination in the form of an unlawful trust, or form the subject of any unlawful contract or conspiracy to limit the output of electric energy, or in restraint of trade with foreign nations or between two or more States, or within any one State in the generation, sale, or distribution of electric energy.

(V) That any approval of any alteration or amendment, or of any map or plan, or of any extension of time shall affect only the portions specifically covered by such approval; and that no approval of any such alteration, amendment, or extension shall operate to alter or amend, or in any way whatsoever be a waiver of any other part, condition, or provision of the permit.

(W) To perform such other specified conditions with respect to the occupancy and use of lands within any of said parks or any military, Indian, or other reservation as may be found by the chief officer of the department under whose supervision such park or reservation falls to be necessary as conditions precedent to the issuance of the permit in order to render the same compatible with the public interest.

REG. 15. During the progress of construction amendments to maps of location or plans of structures will be required from the permittee if there is a material deviation from the maps or plans as originally filed, but no amendment will be allowed that is incompatible with the occupancy and use of lands under existing permits or pending applications. Any approval of an amendment of a map or plan or of any extension of time shall be in the form of a supplemental agreement and permit so drawn as to become a part of the original agreement and permit and a substitute for the clauses amended. Any approval of any amendment of any map or plan shall apply only to the portions specifically covered by such approval, and no approval of any such amendment shall operate to amend or be in any way a waiver of any other part, condition, or provision of the permit.

If, after the completion of the project works, there are any deviations in location from those shown upon the original map or approved amendments thereof, additional maps prepared in the manner prescribed for original maps of location will be required to be filed within six months after the completion of the project works, showing the extent of such deviations and final locations of such project works. Also upon the completion of the project works detailed working plans will be required of the works as constructed, except such parts as have been constructed in compliance with plans originally filed or approved amendments thereof. Such new or additional plans may be originals on tracing linen or Van Dyke negatives of the permittee's own working plans. The plans of conduits, dams, and appurtenant structures must be complete; of power houses, only general layout plans are required.

Reg. 16. An extension of the periods stipulated in the permit for beginning or completing construction and for beginning operation, will be granted only by the written approval of the Secretary after a showing by the permittee satisfactory to the Secretary that the beginning or completion of construction and beginning of operation has been prevented by engineering difficulties that could not reasonably have been foreseen, or by other special and peculiar causes beyond the control of the permittee.

Reg. 17. A final permit may be transferred to a new permittee only (1) by a court of competent jurisdiction under a decree of foreclosure to enforce a mortgage or deed of trust that shall have been given in good faith to secure capital for the power business as defined in regulation 7, embracing the works constructed or to be constructed under such permit, and without any intent to evade the restrictions upon transfers in this regulation hereafter set forth; or (2) under the following conditions: The proposed transferee shall file with the Commissioner of the General Land Office, Washington, D. C., the decree, execution of judgment, will, proposed contract of sale, or other written instrument upon which the proposed transfer is based, or a properly certified copy thereof, also an application by the proposed transferee in the form of an agreement binding the proposed transferee to the performance of such new and additional conditions expressed therein as the Secretary may deem necessary; and thereupon the Secretary may, in his discretion, approve in writing the proposed transfer, and after such approval the transferee shall succeed to all the rights and obligations of the permittee, subject, however, to such new and additional conditions as shall have been embodied in such agreement and so approved.

Reg. 18. If any person shall make a false engineer's affidavit under these regulations, the secretary may order that no map, field notes, plan, or estimate made by such person shall be received or filed while the order is in force. If any person or corporation, for himself or itself, or as the attorney, agent, or employee of another, shall offer or file any map, field notes, plan, or estimate bearing a false engineer's affidavit, knowing the same to be false, the secretary may order that no application for a power permit shall be filed by or received from the person or corporation so offending, either in his or its own behalf or as attorney, agent, or employee of another, and that no power permit shall be issued to such person or corporation while the order is in force.

Reg. 19. Violation by a final permittee of any of the provisions of these regulations, or of any of the conditions of a permit issued to him thereunder, shall be sufficient ground for revocation of such permit; but attention is called to the statute under which these regulations are issued, which provides:

"That any permission given by the Secretary of the Interior under the provisions of this act may be revoked by him or by his successor in his discretion."

No permit will be deemed to be revoked except on the issuance by the Secretary of a specific order of revocation. Change of jurisdiction over lands from one executive department to another will not revoke but will change the administrative jurisdiction over a permit for the occupancy and use of such lands. The final disposal by the United States of any tract traversed by a right of way permitted under this act shall not be construed to be a revocation of such permission in whole or in part, but such final disposal shall be deemed and taken to be subject to such right of way until such permission shall have been specifically revoked in accordance with the provisions of said act.

Reg. 20. Any power project under permit, or any part thereof, whether constructed or unconstructed, may be abandoned by the permittee upon the written approval of the Secretary after a finding by the Secretary that such abandonment will not tend to prevent the subsequent development of such project or part thereof so abandoned, and after the fulfillment by the permittee of all the obligations under the permit, in respect to payment or otherwise, existing at the time of such approval. Upon such abandonment, after such approval thereof and fulfillment of existing obligations, so much of the agreement and permit as relates to the abandoned project or part of a project will be formally revoked by the Secretary.

Reg. 21. When an original application for a preliminary or final permit for the use of Interior Department lands only is submitted to a local land office, notations will be made on the tract records of that office as to the fact of such application with respect to each tract affected, giving the serial number, the date of filing, the name of the applicant, and the character of the application or the act under which it is made. In addition to the regular filing stamp imprint on the accompanying papers the register will note on the original map, over his original signature, the serial number, date of filing, and a certificate that lands of the United States are affected indicating the mark or markings by which they are identified on the map. All the application papers will then be transmitted promptly to the General Land Office with report that the required notations have been made on the records of the local land office. When the application affects lands in more than one district, the register of the local land office to which is submitted only a print copy of the map, will make notations and transmit the print copy to the General Land Office in like manner.

If no land of the United States in a district is involved in the application, the officers of the local land office in that district will reject it, allowing the usual right of appeal.

During the pendency of an application for a permit, the local land officers will accept no filing with respect to any of the lands affected thereby except other applications for permits as provided in these regulations; but no valid right will be initiated by an applicant unless a permit is issued to him and said right shall then date from the completion of the application papers.

Upon receipt of the application papers at the General Land Office they will be registered and the pendency of the application will be noted on the tract records of that office in the manner hereinbefore specified for the local land offices. The General Land Office will examine the application and determine whether it is complete with respect to the requirements of that office; and will call upon the applicant through the local land office to supply any deficiency. Thereupon that office will promptly transmit the entire record to the Director of the Geological Survey, stating the fact of such completion and the date thereof as determined by the receipt at the local land office of the last paper required to be filed.

Upon receipt of the application for permit at the Geological Survey, that office will promptly call upon other offices for such reports and recommendations, in triplicate, with respect to the status of the lands, interference with matters under the jurisdiction of such offices, and conditions precedent to the issuance of the permit, as the nature of the case may require; and will determine whether the application papers are complete with reference to the requirements of the Geological Survey, and will call upon the applicant directly to supply any deficiency. When the application is found by the Geological Survey to be thus complete, the fact of such completion and the date thereof as determined by the receipt at the Geological Survey of the last paper required (or in case the application is thus complete when received by the Geological Survey, the date as specified by the General Land Office) will be noted on the records of the Geological Survey; and said date will be taken as the date of initiation of priority as defined in regulation 3 and as the date of initiation of valid rights of the applicant as against other claimants, and will be so specified in the permit, if issued.

When an application for the use of national forest and Interior Department lands is submitted, the same procedure will be followed as in other cases, except that no draft of permit will be prepared until the Geological Survey receives notice from the Department of Agriculture of the fact and date of the completion of the application in that department. The date so notified will be taken as the date of initiation of priority as defined in regulation 3, but the initiation of valid rights of the applicant as against other claimants on Interior Department lands will date from the completion of the application in the Interior Department, and the respective dates will be so specified in the permit, if issued. In case the application papers are found to be incomplete by the General Land Office or the Geological Survey, the office so finding will mail to the Department of Agriculture a copy of the letter calling upon the applicant to supply the deficiency; and the draft of the permit will be prepared by the Geological Survey only after consultation with the Department of Agriculture.

The recommendation of the Geological Survey, together with the two tracings of all maps of location, two sets of field notes, and two sets of the formal application papers required by regulation 9, shall be transmitted to the General Land Office, and that office will thereupon submit the case to the Secretary for action, presenting therewith its recommendation and that of the Geological Survey. In case the Geological Survey recommends that a permit be issued to the applicant that office will submit with its recommendation to the General Land Office a draft of such permit, in duplicate, together with two copies thereof and a draft of a letter to the applicant transmitting the permit to him for execution. After execution by the applicant and approval by the Secretary, the General Land Office will note the fact of such approval on the maps of location, will transmit one original of the permit to the permittee and one copy thereof to the Geological Survey, and will transmit one tracing of all maps of location, one set of field notes, and one copy of the permit to the local land office for filing, and will retain one original of the permit, one tracing of all maps of location, and one set of field notes in the files of the General Land Office. The approval of the permit and the dates of initiation of priority and of valid rights of the permittee will thereupon be noted on the tract records of the general and local land offices.

Matters of relative priority of applications under these regulations, incompatibility of works, relative beneficial utilization of resources, and the like, including all protests against the approval of applications on these grounds, shall be considered by the Geological Survey and covered by its recommendations.

After the issuance of the permit, the Geological Survey will make such investigations and report to the Secretary as may be necessary for the determination and revision of rates and capacities, the supervision of construction and operation and of the records of the permittee as contemplated by these regualtions, and, in general, for all engineering matters pertaining to the power development and the power resources involved. The compensation for the first year shall be transmitted by the applicant to the Secretary with the executed agreement prior to the issuance of the permit, in the form of a certified check to the order of the Secretary of the Interior, who, upon the issuance of the permit, will indorse the same to the order of the receiving clerk of the General Land Office for deposit to the credit of the Treasurer of the United States as "Sales of public lands."

Under the authority given by the said act of February 15, 1901 (c. 372, 31 Stat. 790), the foregoing regulations are, on this 1st day of March, 1913, hereby made and fixed with respect to applications and permits for rights of way under the said act for the development, transmission, and use of power through the public lands and reservations of the United States (except national forests) and the Yosemite, Sequoia, and General Grant National Parks, superseding the regulations approved August 24, 1912.

WALTER L. FISHER,
Secretary of the Interior.

ADDENDA TO REGULATIONS OF MARCH 1, 1913—ACT OF FEBRUARY 15, 1901

Department of the Interior,
Washington, July 19, 1913.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office:

In order to provide for greater elasticity in dealing with the varying conditions under which water-power permits are issued, the regulations under the act of February 15, 1901 (31 Stat. 790), made and fixed by the Secretary of the Interior on March 1, 1913 (41 L. D. 532), are hereby modified to the extent of inserting the phrase " unless otherwise specified in the permit and " at the beginning of regulation 6, and the phrase " unless otherwise ordered by the Secretary " at the beginning of regulation 8.

Secretary of the Interior.

RIGHT OF WAY—PARAGRAPH 6 OF REGULATIONS OF JANUARY 6, 1913, AMENDED

Department of Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, October 15, 1913.

The Secretary of the Interior.

Sir: By letter dated June 25, last, this office submitted to the department, with favorable recommendation, a map filed by the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co., in connection with its application for a 50-year easement for the telephone and telegraph line shown on the map, under the provisions of the act of March 4, 1911 (36 Stat. 1253).

Considering this matter, under date of July 14, last, the First Assistant Secretary of the Interior directed me to draft an amendment to the regulations making it obligatory on applicants in such cases to construct, maintain, and operate their lines so as to obviate as much as possible interference with the use and development by subsequent entrymen and patentees of the lands traversed by the lines. To this end, I recommend that regulation 6 of the regulations approved January 6, 1913 (41 L. D. 454), be amended so that it will read as follows:

> Regulation 6. Before any right of way is granted the applicant shall execute and file in or in amendment of his application a statement of the particular terms and conditions upon which and subject to which he asks to receive and agrees to take the grant of right of way; and he further agrees to construct, maintain, and operate the line or lines embraced by his application according to the usual standard of safety in such cases, and shall maintain the line or lines in such manner as not to menace life or property, and to interfere as little as possible with the use and development by subsequent entrymen and patentees of the lands traversed by the line or lines—it being understood and agreed that less than 20 feet on each side of the center line is covered by the easement wherever such diminished right of way is found adequate for a proper use and enjoyment thereof; the grant may be made subject to these terms and conditions, in which case such terms and conditions, together with these regulations, shall define and limit the grant, which shall be effective only if and in so far as it is subject to such terms, conditions, and regulations. Such original or amended application with the approval thereof by the Secretary of the Interior shall together constitute the grant and express the terms and conditions thereof, and the fact of such approval shall be noted on the application maps.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Approved October 25, 1913.

First Assistant Secretary.

RIGHT OF WAY—NOTATION ON FACE OF PATENT

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, March 3, 1915.

THE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

SIR: By departmental order of August 23, 1912, this office was directed, inter alia, as follows: "You will, therefore, be guided by the following regulation in the issuance of all patents:"

> In every patent hereafter issued for a tract of land traversed by a right of way approved or permitted (including revocable permits) under any of the right of way laws and not forfeited or revoked before such issuance, such right of way or permit shall be expressly noted on the face of the patent by specific reference to the date when, and the statute under which, the approval was made or permit issued. Such notation shall be in substantially the following form.

In compliance with this order it became necessary for the General Land Office to reconstruct and revise its methods and practices so that no patent should be issued for land over which an approved right of way had been allowed without a notation upon such patent of the existence of a possible claim adverse to the patentee by reason of the approval.

A proper compliance with the order made it necessary for the Department of the Interior to request the Department of Agriculture to file in the General Land Office, for notation upon the tract books, all permits issued by the Forester, or by the Department of Agriculture, affecting lands within the jurisdiction of the Department of Agriculture, but which might thereafter be returned to the public domain by exclusion from the forest or other withdrawals on behalf of the Department of Agriculture. It also made it necessary for the various bureaus of the Interior Department to make a like return of all permits or easements granted through such bureau.

For nearly three years now the experiment of noting rights of way upon patents as a matter purely of information and not as a reservation has been tried, and my opinion is that as a matter of administration the extra work entailed in determining the various questions necessarily determinable before such notation can be made is far in excess of any good result which may be had or expected to be had through such notation.

Further, many serious and vexatious questions have arisen as a result of these notations. Scores of letters have been received protesting against the notations and claiming that they constitute a cloud upon otherwise perfect titles. While it is not deemed by this office that these strictures are well taken, in view of the fact that the notation is purely and simply a warning to the patentee, and not in any sense a reservation, it is difficult to make the ordinary layman understand this, and, in many instances, even lawyers have registered their protests against notations of this character, which to them seems unwarranted.

Personally, I can see no benefit accruing to a patentee by such notations. If, for instance, a railroad or a canal is constructed across the lands sought to be entered, the physical evidence of some prior claim is so patent that no proposing entryman would be justified in claiming that he took the lands without notice of such rights. If, on the other hand, the railroad, canal, or other structure, right of way for which had been approved by the Secretary of the Interior, had not been constructed, a notice of such right would appear upon the tract books of the local office and the General Land Office, and under the general regulations when the homestead or entry was accepted by the local office, notation of the approved right of way would be placed upon the entry papers. If the entryman accepted the entry with such knowledge of the right of way as is conveyed by the notation on the entry papers, it is difficult to see why he should be given further information by a notation on the patent.

In many instances, and especially in the early days of the administration under the act of March 3, 1875 (18 Stat. 482), rights of way for railroads were approved for lines shown to extend over unsurveyed land only. These approvals, of course, were not noted on the tract books of this or the local office, for the obvious reason that the land, being unsurveyed, was not covered by the then existing tract books. Later, when the lands were surveyed, maps of constructed line were filed in accordance with the regulations, but in view of the former approval were not submitted to the department for consideration, but were only accepted for filing for general information by the Commisioner of the General Land Office. Thus the approval never became a matter of tract-book record.

Many years afterwards the department ruled that it had no authority to approve right-of-way applications over unsurveyed land, but that such applications could only be accepted for filing for general information, without giving to the applicants any rights other than the general right to construct its road. In other words, such acceptance for filing for general information was simply an intimation that the department would interpose no objection to applicant's constructing its road whenever it might see fit to do so. In consequence, there are scores of railroad right-of-way applications over unsurveyed lands which prior to the last-mentioned decision of the department were approved, but which in the light of the departmental holding that the department was without authority to approve right-of-way applications over unsurveyed land are probably without effect. This state of affairs has been discovered in the General Land Office, and to remedy it to the extent of obtaining approvals on maps of constructed road predicated upon approvals over unsurveyed land, I transmitted to the department under date of February 27, 1915, a map of constructed road of the Southern Pacific Railroad Co. for approval, to the end that it might be properly noted on the tract books of this and the local office.

Of course, were it not for the necessity of noting approved rights of way upon patents, as required by the present rule, it would be unnecessary to transmit these old maps of constructed road for approval by the department, in view of the fact that any rights obtained by the company were so obtained by construction and not by approval. A number of other instances might be mentioned where the department has been embarrassed by this notation order, notably the case of the Washington Water Power Co., in which very serious and strenuous exception has been taken by the patentees to the notation of the permit which was placed upon their patents. Complaint was received in one case that a purchaser under contract to purchase refused to consummate his contract because of the notation, claiming that it constituted a cloud upon the title.

While he might have gone into court with an action for specific performance and probably would have obtained judgment either for specific performance or damages, he elected rather than to undergo the expense of a suit and the incident delay, to accept $800 less than the contract price for his land.

To sum the matter up, it appears to me that this order for notation upon patents of rights of way and permits, which was intended to be for the benefit of entrymen, has not materially served that object, besides increasing the work of this office, delaying the issuance of patent and the adjudication of cases. It appears to be generally considered as some sort of a cloud on the title to the land patented. This office has endeavored, to the best of its ability, to make known publicly and to all inquirers that the notation was not to be considered as a reservation, but simply as a notice that there might be some claim or right in connection with the easement. Despite all the efforts of this office along this line, however, the impression still seems to prevail that the notation constitutes some sort of a cloud on the title.

One protestant claimed that he had lost the sale of a piece of land purely and simply through such a notation, and concluded that if the Government had legal authority to place a notation on the patent, such notation should be in the body of the patent and not as a marginal note; that if it was the idea of the Government simply to notify the patentee that there might be some cloud against the land by way of easement or permit, it could just as well be done by a letter of transmittal as to place it upon the patent, thus clouding the title, at least to some extent, without express authority of law.

I would suggest, therefore, that the order of August 23, 1912, so far as it refers to the notation of rights of way and permits upon patents be recalled and vacated and that this office be directed to return to the former practice of issuing patents free and clear of any notation or other extraneous matter, excepting such restrictions as may be proper under the policies enunciated in 23 L. D. 67 and 458,[e] which had been adhered to up to the time of the issuance of the order of August 23, 1912, and such notation or reservations as may be now or hereafter specifically directed by Congress or by the department.

(a) No reservation will be made for a reservoir of less than 250,000 gallons' capacity, and for a reservoir of less than 500,000 gallons' capacity not more than 40 acres can be reserved. RESERVOIRS FOR WATERING STOCK ON UNSURVEYED LANDS—PRIOR REGULATIONS AMENDED

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, April 8, 1919.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: It is ordered that paragraph 36 of the circular of June 6, 1908 (36 L. D. 576), being a part of that portion of said circular which relates to use and occupancy of public lands with and by reservoirs for stock-watering purposes under the act of January 13, 1897 (29 Stat. 484), be, and the same is hereby, amended to read as follows:

36. (a) In any case where the proposed reservoir is to be located upon unsurveyed public land, the declaratory statement may be filed, the land being therein described by metes and bounds and, as well, by the description which it is believed it will bear when officially surveyed. Proof of construction must be submitted at the end of the same period of time and in the same manner as is prescribed and required in cases where the lands have been previously surveyed. Such proof should embrace the field notes and a plat of a survey such as is required in cases of reservoirs on surveyed lands, with such modifications as are necessary (par. 32), the initial point of such survey being fixed by means of a traverse line run to the nearest existing corner of a public-land survey, not more than 6 miles distant from such point; if there be no such corner within that limit of distance, then the reference should be to some well-known or easily identifiable natural monument or such monument being absent, to a fixed, permanent, and readily recognizable artificial monument.

(b) Any reservation made pursuant to this statute secures only a license to use and occupy the reserved land with and for a reservoir, and this license may endure permanently or may be of transient duration. No estate in the land is granted. For this reason it is administratively undesirable that private surveys made pursuant to the statute and these regulations shall be preserved and established by subsequent public-land surveys and approved plats thereof. When, therefore, the public-land surveys have been extended over land covered by a reservoir declaratory statement affecting unsurveyed lands, the declarant shall adjust his survey to the lines of the official survey, showing the location of the reservoir with respect to said lines by means of properly established tie lines. Any subsequent reservation which may be ordered will be of those subdivisions thus shown to be occupied by or necessary for the proper use of the reservoir.

(c) An annual affidavit of maintenance must be submitted the same as though the reservoir had been constructed on surveyed lands. Nothing in these regulations contained shall preclude the General Land Office or the department from requiring additional information in any case where that information is deemed proper or necessary.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

Approved.

First Assistant Secretary.

INSTRUCTIONS, ACT MARCH 1, 1921—EASEMENT FOR DITCH-RIDER STATIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, May 16, 1921.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: An act entitled "An act to amend acts to permit the use of the right of way through the public lands for tramroads, canals, and reservoirs, and for other purposes," approved March 1, 1921 (41 Stat. 1194), reads:

> Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That in addition to the rights of way granted by sections 18, 19, 20, and 21 of the act of Congress entitled "An act to repeal timber culture laws, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1891 (Twenty-sixth Statutes, page 1095), as amended by the act of Congress entitled "An act to amend the irrigation act of March 3, 1891 (Twenty-sixth Statutes, page 1095, section 18), and to amend section 2 of the act of May 11, 1898 (Thirtieth Statutes, page 404)," approved March 4, 1917 (Thirty-ninth Statutes, page 1197), and, subject to the conditions and restrictions therein contained, the Secretary of the Interior is authorized to grant permits or easements for not to exceed five acres of ground adjoining the right of way at each of the locations, to be determined by the Secretary of the Interior, to be used for the erection thereon of dwellings or other buildings or corrals for the convenience of those engaged in the care and management of the works provided for by said acts: Provided, That this act shall not apply to lands within national forests.

Applicants for rights of way under this amendment will be governed by the regulations set forth in the circular approved June 6, 1908 (36 L. D. 567), in so far as applicable, appropriate additions being made to the forms on the maps therein prescribed so as to include this amendment.

CIRCULAR No. 1003

AMENDING SECTION 38, CIRCULAR OF JUNE 6, 1908

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, May 18, 1925.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: April 13, 1925, the Acting Secretary of the Interior directed that section 38, circular of June 6, 1908, as amended May 7, 1912 (41 L. D. 13), be modified to read as follows:

38. Nature of grant.—It is to be specially noted that this act does not make a grant in the nature of an easement but authorizes a mere permit in the nature of a license, which permit may be revoked by the Secretary, or his successor, at any time in his discretion. Further, it gives no right whatever to take from public lands, reservations, or parks adjacent to the right of way any materials, earth, or stone, for construction, or other purposes. The final disposal by the United States of any tract traversed by a right of way permitted under this act shall not be considered to be a revocation of such permission in whole or in part but such final disposal shall be deemed and taken to be subject to such right of way until such permission shall have been specifically revoked in accordance with the provisions of said act.

The effect of this modification is a departmental recognition of the fact that a permit, under the act of February 15, 1901 (31 Stat. 790), once having been issued is a subsisting burden upon the land even after patent, until canceled by the Secretary of the Interior.

You should, therefore, as a matter of warning, note upon all applications to appropriate public lands, affected by a previously filed application under the act of 1901, the words "subject to right of way act of February 15, 1901 (stating name of permittee)."

This notation need not be made upon the final certificate when issued, and will not be carried into the patent.

It should be noted, however, that a permit under the act of 1901, for hydroelectric power purposes is construed as being tantamount to a withdrawal of the land for power purposes, the lands affected can be disposed of only subject to the terms and conditions of section 24 of the Federal water power act.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

Circular No. 1076

AMENDING CIRCULAR OF JUNE 6, 1908 (36 L. D. 567), CONCERNING RIGHTS OF WAY OVER PUBLIC LANDS AND RESERVATIONS FOR CANALS, DITCHES, AND RESERVOIRS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, July 8, 1926.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: Your attention is called to an act of Congress (44 Stat. 668) which reads as follows:

An act to amend section 18 of the irrigation act of March 3, 1891, as amended by the act of March 4, 1917

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section 18 of what is generally known as the irrigation act of March 3, 1891, as amended by act of March 4, 1917, be, and is hereby, amended so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 18. That the right of way through the public lands and reservations of the United States is hereby granted to any canal ditch company irrigation or drainage district formed for the purposes of irrigation or drainage, and duly organized under the laws of any State or Territory, and which shall have filed, or may hereafter file, with the Secretary of the Interior a copy of its articles of incorporation or, if not a private corporation, a copy of the law under which the same is formed and due proof of its organization under the same, to the extent of the ground occupied by the water of any reservoir and of any canals and laterals and fifty feet on each side of the marginal limits thereof, and, upon presentation of satisfactory showing by the applicant, such additional right of way as the Secretary of the Interior may deem necessary for the proper operation and maintenance of said reservoirs, canals, and laterals; also the right to take from the public lands adjacent to the line of the canal or ditch, material, earth, and stone necessary for the construction of such canal or ditch: Provided, That no such right of way shall be so located as to interfere with the proper occupation of the Government of any such reservation, and all maps of location shall be subject to the approval of the department of the Government having jurisdiction of such reservation; and the privilege herein granted shall not be construed to interfere with the control of water for irrigation and other purposes under authority of the respective States or Territories.

Approved May 28, 1926.

Apart and aside from extending the scope of the granting act so to include irrigation and drainage districts as beneficiaries, it will be noted that this act authorizes right of way, if needs be, additional to the 50 feet granted by the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1095). To obtain such additional right of way, explanatory showing must accompany the application. This should consist of an affidavit by the applicant's engineer or surveyor setting forth succinctly the extent of the additional right of way required and the necessity therefor. The additional right of way should also be shown graphically by lateral limit lines on the map filed in connection with the application. If additional right of way is wanted only for portions or sections of the reservoirs, canals, ditches, or laterals, the termini thereof should be fixed by engineer's survey stations in addition to the lateral limit lines.

This circular should be assembled on page 2 of the circular of June 6, 1908 (36 L. D. 567), as an addendum to paragraph 2 of said circular.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

Approved July 8, 1926.

First Assistant Secretary.

PERMITS UNDER ACT OF FEBRUARY 15, 1901 (31 STAT. 790), ISSUED PRIOR TO MARCH 1, 1913

Department of the Interior,
Washington, August 21, 1929.

The Director of the Geological Survey.

Dear Mr. Director: By letter of June 1, 1929, you direct attention to the right of way for a transmission line (Phoenix 0945) of the Arizona Power Co., approved by the department May 20, 1911, under the act of February 15, 1901 (31 Stat. 790), with the following indorsement:

> The use of the right of way shown in black on the map is hereby permitted in accordance with the provisions of the act of Congress approved February 15, 1901 (31 Stat. 790), and the regulations present or future thereunder and subject to the stipulation accompanying the record.

You also advise that this is one of more than 200 permits which were granted in this manner with an indorsement on the map granting the permission subject to the provisions of the act of February 15, 1901, and future regulations thereunder.

Copy of a stipulation executed May 11, 1911, by the Arizona Power Co. is submitted with your letter, whereby the company agrees to conform to any future laws and regulations with respect to power development on the public lands and consents to accept said right of way subject to the terms and conditions of the stipulation.

On August 24, 1912, and March 1, 1913, regulations concerning rights of way through public lands for power purposes under the act of 1901 were approved by the Department.[a] These regulations, among other things, provide as follows:

(a) For the payment of compensation for the use of public lands by the permittee.

(b) For annual reports of operations under the permit to be submitted by the permittee to the Geological Survey.

(c) For inspection of the works of the permittee by the Geological Survey and for such reports to the secretary as may be necessary, and (d) For termination of the permit within 50 years.

Subsequently, the Federal water power act of June 10, 1920 (41 Stat. 1063, U. S. Code, secs. 791–823), was passed creating a Federal Power Commission and providing for the development of water power, the use of public lands in relation thereto, and other purposes.

You report that about 100 permits and grants were issued by the department subsequent to the regulations of August 24, 1912, and previous to the passage of the Federal water power act, and that all of these permits and grants require payment of compensation by the applicant for the use of Government lands and the submission of annual reports. Annual inspections of the projects are also made.

You request instructions as to whether regulations of March 1, 1913, and amendments thereto, which superseded the regulations of August 24, 1912, should apply to the permit issued to the Arizona Power Co. You also request general instructions as to whether these regulations should be applied to the 200 or more permits and grants of a similar character.

The act of 1901 expressly provides:

> That any permission given by the Secretary of the Interior under the provisions of this act may be revoked by him or his successor in his discretion, and shall not be held to confer any right, or easement, or interest in, to, or over any public land, reservation, or park.

This clause was construed by the United States Supreme Court in the case Swendig v. Washington Water Power Co. (265 U. S. 322), in connection with a different question, but the court recognized the fact that it was the plain intention of Congress to confer upon the Secretary of the Interior broad powers of supervision and control over permits issued under this act. In that case the court said:

[a] The regulations of Mar. 1, 1913, p. 1340, superseded those of Aug. 24, 1912.

> The purpose of the act is to grant to the Secretary power "to permit the use of rights of way" through the lands referred to. And, in order that control over them may be retained, it is provided that the Secretary, in his discretion, may revoke such permits.
> The clause above quoted should be read to promote and advance, not to defeat, the legislative purpose to permit the use of rights of way through public lands for the industries and utilities mentioned. It is included from an abundance of caution to support and safeguard the Secretary's power of revocation. It means that the permissions given shall not be deemed to confer any right that may not be revoked by him in the exercise of his discretion. There is no other enactment providing for the termination of the use of the rights of way. The right to use continues until the permission given by the Secretary is revoked by him.
> As the sole power of revocation was committed to his discretion, it was within the power of the Secretary to determine that final disposal of the lands would operate to revoke the permission; and it was also within his power, by the regulation of August 24, 1912, to declare that final disposal shall not be deemed to be a revocation, but shall be subject to the right of way until such permission shall have been specifically revoked.

From the nature of the right and the discretionary power granted the Secretary, it seems clear that the permits granted were subject to such regulations as the Secretary in the public interest might deem necessary. The only limitation upon such power seems to be that such action shall not be arbitrary or unreasonable or such as would destroy valuable interests established by the permittee under the authority of the permit. It can not be said that it would be arbitrary or unreasonable for the Secretary to require all who have secured the benefit of the use of public lands for power purposes to conform to a uniform system of regulations, or to change such regulations as he may deem proper, regardless of the time when the permission to use the land was granted. In fact, out of due precaution in many cases, as pointed out in your letter, the Secretary granted the permission subject to regulations, present or future, thereunder, and in the Arizona Power Co. case an express stipulation to that effect was entered into.

The regulations in question have been in force for years and have been applied to many permits issued under the act of 1901. There seems to be no good reason why they should not be applied to all permittees alike. There is no right which the parties having the use of the lands prior to the promulgation of the regulations possessed at that time which would be abridged by the application of these regulations to them.

Section 23 of the Federal water power act provides in part:

> That the provisions of this act shall not be construed as affecting any permit or valid existing right of way heretofore granted or as confirming or otherwise affecting any claim, or as affecting any authority heretofore given pursuant to law, but any person, association, corporation, State, or municipality, holding or possessing such permit, right of way, or authority may apply for a license hereunder, and upon such application the commission may issue to any such applicant a license in accordance with provisions of this act and in such case the provisions of this act shall apply to such applicant as a licensee hereunder.

The Federal water power act provides a complete and detailed scheme for the development and operation under public control of all the water-power resources of the public domain, reserved and unreserved, and of all the navigable rivers under the jurisdiction of the United States. It seems clear that it was the purpose of Congress to bring under this act all future power development within the jurisdiction of the United States and to concentrate in the hands of the Federal Water Power Commission all the administrative authority thereover which was in part previously distributed among the several departments. It is evident that the intent of the act, as well as its necessary operation, is to ultimately bring under the new law and under the control of the Power Commission all existing, as well as all future, developments (32 Ops. Atty. Gen. 525).

Parties holding rights to use the lands under authority of the act of 1901 and other similar acts, are extended the right to make application for permit or license under the Federal water power act. In fact, some have availed themselves of this right and have secured such licenses.

I perceive no reason why the department may not require the several permittees under the act of 1901 and similar acts to comply with the requirements of the regulations of 1913, and you are accordingly instructed that the parties in interest should be advised that after a reasonable time to be fixed by appropriate order, the said regulations will be applied to all permits issued under said acts, unless the said parties within the time specified file with the Federal Power Commission an application for license under the provisions of the Federal water power act.

Very truly yours,

John H. Edwards, Assistant Secretary.

REVISED REGULATIONS RELATIVE TO SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' ADDITIONAL HOMESTEAD ENTRIES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, February 13, 1883.[b]

Commissioner McFarland to Registers and Receivers:

Section 2306 of the Revised Statutes of the United States provides that any person entitled to make a homestead entry under section 2304 (providing for the benefit of soldiers and sailors of the late war), who had, prior to June 22, 1874, made a homestead entry of less than 160 acres, may enter an additional quantity of land sufficient to make, with the previous entry, 160 acres.

The right granted by this section, and extended by section 2305 to the widow, if unmarried, or otherwise to the minor orphan children by proper guardian, is a personal one and is not transferable, nor subject to assignment or lien, nor can it be exercised by another. It can lawfully be exercised only by the soldier or sailor, or by the widow or guardian, as the case may be, in his or her own proper person.

The practice which has hitherto prevailed of certifying the additional right as information from the records of this office and permitting the entry to be made by an agent or attorney is hereby discontinued.

The following regulations will hereafter be strictly observed:

1. The party desiring to make an additional entry, and being entitled thereto, must present himself at the land office of the district in which the land he wishes to enter is situated, and make his application in the same manner as in case of an original entry. (Form No. 4–008.)

2. In addition to the usual homestead affidavit the claimant must make a special affidavit showing—

First. His identity as the soldier he represents himself to be, reciting his military service, and stating his present residence and post-office address.

Second. The facts, in detail, respecting his right to make the additional entry, and that he has fully complied with the provisions of the homestead laws in the matter of residence upon and cultivation and improvement of his original entry, and whether or not he has proved up his claim and received a patent for the land.

[a] For instructions relative to publication in connection with soldiers' additional entries, see Circulars of Feb. 21, 1908, p. 449, Mar. 26, 1908, p. 450, Nov. 3, 1909, p. 451, and Oct. 19, 1929, p. 1149.

[b] These regulations are reproduced because of the directions given therein as to the discontinuance of the practice of certifying additional rights as information from the records. For later instructions with reference to soldier's additional entries, see Circular No. 1047, p. 1377.

Third. That he has not in any manner previously exercised his additional right either by entry or application, or by sale, transfer, or power of attorney, but that the same remains in him unimpaired.

3. The foregoing affidavits must be sworn to and subscribed in the presence of the register or receiver. This rule must be strictly adhered to in order to avoid false personation; and applications and affidavits presented to the register and receiver with signatures attached will not be received. Department circulars of May 17, 1877, and September 1, 1879, are modified accordingly.

4. These rules will not be deemed to apply to cases where the additional right has heretofore been certified by this office, nor to cases now pending, or which may be filed in this office prior to March 16, 1883.

Approved.

SOLDIERS' ADDITIONAL HOMESTEAD—ACT OF AUGUST 18, 1894

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., October 16, 1894.[1]

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: Your attention is called to the following provision contained in an act of Congress entitled "An act making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1895, and for other purposes," approved August 18, 1894, viz:

> That all soldiers' additional homestead certificates heretofore issued under the rules and regulations of the General Land Office under section twenty-three hundred and six of the Revised Statutes of the United States, or in pursuance of the decisions or instructions of the Secretary of the Interior, of date March tenth, eighteen hundred and seventy-seven, or any subsequent decisions or instructions of the Secretary of the Interior or the Commissioner of the General Land Office, shall be, and are hereby, declared to be valid, notwithstanding any attempted sale or transfer thereof; and where such certificates have been or may hereafter be sold or transferred, such sale or transfer shall not be regarded as invalidating the right, but the same shall be good and valid in the hands of bona fide purchasers for value; and all entries heretofore or hereafter made with such certificates by such purchasers shall be approved, and patent shall issue in the name of the assignees.

You will observe that all certificates of right regularly issued by this office, showing that the parties named therein are entitled to make soldiers' additional homestead entries, are declared to be valid by the statute, notwithstanding any attempted sale or transfer, and that, where such certificates have been or may hereafter be sold or transferred, the sale or transfer thereof shall not be regarded as invalidating the right, but the same shall be good and valid in the hands of bona fide purchasers for value, and that all entries made by such purchasers therewith shall be approved and patent shall issue in the name of the assignees, but before approving such entries for patent the transferee shall file in this office satisfactory proof of ownership and of bona fide purchase for value.

[1] See circular of Apr. 1, 1910, p. 1373.

To enable assignees of these certificates to exercise in their own names the right of entry confirmed by this statute, it is directed that the certificate itself shall, in each instance, prior to any entry by the assignee, be presented to this office for examination and additional certification covering the fact of assignment. Holders of such certificates desiring to exercise a right of entry in their own names must file such certificates in this office, together with satisfactory proof of ownership and of bona fide purchase for value. If, upon examination, the proof so filed is satisfactory, an additional certificate will be attached to the original authorizing the location thereof or entry of land therewith, in the name of the assignee or his assigns. You will allow no entries in the names of assignees except upon presentation of such additional certificates issued by this office. When such additional certificates are presented you will issue homestead papers and the final certificate and receipt, in the name of the transferee, referring to him in said papers as the " assignee " of the soldier.

You will also observe that this law does not prohibit the location of said certificates by the holders as heretofore, either by the soldiers in person or by others acting as attorneys for the soldiers and in the names of the soldiers. Therefore, when application is made to locate such a certificate by the holder in the name of the soldier, you will allow the entry of land under said certificate if the application papers are regular in all other respects, and issue the homestead papers and final certificate and receipt in the name of the soldier, under the instructions heretofore issued in reference to such cases, which are still operative.

When soldiers, to whom certificates of right have not been issued, who made their original homestead entries for less than 160 acres prior to June 22, 1874, and who have not exhausted their additional rights, apply in person to make entries, you will, as heretofore, before allowing the applications to go to record, transmit the same to this office for examination, as directed in the circular letter of February 18, 1890, which is still operative in regard to this class of claims.

Very respectfully,

S. W. Lamoreux, Commissioner.

Approved.

Hoke Smith, Secretary.

SOLDIERS' ADDITIONAL—REISSUE AND RECERTIFICATION DISCONTINUED

Department of the Interior,
Washington, April 1, 1910.

Secretary Ballinger to the Commissioner of the General Land Office:

Hereafter the practice of recertifying "soldiers' additional homestead rights" and of issuing substitutes for lost or destroyed "soldiers' additional homestead" certificates will cease, and the circular of October 16, 1894 (19 L. D. 302), so far as it relates to certification, is hereby withdrawn and vacated.

There is no law requiring, or even authorizing, these certificates; nor is there any law in the administration of which they are essential or, in the present view, even desirable. They have bred confusion and misunderstanding as to their character and purpose, and have proven ofttimes to be instruments for the miscarriage of the purpose of the very statutes whose administration they were innocently designated to facilitate. As articles of commerce, their value has been misunderstood and the practice has fostered an idea that recertification, as it is commonly called, is necessary for the enjoyment of an unused soldiers' additional right by a bona fide assignee; whereas it is in nowise thus essential. Recertifying creates no rights; the practice, carefully confined, rarely affords evidence of such rights. Where the right really exists, there is no need of certifying or recertifying; where the right does not in law or fact exist, it goes without saying that there should be no certifying.

The act of August 18, 1894 (28 Stat. 372, 397), operates on existing certificates, theretofore issued, in the hands of bona fide purchasers for value. It in no way affects the basic right, or alleged right, for which no "certificate" had been issued, or, if issued, had been lost or destroyed prior to transfer for value.

The practice of recertifying, or of reissuing lost or destroyed certificates, has created, in some quarters, a misapprehension of the operation of this act and has led some to assume that there is such a thing as a ministerial duty laid on the department to recertify in any and all circumstances, when demand is made and proof is afforded of the loss or destruction of an original certificate, even where that certificate was inadvertently, improvidently, or unlawfully issued; even where the applicant, in the first instance, lacked the statutory qualifications for the "additional right" which the certificate, prima facie, evinced. The department has endeavored never to recertify a right when the absence of some of its basic elements is brought to its attention. But occasionally there has been recertification under circumstances not justifying that indulgence, and, in fact, effecting a situation in derogation of the provisions of the homestead laws. While such cases form exceptional incidents, yet these incidents may, and have been, turned to the Government's disadvantage.

So it is deemed advisable hereafter, in all cases, not to exceed the plain statutory requirements in administering Revised Statutes, section 2306, and the act of August 18, 1894; and these requirements certainly do not include anything in the way of certification.

Circular No. 577

SOLDIERS' ADDITIONAL APPLICATIONS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, December 7, 1917.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: In numerous applications for making entry under sections 2306 and 2307, Revised Statutes, commonly known as soldiers' additional homestead entries, the spaces provided for data concerning the original homestead entry, the military service of the homesteader, and the citizenship of the applicant are either left entirely blank or only partially filled, thus causing unnecessary work and delay in this office in looking up such facts, which should be furnished by the applicant and supplied to him by the dealers from whom he purchases the rights.

You are, therefore, directed to require all blanks in such applications (Form 4–008a), to be filled in before accepting the application. You will then make the proper notations on your records, date and sign the certificate printed at the foot of the application, and forward the papers, whether the right be certified or uncertified, as directed in circular No. 429, dated August 5, 1915 (unpublished).[c] An application by a married woman must allege the facts concerning her husband's citizenship, and if he is not a native-born citizen of the United States the proper record evidence of his naturalization must be furnished.

Many registers also fail to observe the difference between a soldier's additional entry and an ordinary homestead, by erroneously issuing the final certificate on Form 4–196.

As a soldier's additional application does not segregate the land nor prohibit the filing of other applications for such land until after your allowance of the entry, pursuant to its acceptance by this office, (see 37 L. D. 160), and the entry and final certificate bear the same date, you will, after collecting the fee and the original and final commissions and the Government price for the excess area, if any, issue the final certificate on Form 4–197, fill in the blank spaces provided for data concerning the original entry, and send the duplicate certificate to the claimant as notice to him of the date of your allowance of the entry. See note at the foot of Form 4–197.

If you are not supplied with Form 4–197 you should procure the same by requisition.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

APPROXIMATION ABOLISHED AS APPLIED TO SOLDIERS' ADDITIONAL HOMESTEAD ENTRIES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., June 24, 1919.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: On June 13, 1919, the Secretary of the Interior made the following ruling in regard to the rule of approximation as applied to soldiers' additional homestead entries:

[c] Circular No. 429 is not carried in this publication. The instructions given in that circular have been incorporated in Circular No. 616, par. 17, p. 51.

[1] Modified by Circular No. 655, p. 1377.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Dear Mr. Commissioner: The department has considered the present practice of permitting the rule of approximation to be applied to soldiers' additional homestead entries.

Approximation was permitted as to soldiers' additional homestead entries in the instructions of the Commissioner of the General Land Office dated September 27, 1875 (see Miles Schoolcraft, 2 Copp's Land Owner, 99), and in the case of Richard Dotson, decided September 12, 1891 (13 L. D. 275). At that time, however, this department held that the right of additional entry was personal to the soldier and could not be assigned. After the decision of the Supreme Court in Webster v. Luther (163 U. S. 331), the same practice still obtained. The result is that these rights are being located practically entirely by assignees of the parties entitled to the right. Such assignees purchase them from dealers in this so-called soldiers' scrip. By means of dividing the rights into various parts, and by the application of the rule of approximation, areas of public land larger than necessary to satisfy the rights are being acquired by means of excess payments at $1.25 per acre, to the advantage of the dealer in the scrip but without material benefit to the soldier or his representatives, and in violation of the spirit of the act of March 2, 1889 (25 Stat. 854), prohibiting private entry except in the State of Missouri.

In his opinion February 25, 1899 (28 L. D. 149), Assistant Attorney General Van Devanter held that there was no reason for applying the rule of approximation to soldiers' additional homestead entries in Alaska since at that time the regular public-land surveys had not been extended to the Territory and the lands were entered under special surveys. The area embraced in the surveys, therefore, could be made equal to the area of the right. Since assignments of soldiers' additional homestead rights may be made in amounts differing from the quantity of land in legal subdivisions according to the public surveys (William C. Carrington, 32 L. D. 203), and since two or more rights or portions thereof may be located upon the same tract of land (Ole B. Olsen, 33 L. D. 225), there is no practical reason necessitating the allowance of approximation, and as remarked in George E. Lemmon (36 L. D. 543), approximation is a purely administrative equitable rule not founded upon any law and can not be insisted upon as an absolute right, and where the privilege is abused to accomplish an evasion of the law the Land Department has full power to change the rule to prevent such abuse.

Accordingly, the rule of approximation will no longer be permitted in the location of soldiers' additional homestead rights whether in their entirety, partly, or in combination with other rights or parts thereof. These instructions will become effective September 1, 1919, and locations of such rights made on and after that date will be governed hereby. You will prepare the necessary instructions to the local land offices.

Cordially yours,

Alexander T. Vogelsang,
First Assistant Secretary.

You are accordingly directed to require applicants for location of rights under sections 2306 and 2307 of the Revised Statutes (commonly known as "soldiers' additional homestead entries"), on and after September 1, 1919, to tender rights of sufficient area to equal the area of the land sought to be located.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

SOLDIERS' ADDITIONAL HOMESTEAD ENTRIES—DATE FOR ABOLISHING APPROXIMATION CHANGED FROM SEPTEMBER 1, 1919, TO DECEMBER 1, 1919—CIRCULAR NO. 648 MODIFIED

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., August 22, 1919.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

SIRS: Attention is directed to the following departmental letter of August 19, 1919:

The COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

DEAR MR. COMMISSIONER: Referring to my ruling of June 13, 1919, embodied in General Land Office Circular No. 648, June 24, 1919, in regard to rule of approximation, as applied to soldiers' additional homestead entries, it was directed that the new rule should become effective September 1, 1919. For good reasons shown, the department is convinced that the time limit is too short, and same is hereby extended to December 1, 1919. You will give this modification the same publicity given the original instructions.

Very truly yours,

ALEXANDER T. VOGELSANG,
First Assistant Secretary.

Accordingly, on and after December 1, 1919, you will require applicants for location of rights under sections 2306 and 2307 of the Revised Statutes (commonly known as "soldiers' additional homestead entries") to tender rights of sufficient area to equal the area of the land sought to be located.

Very respectfully,

C. M. BRUCE, Acting Commissioner.

CIRCULAR No. 1047

GENERAL INFORMATION RELATIVE TO SOLDIERS' ADDITIONAL HOMESTEAD RIGHTS[2]

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, January 9, 1926.

Any officer, soldier, seaman, or marine who served for not less than 90 days in the Army or Navy of the United States during the Civil War, receiving an honorable discharge therefrom, and who, prior to June 22, 1874, the date of the adoption of the Revised Statutes, made a homestead entry for less than 160 acres, may, under section 2306, Revised Statutes, enter an additional quantity of land which added to the previous entry will not aggregate more than 160 acres. This right was extended by section 2307, Revised Statutes, to the widow, if unmarried, otherwise to the minor orphan children.

By the Supreme Court decision of November 16, 1925, in the case of Clarence A. Anderson v. James W. Clune, No. 331, it was held that the grant vests a property right in the donee, to which must be accorded the quality of inheritability as well as assignability and that such right, if not exercised or transferred by the donee, passes to his estate as other property, subject only to the exercise of the rights given by section 2307, Revised Statutes, to the widow and minor orphan children.

[2] See also par. 17, Circular No. 616, p. 51.

The soldier's additional right may be used (1) by the soldier in his lifetime either directly by entering the land or indirectly, in his lifetime, by conveying his right to entry to an assignee; or (2), similarly, by the widow, while her status as widow of the soldier continues; or (3), similarly, by the minor orphan children, during their minority, acting through their lawful guardian. In case a soldier entitled to the right dies without exercising it, leaving no widow or minor orphan children, the right to entry vests in his personal representative as personal property. If the right passes to the soldier's widow and she remarry or die without exercising it, and there be no minor children of the soldier then surviving, the right vests in the soldier's estate; but if the right passes to the minor children, it becomes absolute in them, in no way conditioned upon an appropriation by the guardian during their minority.

Residence and cultivation are not required in the location of soldiers' additional rights, either by the original beneficiary or by his assignee, no matter whether the original entry was perfected or abandoned. These rights are eagerly sought by scrip dealers, who make inquiries calculated to disclose the existence of such rights, negotiate for the purchase of assignments thereof, and, if purchase is made, sell the rights so procured to parties desiring to locate them upon vacant public lands.

All persons are cautioned against signing any assignment or affidavit in connection with the sale of these rights unless they are sure as to the truth of the statements contained therein. What those scrip dealers propose to purchase is not the land entered, but the right to make additional entry for the difference between the area of the land entered and 160 acres. Soldiers of the Civil War or their widows or heirs receiving inquiries from scrip dealers must not assume because the scrip dealer has found a record of an entry made by a person with a name merely similar to that of the soldier, or even of the same name, that the entry was in fact made by the soldier and that an additional right exists. Practically all of the letters addressed to such persons by scrip dealers are merely letters of inquiry, and it has been found that such letters of inquiry have been addressed to scores of persons having names similar to those of persons who made entries prior to June 22, 1874. For instance, scrip dealers have written to dozens of persons bearing names such as John Adams, John A. Adams, John B. Adams, John C. Adams, etc., asking whether the soldier addressed, or the husband of the widow addressed, was the same person who made an entry in the name of John Adams. It should be borne in mind that there are many persons having similar names, and that the entry may have been made by a person who was never a soldier.

This office did not maintain a general alphabetical index of the names of entrymen prior to July 1, 1908, therefore an entry made prior to that date can not be identified on the records from the name of the party. If this circular is sent in reply to an inquiry regarding an entry which has been vaguely described by some scrip dealer it is suggested that the writer of the inquiry request the scrip dealer to give a full description of the entry, by subdivision, section, township, range, and the name of the State in which the land is located, or there should be given the name of the county as well as the name of the State in which the land entered is located. Also the date or approximate date of the entry, showing at least the year in which such entry was made, or the serial number of the entry, the final certificate number, if any, and the name of the district land office, so as to enable this office to identify the entry on the records.

This office does not pass upon the question of whether or not an additional right exists in the absence of an application to locate the alleged right upon a specific tract of land which must be accompanied with a record of the military service, description of the entry made prior to June 22, 1874, competent evidence showing identity of the soldier with the entryman, that no subsequent entry has been made, and that the right has not been previously assigned. If the right is sought to be located by the assignee, appropriate evidence must be submitted showing that he is entitled thereto by assignment.

The owner of a soldiers' additional right who desires to personally exercise the same must first select a tract of land and then file formal application therefor in the district land office for the district in which the land desired is situated, accompanying the same with the evidence as to existence and ownership of the right as above indicated; or if the land desired be located in Kansas, Michigan, Mississippi, or Wisconsin, or other public-land State in which there is no district land office, the application and accompanying evidence must be filed in this office.

The required nonmineral and nonoccupancy affidavits are embodied in Form 4–008a, prescribed for soldiers' additional applications. For further information and the necessary blank forms for making such applications request should be made of the district land office for the district in which the particular tracts desired are situated, or to this office.

The purchase and sale of these rights is a private transaction in which the Government is not interested until an application is presented for a specific tract of land; therefore this office can furnish no information as to the value of such rights. The purchase price must be fixed by agreement between the parties interested. This office has no blank forms of assignment.

There is no law under which soldiers or their widows or heirs can be given 160 acres or any public land merely by reason of military service. No specific tracts of land were given to soldiers of the Civil War; the bounties given for service in that war were paid in money. The soldier's additional homestead right exists only under the circumstances stated in the first paragraph of this letter. Certain privileges are granted to soldiers, their widows, and minor orphan children in connection with the general homestead laws, but these privileges are not assignable and can only be asserted in connection with an actual entry upon vacant public land upon which they will have to meet certain requirements as to residence, cultivation, and improvements. A separate circular, No. 302, is issued on this subject.

ASSIGNMENT OF UNDIVIDED INTERESTS IN SOLDIERS' ADDITIONAL RIGHTS

Instructions

Department of the Interior,
Washington, May 13, 1927.

Finney, First Assistant Secretary.

The department has considered your [Commissioner of the General Land Office] letter of the 9th instant, requesting instructions as to whether or not an assignment executed by one or more, but less than all, of the surviving heirs of a soldier, who have succeeded to his soldiers' additional right, should be recognized as conveying the proportionate share or shares of the heir or heirs who executed such assignment or assignments.

It being well settled that a soldiers' additional homestead right, if not exercised or transferred by the donee, passes to his estate as other property, subject only to the exercise of the rights given by section 2307, Revised Statutes, to the widow and minor orphan children (Anderson v. Clune, 269 U. S. 140), it only remains to be determined whether there is any administrative objection to allowing each of the heirs, if there be more than one, to separately locate or assign his share of the right.

In the case of Edgar A. Coffin (33 L. D. 245) it was held that "the Land Department does not and can not deal with or recognize undivided interests."

The department is now of the opinion that no good reason exists for further adhering to the ruling above quoted.

Accordingly, if one claiming a portion of a soldiers' additional right as the heir of a soldier furnishes convincing proof of his heirship, the names of the other heirs, and that there are no debts due by the estate of the soldier, his application to locate his portion of the right, or an assignment thereof, will be recognized.

In this connection it should be observed that a soldiers' additional right not exercised (or assigned) by the soldier, nor by his widow during widowhood, in the absence of minor children, descends to those who are his heirs under the laws of the State of his domicile at the time of his death, and, in making proof of the undivided interest to be located or assigned, the applicant should be required to furnish evidence showing the succession in the same manner as in the case of estates generally.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: The circular of instructions of June 21, 1905 (33 L. D. 638), is hereby amended to read as follows:

In any case where, upon an ex parte showing of settlement prior to survey of the lands in the field, an entry is allowed under section 2275, United States Revised Statutes, as amended by act of February 28, 1891 (26 Stat. 796), of lands within a section that has been granted, reserved, or pledged for the use of schools or colleges, it will be the duty of the register to at once advise the proper State or Territorial authorities thereof by registered mail. SELECTION OF LANDS BY STATES AND TERRITORIES UNDER GRANTS FOR EDUCATIONAL AND OTHER PURPOSES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., June 23, 1910.[1]

1. All lands selected must be from the unappropriated nonmineral surveyed public land, within the State, or Territory, making the selection, and their nonmineral character must be shown by the affidavit of some responsible party, having and testifying to a personal knowledge of the land, and shall apply to each smallest legal subdivision of land selected.

2. The selections in any one list, under special grants, or grants in quantity, should not exceed 6,400 acres, and the selections in any one list of indemnity school lands must not in the aggregate exceed 640 acres.

3. All lists of indemnity school lands must be prepared so that each selected tract will correspond in area with the base tract, and separate base or bases must be assigned to each smallest legal subdivision of land selected.

4. The assignment of a portion of the smallest legal subdivision of a school section as the basis, in whole or in part, for indemnity selections, is permitted; but such assignment is an election by the State or Territory to take indemnity for the entire subdivision, and is a waiver of its right to such subdivision, and any remaining balance must be used for future selections.

5. The cause of the loss for which indemnity is selected must be specifically stated, whether by entry, reservation, the mineral character of the land, or the fractional condition of the township.

6. The selecting agent must file with each list of selections of indemnity school lands a certificate, showing that indemnity has not previously been granted for the assigned base lands, and that no previous selection is pending for such assigned base; and with each list of selections of lands under quantity or special grants, a certificate that the selections and those pending, together with those approved, do not exceed the total amount granted for the purpose stated.

7. Where indemnity is sought for school lands in place, because of their inclusion within any Indian, military, or other reservation, the list of selections must, in every case, be accompanied by a certificate of the officer or officers charged with the care and disposal of school lands, that the State has not previously sold or disposed of, or contracted to sell or dispose of, any of said lands used as bases, or any part thereof; that the said lands are not in the possession of, or subject to the claim of any third party, under any law or permission of the State or Territory; and, within three months after the filing of any such list of selections, the State or Territory must, in addition, file a certificate from the recorder of deeds or official custodian of the records of transfers of real estate, in the proper county, or from a reliable and responsible abstracter or abstract company, that no instrument purporting to convey, or in any way encumber, the title to any of said lands used as bases, is of record, or on file, in the office of such custodian, and upon the report of the local officers of the failure of the State to file such certificate within the required time, any selection upon such base lands may be canceled without previous notice. No certificate from an abstracter or abstract company will be accepted until approval by the Commissioner of the General Land Office of a favorable report of the Chief of Field Division or United States district attorney whose division or district embraces the lands in question, as to the reliability and responsibility of such abstracter or company.

8. The legal fees required by law must accompany all lists of selections.

No more than one number must be given to any list of selections, notwithstanding it may contain more than one selection.

9.[2] Notice of selection of all lands must be given by publication once a week for five successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation in the county where the lands are located, the paper to be designated by the register.

10. Notices for publication will be prepared by the register at the time of the acceptance of the selections, and will be transmitted by registered mail to the proper State or Territorial official for publication in the paper or papers designated, and a copy of such notice shall also be posted by the register in a conspicuous place in his office and remain so posted until the expiration of time allowed for the submission of proof of publication.

To save expense, the register may embrace two or more lists in one publication when it can be done consistently with the requirement of publication in a newspaper of general circulation in the county where the land is situated.

The published notice will embrace only the selected lands described by the largest legal subdivisions embraced in the separate lists, care being taken to avoid repetition of numbers of sections, townships, and ranges.

11.[2] Proof of publication will be the affidavit of the publisher or foreman of the newspaper employed that the notice (a copy of which must be annexed to the affidavit) was published in said newspaper once a week for five successive weeks. Such affidavit must show that the notice was published in the regular and entire issue of the paper and was published in the newspaper proper and not in a supplement.

[2] See amendment, p. 1388. Also see instruction of Oct. 19, 1929, p. 1149.

The proof of publication of notice must be filed with the register within 90 days after receipt of notice for publication and will be forwarded by the register to the General Land Office with a report as to whether protest or contest has been filed against any selection, and if protest or contest is filed the same shall accompany the report. Failure by the State or Territory to furnish proof of publication within the time limited will be cause for the rejection of the selection, upon report of such failure by the register, accompanied with evidence of service of notice prescribed in rule 10.

During the period of publication, or any time thereafter, and before final approval and certification, the local officers may receive protest or contest as to any of the tracts applied for and transmit the same to the General Land Office.

Where lands sought to be selected are alleged, by way of protest, to be mineral, or where applications for patent therefor are presented under the mining laws, or are otherwise adversely claimed, proceedings in such cases will be in the nature of a contest and will be governed by the rules of practice in force in contest cases.

12. Surveyed lands of the United States, reserved or withdrawn from entry, location, and selection under the general land laws, and thereafter restored to the public domain (not under a special statute) may be selected in satisfaction of grants or reservations in aid of common schools, if of the character contemplated thereby, in such manner as shall be prescribed in the proclamations or notices of restoration. Lists of selections received by mail not more than three days prior to the day on which the lands are opened to entry, location, and selection generally will be treated as if received on the day of such opening, and will be considered as proffered after the claims of all persons present at the time of the opening of the office have been received, but a list received by mail more than three days prior to the day of the opening will be rejected as prematurely filed.

13. No application will be allowed for lands covered by an existing selection or entry, nor will any right be recognized as initiated by the tender of any such application. In any case, however, where for good and sufficient reason a selection has been held for cancellation, the State or Territory may be permitted to relinquish such selection, and with such relinquishment tender a new application for the same land. This relinquishment and application must be accompanied by a statement, under oath, of the officer or officers of the State or Territory charged with the selection of lands, showing that proper precaution was taken, in the first instance, to avoid the tender of a defective selection, and will be forwarded to the General Land Office, where the case will be considered and if the showing made is found satisfactory the relinquishment will be accepted and the new application returned for allowance as of the date of filing. The statement accompanying such relinquishment and application will be closely scrutinized and unless the utmost good faith is shown the new application will be rejected.

Amendment of indemnity school land selections by the substitution of new and valid base, in whole or in part, in place of that originally tendered, defective from any cause, may be allowed, in the discretion of the Commissioner of the General Land Office. Applications in such cases must be accompanied by a statement, under oath, of the officer or officers indicated in the paragraph next above, fully explaining the tender of the original defective base and how the error or mistake occurred, and will be forwarded to the General Land Office for consideration, where, if it is believed that every reasonable effort was made and precaution taken to avoid the tender of such defective base, the substitution of the new and valid base may be permitted in cases where no intervening claims exist.

14. The local officers will not enter on their records the relinquishment of any State selection until directed to do so by the General Land Office. All relinquishments of State selections will be forwarded to the General Land Office, through the local office, and, if accepted, the local officers will be directed to cancel the selections on their records. The cancellation will become effective as of the date of receipt of order of cancellation by the local office, after which, and not before, the land, if not reserved, will be subject to disposition under the general land laws.

15. When a school section has been identified by survey, and no claim is asserted thereto under the mining or other public land laws, the presumption is that title to the land has passed to the State, but such presumption may be overcome by the submission of satisfactory proof to the contrary.

16. The States will not be permitted to make selections in lieu of lands within a school section alleged to be mineral, in the absence of proof that such lands are known to be valuable for mineral. Such preliminary proof must show the kind of mineral discovered and the extent thereof.

17. Upon the submission by the State of an ex parte showing, consisting of corroborated affidavits, alleging that the land is valuable for mineral, accompanied with an application for indemnity in lieu of such lands, and certificates of the proper State authorities showing that said lands have not been sold, encumbered, or otherwise disposed of, as required by rule 7, the register will certify as to the date of the filing of said list, the status of the land selected, as shown by the record, and forward the list to the General Land Office by special letter, without further action.

The legal fees payable upon such selection must be tendered with the application to select, and will be received and held as unearned fees and other trust funds until the selection has been allowed, or finally rejected, and in the meantime no action will be taken looking to the disposal of the selected land.

If the showing is deemed sufficient, a hearing will be ordered by this office to determine the character of the land, evidence to be submitted in support of the allegation contained in the preliminary showing. Notice of such hearing must be given by the State, by publication, once a week for five successive weeks, in a newspaper designated by the register of the land office of the district in which the lands are situated, as published nearest to the location of such base lands, and proof that the notice was published must be filed in the local land office on or before the day of hearing.

All proof filed and testimony taken at such hearing will be forwarded to the General Land Office.

Should the proof be found sufficient, the list will be returned for allowance, when notice of selection will be published, as required by rule 9 hereof, and the State will be further required to furnish the certificate of the officer in charge of the record in the county where the lands are situated, or from a reliable and responsible abstracter or abstract company, showing that said lands have not been sold, encumbered, or otherwise disposed of, as required by rule 7.

18. A determination by the General Land Office, or the department, that a portion of the smallest legal subdivision in a school section is mineral land will place that entire subdivision in the class of lands that may be used as a basis for indemnity selection, and where mineral entry was made of any portion of the smallest legal subdivision of a school section that fact will be taken as determining the right of the State to indemnity for the entire legal subdivision upon proper showing that the State has not made any disposition of the land not embraced in such mineral entry.

19. All previous rulings and instructions not in harmony herewith are hereby vacated.

Circular No. 128

SELECTIONS BY STATES OF LANDS WITHDRAWN, CLASSIFIED, OR VALUABLE FOR COAL

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, June 14, 1912.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: Your attention is directed to the act of Congress, approved April 30, 1912 (37 Stat. 105), entitled "An act to supplement the act of June 22, 1910, entitled 'An act to provide for agricultural entries on coal lands,'" a copy of which is hereto attached.

The act of June 22, 1910 (36 Stat. 583), entitled "An act to provide for agricultural entries on coal lands," provided that the public lands of the United States, exclusive of Alaska, which have been withdrawn or classified as coal lands, or are valuable for coal, shall be subject to appropriate entry under the homestead laws by actual settlers only, the desert land law in tracts not exceeding 160 acres, to selection under section 4 of the act approved August 18, 1894 (28 Stat. 422), known as the Carey Act, and to withdrawal under the act approved June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), known as the reclamation act.

By this Act, (April 30, 1912), the privileges granted in certain cases, as enumerated above, by the act of June 22, 1910, supra, are extended to the several States in making selections of lands in satisfaction of grants made by Congress. It is further provided that the Secretary of the Interior may, in his discretion, dispose of any isolated or disconnected tracts, under the laws providing for the sale of such tracts of public land. The conditions and reservations as prescribed by the former act are embodied in this act unchanged.

It will be your duty to accept, subject to future approval, selections, otherwise unobjectionable, presented by the several States in satisfaction of congressional grants, embracing lands withdrawn or classified as coal lands, or valuable for coal, if accompanied by a certificate or statement, in case of each application to select, of the officer or officers authorized to act for and in behalf of the State, to the effect that the application is made in accordance with, and subject to, the provisions and reservations of the act of June 22, 1910 (36 Stat. 583), as supplemented by the act of April 30, 1912 (37 Stat. 105).

Should the State deny the existence of coal in the land sought to be selected you will proceed in accordance with existing regulations in such cases.

In relation to selections made by some of the States, prior to the passage of this act, of lands withdrawn or classified as coal, you are informed that the department held, under date of May 18, 1912, in such a case from Wyoming (Lander, 05040) on appeal, as follows:

> The tender or filing of a school-land indemnity selection by a State in lieu of lands lost by it in place constitutes a mere offer to exchange, confers no vested right upon the selector and does not prevent the taking or withholding of the land by the United States for public uses or purposes. The transaction is not complete, nor does the right of the State vest until the acceptance and approval of the offer of exchange by the Secretary of the Interior. School indemnity selections offered by States for lands classified as coal or known to be valuable for such deposits could not, prior to April 30, 1912, be accepted or approved; but these selections offered and pending at the date of passage of the act of April 30, 1912, may, in the absence of intervening adverse rights, and upon proper election filed by the States, now be allowed and accepted as of April 30, 1912, if there be no other objection. * * *

Very respectfully,

S. V. Proudfit,
Assistant Commissioner.

STATE INDEMNITY SELECTIONS—FORM OF PATENT—ACT OF APRIL 14, 1914

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C., July 5, 1924.

THE COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE:

The department has considered your letter of June 30, 1924, requesting instructions as to whether the act of April 14, 1914 (38 Stat. 335), is applicable to State indemnity selections, and, if so, whether conveyance should be in form of patent or of a supplemental clear list.

[3] See instructions of Oct. 19, 1929, p. 1149.

In the instructions of June 3, 1914 (43 L. D. 271), the department held that the act affected "all filings, locations, selections, or entries upon which patent or its equivalent has issued or may hereafter issue." The department is of opinion that the interpretation thus placed on the act should be adhered to, and that in appropriate cases of State indemnity selections you cause to be issued a patent in substantially the following form:

The United States of America, to all to whom these presents shall come, greeting:

Whereas, on __________________________, there was certified to the State of ______________________ the following described lands: ______________________ reserving to the United States all coal in said lands, and to it, or persons authorized by it, the right to prospect for, mine, and remove coal from the same upon compliance with the conditions of and subject to the limitations of the act of __________________________; and

Whereas the lands so conveyed have been subsequently classified as noncoal in character:

Now, therefore, know ye that the United States of America, in accordance with the act of Congress approved April 14, 1914 (38 Stat. 335), does hereby remise, release, and forever quitclaim unto the said State of ________________ ____________ and to its assigns all rights, title, interest, and estate to and in the above-described lands which may be vested in and possessed by it by virtue of the reservation hereinbefore mentioned and recited.

First Assistant Secretary.

SCHOOL LAND GRANT—MINERAL INDEMNITY

INSTRUCTIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, November 11, 1924.

First Assistant Secretary Finney to the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Reference is made to your letter of September 27, 1924, recommending recognition of the right of the various States to satisfy their school grants by selection of the granted sections of land in place, subject to the reservations contained in the acts of June 22, 1910 (36 Stat. 583), April 30, 1912 (37 Stat. 105), and July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), where such sections are known to be mineral, of the character defined in those acts at the time the right of the State to such sections would otherwise attach; and that in selecting such section as idemnity the State may use the same section as base.

In the grants to the States for school purposes, certain designated survey numbers of sections were mentioned, usually section 16 or 36, or both, and in some cases other designated sections. Such sections, however, do not pass to the State if known to contain mineral at the time when the grant would otherwise attach.

In order to indemnify the grant for such loss, provision was made for selection of other lands in lieu thereof. Originally, the right to select indemnity lands did not extend to tracts containing mineral, but in the acts above referred to provision was made whereby States are permitted to select lands containing coal, oil, or other minerals specified therein, subject to reservation of such mineral deposits to the United States.

The department has heretofore recognized the right of a State to select tracts in the designated sections as indemnity, subject to such reservation, where they were lost to the grant, as sections in place on account of their mineral character. See State of Utah v. Olson (47 L. D. 58, 65).

In making such selection it is wholly immaterial whether the self-same section selected be used as base or some other of the designated sections likewise lost as place lands. While such procedure seems to partake somewhat of the appearance of excessive formality, yet there is no authority under existing law whereby the grant may be made effective to any extent in any other manner as to mineral lands in the designated sections.

This is to confirm your view as to the propriety of the procedure outlined above.

Circular No. 1114[4]

CONFIRMATION IN STATES AND TERRITORIES OF SCHOOL LANDS CONTAINING MINERALS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, March 15, 1927.

Registers, United States Land Offices, Division Inspectors, and District Cadastral Engineers:

The first paragraph of section 1 of the act of Congress approved January 25, 1927 (44 Stat. 1026), reads as follows:

> That, subject to the provisions of subsections (a), (b), and (c) of this section, the several grants to the States of numbered sections in place for the support or in aid of common or public schools be, and they are hereby, extended to embrace numbered school sections mineral in character, unless land has been granted to and/or selected by and certified or approved, to any such State or States as indemnity or in lieu of any land so granted by numbered sections.

The beneficiaries of this grant are the States of Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming. The grant also extends to the unsurveyed school sections reserved, granted, and confirmed to the State of Florida by the act of Congress approved September 22, 1922 (42 Stat. 1017).

The additional grant thus made, subject to all the conditions in the statute making same, applies to school-section lands known to be of mineral character at the effective date thereof as hereinafter defined. It does not include school-section lands nonmineral in character, those not known to be mineral in character at time of grant, but afterwards found to contain mineral deposits, such lands not being excepted from the grants theretofore made (Wyoming et al. v. United States; 255 U. S. 489–500, 501), nor does it include lands in numbered school sections in lieu of or as indemnity for which lands were conveyed to the States first above named, or to the State of Florida with respect to school-section lands coming within the purview of the act of September 22, 1922, supra, prior to January 25, 1927.

[4] See Circular No. 996, p. 1474.

Determinations heretofore made by the Secretary of the Interior or the Commissioner of the General Land Office to the effect that lands in school sections were excepted from school-land grants because of their known mineral character do not, of themselves, prevent or affect in any way the vesting of title in the States pursuant to the provisions of the statute making the additional grant.

Subsection (a) of section 1 of the act provides:

> That the grant of numbered mineral sections under this act shall be of the same effect as prior grants for the numbered nonmineral sections, and titles to such numbered mineral sections shall vest in the States at the time and in the manner and be subject to all the rights of adverse parties recognized by existing law in the grants of numbered nonmineral sections.

Grants to the States of school lands in place (the numbered sections), of the character and status subject thereto, as a rule, are effective and operate to vest title upon the date of the approval of the statute making the grant or the date of the admission of the State into the Union, as to lands then surveyed, and as to lands thereafter surveyed upon the date of the acceptance of the survey thereof by the Commissioner of the General Land Office. (United States v. Morrison, 240 U. S. 192; United States v. Sweet, 245 U. S., 563; Wyoming et al. v. United States, supra.) It is held, therefore, that the grant made by the first paragraph of section 1 of the present statute, subject to the provision therein with respect to indemnity or lieu lands, to the provisions of subsections (b) and (c) of said section 1 and following the plain provisions of subsection (a) thereof is effective upon the date of the approval of the act (January 25, 1927) as to lands then surveyed and the survey thereof accepted by the Commissioner of the General Land Office and as to the unsurveyed school sections in the State of Florida granted to that State by the act of September 22, 1922. The grant, as to other lands thereafter surveyed, subject to the same provisions is effective upon the acceptance of the survey thereof as above indicated.

Subsection (b) of section 1 of the act provides:

> That the additional grant made by this act is upon the express condition that all sales, grants, deeds, or patents for any of the lands so granted shall be subject to and contain a reservation to the State of all the coal and other minerals in the lands so sold, granted, deeded, or patented, together with the right to prospect for, mine, and remove the same. The coal and other mineral deposits in such lands shall be subject to lease by the State as the State legislature may direct, the proceeds of rentals and royalties therefrom to be utilized for the support or in aid of the common or public schools: Provided, That any lands or minerals disposed of contrary to the provisions of this act shall be forfeited to the United States by appropriate proceedings instituted by the Attorney General for that purpose in the United States district court for the district in which the property or some part thereof is located.

The lands granted to the States by the act of January 25, 1927, and the mineral deposits therein are to be disposed of by the States in the manner prescribed in subsection (b) thereof, provision being made for judicial forfeiture in case of disposal of any of the lands or minerals contrary to the provisions of the act.

Subsection (c) of section 1 of the act provides:

> That any lands included within the limits of existing reservations of or by the United States, or specifically reserved for water-power purposes, or included in any pending suit or proceedings in the courts of the United States, or subject to or included in any valid application, claim, or right initiated or held under any of the existing laws of the United States, unless or until such application, claim, or right is relinquished or canceled, and all lands in the Territory of Alaska are excluded from the provisions of this act.

School-section lands included within the limits of existing reservations of or by the United States, specifically reserved for water-power purposes, or included in any suit or proceedings in the courts of the United States, prior to January 25, 1927, and all lands in the Territory of Alaska are excluded from the provisions of the act.

The words "existing reservations" as used in subsection (c) are construed generally and subject to specific determination in particular cases if the need therefor shall arise, as including Indian and military reservations, naval and petroleum reserves, national parks, national forests, stock driveways, reservations established under the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 847), as amended by the act of August 24, 1912 (37 Stat. 497), and all forms of Executive withdrawal recognized and construed by this department as reservations, existent prior to January 25, 1927.

Valid applications, claims, or rights protected by the provisions of subsection (c) include applications, entries, selections, locations, permits, leases, and other forms of filing, initiated or held pursuant to existing laws of the United States prior to January 25, 1927, embracing known mineral school-section lands then surveyed and otherwise within the terms of the additional grant, and as to lands thereafter surveyed, valid applications, claims, or rights so initiated or held prior to the date of the acceptance of the survey. The additional grant to the State will attach upon the effective date of the relinquishment or cancellation of any claim, so asserted, in the absence of any other valid existing claim for the land and if same be then surveyed. Should the validity of any such claim be questioned by the State, proceedings with respect thereto by protest, contest, hearing, etc., will be had in the form and manner prescribed by existing rules governing such cases. This procedure will be followed in the matter of all protests, contests, or claims filed by individuals, associations, or corporations against the States affecting school-section lands.

The present grant, like other grants in aid of public or common schools, is subject to the rights and claims of those who settle upon, with a view to homestead entry, or occupy, with a view to desert-land entry, prior to survey in the field, lands which on survey are found to be in numbered school sections.

Section 2 of the act reads as follows:

> SEC. 2. That nothing herein contained is intended or shall be held or construed to increase, diminish, or effect the rights of States under grants other than for the support of common or public schools by numbered school sections in place, and this act shall not apply to indemnity or lieu selections or exchanges or the right hereafter to select indemnity for numbered school sections in place lost to the State under the provisions of this or other acts, and all existing laws governing such grants and indemnity or lieu selections and exchanges are hereby continued in full force and effect.

The only grants affected in any way by the provisions of the act of January 25, 1927, are those of numbered sections of land in place made to the States for the support of common or public schools. The adjudication of claims to land asserted under other grants, for indemnity or lieu lands and exchanges of lands, will proceed as heretofore, being governed by the provisions of existing laws applicable thereto. The States will be afforded full opportunity, however, if the facts and conditions are such as to authorize such action, either to assign new base in support of or to withdraw pending unapproved indemnity school land selections in support of which mineral school-section lands have been tendered as base.

Administrative order of May 26, 1926 (Circular No. 1067, not reported), suspending action on hearings and other proceedings initiated by or for the United States, not specifically directed or authorized by Congress, involving the mineral or nonmineral character of school-section lands, is hereby revoked. Pending contests, protests, or other proceedings so instituted in the Department of the Interior, its offices, or bureaus, on the ground that because of the existence of known mineral deposits therein title in and to school-section lands did not vest in the States under prior laws and grants will be considered and disposition thereof made in the light of the additional grant of known mineral lands herein discussed, subject to all the conditions and provisions of the act of January 25, 1927, making same, and in accord with these instructions.

Cadastral engineers, in reporting the completion of surveys in the field, will omit any special reference to the survey of school-section lands.

The practice, generally, of making mineral examinations of school-section lands is hereby discontinued and hereafter division inspectors will cause such examinations to be made and reports submitted only when directed to take such action, unless there are convincing reasons for believing that, as to particular tracts, examination and report should be made.

ASSIGNMENT OF MINERAL SCHOOL SECTION LANDS AS BASE FOR INDEMNITY SELECTIONS

Department of the Interior,
Office of the Secretary,
Washington, February 1, 1928.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office.

My Dear Mr. Commissioner: On May 12, 1927, you requested instructions (a) as to whether, since the approval of the act of January 25, 1927 (44 Stat. 1026), a State may "assign school-section lands as base for indemnity selections by reason only of the mineral character of such school-section lands" and (b) whether the provisions of the act of January 25, 1927, "supersede the provisions of the act of February 28, 1891 (26 Stat. 796), authorizing the selection of lands in lieu of school-section lands mineral in character, so as to inhibit selection by and conveyance to the States of lands in lieu of school-section lands granted by the later act."

The act of January 25, 1927, provided that, subject to certain exceptions—> the several grants to the States, of numbered sections in place for the support or in aid of public schools be, and the same are hereby, extended to embrace numbered school sections, mineral in character * * *.

Mineral lands of this character for which indemnity had been sought or received by the several States were excepted from the provisions of said act as were lands withdrawn or otherwise appropriated.

By subsection (b) of section 1 of the act of January 25, 1927, a specific method to be used in disposing of mineral lands granted thereunder was imposed as a condition subsequent to the grant, with a provision for forfeiture proceedings in cases of breach of this condition.

Section 2 of the act of January 25, 1927, is as follows:

> That nothing herein contained is intended or shall be held or construed to increase, diminish, or affect the rights of States under grants other than for the support of common or public schools by numbered school sections in place, and this act shall not apply to indemnity or lieu selections or exchanges or the right hereafter to select indemnity for numbered school sections in place lost to the State under the provisions of this or other acts, and all existing laws governing such grants and indemnity or lieu selections and exchanges are hereby continued in full force and effect.

The grant made by the act of January 25, 1927, was a grant in praesenti and, since section 1 of this act vested title in the State to all unappropriated, unreserved mineral school sections in place, for which a State had not been indemnified, and since the States were limited, under section 2 of said act, to indemnity for mineral lands only where "lost to the State under this or other acts" it seems clear that a State may not, since the date of said act, assign school-section lands as base for indemnity selections by reason only of the mineral character of such school-section lands. They acquire title by virtue of the grant of January 25, 1927, and have no loss for which they may be indemnified. This disposes of your first inquiry.

The act of February 28, 1891, supra, extended to the States a right (which they were at liberty to exercise or forego) to surrender lands to which they had acquired title, where sections in place "are mineral lands or are included within any Indian, military, or other reservation, or are otherwise disposed of by the United States." The States making such surrenders were entitled to select and receive title to other lands of equal acreage in lieu thereof, each lieu selection to be a waiver of right to the base lands.

Examination of the school-land grants made prior to February 28, 1891, and thereafter disclose that exceptions from those grants were made wherever sections in place were "mineral land" or were "included within any Indian, military, or other reservation," or were "otherwise disposed of by the United States." It is apparent, therefore, that the purpose of the act of February 28, 1891, was to provide means whereby the United States could reacquire title to lands which, although acquired by the States, were of such kind or of such status as the grants contemplated should be withheld from said States.

It is provided in section 2 of the act of January 25, 1927, that "this act shall not apply to indemnity or lieu selections, or exchanges." This means that mineral lands may not be taken as indemnity or in lieu of surrendered or lost place lands. Said section further provides that "all existing laws governing lieu selections and exchanges are hereby continued in full force and effect."

The obvious purpose of this last provision is that the States shall not be deprived of any rights which they had under the preceding acts. It is equally clear that no added rights were intended to be conferred. It is also clear that the broad purpose of the act of January 25, 1927, when ascertained from all its provisions, was to vest in the several States, finally and irrevocably, full title to school sections in place wherever mineral values, known or potential, constituted the only bars to the operations of the previous grants made to said States. The reports, debates, and legislative history of said act support this view.

Prior to the act of January 25, 1927, a State could exchange mineral lands in school sections in place for other lands pursuant to the act of 1891, only in the comparatively small number of cases where mineral values became known after the effective date of the school-land grants. Lands in place known to be mineral prior to such dates never became the properties of the States. United States v. Morrison (240 U. S. 192); United States v. Sweet (245 U. S. 563), and hence formed no bases for exchanges. On the other hand, the courts have held that a surrender by a State of a school section of a class contemplated by the act of February 28, 1891, followed by a formally correct lieu selection, was an exercise of an option given the State by the Congress, recognition of which was mandatory as to the Land Department. California v. Desert Water, etc., Co. (243 U. S. 415); Payne v. New Mexico (255 U. S. 367); Wyoming v. United States (255 U. S. 489).

It will readily be seen that, if every section of mineral land to which a State acquired title, by virtue of the act of January 25, 1927, may be used as base for an exchange under the act of 1891, that the later act has vastly enlarged the scope of the former, and that a State may elect to retain title to such mineral sections as it sees fit, and as to the remainder, may make exchanges which the department must accept upon formally correct selection.

Under this view a State could seek exchanges for every acre acquired under the act of 1927, and instead of a simplification of the States' grants, and a speedy and final settlement of the question of States' titles to school sections in place, intended to be secured by the act of January 25, 1927, the adjudication of States' rights would be further projected into the future, and this purpose completely evaded.

The view that a State may exchange, under the act of 1891, mineral lands acquired under the act of 1927, is so plainly contrary to the intent and purposes of both acts as to be untenable, and in answer to your second inquiry I have to inform you that: A State may not make such a lieu selection, where mineral lands acquired by virtue of the act of January 25, 1927, are offered as the basis for the exchange.

It remains to consider the purpose and legal effect of the provision in section 2 of the act of January 25, 1927. "That existing laws governing lieu selections and exchanges are hereby continued in full force and effect" with relation to the prior rights of the State to make selections in lieu of numbered sections prescribed in the grant found in place which, since the date of attachment of the grant, have been found to be mineral in character but which were not known to be mineral at that date. As to such sections, the State's title attached as of agricultural lands, but the first proviso of section 2275, Revised Statutes, as amended in 1891, authorized the State to waive its right to such sections and to select other lands in lieu thereof. See California and Deseret Water Co., supra. But while this right of selection was accorded it was in the nature of an optional privilege in so far as the State was concerned and additional to anything found in the granting act. However phrased, it was in the interest of the United States, and to the end that a reinvestment of title might be effected with respect to lands which were not of the character intended to be granted. The Land Department had no authority to rule the State to an exercise of the option but was bound to honor it if an exchange otherwise regular was proffered by the State. Hence, it follows that in all cases where the State had made such proffer, the act of January 25, 1927, saves to it the right to have its selection completed. However, as to such selections as may have been proffered since the passage of said act, or which may hereafter be proffered, the case is different. No vested rights attach under a conditional privilege until such time as it is exercised, and until that time it may be taken away by competent authority. Hence, the question recurs as to the bearing and effect of the act of January 25, 1927, on this question. As has been already seen, the primary purpose of said act was to simplify administration of the State's school grant and to effect a final adjustment and settlement of questions of title arising thereunder. To this end a supplemental grant was made of mineral lands. Except by way of confirmation and further assurance of title, that act had no relation to and did not include mineral land so situated for the conclusive reason that these sections did not belong to the United States. The State's title thereto had attached under prior laws. On the other hand, and in view of the policy of the act, the United States had no further interest in mineral lands that already belonged to the State. Congress so enlarged the grant as to include all mineral lands, and to now hold that the State may continue to release mineral lands belonging to it under a prior grant as bases for further selection imputes to the act of Congress an utterly absurd result. Further, as a matter of statutory construction based on the language employed in said section 2 of the act, it is noted that while it "shall not apply to indemnity lieu selections or exchanges" yet the only right of indemnity saved to the State is limited to "the right hereafter to select indemnity," for numbered school sections "lost to the State," and it follows that the further provision under consideration in that same section continues in full force and effect only laws governing "lieu selections and exchanges" to satisfy losses.

It should be remembered that lands subject to or included in any valid application, claim, or right, initiated or held under any of the existing laws of the United States are excluded from the provisions of said act of 1927 and the State may in proper cases have indemnity therefor. Of such would be a valid mineral location on lands of the sections originally granted known to be mineral at the date the grant would have otherwise attached. This because to that extent the location represents a loss to the State for which it is entitled to indemnity. But mineral lands, the title to which passed to the State under any law, are not lost and no indemnity or lieu-land right remains to be satisfied. A contrary holding would permit the State to make selections in lieu of mineral lands granted to it by the act of 1927, which would reopen the whole question of the known mineral character of lands at date of that act and the attachment of rights thereunder.

Very truly yours,

E. C. FINNEY,
First Assistant Secretary.

force and effect only laws governing "lieu selections and exchanges" to satisfy losses.

SURFACE RIGHTS [a]

[Reported, 38 L. D. 183]

INSTRUCTIONS UNDER ACT OF CONGRESS APPROVED MARCH 3, 1909, "FOR THE PROTECTION OF SURFACE RIGHTS OF ENTRYMEN"

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., September 7, 1909.[1]

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: The circular approved March 25, 1909, of instructions, under the act of Congress of March 3, 1909 (35 Stat. 844), for the protection of surface rights of entrymen, is amended to read as follows:

THE PURPOSE OF THE ACT

1. The main purpose of the act is to protect persons who, in good faith, have located, selected, or entered, under nonmineral laws, public lands which are, after such location, selection, or entry, classified, claimed, or reported as being valuable for coal by providing a means whereby such persons may, at their election, retain the lands located, selected, or entered, subject to the right of the Government to the coal therein. It applies alike to locations, selections, and entries made prior to its passage and those made subsequently thereto.

The act also provides for the disposal, under the existing coal land laws, of the coal contained in such lands.

ELECTION

2. All persons who, in good faith, locate, select, or enter, under the nonmineral laws, lands which are, subsequently to the date of such location, selection, or entry, classified, claimed, or reported as being valuable for coal, may elect, upon making satisfactory proof of compliance with the laws under which they claim, to receive patents upon their location, selection, or entry, as the case may be, such patents to contain a reservation to the United States of all coal in the lands and the right of the United States, or anyone authorized by it, to prospect for, mine, and remove the coal in accordance with the conditions and limitations imposed by the act; or may decline to elect to receive patent with such reservation, in which event proceedings shall be had as hereinafter indicated.

[a] The instructions relative to selections by States of lands withdrawn, classified, or valuable for coal are contained in Circular No. 128, p. 1386; relative to homesteads on coal, oil, and gas lands in Alaska, in Circular No. 491, p. 216; and relative to the disposition of surplus coal lands restored from Indian reservations, in Circular No. 547, p. 671.

[1] Amended by circular of Nov. 21, 1912, p. 1408.

LANDS CLASSIFIED, CLAIMED, OR REPORTED AS COAL LANDS

3. Upon receipt of these instructions registers and receivers will promptly advise, by registered mail, each nonmineral claimant to land which, subsequent to location, selection, or entry, has been classified, claimed, or reported as being valuable for coal, that at the time of applying for notice of intention to submit final proof he must, in writing, state whether he elects to receive a patent containing the reservation prescribed by the act.

In the event of election to receive such a patent, no further inquiry will be necessary respecting the coal character of the land.

In the event the claimant declines to elect to receive such patent, evidence will be received at the time of making final proof for the purpose of determining whether the lands are chiefly valuable for coal; and the entryman, locator, or selector will be entitled to a patent without reservation, unless at the time of hearing on final proof it shall be shown that the land is chiefly valuable for coal.

The claimant may, after determination at final proof that the lands are chiefly valuable for coal, elect to receive patent with the statutory reservation, provided, of course, proof of compliance with the law in other respects is satisfactory.

NOTICE TO CHIEF OF FIELD DIVISION

4. Where the nonmineral claimant indicates his intention to contest the alleged coal character of the land involved, the chief of the appropriate field division must be advised sufficiently in advance of the date fixed for the taking of the final proof to enable him to be prepared to represent the Government at the time such final proof is made.

ACTION OF THE REGISTER AND RECEIVER

5. In every case where there is controversy as to the coal character of the land, and evidence is offered thereon, the register and receiver will forward the testimony and other papers to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, with appropriate recommendation, notice of which should be given the claimant.

WHERE FINAL PROOF HAS ALREADY BEEN SUBMITTED

6. Where satisfactory final proof has heretofore been made for lands entered under the nonmineral laws, the claimant will be entitled to a patent without reservation, except in those cases where the Government is in possession of sufficient evidence to justify the belief that the land is, and was before making final proof, known to be chiefly valuable for coal, in which case hearing will be ordered. If, at said hearing, it is proven that the land is chiefly valuable for coal, and that the claimant knew that fact at the time of making final proof, the entry shall be canceled, unless the claimant shall prove that he was at the time of the initiation of his claim in good faith endeavoring to secure the land under the nonmineral laws, and not because of its coal character, in which event he shall be permitted to elect to receive patent with the reservations prescribed in the statute. If it is not shown that the land is chiefly valuable for coal, the claimant shall be entitled to patent without reservation.

DISPOSAL OF THE COAL DEPOSITS

7.[2] Where election to accept patent with the prescribed reservation has been made by the nonmineral claimant, coal deposits in the land may be prospected for, mined, and removed under the existing coal-land laws, provided the person desiring so to do first procures the consent of the surface owner, or furnishes such security for payment of all damages to such owner caused thereby as may be determined by a court of competent jurisdiction. But no coal declaratory statement or application to purchase under sections 2347–2352 of the Revised Statutes, and the regulations of this office, will be received until the nonmineral claimant, upon the making of satisfactory proof, has elected to take a patent containing the prescribed reservation, and not then unless such coal declaratory statement or application to purchase is accompanied by the consent of the surface owner, or evidence showing that security has been given as prescribed by the act.

Appeals shall be allowed in all proceedings brought hereunder as in other cases.

CERTIFICATES AND PATENTS

8. Coal declaratory statements, certificates, and patents issued under the provisions of this act will describe the land by legal subdivisions as under the general coal-land laws, and payment will be made at the price fixed for the whole area, but appropriate conditions and limitations will be incorporated in the patent fully defining the interests and rights of the respective parties. To this end you will note on each coal receipt and certificate issued by you, in pursuance thereof, the words " Patent will contain conditions and limitations of the act of March 3, 1909 (35 Stat. 844)."

Very respectfully,

S. V. Proudfit,
Acting Commissioner.

Approved.

R. A. Ballinger, Secretary.

INSTRUCTIONS UNDER THE ACT APPROVED JUNE 22, 1910 (36 STAT. 583), "TO PROVIDE FOR AGRICULTURAL ENTRIES ON COAL LANDS," WITH AMENDMENT OF SEPTEMBER 27, 1910

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, September 8, 1910.[3]

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices:

The following instructions are issued for your guidance in the administration of the act of Congress approved June 22, 1910 (36 Stat. 583), "An act to provide for agricultural entries on coal lands," a copy of which is appended hereto.

THE PURPOSE OF THE ACT

1. This act was not designed to operate as an implied repeal of any provision of the act of March 3, 1909 (35 Stat. 844). There is no inconsistency between the two acts, and both of them may have harmonious operation within their proper spheres. The earlier law provides a remedy in those cases in which entries, locations, and selections have been or may be made for lands which, subsequently to entry, location, or selection, have been, or may be, claimed, classified, or reported as being valuable for coal, while the later act permits dispositions (therein named) to be made of lands valuable for coal, notwithstanding that they may have been previously withdrawn, or classified as such. The proviso to section 1 of the later act also affords relief to those persons who, prior to June 22, 1910, in good faith made entries, locations, or selections of lands which, at the date of such entries, locations, or selections, had been withdrawn or classified, as valuable for coal.

LANDS TO WHICH THE ACT IS APPLICABLE

2.[4] The act applies to unreserved public lands of the United States in those States and Territories in which the coal land laws are applicable, exclusive of the District of Alaska, which have been withdrawn from coal entry and not released therefrom, or which have been classified as coal lands or which are valuable for coal, though not withdrawn or classified. It does not change, repeal, or modify agreements or treaties made with Indian tribes for the disposition of their lands, or apply to lands ceded to the United States to be disposed of for the benefit of such tribes.

CLASSES OF ENTRIES

3. Original entries made under the provisions of the act or validated and confirmed thereby.

(a) Section 1 of the act provides that from and after its passage, the unreserved public lands of the United States, exclusive of Alaska, which have been withdrawn or classified as coal lands, or are valuable for coal, shall be subject to appropriate entry under the homestead laws, by actual settlers only, the desert land law, selection under section 4 of the act approved August 18, 1894, known as the Carey Act, and to withdrawal under the act approved June 17, 1902, known as the reclamation act, whenever such entries, selections, or withdrawals shall be made with a view of obtaining or passing title, with a reservation to the United States of the coal in such lands and of the right to prospect for, mine, and remove the same; but that no desert-land entry made under the provisions of this act shall contain more than 160 acres, and that all homestead entries made thereunder shall be subject to the conditions, as to residence and cultivation, of entries provided for under the act approved February 19, 1909, entitled "An act to provide for an enlarged homestead."

[3] Amended by circulars of Jan. 23, 1911, p. 1407, and Nov. 7, 1914 (No. 362), p. 367.
[4] See amendment, p. 1407.

Section 2 of the act provides that any person desiring to make entry under the homestead laws or the desert land law, any State desiring to make selection under section 4 of the act of August 18, 1894, known as the Carey Act, and the Secretary of the Interior in withdrawing under the reclamation act lands classified as coal lands, or valuable for coal, with a view to securing or passing title to the same in accordance with the provisions of said acts, shall state in the application for entry, selection, or notice of withdrawal that the same is made in accordance with and subject to the provisions of this act.

With reference to homestead entries made under the provisions of this act, attention is called to the fact that the said act of February 19, 1909 (subject to which, as to residence and cultivation, such homestead entries must be made), provides that " no entry made under this act shall be commuted " (35 Stat. 639). This, then, requires a residence for the full period of five years to entitle the homesteader to patent thereunder. The latter act also provides that in addition to the proofs and affidavits required under section 2291 of the Revised Statutes the entryman shall prove by two credible witnesses that at least one-eighth of the area embraced in his entry was continuously cultivated to agricultural crops, other than native grasses, beginning with the second year of the entry, and that at least one-fourth of the area embraced in the entry was so continuously cultivated beginning with the third year of the entry.

(b) Nonmineral entries, selections, or locations initiated prior to the passage of the act.

In the proviso to section 1 it is enacted that those who have initiated nonmineral entries, selections, or locations in good faith, prior to the passage of this act, on lands withdrawn or classified as coal lands, may perfect the same under the provisions of the laws under which said entries were made, but shall receive the limited patent provided for in this act.

Upon receipt of these instructions, registers and receivers will promptly advise, by registered mail, all those who have initiated nonmineral entries, selections, or locations, prior to the passage of this act, on lands withdrawn or classified as coal lands prior to entry, selection, or location, which have not been restored to entry under the general land laws, that they may perfect such nonmineral entries, selections, or locations (if made in good faith) under the provisions of the laws under which said entries were made, but shall receive the limited patent provided for in this act, unless the lands are restored to entry under the general land laws prior to final action upon such entries, selections, or locations, or unless, within 30 days from receipt of such notice, in cases where final proofs have been made, or prior to final proof where such proofs have not been submitted, they submit evidence, preferably the sworn statements of experts or practical miners, that the land is, in fact, not coal in character, together with an application for classification, if the land is merely withdrawn, or for reclassification if classified as coal land. The application and evidence will be by you transmitted to this office and follow the procedure prescribed in section 5, paragraph 2, of these instructions.

NOTICE TO CHIEF OF FIELD DIVISION

4. Nothing herein shall change the procedure of forwarding to the proper chief of field division and the proper officers in charge of the national forest (if in such a forest) a copy of all applications to make final proof, final entry, or to purchase public lands, for the indorsement of "protest" or "no protest," as provided for in the circular of April 24, 1907, paragraph 5 et seq., except that where the only charge against the same in the office of the Chief of Field Division is that the land is coal in character, it will be unnecessary for him to protest same or make investigation, in view of the provisions of the act.

HEARING TO DISPROVE CLASSIFICATION

5. The last proviso to section 3 of the act provides that nothing in the act contained shall be held to deny or abridge the right to present and have prompt consideration of applications to locate, enter, or select, under the land laws of the United States, lands which have been classified as coal lands with a view of disproving such classification and securing a patent without reservation.

Except in the case of those who present applications under section 2 of the act, you will advise any person presenting a nonmineral application or filing for lands classified as coal lands that he will be allowed 30 days in which to submit evidence, preferably the sworn statements of experts or practical miners, that the land is in fact not coal in character, together with an application that the same be reclassified, and that in the event of failure to furnish said evidence within the time specified .the application will be rejected. Such applications will be given proper serial numbers and notation therof made upon the records, and when accompanied by the necessary evidence they will be forwarded to the General Land Office for action, where, if upon the showing made, and such other inquiry as may be deemed proper, the land is classified as agricultural land, the nonmineral application, in the absence of other objections, will be returned for allowance. If reclassification be denied, the applicant may, within 30 days from receipt of notice, apply for a hearing, at which he may be afforded an opportunity for showing that the classification is improper, in which event he must assume the burden of proof. If he should fail to apply for a hearing within the time allowed, his application to enter or file will be finally rejected. The rejection of such application, however, does not preclude the person from filing another application pursuant to section 2 of the act.

DISPOSAL OF COAL DEPOSITS

6. Right to prospect for coal—Bond to be filed.—By section 3 of the act it is provided that upon satisfactory proof of full compliance with the provisions of the laws under which entry is made, and of this act, the entryman shall be entitled to a patent to the land entered by him, which patent shall contain a reservation to the United States of all the coal in the land so patented, together with the right to prospect for, mine, and remove the same; and that the coal deposits in such lands shall be subject to disposal by the United States in accordance with the provisions of the coal-land laws in force at the time of such disposal. Said section 3 also provides that any person qualified to acquire coal deposits or the right to mine and remove the coal under the laws of the United States shall have the right, at all times, to enter upon the lands selected, entered, or patented, as provided by this act, for the purpose of prospecting for coal thereon upon the approval of the Secretary of the Interior of a bond or undertaking to be filed with him as security for the payment of all damages to the crops and improvements on such lands by reason of such prospecting; and that any person who has acquired from the United States the coal deposits in any such land, or the right to mine or remove the same, may reenter and occupy so much of the surface thereof as may be required for all purposes reasonably incident to the mining and removal of the coal therefrom, and mine and remove the coal, upon payment of the damages caused thereby to the owner thereof, or upon giving a good and sufficient bond or undertaking in an action instituted in any competent court to ascertain and fix said damages.

[5] As a condition precedent to the exercise of the right mentioned in this act to prospect for coal, the person desiring so to prospect must file in the office of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, for submission to the Secretary of the Interior for his approval, a bond or undertaking to indemnify the nonmineral claimant in lawful possession under this act from all damages that may accrue to the latter's crops and improvements on such lands by reason of such prospecting, the right to prospect to date from receipt of notice of approval of the bond. There must be filed with such bond evidence of service of a copy thereof upon the nonmineral claimant. The bond must be executed by the prospector as principal, with two competent sureties or a bond company that has complied with the provisions of the act of August 13, 1894 (28 Stat. 279), as amended by the act approved March 23, 1910 (36 Stat. 241), in the sum of $1,000, as per form hereto annexed. Coal declaratory statements for and applications to purchase the coal deposits in lands entered, selected, or withdrawn under the reclamation act, as provided in section 2 of act, will be received and filed at any time after such entry or selection has been received and allowed of record or such withdrawal has become a matter of record in your office; coal declaratory statements for and applications to purchase the coal deposits in those lands embraced in nonmineral entries, selections, or locations made in good faith, described in, and protected by, the proviso in section 1 of the act, will be accepted and filed after it shall have been determined and become a matter of record in your office that such nonmineral entryman, selector, or locator shall receive the limited patent prescribed in the act: Provided always, That such lands, or the coal deposits therein, have then been restored to disposition under the coal-land laws and the regulations in force.

APPLICATIONS, CERTIFICATES, AND PATENTS

7. (a) Entries and selections under the provisions of this act must have noted across the face of the application for entry or selection, before such application for entry or selection is signed by the applicant and presented to you, the following:

> Application made in accordance with and subject to the provisions and reservations of the act of June 22, 1910 (36 Stat. 583).

Like notation will be made by you across the face of the notice of allowance (Form 4—279) issued on applications to enter or select lands under the provisions of this act. (Amendment of September 27, 1910.)

The Secretary of the Interior in withdrawing, under the reclamation act, lands classified as coal lands, or valuable for coal, with a view to securing or passing title to the same in accordance with the provisions of said acts, will state in the notice of withdrawal that the same is made in accordance with and subject to the provisions and reservations of the act of June 22, 1910, supra.

(b) You will cause to be stamped on the final certificate issued to non-mineral claimants under this act—

> Patent to contain provisions, reservations, conditions, and limitations of act of June 22, 1910 (36 Stat. 583).

There will be incorporated in patents issued to nonmineral claimants under this act the following:

> Excepting and reserving, however, to the United States all the coal in the lands so patented, and to it, or persons authorized by it, the right to prospect for, mine, and remove the coal from the same upon compliance with the conditions and subject to the provisions and limitations of the act of June 22, 1910 (36 Stat. 583).

Immediately upon the notation upon your records of the filing and allowance of an entry, Carey Act selection, or a reclamation withdrawal under section 2 of the act, and upon the ascertainment, (which will be noted of record), that the nonmineral entryman, selector, or locator mentioned in and protected by the proviso in section 1 of the act shall receive the limited patent prescribed therein, you will stamp on the tract book, on the same line with the entry and as near the descriptions as practicable, " Coal reserved to the United States, act of June 22, 1910." You will also write on the margin of the plat under the heading " Coal reserved to the United States, act of June 22, 1910," the description of the land in which the coal deposit has been reserved.

(c) Coal declaratory statements, applications to purchase, certificates, and patents issued under the provisions of this act will describe the coal within legal subdivisions, and payment will be made at the price fixed for the whole acreage. Coal declaratory statements and applications to purchase under sections 2347–2352, Revised Statutes, for coal deposits disposable under this act, must have noted across the face of same, before such coal declaratory statements or applications to purchase are signed by the coal claimants and presented to you, the words—

> Patent will convey only the coal in the land and rights incident thereto in accordance with the conditions and limitations of the act of June 22, 1910 (36 Stat. 583).

You will make like notation on each coal entry, final certificate, and notice of allowance issued by you for coal deposits disposable under this act. (Amendment of September 27, 1910.)

There will be incorporated in patents to coal claimants for coal deposits disposed of under this act substantially the following words:

Now know ye, that there is, therefore, pursuant to the law aforesaid, hereby granted by the United States unto the said grantee and to the heirs or successors and assigns of said grantee all the coal and the coal deposits in the land above described, together with the right to prospect for, mine, and remove the coal from the same upon compliance with the conditions of and subject to the limitations of the act of June 22, 1910 (36 Stat. 583), entitled "An act to provide for agricultural entries on coal lands."

Protests, contests, appeals, and other proceedings arising under these regulations and the act shall be allowed and disposed of in accordance with the Rules of Practice.

Circular No. 393 [6]

REGULATIONS UNDER THE ACT OF JULY 17, 1914 (38 STAT. 509), PROVIDING FOR AGRICULTURAL ENTRIES ON PHOSPHATE, OIL, AND CERTAIN OTHER MINERAL LANDS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., March 20, 1915.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices (exclusive of Alaska).

Sirs: The following regulations are for the guidance of yourselves and the public in matters affected by the act of Congress approved July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), entitled "An act to provide for agricultural entry of lands withdrawn, classified, or reported as containing phosphate, nitrate, potash, oil, gas, or asphaltic minerals," a copy of which is hereto appended.

SCOPE OF THE ACT

(1) The legislation is general and comprehensive and operates in all the States containing public lands of the character specified. It does not apply to lands in the Territory of Alaska, or to lands in the United States which for other reasons are not available or which, in other words, are not subject to entry. This statute fully covers the field included in the special acts of August 24, 1912 (37 Stat. 496), providing for certain agricultural entries and selections on oil and gas lands in the State of Utah, and of February 27, 1913 (37 Stat. 687), authorizing selections by the State of Idaho of phosphate and oil lands in that State. This broad and general act supersedes and displaces said special laws, and by implication works their repeal. Therefore, all entries, selections, or locations of lands of the character described in those special statutes made in the States mentioned on or after date of this general act, July 17, 1914, will be treated as within the scope of the latter act, and will be adjudicated thereunder. Also, all such entries, selections, or locations made under those special acts prior to, and not perfected at, that date will be carried to completion, approved, and patented, if at all, under the general act.

(2) Section 1 of the act authorizes the appropriation, location, selection, entry, or purchase under the nonmineral land laws of the United States, if otherwise available, of lands withdrawn or classified as phosphate, nitrate, potash, oil, gas, or asphaltic minerals, or which are valuable for such deposits, whenever such lands are sought with a view of obtaining or passing title with a reservation to the United States of the deposits on account of which the lands were withdrawn, classified, or reported as valuable, together with the right to prospect for, mine, and remove the same. Any form of appropriation under the proper applicable nonmineral land laws is authorized, with a reservation of the minerals as specified, to the same extent as if no withdrawal or classification had been made. The only exception is that no desert land entry made under the act shall contain more than 160 acres.

The term " person " used in this act will be interpreted as covering a State (see ex parte, Utah, 38 L. D. 245), or other corporation, or an association when duly qualified.

Under the proviso in section 2 of the act applications for land, either withdrawn or classified, may be presented with a view of proving that the lands applied for, if withdrawn, are not of the character intended to be included in the withdrawal, or, if classified, of disproving the classification and securing patent free from reservation; also, claimants for lands withdrawn or classified for the specified minerals subsequent to location, selection, entry, or purchase have the privilege of showing at any time before final entry, purchase, or approval of selection or location that the lands sought are in fact nonmineral in character.

(3) This act in many respects resembles that of March 3, 1909 (35 Stat. 844), which provides for the protection of the surface rights of entryman upon lands subsequently classified, claimed, or reported as coal lands, and also, that of June 22, 1910 (36 Stat. 583), authorizing certain forms of agricultural entries and selections on withdrawn or classified coal lands. The general instructions under these acts of September 7, 1909 (38 L. D. 183); September 8, 1910 (39 L. D. 179); May 23, 1912 (41 L. D. 30)[b]; and June 14, 1912 (41 L. D. 89), may be followed, so far as applicable, in matters of practice and procedure not specifically covered by these regulations.

(4) Section 3 of the act is both retrospective and prospective, and under it any person who prior to the act, had applied, or who after the passage of the act, shall apply for lands which are subsequently withdrawn, classified or reported as being valuable for the specified minerals, and which are otherwise available, may upon application therefor, and the making of satisfactory proof, receive a patent with a reservation. In this particular the statute is quite similar to that of March 3, 1909, above referred to, and the disposition of such cases will follow the practice under that act in so far as the same is applicable.

APPLICATIONS

(5) All applications to locate, select, enter, or purchase lands under this act, before being accepted and filed by you, must have written, stamped, or printed upon their face the following:

> Application made in accordance with, and subject to the provisions and reservations of the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509).

Like notations will be made by registers upon the face of the notices of allowance issued on applications filed under this act.

Orders of withdrawal under the reclamation act of lands withdrawn, classified, or reported as valuable for the specified minerals with a view to passing title to the same in accordance with the terms of this act, will state that such withdrawal is made in accordance with and subject to the provisions and reservations of the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509).

FINAL CERTIFICATES AND PATENTS

(6) Final certificates issued to nonmineral claimants under this act will contain the following provision, which you will cause to be written or stamped thereon:

> Patent to contain provisions, reservations, conditions, and limitations of the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509).

There will be incorporated in patents issued to nonmineral claimants under this act the following:

> Excepting and reserving, however, to the United States all the [deposit on account of which the lands are withdrawn, classified, or reported as valuable—phosphate, oil, or other mineral, as the case may be] in the lands so patented, and to it, or persons authorized by it, the right to prospect for, mine, and remove such deposits from the same upon compliance with the conditions and subject to the provisions and limitations of the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509).

NOTATION OF RECORDS

(7) Upon the acceptance by you of any filing under this act, you will make appropriate notation of your records to show that the

[b] The instructions of May 23, 1912 (41 L. D. 30), relate to isolated tracts of coal lands. For later instructions, see Circular No. 684, p. 747.

filing was made under the provisions thereof; and upon the ascertainment (which will be noted of record) that the nonmineral locator, selector, entryman, or purchaser whose filing falls within the provisions of section 3 of the act, shall receive the limited patent prescribed therein, you will cause to be written or stamped on your tract books, in line with the notation of the entry and as near the description as practicable that the mineral deposits (phosphate, oil, etc., as the case may be) are reserved to the United States, act of July 17, 1914. You will make a similar notation on the margin of the township plat, giving description of the land in which the deposits have been reserved.

RESERVED MINERAL DEPOSITS

(8) The act provides that the deposits reserved in agricultural patents issued thereunder shall be "subject to disposal by the United States only as shall be hereafter expressly directed by law." Although provisions are made in the act for the protection of the surface owner against damage to his crops and improvements on the land by reason of prospecting for, mining, and removing such reserved mineral deposits, these provisions can have no operation or effect until further legislation by Congress shall authorize disposition of the reserved mineral deposits and define the qualifications of those who may acquire such deposits. In the meantime there is no right to prospect, and no right to acquire such deposits can be in any way initiated.

CLAIMANTS OF LANDS SUBSEQUENTLY WITHDRAWN

(9)[7] The enactment of the law itself and the publicity given to orders of withdrawal and classifications and the notation of the same upon the records of the local offices, will be sufficient notice to such nonmineral claimants as are or may be affected by withdrawals or classifications made, or which shall be made, subsequent to their locations, selections, entries, or purchases, that they must take the limited patent prescribed by the act, upon submission of satisfactory proof of compliance with the laws under which they claim, unless the withdrawal be revoked or the classification set aside prior to the issuance of patent, or unless they show that the lands embraced in their claims are in fact nonmineral.

APPLICATIONS TO DISPROVE CLASSIFICATIONS

(10) (a) The proviso to section 2 of the act allows any qualified person to present an application to locate, select, enter, or purchase, under the land laws of the United States, lands which are withdrawn or classified as phosphate, nitrate, potash, oil, gas, or asphaltic minerals, with a view to obtaining a patent thereunder without reservation. An applicant under this proviso must submit with his application a request for a classification of the land as nonmineral, filing therewith a showing, preferably the sworn statements of experts or practical miners, of the facts upon which is founded the knowledge or belief that the land applied for is not valuable for the mineral on account of which it was withdrawn or classified.

Applications to locate, select, enter, or purchase lands so withdrawn or classified, which are not filed under the provisions of section 1 of the act, and are not accompanied by request for classification as nonmineral of the land applied for, and the evidence required herein to be filed with such request, will be rejected by you, and the applicant allowed 30 days from notice within which to amend his application to take a limited patent for the land in accordance with and subject to the provisions of the act, or to file request for classification thereof as nonmineral, accompanied by the necessary evidence.

Such applications will be given proper serial numbers, noted upon your records, and forwarded, together with the request for classification and the evidence submitted therewith, to the General Land Office for action.

If upon the showing made, and such other inquiry as may be deemed proper, a restoration of the land, where withdrawn, be secured, or a reclassification as nonmineral be made, where the land has been classified, the nonmineral application, in the absence of other objection, will be returned for allowance.

If the application be denied, you will be so notified, and the applicant may, within 30 days from notice of such denial, apply to your office for a hearing to disprove the classification. When a hearing is applied for, you will notify the chief of field division and proceed therewith under the Rules of Practice. If the applicant fail to apply for a hearing within the time allowed, the application to locate, select, enter or purchase will be finally rejected.

The rejection of the application, however, will not preclude the applicant from filing application to locate, select, enter or purchase the land in accordance with and subject to the provisions and reservations of said act.

(b) Under this proviso, persons who have located, entered, selected, or purchased lands subsequently withdrawn or classified as valuable for said mineral deposits, are allowed the privilege of showing, at any time before final entry, purchase, or approval of selection or location, that the lands are in fact nonmineral in character.

Claimants to whom this provision is applicable may, therefore, file in the proper local land office application for a classification of the land as nonmineral, together with the evidence prescribed herein to be filed by an original applicant with his request for classification whereupon the same will be forwarded to the General Land Office for action. If as a result thereof the land be restored to entry, if withdrawn, or classified as nonmineral, if classified, you will be so informed, in order that you may note your records and advise the claimant. If the application be denied, you will be advised thereof, and the claimant allowed 30 days from notice of such denial within which to make application to your office for a hearing to establish the nonmineral character of the land. When a hearing is applied for you will notify the chief of field division and proceed therewith under the Rules of Practice.

BURDEN OF PROOF

11. Where application is made to enter, locate, or select lands withdrawn or classified as valuable for or on account of any of the minerals specified in this act and in these regulations, the burden of proof to show that said lands are not of the character of those intended to be withdrawn or that the classification as such was and is erroneous and improper in point of fact will rest upon and be borne by the applicant in the event that he shall undertake to establish, at a hearing ordered and held for that purpose, the truth of the allegations made by him in that behalf.

A withdrawal or classification will be deemed prima facie evidence of the character of the land covered thereby for the purposes of this act. Where any nonmineral application to select, locate, enter, or purchase has preceded the withdrawal or classification and is incomplete and unperfected at such date, the claimant, not then having obtained a vested right in the land, must take patent with a reservation or sustain the burden of showing at a hearing, if one be ordered, that the land is in fact nonmineral in character and therefore erroneously classified or not of the character intended to be included in the withdrawal. Where the agricultural claimant has completed and perfected his claim and becomes possessed of a vested right in the land, which subsequent thereto is withdrawn or classified, the burden will rest upon the Government to show that the land is in fact mineral in character and was so known at the date of final completion and perfection of the claim. See Charles W. Pelham (39 L. D. 201).

First Assistant Secretary.

AMENDMENT OF REGULATIONS UNDER ACT OF JULY 17, 1914 (38 STAT. 509)

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, June 27, 1916.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices
(exclusive of Alaska).

Sirs: Under date of April 28, 1916, the department amended paragraph 9 of the regulations under the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), providing for agricultural entries of lands withdrawn, classified, or reported as containing phosphate, nitrate, potash, oil, gas, or asphaltic minerals (Circular No. 393, 44 L. D. 32), so as to read as follows:

> (9) Nonmineral claimants who are or may be affected by withdrawals or classifications made, or which shall be made, subsequent to their locations, selections, entries, or purchases, upon submission of satisfactory proof of compliance with the laws under which they claim, unless the withdrawal be revoked or the classification set aside prior to the issuance of patent, or unless they show that the lands embraced in their claims are in fact nonmineral, shall be entitled to the patent authorized to be issued by section 3 of the act upon the filing of an application therefor. Such claimant will be notified of his right to such a patent, and upon failure to file within 30 days his application therefor or to apply for a classification of the land as nonmineral, the entry will be canceled.

The effect of the amendment is to provide that patent with mineral reservation will issue only upon application, or with the express consent, of the claimant, and upon his failure to respond in proceedings under these regulations involving final proof or final entry, the location, entry, selection, or purchase will be canceled.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

EFFECT OF LEASING LAW IN CERTAIN STATES RESPECTING SHOWING TO BE MADE BY NONMINERAL CLAIMANTS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C., April 8, 1922.[8]

The COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE:

The proposed instructions, requiring a nonmineral showing with respect to potash, coal, phosphate, oil shale, gas, and sodium, in connection with the disposition of public lands in Alabama, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Oklahoma, and Wisconsin, submitted by your office for departmental approval, have had careful consideration.

While the department entertains no doubt that Congress intended to make and did make, by the acts of October 2, 1917 (40 Stat. 297), and February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), all of the minerals named, owned by the United States, subject to disposition as provided in said acts, it is not believed that the situation is such as to call for any change in the existing forms or practice, as to the States referred to. If, in any case arising in those States, there is a claim, classification or report that the lands are valuable for the minerals in question, the nonmineral claimant should be required to make such showing or waiver as the facts may warrant.

The instructions are returned herewith, without approval.

E. C. FINNEY,
First Assistant Secretary.

RECITALS IN SURFACE PATENTS ISSUED SUBJECT TO THE CONDITIONS OF SECTION 29 OF THE ACT OF FEBRUARY 25, 1920 [c]

INSTRUCTIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, July 2, 1925.

FINNEY, First Assistant Secretary:

I have before me your [Commissioner of the General Land Office] letter of June 23, 1925, requesting instructions as to whether patents issued with mineral reservations pursuant to the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), should, in appropriate cases, contain a statement that the entry was patented subject to the prior rights of oil and gas permittees or lessees, pursuant to section 29 of the general leasing act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437).

[8] See instructions of May 14, 1929, p. 1421.

[c] On Dec. 3, 1929, the department approved a recommendation of the Commissioner of the General Land Office that the reference to section 29 of the leasing act "should be omitted from all final certificates and patents based thereon where it is shown that the oil and gas claim has been finally eliminated."

Section 29 of the leasing act authorizes, in the discretion of the Secretary, the disposal under nonmineral-land laws of such of the surface of lands leased under the provisions of the act of February 25, 1920, as is not necessary to the operations of the lessees.

The term " lease " used in section 29 of the act has been construed as including prospecting permits issued under the act (Instructions of October 6, 1920, 47 L. D. 474), and the surface entries allowable under this section are nonmineral entries pursuant to the acts of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), and December 29, 1916 (39 Stat. 862). Instructions of September 23, 1924 (50 L. D. 640). As these nonmineral entries are wholly subordinate to the prior rights of permittees or lessees, the entrymen are without those rights to compensation for damages to crops or improvements which occur through proper mining operations by permittees or lessees which they would have had under the nonmineral-land laws. Under the practice in force an expressed waiver of compensation for such damages is required. This waiver, however, is a mere administrative means of informing the entrymen of their rights (Pace v. Carstarphen et al., 50 L. D. 369). As to entries made under the act of July 17, 1914, no right to compensation was required (Pace v. Carstarphen et al., supra), and in the case of entries under the act of December 29, 1916, supra, the compensation provision of section 9 of that act was modified by section 29 of the general leasing act. Carlin v. Cassriel, (50 L. D. 383).

There can be no allowance of nonmineral entries of lands already included in prospecting permits or leases under the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), except in the exercise of the discretion vested in the Secretary by section 29 of that act, and it is therefore apparent that a statement that such allowance has been made must appear in the record and in the final certificate.

As section 29 of the act is one of the essential provisions under which nonmineral entries in these special cases are made, reference to that section as part of the source of the entry should appear in the patent. This is true even though the prospecting permit or lease which antedated the nonmineral filing has been canceled before patent issues. This requirement is made to show the true source of authority for the entry, but the reference to section 29 of the act should also state that the entry is subject to the rights of the prior permittees or lessees to use so much of the surface of the area patented as is required for mining operations, without compensation to the entrymen or patentee for damages to crops and improvements resulting from proper mining operations. If this is done, the entrymen and their assigns will be at all times chargeable with notice of their rights, through expressed limitations founded upon the law and set forth in their grants.

CIRCULAR No. 1021 [9]

INSTRUCTIONS AS TO ACTION ON NONMINERAL APPLICATIONS FILED SUBSEQUENT TO APPLICATIONS FOR PROSPECTING PERMITS OR LEASES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, July 21, 1925.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: In all cases of applications to make nonmineral entries or selections of lands outside of areas which have been designated by the department as within the geologic structures of producing oil or gas fields and which lands are also embraced in applications for oil and gas prospecting permits or in permits granted, or in applications for coal, phosphate, sodium, oil shale, or potash permits or leases, or in permits or leases granted, such nonmineral applications should be received, noted upon your records, and the applicant for prospecting permit, or the permittee or lessee, as the case may be, advised that he will be allowed 30 days in which to show why the nonmineral application should not be allowed subject to the reservation to the United States of the minerals sought to be acquired by the mineral claimant, and with a waiver of claim to compensation in accordance with section 29 of the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), except in the case of applications for potash permits or leases or permits or leases granted, in which case the waiver should be in accordance with section 6 of the act of October 2, 1917 (40 Stat. 297), which showing must bear evidence of service of notice on the nonmineral applicant.

At the same time you will allow the nonmineral applicant 30 days to file the reservation and waiver mentioned, if he has not already done so, witnessed by two persons or acknowledged before an officer authorized to take acknowledgments, or to appeal, and advise him that if he fails to do either, his application will be finally rejected and the case closed.

The waiver of claim for compensation should be in the following form:

> Subject to the right of any permittee or lessee under any permit or lease which has been or may hereafter be granted to prospect for the minerals sought on the land in conflict where the right of such permittee or lessee was initiated prior to the nonmineral filing, and to use so much of the surface thereof as may be necessary in prospecting for, mining and removing the mineral deposits without compensation to the nonmineral claimant therefor, in accordance with section 29 of the act of February 25, 1920, or section 6 of the act of October 2, 1917 (40 Stat. 297), if applicable.

If the nonmineral application was not made under the stock raising homestead law, the reservation for coal should be under the act of June 22, 1910 (36 Stat. 583), and for the other minerals, under the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509).

Immediately upon the expiration of the time allowed, you will forward all papers to this office with the evidence of service on each of the persons involved with your report. You will not allow any such nonmineral application until instructed by this office.[10]

[9] Modified by Circulars Nos. 1031, p. 1418, and 1136, p. 1418.

You will submit to this office for instructions without taking action as above directed:

(A)[11] Homestead applications in which priority is claimed by reason of prior settlement over mineral claimants having prior applications for the same land, and—

(B)[11] Homestead applications, except stock-raising applications, which conflict in part only with prior applications for oil and gas prospecting permits or permits granted.

In cases coming under paragraph (B), an appropriate mineral waiver and consent covering all the lands applied for will be required by this office if it be ascertained by report from the Geological Survey or otherwise that at the date of the application all the lands applied for were known to be prospectively valuable for oil and gas.

An applicant under the reclamation act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388), for lands applied for under the leasing act after withdrawal for reclamation purposes, will be required to consent to a reservation to the United States of the proper mineral deposits as above indicated, but will not be required to consent under section 29 of the leasing act, as he will be regarded as having succeeded to the prior rights of the United States in connection with the project. For this reason also it will not be necessary for you to send notice of the conflict to the mineral claimant. An application under the reclamation act in conflict as above indicated may be allowed without reference to this office, provided the applicant has consented to a reservation of the mineral deposits as required, and, provided also, reference to this office is not necessary under paragraph (B) above.

Where an area under lease is wholly or in part best adapted to mining by stripping methods, resulting in the surface being of purely temporary value, and it is satisfactorily shown that the granting of any additional surface rights over and above those of the lessee would be a serious embarrassment to the lessee, an application to make surface entry will be rejected by this office subject to appeal.[12]

You will reject, subject to appeal, all nonmineral applications for lands covered by oil and gas leases pursuant to the departmental decision of October 6, 1922 (49 L. D. 312), in the case of Oscar R. Lingo.

These instructions supersede instructions of October 6, 1920 (47 L. D. 474), in so far as they are in conflict herewith.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

First Assistant Secretary.

CIRCULAR 1031

INSTRUCTIONS—CIRCULAR 1021 MODIFIED

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, September 17, 1925.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: Circular No. 1021, approved July 21, 1925, containing instructions as to action on nonmineral applications filed subsequent to applications for prospecting permits or leases, is hereby modified by the insertion therein—immediately preceding the penultimate paragraph thereof—of the following additional provision:

> Where a mineral lessee or permittee shows cause or protests against the allowance of a nonmineral entry or selection with proper mineral reservation and upon which waiver of compensation has been filed, the showing or protest shall be forwarded by the General Land Office with the application to make nonmineral entry or selection, to the Geological Survey for report and recommendation as to whether or not the granting of any additional surface rights over and above those of the lessee or permittee, as the case may be, would seriously or substantially embarrass or hinder such lessee or permittee in his operations.

If the Geological Survey shall conclude and report that the granting of additional surface rights to a nonmineral entryman or selector will so embarrass and hinder the mineral lessee or permittee in conducting operations under his lease or permit, as the case may be, then the General Land Office will reject the nonmineral filing, but if the report and conclusion of the Geological Survey shall be to the contrary then the entry or selection may be allowed

MODIFICATION AS TO DESERT-LAND APPLICATIONS OF CIRCULAR NO. 1021 (51 L. D. 167), RELATING TO PROCEDURE UPON NONMINERAL APPLICATIONS FILED SUBSEQUENT TO APPLICATIONS FOR PROSPECTING PERMITS AND LEASES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,

Registers, United States Land Offices:

Paragraph 5 of instructions of July 21, 1925 (Circular No. 1021, 51 L. D. 167), which reads as follows:

> Immediately upon the expiration of the time allowed you will forward all papers to this office with evidence of service on each of the persons involved with your report. You will not allow any such nonmineral application until instructed by this office—is hereby modified as to the desert-land applications in conflict with applications for prospecting permits or permits granted. In the case of such applications you will proceed in accordance with the instructions preceding paragraph 5 of said Circular No. 1021, and if all requirements shall have been satisfactorily complied with, you will refer the applications to the division inspector as directed by section 13 of the desert-land regulations (Circular No. 474, 50 L. CONFLICTS BETWEEN NONMINERAL AND OIL AND GAS CASES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, April 6, 1929.

Chiefs of Divisions:

You will be governed in the matter of conflicts between nonmineral cases and oil and gas cases by the following procedure:

1. All canceled oil and gas cases should be returned to D files.

2. Conflicts between nonmineral applications and applications for coal prospecting permits, or coal permits or leases, should be disposed of in the usual way.

3. Regarding conflicts with oil and gas cases, the practice is partly changed to meet the new policy of oil conservation.

4. In the case of conflict between nonmineral claims and oil and gas applications or permits, where under the former practice, further notice of any kind to the mineral claimant would be necessary and (1) permit has not been granted, (2) permit granted and over 6 months old without an extension of time, and (3) permittee granted an extension but same expired or practically so, the oil and gas case should be referred to division N for action with memorandum as provided by paragraph 7 hereof, with request that the division be advised of final action taken through division N.

5. Nonmineral applications in conflict with oil and gas cases, where the nonmineral applicant has given necessary mineral reservation and section 29 waiver, and the oil and gas party has been afforded an opportunity to object to the allowance of the nonmineral application and has not done so, the practice of returning the nonmineral applications to the register for allowance in the absence of other objections, is to be continued.

[d] Circular No. 474, 50 L. D. 443, has been superseded by Circular No. 474 of Dec. 18, 1928. See section 13 of the latter circular, p. 422.

6. If the nonmineral application is received on the applicant's appeal from the register's requirement of additional evidence because of the oil and gas conflict, the register should be affirmed, if all else is regular, subject to further right of appeal, if the oil and gas case still subsists, notwithstanding the oil and gas case may be subject to adverse action.

7. If the oil and gas party protests against the allowance of the nonmineral application with mineral reservation and section 29 waiver, the same should be disposed of in the usual way in accordance with Circular No. 1031, or where additional evidence of some sort is necessary of the oil and gas man, the usual practice should also be followed, unless the conflicting oil and gas case has the status calling for adverse action thereon, in which event the oil and gas case should be referred to division N with memorandum requesting that action be taken thereon, and division in interest be advised when final disposition is made in order that appropriate action may be taken on the conflicting case held in that division.

8. Where a nonmineral case, including public sale cases, is pending for action and division O reports the land involved to have been at one time embraced in an oil and gas case which has failed, the office is put on inquiry as to the oil and gas character of the land and the practice already in vogue in the divisions should be continued of drawing the canceled oil and gas case to see if the failure of the oil and gas case was due to a report from the Geological Survey to the effect that the land had no prospective value for oil and gas. If due to other reasons, then a call should be made on the Geological Survey, after stating all relevant facts, for a report as to whether or not the land has, at least, a prospective value for oil and gas. If the Geological Survey has reported or does report that the land is so valuable, such report is a sufficient basis for calling on the nonmineral applicant for a mineral reservation under the act of July 17, 1914.

9. When Division N reports the oil and gas case sent to that division as having been finally closed out, the section 29 waiver from the nonmineral claimant is no longer necessary, and if furnished should not be accepted, but whether the mineral reservation should be required of the nonmineral applicant if not furnished, will depend upon the Geological Survey's report as to the prospective value of the land. If already furnished, should be retained.[e]

10. All public sale cases where the status sheet shows land to be covered by a pending oil and gas case should be rejected, subject to appeal, in accordance with the regulations, unless coming within the provisions of paragraph 4 hereof.

REPORTS AS TO OIL AND GAS CHARACTER OF LANDS—WHEN REQUIRED

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
Washington, July 15, 1929.

The COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

DEAR MR. COMMISSIONER: Under date of June 11 last the department instructed you that it would be unnecessary to request the director of the Geological Survey to make a report pursuant to Order No. 349 relative to lands within the former Fort Peck Indian Reservation.

You having informally requested further instructions, you are advised that the same rule applies to lands in other reservations where, prior to the opening of the lands to entry, there was a nonmineral classification pursuant to which the lands were entered. If a reservation was opened to entry without such classification having been first made, and the land is within a county named in Order No. 349, a request for a report should be made.

In no case will it be necessary to request a report where the land is entered under the stock-raising homestead act or where the entry is made subject to the provisions and reservations of the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), as to oil and gas.

Very truly yours,

JOHN H. EDWARDS,
Assistant Secretary.

SURVEYS AND SURVEYORS[1]

PENALTIES FOR DESTROYING CORNER MONUMENTS[f]

To aid in the protection of all evidences of public-land surveys, a clause was enacted in chapter 398, 29 United States Statutes, page 343, prohibiting the destruction or removal of monuments of any United States survey, and fixing penalties for violation.

This clause was amended by section 57 of the act approved March 4, 1909, revising and amending the penal laws of the United States, to read as follows:

> SEC. 57. Whoever shall willfully destroy, deface, change, or remove to another place any section corner, quarter-section corner, or meander post, on any Government line of survey, or shall willfully deface, change, or remove any monument or bench mark of any Government survey, shall be fined not more than two hundred and fifty dollars, or imprisoned not more than six months, or both.

RESTORATION OF LOST OR OBLITERATED CORNERS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., June 1, 1909.

1. The increasing number of letters from county and local surveyors received at this office making inquiry as to the proper method of restoring to their original position lost or obliterated corners marking the survey of the public lands of the United States, or such as have been willfully or accidentally moved from their original position, have rendered the preparation of the following general rules necessary, particularly as in a very large number of cases the immediate facts necessary to a thorough and intelligent understanding are omitted. Moreover, surveys having been made under the authority of different acts of Congress, different results have been obtained, and no special law has been enacted by that authority covering and regulating the subject of the above-named inquiries. Hence, the general rule here given must be considered merely as an expression of the opinion of this office on the subject, based, however, upon the spirit of the several acts of Congress authorizing the surveys, as construed by this office, and by United States court decisions. When cases arise which are not covered by these rules, and the advice of

[1] In addition to the circulars and instructions relative to surveys, printed in this volume, the following, on the same subject, are issued as separate publications: Standard Field Tables; The Improved Solar Attachment; Manual of Instructions for the Survey of the Public Lands of the United States and Ephemeris of the Sun and Polaris and Tables of Azimuths and Altitudes of Polaris.

[f] The information under this heading is reproduced from statement carried in Circular of June 1, 1909.

this office is desired, the letter of inquiry should always contain a description of the particular corner, with reference to the township, range, and section of the public surveys, to enable this office to consult the record.

2. An obliterated corner is one where no visible evidence remains of the work of the original surveyor in establishing it. Its location may, however, have been preserved beyond all question by acts of landowners, and by the memory of those who knew and recollect the true situs of the original monument. In such cases it is not a lost corner.

A lost corner is one whose position can not be determined, beyond reasonable doubt, either from original marks or reliable external evidence.

Surveyors sometimes err in their decision whether a corner is to be treated as lost or only obliterated.

3. Surveyors who have been United States deputies should bear in mind that in their private capacity they must act under somewhat different rules of law from those governing original surveys, and should carefully distinguish between the provisions of the statute which guide a Government deputy and those which apply to retracement of lines once surveyed. The failure to observe this distinction has been prolific of erroneous work and injustice to landowners.

4. To restore extinct boundaries of the public lands correctly, the surveyor must have some knowledge of the manner in which townships were subdivided by the several methods authorized by Congress. Without this knowledge he may be greatly embarrassed in the field, and is liable to make mistakes invalidating his work, and leading eventually to serious litigation.

5. Various regions of this country were surveyed under different sets of instructions issued at periods ranging from 1785 to the present time. The earliest rules were given to deputy surveyors in manuscript or in printed circulars, and no copies are available for distribution.

Regulations more in detail, improving the system for greater accuracy and permanency, were issued in book form, editions of 1855, 1871, 1890, 1894, and 1902. The supply of copies of these is exhausted, except the latest, which is now sold at cost to unofficial applicants by the Superintendent of Documents.

6. The chief acts of Congress authorizing and regulating public-land surveys are summarized below to enable anyone to consult the full record thereof for explanation of difficult questions regarding early surveys.

7. Compliance with the provisions of congressional legislation at different periods has resulted in two sets of corners being established on township lines at one time; at other times three sets of corners have been established on range lines; while the system now in operation makes but one set of corners on township boundaries, except on standard lines—i. e., base and correction lines, and in some exceptional cases.

The following brief explanation of the modes which have been practiced will be of service to all who may be called upon to restore obliterated boundaries of the public-land surveys:

Where two sets of corners were established on township boundaries, one set was planted at the time the exteriors were run, those on the north boundary belonging to the sections and quarter sections north of said line, and those on the west boundary belonging to the sections and quarter sections west of that line. The other set of corners was established when the township was subdivided. This method, as stated, resulted in the establishment of two sets of corners on all four sides of the townships.

Where three sets of corners were established on the range lines, the subdivisional surveys were made in the above manner, except that the east and west section lines, instead of being closed upon the corners previously established on the east boundary of the township, were run due east from the last interior section corner, and new corners were erected at the points of intersection with the range line.

8. The method now in practice, where regular conditions are found, requires section lines to be initiated at the corners on the south boundary of the township, and to close on existing corners on the east, north, and west boundaries of the township, except that when the north boundary is a base line or standard parallel, new corners are set thereon, called closing corners. But in some cases, for special reasons, an opposite course of procedure has been followed, and subdivisional work has been begun on the north boundary and has been extended southward.

9. For the above reasons it is evident that a subsequent surveyor ought not to perform field work without knowing all the facts of the original survey, lest there be unsuspected duplication of official corners, leading him to use the wrong one in his survey. Upon township and range lines it is often necessary to procure copies of the plats of surveys on both sides, in order to become certain of the necessary understanding of the case, as required in section 57 of this circular. A great many township plats fail to show the second set of corners, established in the survey of an adjoining township, subsequent to the plat of the former township.

10. In the more recent general instructions greater care has been exercised to secure rectangular subdivisions by fixing a strict limitation that no new township exteriors or section lines shall depart from a true meridian or east and west line more than 21 minutes of arc; and that where a random line is found liable to correction beyond this limit, a true line on a cardinal course must be run, setting a closing corner on the line to which it closes.

This produces, in new surveys closing to irregular old work, a great number of exteriors marked by a double set of corners. All retracing surveyors should proceed under these new conditions with full knowledge of the field notes and exceptional methods of subdivision.

SYNOPSIS OF ACTS OF CONGRESS

11. The first enactment in regard to the surveying of the public lands was an ordinance passed by the Congress of the Confederation May 20, 1785, prescribing the mode for the survey of the "Western Territory," and which provided that said territory should be divided into "townships of 6 miles square, by lines running due north and south, and others crossing them at right angles" as near as might be.

It further provided that the first line running north and south should begin on the Ohio River at a point due north from the western terminus of a line run as the south boundary of the State of Pennsylvania, and the first line running east and west should begin at the same point and extend through the whole territory. In these initial surveys only the exterior lines of the townships were surveyed, but the plats were marked by subdivisions into sections 1 mile square, numbered from 1 to 36, commencing with No. 1 in the southeast corner of the township, and running from south to north in each tier to No. 36 in the northwest corner of the township; mile corners were established on the township lines. The region embraced by the surveys under this law forms a part of the present State of Ohio, and is generally known as "the Seven Ranges."

12. The Federal Congress passed a law, approved May 18, 1796, in regard to surveying the public domain, which applied to "the territory northwest of the River Ohio, and above the mouth of the Kentucky River."

Section 2 of said act provided for dividing such lands as had not been already surveyed or disposed of "by north and south lines run according to the true meridian, and by others crossing them at right angles, so as to form townships of 6 miles square," etc. It also provided that "one-half of said townships, taking them alternately, should be subdivided into sections containing, as nearly as may be, 640 acres each, by running through the same each way parallel lines at the end of every two miles; and by marking a corner on each of said lines at the end of every mile." The act also provided that "the sections shall be numbered, respectively, beginning with the No. 1 in the northeast section, and proceeding west and east alternately through the township, with progressive numbers till the thirty-sixth be completed." This method of numbering sections is still in use.

13. An act amendatory of the foregoing, approved May 10, 1800, required the "townships west of the Muskingum, which are directed to be sold in quarter townships, to be subdivided into half sections of 320 acres each, as nearly as may be, by running parallel lines through the same from east to west, and from south to north, at the distance of one mile from each other, and marking corners, at the distance of each half mile on the lines running from east to west, and at the distance of each mile on those running from south to north. And the interior lines of townships intersected by the Muskingum, and of all townships lying east of that river, which have not been heretofore actually subdivided into sections, shall also be run and marked * * *. And in all cases where the exterior lines of the townships thus to be subdivided into sections or half sections, shall exceed or shall not extend 6 miles, the excess or deficiency shall be specially noted, and added to or deducted from the western or northern ranges of sections or half sections in such townships, according as the error may be in running the lines from east to west or from south to north." Said act also provided that the northern and western tiers of sections should be sold as containing only the quantity expressed on the plats, and all others as containing the complete legal quantity.

14. The act approved June 1, 1796, "regulating the grants of land appropriated for military services," etc., provided for dividing the "United States Military Tract," in the State of Ohio, into townships 5 miles square, each to be subdivided into quarter townships containing 4,000 acres.

15. Section 6 of the act approved March 1, 1800, amendatory of the foregoing act, enacted that the Secretary of the Treasury was authorized to subdivide the quarter townships into lots of 100 acres, bounded as nearly as practicable by parallel lines 160 perches in length by 100 perches in width. These subdivisions into lots, however, were made upon the plats in the office of the Secretary of the Treasury, and the actual survey was only made at a subsequent time when a sufficient number of such lots had been located to warrant the survey. It thus happened, in some instances, that when the survey came to be made the plat and survey could not be made to agree, and that fractional lots on plats were entirely crowded out. A knowledge of this fact may explain some of the difficulties met with in the district thus subdivided.

16. The act of greatest importance to the work of all retracing surveyors is the one approved February 11, 1805, which is still in force, as reenacted by revision in 1874. It directs the subdivision of public lands into quarter-sections, and sets forth three principles for ascertaining the boundaries and contents of tracts of public land, after survey, in substance as follows:

17. (a) All corners marked in the surveys returned by the surveyor-general shall be established as the proper corners of the sections or quarter-sections which they were intended to designate, and corners of half and quarter sections not marked shall be placed as nearly as possible "equidistant from those two corners which stand on the same line."

18. (b) "The boundary lines actually run and marked" (in the field) "shall be established as the proper boundary lines of the sections, or subdivisions, for which they were intended, and the length of such lines as returned by either of the surveyors aforesaid shall be held and considered as the true length thereof. And the boundary lines which shall not have been actually run and marked as aforesaid shall be ascertained by running straight lines from the established corners to the opposite corresponding corners, but in those portions of the fractional townships where no such opposite or corresponding corners have been or can be fixed, the said boundary lines shall be ascertained by running from the established corners due north and south" (see secs. 67 and 79), "or east and west lines, as the case may be, to the water course, Indian boundary line, or other external boundary of such fractional township."

19. (c) "Each section, or subdivision of section, the contents whereof shall have been returned by the surveyor general, shall be held and considered as containing the exact quantity expressed in such return; and the half sections and quarter sections, the contents whereof shall not have been thus returned, shall be held and considered as containing the one-half or the one-fourth part, respecttively, of the returned contents of the section of which they may make part."

20. These three principles were clearly designed for the purpose of establishing beyond dispute all lines and monuments of accepted official surveys and of placing a statutory limitation against attempts to alter the same, or to set up complaints of deficiency of area as a basis for resurvey.

PENALTIES FOR REMOVAL OF MONUMENTS

21. Several of the States have passed laws prescribing penalties for the destruction or removal of United States survey corners, and the act of Congress quoted on page 1423 relates to such destruction or removal in all the States and Territories. Any person having knowledge of a violation of the law last mentioned may present legal evidence thereof to the United States attorney for the district in which the land lies, and request the prosecution of the offender. Should any such attorney improperly refuse to take action, the matter may be called to the attention of the Department of Justice, Washington, D. C.

22. The act of Congress approved April 24, 1820, provides for the sale of public lands in half-quarter sections, and requires that "in every case of the division of a quarter section the line for the division thereof shall run north and south," "and fractional sections, containing 160 acres and upwards, shall in like manner, as nearly as practicable, be subdivided into half-quarter sections, under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury; but fractional sections containing less than 160 acres shall not be divided."

23. The act of Congress approved May 24, 1824, provides "that whenever, in the opinion of the President of the United States, a departure from the ordinary mode of surveying land on any river, lake, bayou, or water course would promote the public interest, he may direct the surveyor general in whose district such land is situated, and where the change is intended to be made, under such rules and regulations as the President may prescribe, to cause the lands thus situated to be surveyed in tracts of 2 acres in width, fronting on any river, bayou, lake, or water course, and running back the depth of 40 acres."

24. The act of Congress approved April 5, 1832, directed the subdivision of the public lands into quarter-quarter sections; that in every case of the division of a half-quarter section the dividing line should run east and west, and that fractional sections should be subdivided, under regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury. Under the latter provision the Secretary directed that factional sections containing less than 160 acres, or the residuary portion of a fractional section, after the subdivision into as many quarter-quarter sections as it is susceptible of, may be subdivided into lots, each containing the quantity of a quarter-quarter section as nearly as practicable, by so laying down the line of subdivision that they shall be 20 chains wide, which distances are to be marked on the plat of subdivisions, as are also the areas of the quarter-quarters and residuary fractions.

These two acts last mentioned provided that the corners and contents of half-quarter and quarter-quarter sections should be ascertained as nearly as possible in the manner and on the principles prescribed in the act of Congress approved February 11, 1805.

GENERAL RULES

25. From the foregoing synopsis of congressional legislation it is evident—

First. That the boundaries of the public lands established and returned by the duly appointed Government surveyors, when approved by the surveyors general and accepted by the Government, are unchangeable.

Second. That the original township, section, and quarter-section corners established by the Government surveyors must stand as the true corners which they were intended to represent, whether the corners be in the place shown by the field notes or not.

Third. That quarter-quarter corners not established by the Government surveyors shall be placed on the straight lines joining the section and quarter-section corners and midway between them, except on the last half mile of section lines closing on the north and west boundaries of the township, or on other lines between fractional sections.

Fourth. That all subdivisional lines of a section running between corners established in the original survey of a township must be straight lines, running from the proper corner in one section line to its opposite corresponding corner in the opposite section line. (See secs. 75 to 82.)

Fifth. That in a factional section where no opposite corresponding corner has been or can be established, any required subdivision line of such section must be run from the proper original corner in the boundary line as nearly due east and west, or north and south, as the case may be, to the water course, Indian reservation, or other boundary of such section, as due parallelism to section lines will permit, under the modifying rule in section 79.

26. From the foregoing it will be plain that extinct corners of the Government surveys must be restored to their original locations, whenever it is possible to do so; and hence resort should always be first had to the marks of the survey in the field. The locus of the missing corner should be first identified on the ground by the aid of the mound, pits, line trees, bearing trees, etc., described in the field notes of the original survey.

27. The identification of mounds, pits, buried memorials, witness trees, or other permanent objects noted in the field notes of survey, affords the best means of relocating the missing corner in its original position. If this can not be done, clear and convincing testimony of citizens as to the place originally occupied should be taken, if such can be obtained. In any event, whether the locus of the corner be fixed by the one means or the other, such locus should always be tested and confirmed by measurements to known corners. No definite rule can be laid down as to what shall be sufficient evidence in such cases, and much must be left to the skill, fidelity, and good judgment of the surveyor in the performance of his work.

28. Actions or decisions by county surveyors which may result in changes of boundaries of tracts of land and involve questions of ownership in connection therewith, are subject to review by the local courts in proceedings instituted in accordance with the local statutes governing such matters.

EXCEPTIONAL CASES

29. When new measurements are made on a single line to determine the position thereon for a restored lost corner (for example, a quarter-section corner on line between two original section corners), or when new measurements are made between original corners on two lines for the purpose of fixing by their intersection the position of a restored missing corner (for example, a corner common to four sections or four townships) it will almost invariably happen that discrepancies will be developed between the new measurements and the original measurements in the field notes. When these differences occur the surveyor will in all cases establish the missing corner by proportionate measurements (see secs. 49, 83, 84, and 85) on lines conforming to the original field notes and by the method followed in the original survey. From this rule there can be no departure, since it is the basis upon which the whole operation depends for accuracy and truth.

30. In cases where the relocated corner can not be made to harmonize with the field notes in all directions, and unexplained discrepancy in the original survey is apparent, it sometimes becomes the task of the surveyor to place it according to the requirements of one line and against the calls of another line. For instance, if the line between sections 30 and 31, reported 78 chains long, would draw the missing corner on range line 1 chain eastward out of range with the other exterior corners, the presumption would be strong that the range line had been run straight and the length of the section line wrongly reported, because experience shows that west random lines are regarded as less important than range lines and more liable to error.

31. Again, where a corner on a standard parallel has been obliterated, it is proper to assume that it was placed in line with other corners, and if an anomalous length of line reported between sections 3 and 4 would throw the closing corner into the northern township, a surveyor would properly assume that the older survey of the standard line is to control the length of the later and minor line. The marks or corners found on such a line closing to a standard parallel fix its location, but its length should be limited by its actual intersection, at which point the lost closing corner may be placed.

32. The strict rule of the law that " all corners marked in the field shall be established as the corners which they were intended to designate," and the further rule that " the length of lines returned by the surveyors shall be held and considered as the true length thereof," are found in some cases to be impossible of fulfillment in all directions at once, and a surveyor is obliged to choose, in his own discretion, which of two or more lines must yield, in order to permit the rules to be applied at all.

33. In a case of an erroneous but existing closing corner, which was set some distance out of the true State boundary of Missouri and Kansas, it was held by this office that a surveyor subdividing the fractional section should preserve the boundary as a straight line, and should not regard said closing corner as the proper corner of the adjacent fractional lots. The said corner was considered as fixing the position of the line between two fractional sections, but that its length extended to a new corner to be set on the true boundary line. The surveyor should therefore preserve such an original corner as evidence of the line; but its erroneous position should not be allowed to cause a crook between mile corners of the original State boundary. It is only in cases where it is manifestly impossible to carry out the literal terms of the law that a surveyor can be justified in making such a decision.

34. The principle of the preponderance of one line over another of less importance has been recognized in the rule for restoring a section corner common to two townships, in former editions of this circular. The new corner should be placed on the township line; and measurements to check its position by distances to corners within the townships are useful to confirm it if found to agree well, but should not cause it to be placed off the line if found not to agree, if the general condition of the boundary supports the presumption that it was properly aligned.

MAGNETIC DECLINATION

35. The subject of the "variation," formerly deemed most important in surveys, is mentioned here only to advise against its use as a basis for the location of any lost line, though it may be a temporary guide in a preliminary search for old evidences. Its importance is greatly overrated, from lack of knowledge of the actual practice of surveyors, in the days when both their instruments and their knowledge were more primitive.

36. The General Land Office prohibits its employees and contracting surveyors from depending to any extent on courses derived from the needle. It also declines to advise other surveyors what variation to use in their own regions, for evident reasons, as follows:

The amount of local magnetism can not truly be determined by any process of mere calculation.

The secular change of declination reported at some distant time and place is no safe guide to the fact at any other station or period.

The variation recorded in old work may have been quite incorrect, as large contracts were sometimes executed by assuming a variation, from hearsay or estimation, and without due verification.

The needle is not only subject to daily and yearly change but is also liable to defects in the instrument, so that different compasses may run different courses.

37. Another serious cause of distrust is found in the authorized rules followed in early surveys, down to the year 1864, under which a vast amount of public land was surveyed, with a record showing variations which were openly inconsistent, and which should here be explained.

Before 1864, in running random and true section lines, it was required to make the record of courses on the ancient plan shown by this example: East on a random line between sections 1 and 12. Variation 13° 15′ E. (falling perhaps 42 links north of objective corner). West on true line between sections 1 and 12. Variation 12° 57′ E., etc., thus representing the "corrected" course by a nominal change of variation, whereas, after the instructions of 1864, the record would truly show the change to have been not in the variation but in the course, thus: N. 89° 42′ W. on a true line, etc.

Therefore in a large portion of the early records the words "east" and "west" in such connection were only approximate, while by the present system the true course is intended.

38. Terrestrial magnetism, the cause of "variation," is a fluctuating quantity, subject to unexplained changes. But since all qualified surveyors and engineers of this day are competent to make the requisite astronomical observations to determine true courses, surveying by the needle is not recommended.

MARKS ON MONUMENTS OF SURVEY

39. Inquiries are often made to learn the meaning of the marks on corner stones. It is not practicable here to give an abstract of all the markings used in full compliance with the manual, but the following notes will suffice to explain ordinary cases:

Notches made on the east and south angles of an interior section corner indicate how many miles it is from the east and south lines of a full township; and by using the plan of a township plat the numbers of the sections about the given corner stone will be known. In fractional townships marks show the sections the same as if the boundaries were complete.

40. Observe that there are cases of irregular subdivision, where the stone or post is a corner of two townships or two sections only; also that stones may have been sometimes overthrown or turned around to a new and improper position.

41. On township and range lines grooves cut in the stone or post on opposite sides show distances to exterior corners of the township. Thus, two grooves on the south and four on the north indicate a corner of sections 19, 24, 25, and 30.

42. "W C" upon a monument means a witness corner, placed not at the true corner point (which may be in water or otherwise impracticable), but established elsewhere on safe ground at a distance and course shown by the official field notes and plats.

"M C" shows a meander corner, placed either on an exterior or section line at any certain distance from a section corner, as shown by the plat.

43. "S C" denotes a standard corner—that is, a regular corner on a standard parallel—belonging to two sections on the north side, with a closing corner (marked "C C") somewhere east or west of it, belonging to two sections on the south side of the parallel. The letters C C are also used in many other situations, where a regular line closed upon a boundary of a State, a reservation, or a private land claim.

44. Post corners and bearing trees (B T) have marks that are self-explanatory. Two chops or notches on the two opposite sides of a tree indicate that it stood upon the original line when surveyed. Such are called "line trees," and are thus distinguished from trees merely blazed near the line.

Full instructions as to the construction, marking, and differentiation of the 108 kinds of corner monuments are given in the Manual of Surveying Instructions. These should be consulted, in connection with a correct copy of the original field notes, in case of difficulty.

TO RESTORE LOST OR OBLITERATED CORNERS

45. To restore corners on base lines and standard parallels: Lost or obliterated standard corners will be restored to their original positions on a base line, standard parallel, or correction line by proportionate measurements on the line, conforming as nearly as practicable to the original field notes and joining the nearest identified original standard corners on opposite sides of the missing corner or corners, as the case may be.

46. The term "standard corners" will be understood to designate standard township, section, quarter section, and meander corners; and, in addition, closing corners, in the following cases: Closing corners used in the original survey to determine the position of a standard parallel or established during the survey of the same will, with the standard corners, govern the alinement and measurements made to restore lost or obliterated standard corners; but no other closing corners will control in any manner the restoration of standard corners on a base line or standard parallel.

47. A lost or obliterated closing corner from which a standard parallel has been initiated or to which it has been directed will be reestablished in its original place by proportionate measurement from the corners used in the original survey to determine its position Measurements from corners on the opposite side of the parallel will not control in any manner the relocation of said corner.

48. A missing closing corner originally established during the survey of a standard parallel as a corner from which to project surveys south will be restored to its original position by considering it a standard corner and treating it accordingly.

49. Therefore, paying attention to the preceding explanations, we have for the restoration of one or several corners on a standard parallel, and for general application to all other surveyed lines, the following proportion:

As the original field-note distance between the selected known corners is to the new measure of said distance so is the original field-note length of any part of the line to the required new measure thereof.

The sum of the computed lengths of the several parts of a line must be equal to the new measure of the whole distance.

50. As has been observed, existing original corners can not be disturbed; consequently discrepancies between the new and the original field-note measurements of the line joining the selected original corners will not in any manner affect measurements beyond said corners, but the differences will be distributed proportionately to the several intervals embraced in the line in question.

After having checked each new location by measurement to the nearest known corners, new corners will be established permanently and new bearings and measurements taken to prominent objects, which should be of as permanent a character as possible, and the same recorded for future reference.

51. Restoration of township corners common to four townships: Two cases should be clearly recognized: First, where the position of the original township corner has been made to depend upon measurements on two lines at right angles to each other. Second, where the original corner has been located by measurements on one line only; for example, on a guide meridian.

52. For restoration of a township corner originally subject to the first condition: A line will first be run connecting the nearest identified original corners on the meridianal township lines, north and south of the missing corner, and a temporary corner will be placed at the proper proportionate distance. This will determine the corner in a north and south direction only.

Next, the nearest original corners on the latitudinal township lines will be connected and a point thereon will be determined in a similar manner, independent of the temporary corner on the meridianal line. Then through the first temporary corner run a line east (or west) and through the second temporary corner a line north (or south), as relative situations may suggest. The intersection of the two lines last run will define the position of the restored township corner, which may be permanently established.

53. The restoration of a lost or obliterated township corner established under the second condition, i. e., by measurements, on a single line, will be effected by proportionate measurements on said line, between the nearest identified original corners on opposite sides of the missing township corner, as before described.

54. Reestablishment of corners common to two townships: The two nearest known corners on the township line, the same not being a base or a correction line, will be connected, as shown in sections 45 to 50, by a right line, and the missing corner established by proportionate distance as directed in that case; the location thus found will be checked upon by measurements to nearest known section or quarter-section corners north and south, or east and west, of the township line, as the case may be, to obtain approximate though probably not exact verification of original distances.

55. Reestablishment of closing corners: Measure from the quarter-section, section, or township corner east or west, as the case may be, to the next preceding or succeeding corner in the order of original establishment, and reestablish the missing closing corner by proportionate measurement. The line upon which the closing corner was originally established should always be remeasured, in order to check upon the correctness of the new location. (See secs. 29 to 34 and 64 to 66 for details.)

56. Reestablishment of interior section corners: This class of corners should be reestablished in the same manner as corners common to four townships. In such cases, when a number of corners are missing on all sides of the one sought to be reestablished, the entire distance must, of course, be remeasured between the nearest existing recognized corners both north and south, and east and west, in accordance with the rule laid down, and the new corner reestablished by proportionate measurement. The mere measurement in any one of the required directions will not suffice, since the direction of the several section lines running northward through a township, or running east and west, are only in the most exceptional cases true prolongations of the alinement of the section lines initiated on the south boundary of the township; while the east and west lines running through the township, and theoretically supposed to be at right angles with the former, are seldom in that condition, and the alinements of the closing lines on the east and west boundaries of the township, in connection with the interior section lines, are even less often in accord. Moreover, the alinement of the section line itself from corner to corner, in point of fact, also very frequently diverges from a right line, although presumed to be such from the record contained in the field notes and so designated on the plats, and becomes either a broken or a curved line. This fact will be determined, in a timbered country, by the blazes which may be found upon trees on either side of the line, and although such blazed line will not strictly govern as to the absolute direction assumed by such line, it will assist very materially in determining its approximate direction, and should never be neglected in retracements for the reestablishment of lost corners of any description. Sight or line trees described in the field notes, together with the recorded distances to same, when fully identified, will, it has been held in one or more States, govern the line itself, even when not in a direct or straight line between established corners, which line is then necessarily a broken line by passing through said sight trees. Such trees, when in existence and properly identified beyond a question of doubt, will very materially assist in evidencing the correct relocation of a missing corner. It is greatly to be regretted that the earlier field notes of survey are so very meager in the notation of the topography found on the original line, which might in very many instances materially lessen a surveyor's labors in retracement of lines and reestablishment of the required missing corner. In the absence of such sight trees and other evidence regarding the line, as in an open country, or where such evidence has been destroyed by time, the elements, or the progress of improvement, the line connecting the known corners should be run straight from corner to corner.

57. Reestablishment of quarter-section corners on township boundaries: Only one set of quarter-section corners are actually marked in the field on township lines, and they are established at the time when the township exteriors are run. When double section corners are found, the quarter-section corners are considered generally as standing midway between the corners of their respective sections, and when required to be established or reestablished, as the case may be, they should be generally so placed; but great care should be exercised not to mistake the corners belonging to one township for those of another. After determining the proper section corners marking the line upon which the missing quarter-section corner is to be reestablished and measuring said line, the missing quarter-section corner will be reestablished in accordance with the requirements of the original field notes of survey, by proportionate measurement between the section corners marking the line.

58. Where there are double sets of section corners on township and range lines and the quarter-section corners for sections south of the township or east of the range lines are required to be established in the field, the said quarter-section corners should be so placed as to suit the calculation of areas of the quarter sections adjoining the township boundaries as expressed upon the official township plat, adopting proportionate measurements when the present measurement of the north and west boundaries of the sections differs from the original measurement.

59. Reestablishment of quarter-section corners on closing section lines between fractional sections: This class of corners must be reestablished proportionately, according to the original measurement of 40 chains from the last interior section corner. If the whole measurement does not agree with the original survey, the excess or deficiency must be divided proportionately between the two distances expressed in the field notes of original survey. The section corner started from and the corner closed upon should be connected by a right line, unless the retracement should develop the fact that the section line is either a broken or curved line, as is sometimes the case.

60. Reestablishment of interior quarter-section corners: In some of the older surveys these corners are placed at variable distances, in which case the field notes of the original survey must be consulted, and the quarter-section corner reestablished at proportionate distances between the corresponding section corners, in accordance therewith. The later surveys being more uniform and in stricter accordance with law, the missing quarter-section corner must be reestablished equidistant between the section corners marking the line, according to the field notes of the original survey. The remarks made under section 56, in relation to section lines, apply with full force here also; the caution there given not to neglect sight trees is equally applicable, since the proper reestablishment of the quarter-section corner may in some instances very largely depend upon its observance, and avoid one of the many sources of litigation.

61. Note.—In some of the southern public-land States it was the custom in the early surveys to establish half-mile posts at a distance of 40 chains from the point from which the section line was initiated, at the same time inserting in the field notes at the midway point "¼ sec. cor." without indication in the field notes that any other corner than the half-mile corner was set. And it is presumed that the ¼ sec. cor. was merely " called for " at that place. This practice has long been discontinued owing to the confusion thereby occasioned.

These half-mile posts have no bearing upon the subdivision of the section except where they happen to occupy the midway point on true lines between section corners. In such cases, when a subdivision is required of a section surveyed on this plan, and no original quarter corners are found, the latter should be reestablished at a point on a true line midway between the original section corners.

62. Where double corners were originally established, one of which is standing, to reestablish the other: It being remembered that the corners established when the exterior township lines were run, belong to the sections in the townships north and west of those lines, the surveyor must first determine beyond a doubt to which sections the existing corner belongs. This may be done by testing the course and distances to witness trees or other objects noted in the original field notes of survey, and by remeasuring distances to known corners. Having determined to which township the existing corner belongs, the missing corner may be reestablished in line from the existing corner, at the distance stated in the field notes of the original survey, by proportionate measurement, and tested by retracement to the opposite corresponding corner of the section to which the missing section corner belongs. These double corners being generally not more than a few chains apart, the distance between them can be more accurately laid off, and it is considered preferable to first establish the missing corner as above, and check upon the corresponding interior corner as noted in section 54 above.

63. Where double corners were originally established, and both are missing, to reestablish the one established when the township line was run: The surveyor will connect the nearest known corners on the township line by a right line, being careful to distinguish the section from the closing corners, and reestablish the missing corner at the point indicated by the field notes of the original survey by proportionate measurement. The corner thus restored will be common to two sections either north or west of the township boundary, and the section north or west, as the case may be, should be carefully retraced, thus checking upon the reestablished corner, and testing the accuracy of the result. It can not be too much impressed upon the surveyor that any measurements to objects on line noted in the original survey are means of determining and testing the correctness of the operation.

64. Where double corners were originally established, and both are missing, to reestablish the one established when the township was subdivided: The corner to be reestablished being common to two sections south or east of the township line, the section line closing on the missing section corner should be first retraced to an intersection with the township line in the manner previously indicated, and a temporary corner established at the point of intersection. The township line will of course have been previously carefully retraced in accordance with the requirements of the original field notes of survey, and marked in such a manner as to be readily identified when reaching the same with the retraced section line. The location of the temporary corner planted at the point of intersection will then be carefully tested and verified by remeasurements to objects and known corners on the township line, as noted in the original field notes of survey, and the necessary corrections made in such relocation. Should unusual error be found, in one of the tested lines, the principles in "Exceptional Cases," sections 29 to 34, must be considered. A permanent corner will then be erected at the corrected location on the township line, properly marked and witnessed, and recorded for future requirements.

65. Where triple corners were originally established on range lines, one or two of which have become obliterated, to reestablish either of them: It will be borne in mind that only two corners were established as actual corners of sections, those established on the range line not corresponding with the subdivisional survey east or west of said range line. The surveyor will, therefore, first proceed to identify the existing corner or corners, as the case may be, and then reestablish the missing corner or corners in line north or south, according to the distances stated in the original field notes of survey in the manner indicated for the reestablishment of double corners, testing the accuracy of the result obtained, as hereinbefore directed in other cases. If, however, the distances between the triple corners are not stated in the original field notes of survey, as is frequently the case in the returns of older surveys, the range line should be first carefully retraced, and marked in a manner sufficiently clear to admit of easy identification upon reaching same during the subsequent proceedings. The section lines closing upon the missing corners must then be retraced in accordance with the original field notes of survey, in the manner previously indicated and directed, and the corners reestablished in the manner directed in the case of double corners. The surveyor can not be too careful, in the matter of retracement, in following closely all the recorded indications of the original line, and nothing, however slight, should be neglected to insure the correctness of the retracement of the original line; since there is no other check upon the accuracy of the reestablishment of the missing corners, unless the entire corresponding section lines are remeasured by proportional measurement and the result checked by a recalculation of the areas as originally returned, which, at best, is but a very poor check, because the areas expressed upon the margin of many plats of the older surveys are erroneously stated on the face of the plats, or have been carelessly calculated.

66. Where triple corners were originally established on range lines, all of which are missing, to reestablish same: These corners should be reestablished in accordance with the foregoing directions, commencing with the corner originally established when the range line was run, establishing the same in accordance with previously given directions for restoring section and quarter-section corners; that is to say, by remeasuring between the nearest known corners on said township line, and reestablishing the same by proportionate measurement. The two remaining will then be reestablished in conformity with the general rules for reestablishment of double corners.

67. Reestablishment of meander corners: Before proceeding with the reestablishment of missing meander corners, the surveyor should have carefully rechained at least three of the section lines between known corners of the township within which the lost corner is to be relocated, in order to establish the proportionate measurement to be used. It is also necessary, in retracing such original lines, to ascertain the real course used by the first surveyor. For instance, where he reported meridional lines as running due north, if they are found to have an average course of N. 1° 20′ E., the latter course should be considered in restoring an extinct north line to a meander corner.

68. These requirements of preliminary retracement of section lines must in no case be omitted; since it gives the only data upon which the fractional section line can be remeasured proportionately and probable course found, the corner marking the terminus, or the meander corner, being missing, which it is intended to reestablish. The missing meander corner will be reestablished on the section or township line retraced in its original location, by the proportionate measurement found by the preceding operations, from the nearest known corner on such township or section line, in accordance with the requirements of the original field notes of survey.

69. Meander corners hold the peculiar position of denoting a point on line between landowners, without usually being the legal terminus or corner of the lands owned. Leading judicial decisions have affirmed that meander lines are not strictly boundaries, and do not limit the ownership to the exact areas placed on the tracts, but that said title extends to the water which, by the plat, appears to bound the land.

As such water boundaries are, therefore, subject to change by the encroachment or recession of the stream or lake, the precise location of old meanders is seldom important, unless in States whose laws prescribe that dried lake beds are the property of the State.

70. Where the United States has disposed of the fractional lots adjacent to shores, it claims no marginal lands left by recession or found by reason of erroneous survey. The lines between landowners are therefore regarded as extended beyond the original meander line of the shore, but the preservation or relocation of the meander corner is important as evidence of the position of the section line. The different rules by which division lines should be run between private owners of riparian accretions are a matter of State legislation, and not subject to a general rule of this office.

71. Fractional section lines: County and local surveyors being sometimes called upon to restore fractional section lines, closing upon Indian, military, or other reservations, private grants, etc., such lines should be restored upon the same principles as directed in the foregoing pages, and checked whenever possible upon such corners or monuments as have been placed to mark such boundary lines.

In some instances corners have been moved from their original position, either by accident or design, and county surveyors are called upon to restore such corners to their original positions, but, owing to the absence of any and all means of identification of such location, are unable to make the result of their work acceptable to the owners of the lands affected by such corner. In such cases the advice of this office has invariably been to the effect that the relocation of such corner must be made in accordance with the orders of a court of competent jurisdiction, the United States having no longer any authority to order any changes where the lands affected by such corner have been disposed of.

72. The original evidences of the public-land surveys in the following States have been transferred, under the provisions of sections 2218, 2219, and 2220, United States Revised Statutes, to the State authorities, to whom application should be made for such copies of the original plats and field notes as may be desired, viz:

SUBDIVISIONS OF SECTIONS

73. This office being in receipt of many letters making inquiry in regard to the proper method of subdividing sections of the public lands, the following general rules have been prepared as a reply to such inquiries. The rules for subdivision are based upon the laws governing the survey of the public lands. When cases arise which are not covered by these rules, and the advice of this office in the matter is desired, the letter of inquiry should, in every instance, contain a description of the particular tract or corner, with reference to township, range, and section of the public surveys, to enable the office to consult the record; also a diagram showing conditions found, giving distances in chains and links and not in feet.

74. Preliminary to subdivision it is most essential to know the actual boundaries of the section, as it can not be legally subdivided until the section corners and quarter-section corners have either been found, or restored by the preceding methods, and the resulting courses and distances determined by survey. The practice of entering a section to survey a tract from only one or two corners, and those perhaps unreliable, is unwarranted, and may result in litigation.

The order of procedure is: First reestablish the obliterated boundary corners; next, fix the lines of quarter sections; then form smaller tracts by equitable and proportionate division, according to the following rules:

75. Subdivision of sections into quarter sections.—Under the provisions of the act of Congress approved February 11, 1805, the course to be pursued in the subdivision of sections into quarter sections is to run straight lines from the established quarter-section corners, United States surveys, to the opposite corresponding corners. The point of intersection of the lines thus run will be the corner common to the several quarter sections, or, in other words, the legal center of the section.

76. Upon the lines closing on the north and west boundaries of a township, the quarter-section corners are established by the United States deputy surveyors at 40 chains to the north or west of the last interior section corners, and the excess or deficiency in the measurement is thrown into the half mile next to the township or range line, as the case may be.

77 Where there are double sets of section corners on township and range lines, the quarter corners for the sections south of the township lines and east of the range lines are not established in the field by the United States deputy surveyors, but in subdividing such sections said quarter corners should be so placed as to suit the calculations of the areas of the quarter sections adjoining the township boundaries as expressed upon the official plat, adopting proportionate measurements where the new measurements of the north or west boundaries of the section differ from the original measurements.

78. Subdivision of fractional sections.—Where opposite corresponding corners have not been or can not be fixed, the subdivision lines should be ascertained by running from the established corners due north, south, east, or west lines, as the case may be, to the water course, Indian boundary line, or other boundary of such fractional section.

79. The law presumes the section lines surveyed and marked in the field by the United States deputy surveyors to be due north and south or east and west lines, but in actual experience this is not always the case. Hence, in order to carry out the spirit of the law, it will be necessary in running the subdivisional lines through fractional sections to adopt mean courses, where the section lines are not due lines, or to run the subdivision line parallel to the east, south, west, or north boundary of the section, as conditions may require, where there is no opposite section line.

80. Subdivision of quarter sections into quarter quarters.—Preliminary to the subdivision of quarter sections, the quarter-quarter corners will be established at points midway between the section and quarter-section corners, and between quarter corners and the center of the section, except on the last half mile of the lines closing on the north or west boundaries of a township, where they should be placed at 20 chains, proportionate measurement, to the north or west of the quarter-section corner.

81. The quarter-quarter section corners having been established as directed above, the subdivision lines of the quarter section will be run straight between opposite corresponding quarter-quarter section corners on the quarter-section boundaries. The intersection of the lines thus run will determine the place for the corner common to the four quarter-quarter sections.

82. Subdivision of fractional quarter sections.—The subdivision lines of fractional quarter sections will be run from properly established quarter-quarter section corners, with courses governed by the advice in sections 67 and 79, to the lake, water course, or reservation which renders such tracts fractional, or parallel to the east, south, west, or north boundary of the quarter section, as conditions may require.

83. By "proportionate measurement" of a part of a line is meant a measurement having the same ratio to that recorded in the original field notes for that portion as the length of the whole line by actual resurvey bears to its length as given in the record. Differences between former and new measurements may generally be expected. They may occur through using a chain of erroneous length, or by careless setting of pins, by neglect of leveling, or by error in transcribing notes, and these should be carefully avoided in retracement as in original surveys. Instead of the old practice of "adjusting the chain" to suit the former measure, the distance taken by a precise method is compared with that of the record, and the shortage or surplus is computed by proportion, producing the same result in a more reliable manner.

84. For example: The length of the line from the quarter-section corner on the west side of sec. 2, T. 24 N., R. 14 E., Wisconsin, to the north line of the township, by the United States deputy surveyor's chain, was reported as 45.40 chains, and by the county surveyor's measure is reported as 42.90 chains; then the distance which the quarter-quarter section corner should be located north of the quarter-section corner would be determined as follows:

85. As 45.40 chains, the Government measure of the whole distance, is to 42.90 chains, the county surveyor's measure of the same distance, so is 20.00 chains, original measurement, to 18.90 chains by the county surveyor's measure, showing that by proportionate measurement in this case the quarter-quarter section corner should be set at 18.90 chains north of the quarter-section corner, instead of 20.00 chains north of such corner, as represented on the official plat. In this manner the discrepancies between original and new measurements are equitably distributed.

86. A resurvey must be initiated at some well-defined, identified, and unquestioned starting point on the original surveys. It must terminate at some equally well-known and identified point; the intermediate corners being placed along that line in proportion as the whole redetermined distance is to the whole distance as originally reported. For example, should a line originally reported to be 160.00 chains be found by resurvey to be 164.00 chains, then the corners, originally reported as being placed 40.00 chains apart, will be placed 41.00 chains apart, and will be so reported by the later surveyor. This it will be seen requires that the whole distance between two well-defined corners (or points) be accurately known, in order to give the intermediate reestablished corners their proper relative positions, or distance apart.

REVOCATION OF APPOINTMENTS OF MINERAL SURVEYORS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, July 7, 1911.

The honorable SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

SIR: Complying with the suggestion in department letter of June 23, 1911, addressed to United States Surveyor General, Reno, Nev., copy furnished this office, I submit below proposed amendment to paragraph 4, page 4, Manual of Instructions for the Survey of Mineral Lands of the United States, approved by the department October 6, 1908.

Although neither the letter to the Surveyor General, nor the decision therein referred to, of the department, of same date, in the case of mineral surveyor Edward Nissen, 10–108782, treat directly of revocation of appointments, except for cause, and at the expiration of each four years from the date of appointment (the practice would make the four years commence with the acceptance of the bond by this office) the proposed amendment has been prepared so as to authorize removal at any time when a bond becomes subject to renewal under the statute, but not, however, when only new or additional surety is deemed necessary.

[2] For procedure in connection with appointments of United States mineral surveyors see Circular 1042, p. 1478.

I recommend that the regulation in question be so amended that, when amended, it will read as follows:

4. The Surveyors General have authority to suspend or revoke the appointments of mineral surveyors at any time, for cause, and to suspend or revoke the appointments at such times as the bonds become subject to renewal under the act of March 2, 1895 (28 Stat. 808), for reasons appearing sufficient to sustain a refusal to appoint in the first instance. The surveyors, however, will be allowed the right of appeal from the action of the Surveyor General in the usual manner. The appeal must be filed with the Surveyor General, who will at once transmit the same, with a full report, to the General Land Office. (20 L. D. 283.)

Very respectfully,

S. V. PROUDFIT,
Assistant Commissioner.

Approved July 29, 1911.

SAMUEL ADAMS,
Acting Secretary.

SURVEYS OF RECLAMATION LANDS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, June 1, 1912.[3]

1. Whenever it may be necessary for the purpose of accurate description or economic irrigation to further subdivide the public lands to be irrigated or to segregate lands to be reserved or appropriated for reclamation purposes under the provisions of the reclamation act, the Director of the Reclamation Service shall cause such surveys to be made under the following regulations:

2. When a line that does not conform to the rectangular system of the public-land surveys is to be adopted as a boundary between two or more tracts or lots and the same passes through one or more sections, an actual survey of such irregular line will be made upon the ground marked by permanent monuments at each angle point thereof and wherever a line of the public surveys is crossed or closed upon. Such line shall be tied to the nearest corner of the public-land surveys by course and distance at its initial and terminal points.

3. Observation on Polaris, or the sun, for the true meridian will not be necessary when deflection angles are read from an established line of an accepted official survey, but the direction or bearing and length of each line thus determined will be recorded; the bearing to be read to the nearest quarter degree and the distance measured to the nearest 10 links or 10 feet.

4. If the irregular boundary line is to be initiated on or closed upon a rectangular sectional subdivisional line not established upon the ground in the course of the public surveys sufficient subdivision must be made in accordance with the existing regulations of the General Land Office regarding the restoration of lost or obliterated corners and subdivision of sections as will be necessary to provide a line upon which the traverse may be initiated or closed.

5. Necessary retracement and restoration work shall be performed for the location of corners to which connections are to be made.

[3] Amended by instructions of Mar. 23, 1916, p. 1464.

Any area to be permanently reserved for reclamation purposes lying entirely within a section shall be designated as a tract and numbered commencing with 37, or the next higher tract number in the township.

6. A record of a survey of this character, in the form of field notes and plats, shall be prepared by the Director of the Reclamation Service and submitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office for examination, approval, and notation upon the records of his office in the usual manner.

7. The departmental instructions of October 24, 1906, as amended on June 11, 1908, together with the Manual of Surveying Instructions will remain in full force and effect except as herein modified for the execution of these surveys.

SAMUEL ADAMS, First Assistant Secretary.

CIRCULAR NO. 235

REGULATIONS GOVERNING SURVEYS OF HOMESTEAD ENTRIES WITHIN NATIONAL FORESTS UNDER THE ACT OF JUNE 11, 1906, AND ACTS AMENDATORY THEREOF, UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE ACTS OF AUGUST 10, 1912, AND MARCH 4, 1913

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., April 30, 1913.

United States Surveyors General.

SIRS: An act approved August 10, 1912 (37 Stats. 287), creating appropriations for the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913, contains the following:

> For the expenditure under the direction of the Secretary of Agriculture for survey and listing of lands within forest reserves chiefly valuable for agriculture and describing the same by metes and bounds, or otherwise, as required by the Act of June eleventh, nineteen hundred and six, and the Act of March third, eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, thirty-five thousand dollars: Provided, however, That any such survey and the plat and field notes thereof paid for out of this appropriation shall be made by an employee of the Forest Service under the direction of the United States surveyor general, but no land listed under the Act of June eleventh, nineteen hundred and six, shall pass from the forest until patent issues;

An act approved March 4, 1913 (37 Stat. 828), creating similar appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914, contains the following provision:

> Provided, That not to exceed $35,000 * * * may be expended under the direction of the Secretary of Agriculture for the examination, survey, and platting of certain lands now listed or to be listed within national forests chiefly valuable for agriculture and describing such lands by metes and bounds, as required (by the acts of 1899 and 1906 above mentioned), and hereafter such surveys, and the plats and field notes thereof, shall be made by employees of the Forest Service, to be designated by the United States Surveyor General, and such surveys and the plats and field notes thereof shall be approved by the United States surveyor general.

The provisions of the act of March 3, 1899 (30 Stats. 1095), differ somewhat from those of the act of June 11, 1906. They apply only to that portion of the Black Hills Forest Reserve as changed and enlarged by the proclamation of September 19, 1898 (30 Stats. 1783), which is in South Dakota, and are not considered herein.

Hitherto metes-and-bounds tracts to be listed under the act of June 11, 1906, have, in general, been marked on the ground by and in a manner customary with the Forest Service, and courses and distances between markings obtained by methods more or less accurate but sufficient for the purpose. This was followed by a different marking, astronomical methods, accurate chaining, practically closed surveys, and critical examination of tracts and settlements in relation to prior surveys and vested rights, for use at final proofs. Such a survey and field notes thereof in proper form for permanent records were only obtainable through your special instructions approved by this office in each case.

It is now proposed to have metes and bounds surveys for listings so made by the officers of the Forest Service that they may be used as the surveys required at final proof under the act. The method of special instructions is adopted.

The following regulations, prepared with special regard to existing conditions, are issued for your guidance. In view of the ultimate purpose of such surveys made under your direction, it is convenient to refer to them as entry surveys in sections 1 to 53 hereof. These regulations will form part of your instructions in each case, and a copy will be furnished to the executing surveyor.

1. The direction instrument is to be a transit with or without solar apparatus, or a solar compass, of approved form, the least count of all arcs being one minute or less.

Horizontal distances, as lengths of lines, connections, and distances to objects noted will be returned in chains and links, and measured with the usual surveyor's chain or steel tape of 66 feet, adjusted to standard and divided or graduated into 100 links.

Approval is extended to the use of long steel tapes in making measurements directly on the slope, including the use of clinometers in the determination of slope angles, the slope distances to be properly reduced to true horizontal distances for entry in the official field notes. The fact of the use of the long steel tape and clinometer method is required to be stated in the field notes.

Kind and description of instrument and measure and their tests will be stated in the field notes.

Approval is extended to a restricted and proper use of the stadia method of measurement over surfaces that can not be accurately measured with the steel tape. You will require that there be included in the field notes the record of the test of the stadia wire interval as often as once a week when used, and a statement in the notes of the essential features of every stadia measurement, but not the detailed process of each reduction.

Offsets and well-conditioned triangulation may be employed when necessary, and details and results must be recorded in the field notes.

2. As required by statute, courses and bearings of all directions are to be found by reference to a meridian astronomically determined, and that they are so derived must be specifically stated in the field notes. They are not to be found directly or indirectly at any stage by reference to the magnetic needle. The meridian will be either determined or verified in connection with the specific survey in hand, or one already of record in your office may be used. From the meridian the compass bearings of directions, to the nearest minute of arc, will be found by necessary sustained angulation. The closing course of the survey thus obtained will be checked by direct reference to the meridian, and in case of discrepancy the series of courses will be examined and necessary correction made before leaving the field.

3. The meridian may be determined by a transit instrument from any of the astronomical observations authorized for use in regular surveys, in order of preference for this work as follows:

(a) Polaris at elongation, the latitude and star's declination being known. The latter may be had from the "Ephemeris," issued annually by this office. The latitude may be obtained from an observed greatest or least altitude of Polaris by properly applying refraction and polar distance; also from a meridian altitude of the sun's center, corrected for refraction and parallax, the declination being reducible from values tabulated in the Ephemeris when the longitude of the station is known with sufficient accuracy; also by account, that is, from the known distance, converted into arc, north or south, of a point whose latitude is known.

As tangency of the plane of collimation to the apparent path of the star is the phenomenon observed, time is required only for convenience. It may be derived from values tabulated in the Ephemeris by applying a part of the daily change proportional to the longitude of the station from Greenwich, and a small tabulated correction due to the difference of the latitude of the station from 40°.

Azimuth at elongation in any latitude within the range of tabulation may be had by simple interpolation from values in the Ephemeris.

This method is the best and simplest, and is preferred. The only objection is that times of elongation are often inconvenient. Three other methods free from this objection, permitted in the regular surveys, are given below. Their use should not be authorized, however, until your office is assured, through your instructions or other source, that the surveyor is practically familiar with them.

(b) Polaris at a known hour angle, latitude and declination being known. This method requires that the error of the timepiece on local mean time be known. The time may be obtained by one of three methods authorized for use in regular surveys, namely, transit of sun over a meridian previously determined, the equation of time being reduced from values tabulated in the Ephemeris; altitude observation of the sun when refraction, latitude, declination, and equation of time are known; or comparison with a standard time telegraphic clock when the longitude of the station is known.

The Ephemeris tabulates values whence the azimuth of the star at any time at any station between latitudes 30° and 50° north may be found when the correct local mean time is known. This method is preferred next to the preceding.

(c) Sun at an observed altitude, refraction, latitude, and declination being known. In reducing from the Ephemeris the declination at the instant of observation, local mean time and longitude must be known with sufficient accuracy.

(d) Sun at an observed equal altitude before and after noon, latitude being known, and the change in declination in the interval.

4. A single determination of the meridian is not sufficient. A second independent determination will be had, and in case of disagreement exceeding two minutes, the series will be discarded and a satisfactory series obtained; otherwise the mean of the determinations may be used.

5. The record in the field notes of the twin observations, up to and including the resulting azimuth of the reference object and final marking of the meridian, must also state and show the derivation of time, latitude, and longitude used in the reductions. Detailed computations will be submitted on sheets separate from the field notes, which, after examination in your office, you will submit to this office with the returns.

6. Approval is extended to the use of a solar apparatus of approved form, in combination with a direction instrument, for determining meridians. Its use requires that the local apparent time and longitude be known with sufficient accuracy for reduction of declination and the refraction in declination or polar distance. To be considered in adjustment, an apparatus must hold the true meridian within two minutes of arc at all approved working hours with such an instrument, before and after noon, the testing meridian to be determined independently in approximately the latitude of the work in hand, by either of the three methods already mentioned. Such a test of recent date to the work in hand is to be recorded in the field notes. A partial test while the survey is in progress may often be had by an afternoon determination of a course ascertained in the morning, or vice versa, and such test should be of record. The action of the instrument and courses obtained should be checked by the angles of the survey independently read on the horizontal limb.

In field notes there should be recorded the details of at least one of the daily observations, that is, the local mean time and the latitude and declination settings. If the latitude setting, which must be that given by the apparatus at the station, is not the correct latitude, the index error should be stated.

7. A corner will be established at each change in direction of the boundaries of the entry survey, and if within regular surveys, at each intersection with the established section boundaries as these exist on the ground, distances being noted to the nearest regular corners each side.

The corners of a survey will be numbered consecutively beginning with No. 1. If within regular surveys, this number will be assigned to a regular corner, the same being a corner of the entry survey, or to an intersection with an accepted section boundary in good standing. In other cases the entry survey will be connected to the nearest corner of accepted regular surveys in good standing if within 2 miles, otherwise to a locating monument within the same distance, the latter to be connected to the nearest corner of regular surveys if within 2 miles; in either case the entry survey corner nearest to the point connected will be designated No. 1. The method of obtaining connections will be stated in the field notes, whether by direct measurement, random line, or traverse, with details of the latter.

8. It is essential that these surveys, unconformable to the regular system, be marked on the ground in the most permanent manner. A corner may consist of a durable stone not less than 24 inches long, set 14 inches in the ground, or a post of durable wood not less than 3 feet long, 3 inches square, set 24 inches in the ground, or a tree or rock in place. If the stone or post is longer than the minimum length mentioned, the extra length will be set in the ground. As stone is preferred, a justifying remark should appear in the field notes when posts are used.

9. Corners will be neatly scribed or chiseled on the side facing the claim, for instance, 3–HES45, for corner 3 of Homestead Entry Survey No. 45; a like marking will be placed on suitable bearing trees, bearing objects, etc., with the usual symbols, B T, B R, etc. Each corner or bearing point will be defined by a nail, arrowhead, or other distinctive mark. Distances to bearing trees will be measured to centers, and scribings will be deep, and will read axially with the tree, with the B T as near the ground as possible, that the stumps may retain the markings should the trees be cut down.

10. Memorials of charcoal, marked stone, charred stake, or other distinctive material will be buried at the corner point when practicable, under the post or stone.

11. A corner will be witnessed by a mound of earth or stone, and additionally by two bearing trees (diameter to be expressed in inches), rocks, or objects when such can be had within 200 links of the corner point, selecting those that will best coordinately designate the point and in preference within the claim, and when these are not available that fact will be recorded and pits supplied; distances thereto will be recorded in links.

12.[g] Corner witnesses at intersections with established section boundaries will be according to the regular closing section corner arrangements, forms, and dimensions—see forms 1 and 2 pages 38 of the Manual of 1902—due regard being given to the direction of the closing line, as in section 67, page 30. If Figure 10, Plate IV, originally prepared to illustrate positions for a north direction, be turned about to correspond with the direction in which the closing line is being run, it will indicate a proper disposition of mound and pits relative to the corner point. In case of oblique intersection, see sections 68 and 69, page 30, remembering always that the section boundary is the line being closed to. Such corners will have the symbol C C in addition to the other prescribed markings, and will be included in the consecutive series of corner numbers for the entire survey.

13.[g] When corners at changes in direction of the boundary, not also intersections with established section boundaries, are witnessed by a mound and pits (of which there should be two), consider those portions of Figure 1, Plate V, which show the NW. and SE. corners of a reservation, as modified to state pits and mound of the dimensions and in the positions stated in the following corner description, and the diagram will then represent proper size and arrangement of witnesses for the conditions therein figured. In case of reentering angles the pits may be nearer the corner point, and in case of an interior angle less than 90° the pits may have to be placed more remote. The mound will be placed within the boundaries of the tract as surveyed, diagonally from the corner point, as shown in the figure.

Set a granite stone, 26 x 10 x 8 ins., 16 ins. in the ground, over a stone marked with a cross for cor. 3 of this survey, marked 3–HES45 on side facing the claim; no bearings, therefore dig pits, 24 x 24 x 12 ins., crosswise on this and the succeeding course, 7 ft. dist.; and raise a mound of earth, 4 ft. base, 2 ft. high, 3½ ft. dist., within the claim.

[g] See secs. 255 to 347 of the Manual of 1919 relative to corner monuments and accessories.

14.[g] A meander corner will have the mound, and pit if any, on line, and of the dimensions and in position relative to the stone or post indicated in Figure 25, Plate IV.

15.[g] As it is not purposed to issue the Manual of 1902 for the limited use it would be in these surveys, you will prepare a suitable synopsis of the Manual sections mentioned, with sketches, in harmony with the three foregoing paragraphs, and issue with the special instructions in each case.

16. Where witness corners are employed, justifying conditions requiring them will be stated in the field notes. Such corners should be as near to the respective true points as those conditions, the method of construction adopted, and a regard for permanence will permit. There will be one on each of the two lines meeting at a true point for corner. If such a witness can not be established on line within three chains of the true point, some other and suitable position will be selected within that distance and preferably on the tract. Witness corners will be in all respects as corners at true points would be, with the additional symbol W C plainly marked. All details of description and of position relative to true points are to be recorded in the field notes.

Courses will run to and start from true points for corners, and the field notes must definitely so indicate.

17. When connection to a locating monument becomes necessary, a locating or mineral monument already established and of record in your office should be used if within 2 miles, it being desired to avoid unnecessary increase of disconnected reference points. Otherwise a locating monument should be established within that distance, of the substantial form, with witnesses, mound, bearing trees, bearing objects, etc., and in the position in the region, prescribed for mineral monuments concerning which the surveyors of the Forest Service appear to have been instructed. Proximity to the survey in hand is not the prime requisite in determining the location of such a monument; regard should be had to its convenient future use. When practicable it is desired, for obvious reasons, that the monument be connected by course and distance with other like monuments or surveys in the vicinity.

Except when a locating monument will not be required, you will furnish the surveyor with a number in your series of such monuments for his use in connection with the specific survey should occasion arise. If not used, the number may, in your discretion, be employed in connection with another survey. The letters U S L M and the number will be chiseled or cut on the side of the monument. Full record of the locating monument thus established should appear in the field notes, as to the circumstances requiring its erection, and its description, markings, position, bearings, and connections.

18. Corners or previously established monuments to which the entry survey is connected become by relation monuments of the survey, and as such should be left in good condition, the repairs being described in the field notes.

19. Important natural topography should be noted along the boundaries of and within and near the claim, with special regard to timber, streams, and soil; also natural curiosities, as fossils or organic remains; also ancient works of art, as mounds, embankments, etc.; also improvements of every kind on the claim, as to their position, nature, extent, value, and character of permanence; also the position, nature, and extent of easements held under statutes, as rights of way, etc.—in brief, all facts as to the claim and its surroundings ascertainable by survey should be noted and recorded.

Heights of hills, ridges, and banks of streams, depths of ravines, ascents and descents, size of buildings, and like dimensions should be recorded in feet.

Inquiry and field examination should be made to a reasonable extent as to the nonmineral character of the lands, and results stated in the field notes, especially when presumption to the contrary may arise through presence in the locality of known mineral claims, surveyed or unsurveyed; for, if the contrary is asserted and maintained as to any portion at any stage in the proceedings to patent, an amended survey will be necessary.

20. Field notes must state how and by what visible evidences the surveyor identifies on the ground as authentic the locating monuments and corners of prior surveys, used or referred to in the entry survey. If evidence found agrees with the description furnished by your office, a short form may be used; for instance, "Which is a ganite stone, showing 10 ins. above ground, marked and witnessed as described by the surveyor general"; otherwise the full description as found will be stated. Such agreement in description is not always or necessarily conclusive; and in cases of misclosure the supposed corner may be spurious, or at least not official, and its position should be checked by lines run to undoubted corners.

21. With other information you will furnish the surveyor with listed descriptions of all alien claims in the neighborhood of the survey, to the extent of your records. But such information is not necessarily conclusive or complete, and the surveyor will note the position of the survey relative to all near-by and contiguous claims of any nature as monumented on the ground, that may come to his knowledge, making connections and retracements necessary for the purpose, and state the owners' names if known.

22. When a roadway through a homestead is exempted from listing, it is not held to defeat one entry to embrace tracts thus separated. The tracts will be designated, "Tract A," "Tract B," etc. The limits of the road or roads will constitute the boundaries of the tracts, and will be surveyed and marked as such, retaining one consecutive series of corner numbers for the entire survey. Alinement of the boundaries intersected by the road will be preserved, and connecting distances thereon between the tracts will be noted.

A road exemption from a tract to be described as in section 32 will require a demarcation of the boundary of at least the components invaded by the exemption, as in the like case of a metes and bounds tract, requisite subdivision lines of sections involved being temporarily located preparatory thereto. And when field processes of such subdivisions render it convenient, other similarly described adjacent components may be included. The survey will receive a consecutive number in your series, and corners be marked accordingly.

23. When a portion of a stream or other body of water is a boundary of the tract, the same will be meandered at mean high-water mark between terminal meander corners, by noting the general courses and lengths along the sinuosities, without monuments at each change in direction of the meanders so run. (Monuments at the angle points would give the lines between them the character of a boundary, which would limit the tract and thereby deprive the applicant of the rights usually attaching to water frontage.)

Also, in case it is intended to give an applicant the benefit of a water boundary and at the same time exempt a road along the bank, both sides of the road should be surveyed and monumented as herein prescribed, but in such a manner as to leave a strip of land to the applicant between the road and the meandered line, that the strip to which the benefits attach may appear upon the plat according to which patent is intended to issue.

24. Determination of the position of the metes-and-bounds survey relative to accepted section boundaries as these exist on the ground, including intersections therewith, and to section subdivision boundaries in certain cases, is incident to a complete survey. Without it segregations can not be made in your office when hereafter required. It may impose justifying retracements, and in some cases restoration resurveys and a limited section subdivision. Under normal conditions these will not be execessive. When extensive obliterations or gross inaccuracies in surveys are developed, the surveyor should make full report to your office through the proper channel, of conditions found and his thorough search for corners and their witnesses of record, including memorials, and await your further instructions. After considering facts and records, you may find it advisable to connect the metes-and-bounds survey to a locating monument and the latter to the nearest identified corner of the regular surveys involved.

25. The tract embraced in the survey must not exceed 160 acres in area, or 1 mile in length. If two or more contiguous listings are to be embraced in one entry, or in an entry and another "additional" to it under authorizing statutes, the total area and length are limited as stated.

In harmony with a recent communication from the department, in which the subject of proper widths and lengths of entry surveys was fully discussed, the following instruction is stated:

> Any tract not exceeding 160 acres in area which may be contained in a square mile, the sides of which extend in cardinal directions, is understood to be within the meaning of the law.

As it is also the instruction of the Forester in the National Forest Manual on Claims, etc., in effect February 1, 1912, and the application of the rule to four possible cases illustrated therein by sketches, it is not expected that surveys will be presented that you may not approve under the rule.

26. A survey must not embrace lands patented, and necessary retracements will be made to that end. Neither should it embrace other claims, surveyed or unsurveyed, or entered lands, unless with the full understanding on the part of the applicant that an amended survey will be required at his expense if necessary to eliminate conflicts not proper to be included in patent. Surveys should be conducted accordingly.

27. Conflict with another claim of any description will be ascertained by noting intersections with its boundaries, retracing the latter for the purpose, and ascertaining the bearings and lengths of the boundaries of the conflict.

28. If the whole or any portion of the boundary of a legal subdivision, not also a section boundary, constitutes the boundary of a metes and bounds tract, the same will be temporarily located on the ground in accordance with the principles stated on pages 21, 22, and 23 of circular of June 1, 1909,[h] a copy of which should be furnished to the surveyor; and the field notes must describe in detail all random lines and fallings, retracements, measurements, offsets, and processes incident to such location, with the resulting course and length of the boundary so ascertained. Corners of the survey which are also quarter or sixteenth section corners will be additionally marked as such.

29. Should it be necessary for the completion of the survey to restore any missing official corner, in its original position always, such restoration will be made according to methods of the stated circular; and the field notes should fully describe an exhaustive search for the missing corner, including memorials if any, and for each and all of its witnesses of record, as well as the method and other details of its restoration.

30. Surveys will be made within suspended or unaccepted regular surveys in all respects as within accepted work, including closing corners and intersections, in order that data may be available for segregations should suspensions be removed or surveys accepted; and the status of the surveys, as accepted, approved, unapproved, suspended, etc., will be stated in the field notes in its proper connection. In those cases, however, connections will also be made to locating monuments or, in preference, to accepted official corners of the regular surveys in good standing, as if the suspended or unaccepted work did not exist. Should corrections subsequently be required of the suspended or unaccepted work, provision should be made at that time for a noting of the position of the entry survey relative to the corrected work, sufficient for segregation purposes.

31. Before leaving the field the surveyor should again read your instructions to ascertain that he has fully accomplished them. He should also test his survey for closure within the allowable limit of one three-hundred-and-twentieth, or 25 links per mile of perimeter, and make field corrections if necessary. Tabular statements of latitudes and departures, showing errors of closure, will be stated in the field notes. Submitted with the latter, but separate therefrom, will be a computation of areas, preferably by double meridian or double latitude distances.

If on surveyed land, the traverse and area computations will be separate for each section involved. In this case there will also be submitted with the field notes, but separate therefrom, like traverses involving the several connections, grouping with them in the traverses adjacent portions of the boundaries of the section and of the entry survey in such a way that traverses of the closed figures thus to be formed may best reveal the sufficiency of the entry survey and its agreement with established section boundaries as of record or retraced. Such traverses must close within the limit stated. In case of misclosure necessary and sufficient justifying retracements of the prior surveys should be made and used in the traverse submitted.

32. Unless there are road reservations (sec. 22), metes-and-bounds surveys are not required within accepted regular surveys in good standing when the tract to be listed is to be described by legal subdivisions, or as a quarter or a half of a quarter-quarter section or rectangular lotted tract, or as a quarter or a half of a quarter-quarter-quarter section or rectangular lotted tract. But survey is required of metes-and-bounds parcels to be included therewith in listing and entry, in which case statutory contiguity must be obtained by a preliminary location of those regular boundaries that are also to bound the metes-and-bounds tract.

33. Manifestly, the execution of the survey must be subsequent in dates to those of your instructions. The survey will be an actual, independent survey made at the time in all its details, and not computed or compiled from former surveys official or otherwise. When discrepancies are developed, the prior surveys should be sufficiently retraced, and details of the retracement and resulting correct courses and distances appropriately recorded in field notes.

34. Field notes are to be prepared only on paper of the quality, size, and ruling in current use for regular surveys. They may be in writing or typewriting, in noncopying ink, using both sides of the paper, and in form for binding on the side. To be acceptable they must be clerically neat, not crowded, unmistakably legible, and free from erasures, corrections, or interlineations. Cut sheets will not be accepted, or those upon which writing appears beyond the ruled margins or within one-half inch of top or bottom edge. The sheets will be temporarily bound by stitching or fasteners admitting of removal without injury to the papers when future binding in books is contemplated.

From the abbreviations authorized by the Manual of 1902, you will list to the surveyor only those which are applicable and convenient in these surveys, to the exclusion of all other abbreviations, and instruct, and when necessary illustrate their proper and consistent use, especially in corner descriptions.

35. Field notes will have the following general arrangements:

Applicant for listing, James Brasher.
Application No. 704, dated June 27, 1910.
List No. ____, dated

(b) The caption on each page will be, for instance, HOMESTEAD ENTRY SURVEY No. 506: COLORADO.

(c) Brief preliminary remarks deemed necessary by the Forest Service, as to applicant for listing and date and number of his application, etc., followed by reference to your special instructions by date, homestead entry survey number, position of claim by section, township, and range, and whether on surveyed or unsurveyed lands, with name of national forest and the statutory authority, namely, the acts of June 11, 1906, August 10, 1912, and March 4, 1913, as the case may be.

(f) Temporary locating of required boundaries of legal subdivisions, with dates.

(g) These preliminaries being recorded, then will follow the field notes proper of the claim, commencing with corner No. 1, its full description, witnesses, bearing trees and objects, and connections. Record the magnetic declination at this point, measured from the true meridian, time of day to be stated, and the resulting mean declination deduced by aid of a brief table of diurnal variations for your district, which you will furnish, prepared from values tabulated in the Manual of 1894. Thence proceed with courses in consecutive order from corner to corner, around the entire tract, to the place of beginning. If a corner or boundary of the tract is identical with a corner of or on a line of another survey, or section line, or boundary of a legal subdivision, that fact should be stated. Descriptions of corners established and corners referred to or used; connecting lines; full details of triangulation, offsets, and traverses and results; chainage to topography on line; bearings and distances to improvements and other objects; intersections with prior surveys and conflicts therewith—these will be recorded in order in their proper places as the survey progresses from corner to corner. The date of each day's work will appear.

(h) Areas in acres (to two decimal places) of conflicts if any, portions in each section, and total area.

(i) List and descriptions of improvements, with approximate values.

(k) Description of the tract in respect of the character of the land, timber, water, use, and value for various purposes. Mineral or nonmineral character to have specific mention.

(l) Proximity of the tract to other like tracts, settlements, mining camps, centers of trade, townsites, and to officially surveyed mining or other claims and others not so surveyed but well known.

(m) Such other matters relative to the claim and its surroundings as are deemed proper and necessary to a complete report. Then will follow the concluding date of survey and the official signature of the surveyor.

(n) Traverses showing closing errors.

(o) Final affidavit of assistants, to be made before an officer qualified to administer oaths, or if one is not available, that fact will be stated and the affidavit made before the surveyor in his official capacity.

(p) Final affidavit of the surveyor, to be taken before an officer qualified to administer oaths and having a seal. The affidavit should have substantially the following form:

I, John T. Monroe (here state official designation), do solemnly swear that, in strict conformity with the special instructions of the United States surveyor general for Colorado, dated August 15, 1910, and the laws of the United States, I have well, faithfully, and truly, in my own proper person, surveyed a tract of land upon the application of James Brasher, No. 704, dated June 27, 1910, for listing under the act of June 11, 1906, the same to be known as Homestead Entry Survey No. 506, situated within the Battlement National Forest, in unsurveyed section 30, Township 11 South, Range 93 West, and surveyed section 25, Township 11 South, Range 94 West of the Sixth Principal Meridian, Colorado, and the related retracements and resurveys and section subdivisions, which are represented in the foregoing field notes as having been surveyed by me; and I further solemnly swear that all the corners of said survey have been established and perpetuated in strict accordance with the stated special instructions, and in the specific manner described in the field notes, and that the foregoing are the original field notes of such survey.

It is noted that the form of certificate of assistants, final oath of surveyor, and your approval, Form 4–679, may be followed, slightly modified, for these surveys.

36. Plats will be prepared on drawing paper at least equal in weight and quality to that in current use for plats of mineral surveys, on sheets of the size and with border prescribed for regular township plats, and to a suitably large scale in each case. The title may be brief and substantially as follows, for instance:

Homestead Entry Survey No. 506 in the Battlement National Forest in Section 30 (unsurveyed), T. 11 S., R. 93 W. and
Section 25 (surveyed), T. 11 S., R. 94 W.
COLORADO

37. In addition to the entry survey in detail, with its associated retracements and resurveys designated as such, section subdivisions, and connections, all "strictly conformable" to the field notes, the plat will also indicate near-by surveys, claims, and important topography.

38. If in a surveyed section, section subdivisions should be shown on the plat to an extent sufficient to indicate remainders of legal subdivisions invaded by the entry survey, but without areas and without lot numbers other than those already appearing on the plat of regular survey. After the entry has passed to patent, its survey and segregations created thereby will be shown with other patented areas on township plats subsequently prepared; and in these cases small portions of legal subdivisions consequent on segregations of patented mineral claims, that may be included in adjacent lots created by the entry survey, should be included if the resulting lot is of proper form and area. (See p. 74 of Manual of 1902.[1])

39. The status of surveys and protractions should be definitely stated on the plat; for instance, as patented, accepted, suspended, surveyed, unapproved, etc., as the case may be.

40. On the plat unsurveyed section lines will be indicated by broken lines, if their positions can be protracted with reasonable certainty. Surveyed section lines will be full, with courses and distances as of record, retraced, or restored. Mineral and other surveys may be shown in full lines, with corner numbers when advisable. Unsurveyed mineral or other claims, also section subdivision lines, will be dotted. The entry survey boundaries will be full and relatively heavier.

Lines should be appropriate in character and lettering simple in style and distinctive in size and form for the matters represented, that the plat may be correctly and easily read. Single-stroke letters and figures, not shaded, are preferred, to the exclusion of vertical and Roman forms.

[1] Also see figures IX–4, and IX–5, pages 43 and 45, respectively, of the chapter on plats of the revised manual of 1928.

41. In tabular form, as on regular township plats, there will be stated the prior and entry surveys, executing deputy or other surveyors, contracts, group numbers, and special instructions with dates, dates of surveys and of approvals. Also in tabular form, there will be stated the areas of conflicts, portions in each section, and total area. Following these tables will be stated the list by number and date when known, and the latitude, longitude, and mean magnetic declination of and at some point of the survey, preferably at corner No. 1.

Within the outlines of the survey will appear, for instance, H. E. S. No. 506, with total area.

42. Your certificate to the plat will have the following general form, for instance:

> This plat of Homestead Entry Survey No. 506, situated in section 30 (unsurveyed) in township 11 south, of range 93 west, and section 25 (surveyed) in township 11 south, of range 94 west of the sixth principal meridian, Colorado, is strictly conformable to the field notes of the survey thereof on file in this office, which have been examined and approved.

43. Cooperative procedure of your office and that of the district forester will be substantially as follows:

That officer will forward to you a list of surveyors of the Forest Service, accredited as trustworthy and competent for surveys of the character above described, to whom, if you find no objection, you will issue special instructions.

44. Upon receipt from the district forester of a request for instructions for the survey of a given tract by metes and bounds, under the stated act of June 11, 1906, you will ascertain from the local land office the reservations, and the entries, agricultural, mineral, etc., whose boundaries may have to be recognized or respected. You will also carefully consult the records of your office. With his request for instructions the district forester will, in his discretion, transmit two copies of a preliminary plat and field notes of the tract, together with any other facts or information which he may be able to furnish, which will be of service in preparing the instructions.

45. From information thus assembled, you will prepare special instructions for the entry survey, assigning thereto the succeeding number in your series of entry surveys, or if the series is not started, commence with No. 37. A number once assigned will not be used in connection with another tract or another application for the same tract. The instructions will be addressed to the accredited surveyor designated by the district forester, or if not designated at the time, the place for the name of the accredited surveyor will be left blank, the same to be filled in by the district forester in due course and your office advised.

The instructions will be accompanied by a diagram to a convenient scale, showing the assembled information, including courses, distances, etc., of prior surveys, also the approximate latitude and longitude as shown by your records, the same to be corrected by the surveyor according to the facts. Matters not conveniently representable on the diagram, as brief corner descriptions, and the conditions, status, and irregularities of prior surveys, should also be furnished to the surveyor.

46. You will refrain from instructing the surveyor in any matter strictly within the jurisdiction of the Forest Service. But it is intended that your instructions be such as are necessary, yet sufficient, in each particular case for a survey and returns in all respects acceptable at final proof.

When the surveyor may easily err, the special instructions should not consist merely of reference to or quotations from these regulations or the circular of June 1, 1909; but you will clearly set forth the details of requisite operations in the light of conditions as far as known, and, in addition, fully advise, as far as practicable, what should be done if conditions are found to be otherwise. Your instructions should be specific, sufficient, and special.

47. You will transmit two copies of the special instructions and diagram and one of the two copies of the preliminary plat and field notes, if such are furnished by the district forester, to this office by letter, in which you will state the information assembled and discuss the special instructions in their relation to conditions presented.

Records will be consulted, the instructions examined, and one copy thereof returned to your office as promptly as possible. You will then transmit the instructions as approved to the district forester, with the request that he cause the survey to be made in strict conformity therewith, and in due course transmit to your office the requisite returns in prescribed form complete for your official action. The returns will consist of original field notes, two transcripts thereof, and plat in quadruplicate, with the associated papers already mentioned.

48. It is expected that, in the majority of cases, there will be no complications or conditions not sufficiently covered by this circular. For such surveys your instructions should be brief and formal. In many other instances the strictly special features will be quite simple. Judiciously select these two classes, and transmit to the district forester the instructions and information therefor, without prior submission to this office; but transmit a copy in each case for filing, and in your letter state your action under this section.

49. As returns are to be prepared by the Forest Service under your direction, it will be of manifest advantage in the cooperation, and it is so suggested, that the district forester, after an entry survey is checked in his office for limits of closing and statutory area and length, submit to you a preliminary draft of field notes and preliminary diagrams, sufficiently indicating contemplated forms of returns. These you will at once critically examine, indicate needed changes in survey, field notes, and plat, and return promptly to that officer, retaining a sufficient copy for convenience in examining returns. Your consideration of the draft and diagram is expected to be complete, that survey and returns may not need further change.

50. When received from the district forester, as above, the returns will be considered in the usual order of business in your office, unless otherwise directed by this office, and when found to be satisfactory, will be officially approved and certified by you as usual.

51. The original plat and field notes will remain in your files. The duplicate plat and one transcript of field notes will the transmitted to this office; they will be deemed to be the plat and field notes prescribed in the stated act of 1906 to be filed by the entryman. Upon advice of this office, you will transmit the triplicate plat and one transcript to the proper local land office for its files. At the same time you will transmit the quadruplicate plat to the local land office, to be supplied to the entryman when he applies to make final proof, for posting on the claim as required by the act of 1906; this purpose will be stated in your letter of transmittal.

When the triplicate plat is transmitted, you will notify the district forester thereof.

52. With your letter transmitting transcript field notes and duplicate plat, you will inclose copies of any supplimental instructions you may have issued. And when such instructions are requested by the district forester, concerning which you are in doubt, you will submit to this office a full statement of conditions affecting the question presented and await advice.

53. The cooperative procedure above instructed has relation only to listing surveys intended as bases for individual entries. It does not apply to surveys for listings of larger metes-and-bounds tracts or tracts involving the extension of the regular system.

54. By the stated act of March 4, 1913, the unexpended balance of the appropriation of $35,000, for the current fiscal year, and a similar appropriation for the ensuing fiscal year, will be available also for surveys of lands already listed within national forests.

In respect of such listings and entries based thereon, your attention is directed to section 25 hereof and the construction therein stated of the statutory 1-mile limit. All instructions of this office inconsistent therewith are hereby recalled.

55. After June 30, 1913, such surveys by metes and bounds—that is, lands already listed—as are intended for use at final proof under the act of 1906, will be made by employees of the Forest Service under your direction and these regulations. This rule applies also to metes-and-bounds entries of lands which, since entry, are exempted from national forests, where the entryman is not, within the statutory final-proof period, allowed to amend his entry to conform to the usual legal subdivisions.

Surveys amendatory of existing listings, intended as bases for individual entries, including those to be bases for allowable amendments of entries already made, are sufficiently covered by preceding sections.

Surveys for final proof on entries based or to be based on listings not made under the cooperation plan of the acts of 1912 and 1913 will be subject to the following additional regulations; namely, such surveys can embrace only listed and opened lands. They must therefore be restricted to or within the boundaries of such lands as marked on the ground, or if not marked, to or within the boundaries intended by the Forest Service in the listing. That this restriction is observed, and how, should specifically appear in the field notes, with identifying descriptions of listing corners as found, and bearings and distances thereto when, for proper reasons, their positions are not occupied by entry survey corners. The listing corners have served their legitimate purpose when the tract is identified, and should be destroyed after positions are noted, the facts being recorded in the field notes.

The fact of entry will not require change in forms prescribed in section 35c, supra, of field notes, plats, affidavits, and approval; but the fact should be briefly mentioned in the preamble of the field notes, with name of entryman, local land office, serial, and date.

56. Applications from entrymen for metes-and-bounds surveys of their entries, received at your office subsequent to June 30, 1913, will be treated substantially in like manner as requests for instructions from the district forester. In addition, however, to other relative information from the local land office (sec. 44), you will obtain details of listings and entries required in preparing special instructions in each case. Duplicate field notes and plats of most of the listing surveys already made are on file in this office, and will be transmitted on your request.

Of the provisions of the stated act of 1913 you will advise entrymen, for whom surveys have been authorized by this office but instructions not issued by your office, also applicants in the case of entry-survey applications now pending in your office or filed therein prior to July 1, 1913, and allow them to modify their applications, if they so desire, to request that the surveys be made by the Forest Service under these regulations, and upon such requests you will proceed as on applications submitted after June 30, 1913. Unexpended balances of deposits for office work will be returned to depositors upon application and your usual accounting.

57. Although the status of entered lands is different from that of lands to be listed under the cooperative plan, matters requiring your careful attention are not materially different, as surveys in each case must be sufficient for final proof. Therefore, reposing confidence in your judicious selection, you will proceed in these surveys also, as directed in sections 47 and 48 in respect of transmitting and submitting special instructions.

58. The preparation of returns being provided for as stated, the necessary office work in your office, connected with surveys under these regulations, will be performed by your regular clerical force without expense to entrymen.

59. A survey embracing lands proper to be entered and patented, to the exclusion of other lands, a sufficiently substantial and distinctive marking on the ground, and a concise but complete and correct record are required. These regulations are designed to embrace all requirements necessary and sufficient thereto. It is to be expected that details not specifically prescribed herein will vary, but unless obviously discordant therewith, they should not in general be regarded by you as necessarily subject to change (see sec. 49) or as a bar to your approval, thereby needlessly introducing delays and complicating procedure.

60. It is desired and expected that you will cordially cooperate with the district forester, and promptly acknowledge and respond to his proper requests for instructions and information, that he be not embarrassed in his field assignments or office work.

61. The first letter received from your office relative to an entry survey will be assigned a number by this office, which will also be assigned to all succeeding correspondence on the same subject. In reporting action, please state the authorizing letter. When mentioning a letter of this office, also state the date of your letter, if any, to which the office letter is reply; this is desired for convenient office reference, copies of replies to your letters being filed therewith.

Very respectfully,

Fred Dennett, Commissioner.

Approved.

Assistant Secretary.

CIRCULAR No. 376

INSTRUCTIONS IN RE PREPARATION OF FIELD NOTES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, January 25, 1915.

United States Surveyors General:

Instructions have been issued to the supervisor of surveys hereafter to cause all field notes of survey to be prepared for preliminary examination in abbreviated form, either in longhand or typewritten, giving full description of instruments used and of stellar and solar observations taken, but using standards abbreviations for corner description, items of topography, etc., so that the field notes may, after critical examination by your office force, be typewritten in extended form by an experienced transcriber in your office, who will make at the same time a good record carbon copy thereof on regular field-note paper.

The typewritten notes as so prepared will be examined by the surveyor or transitman executing the surveys or resurveys represented thereby, and if found correct will be sworn to by him and filed in your office as the original field notes.

The carbon copy will be transmitted to this office for the permanent records thereof. In making the carbon copies much care should be taken to make clean, distinct copies, which should be carefully checked and compared with the completed original before transmittal.

Permit me to urge you to take the particular pains to make the method a success, to the end that we may eliminate unnecessary duplication of work in the matter of note writing and at the same time produce a high-grade, uniform record.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

CIRCULAR No. 421

MINERAL SEGREGATION SURVEYS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, July 9, 1915.

United States Surveyors General.

GENTLEMEN: 1. The attention of the General Land Office has frequently been directed of late to the prevalence of misconception among surveyors general and others regarding the procedure to be followed in the execution of mineral segregation surveys authorized under paragraph 108 et seq. of the mining regulations.

2. Therefore, in order to secure uniformity of practice and to present a proper basis for intelligent action, this circular is issued. Its provisions will supersede all previous instructions with which they are in conflict, and will be adopted without reference to precedent or practice formerly permitted by this office.

3. There appears to exist a very general, although erroneous, assumption that because the surveys in question relate to the segregation of mineral land, are authorized by the mining regulations, and are usually executed by United States mineral surveyors they therefore partake of the nature of mineral surveys. That this is not the case will be evident upon consideration of the fact that the necessity for mineral segregation surveys arises almost exclusively with reference to "lands returned as agricultural and alleged to be mineral in character" (M. R. par. 101, sec. 2), where the survey—made at the instance, for the benefit and at the expense of, the homestead entryman—is designed solely to define the boundaries of, and provide a legal description for, the agricultural land for which application is made. The circumstance that such surveys are usually executed by United States mineral surveyors is without significance, as the regulations provide only that the work shall be done by "a reliable and competent surveyor to be designated by the surveyor general." (M. R., par. 108.) This would include county or other surveyors in private practice.

4. Authority for the survey having issued, and a surveyor having been designated by your office, the instructions addressed to him will particularly emphasize the fact that the survey is nonmineral in character, and as an aid to the preparation of such instructions, your attention is directed to the following considerations.

5. To all intents and purposes the segregation survey is ex parte procedure and confers no permanent rights or benefits upon the mineral claimant. The definition, in whole or in part, of the boundaries of the mining claim is merely incidental to the determination of the confines of the agricultural entry and the survey, which may involve the retracement and reestablishment of the public land lines and the subdivision of the section, is effective upon the mineral claim only as a location survey, permitting greater accuracy of description than is usually attained by the somewhat crude methods of the locator.

6. While a discussion in detail of the field procedure attendant upon the execution of mineral segregation surveys is beyond the purpose of this circular, and is a subject properly to be determined by your offices, after consideration of the conditions surrounding the individual case, the extent of the required operations is a question of such importance, as affecting not only the actual field work but also the method to be adopted for the subsequent office computations, that some comment thereon appears desirable.

7. As a preliminary to its consideration, however, it is proper to recognize the generally accepted principle that where any legal subdivision of the public domain is invaded by a segregation survey the former loses its identity as a unit of disposal, and the resultant fractional lots must depend for their area upon the data supplied by the survey, without reference to the stated area of the subdivision. This principle, while intrinsically sound, is found in practice to result in a refinement of little utility when applied to regular sections, whose closure is acceptable. Its observance is therefore frequently ignored, and this is true, in particular, where the segregation of patent mineral surveys is concerned, the procedure in such cases being merely that of office protraction and computation from the assembled mineral and township records.

8. The extent of any mineral segregation survey is dependent primarily upon the condition of the section or sections invaded as indicated by the actual alinement and measurement of the boundaries thereof. With this fact clearly in mind, and with an equal recognition of the nonmineral character of the survey, the surveyor will, after preliminary reconnaissance, readily determine the amount of field work required in any given case. It frequently happens that a direct connection of the mineral location by a tie or ties to convenient existing and identified corners of the public-land survey, followed by a survey of the out-boundaries of the mining claim or claims, thus presenting data equivalent to those supplied by a patent mineral survey, will, with the subsequent office protractions for area, be found adequate for the segregation, but this sufficiency is evident only when the section invaded is itself found to be actually conformable, within Manual limits, to the record thereof. In many other cases the actual condition of the section may be so far removed from that represented by the record that it would be impossible to assert even approximate accuracy for lot areas obtained by deducting the acreage of the mineral land, as determined by the survey, from the nominal area of the legal subdivision shown upon the township plat.

9. It is therefore apparent that the first duty of the surveyor is to determine by retracement the actual condition of the section invaded, and provision therefor should be embodied, in future, in your instructions. If the result is satisfactory, and a reasonable agreement with the approved record is indicated, he may then proceed with the segregation survey; and upon evidence of proper closure, your office may determine the resulting lot areas by protraction and deduction, with the assurance that no error in excess of allowable limits has been introduced. If, on the other hand, the retracement reveals radical defects in the section, and serious disagreement with the record, it will be necessary for the surveyor to subdivide the section, or so much thereof as is invaded by the mineral claims, restoring any lost corners, and locating such quarter-quarter-section corners as are required. The segregation survey will then be referable strictly to the conditions so defined, and the resultant lot areas will be calculated upon the basis of the data furnished by the survey, and not by reference to the nominal areas shown upon the township plat.

10. Where, however, it appears upon retracement that the absence of corners and the obliteration of other evidences of the original public-land survey is so general as to require extensive restorations and a search for controlling corners remote from the section or sections affected by the segregation, the execution of which would impose upon the entryman unreasonable hardship and expense, the designated surveyor will proceed only with the survey of the mineral location as provided in paragraph 8 hereof, and will upon transmittal of his returns to the United States surveyor general, report to that officer the conditions which precluded his completion of the survey. Upon receipt of such report, the United States surveyor general will, if the explanations thus submitted are acceptable, request authority from the General Land Office to employ the services of a United States surveyor for the resurvey and subdivision necessary to complete the segregation and determine the true condition of the section or sections involved. It is believed, however, that the necessity for this procedure will not frequently arise, and you are advised that authority for such action will issue only in cases that are clearly exceptional.

11. Regarding the limit of error applicable to segregation surveys, it appears illogical to demand greater accuracy in the subdivision than obtains in the section itself, and therefore a limit of 1 part in 640 in latitude and in departure may be adopted, but the surveyor should strive to reduce the error in closure wherever possible. The considerations which require great precision in an official mineral survey are not present in these cases, but the establishment of the lines and corners of the mineral location should be attended by such care and exactness of execution that their position will not require revision by the patent survey which may follow. This is highly important for the reason that, while theoretically subject to such revision, the result in practice is the creation of small fractional areas of questionable utility for mining operations and yet excluded from the agricultural classification.

12. Upon completion of the survey, and the receipt by your office of the returns thereof, you will cause a critical examination to be made with reference to their accuracy and sufficiency. The field notes will be so prepared as to present; first, the record of the sectional retracement, restoration, and subdivision; second, the connection of the mineral location or locations therewith; and, finally, the record of the segregation survey proper—the latter to include a statement of the area of the mineral lands eliminated from each section. All measurements will be returned in chains and links. The title page and oaths covering the notes will be of the regulation township form (4–679, 4–680) and will contain such descriptive matter as is appropriate. One transcript of the whole will be prepared for the files of the General Land Office.

13. The plat of survey will be prepared in triplicate, and will be of standard township size. It will exhibit only the section or sections involved, and will display an appropriate title and certificate of approval. A scale of 10 or 20 chains to the inch is suggested as convenient. The plat will be rendered strictly conformable to the field notes of the survey and will present all essential data as to courses and distances (true lines) of sectional retracements and subdivision; boundaries of the mineral location or locations; ties, intersections, etc.; and will in all cases afford information sufficient for a determination of the areas of the fractional lots created.

14. The lots in question will be designated in the usual manner by consecutive numbers, beginning with that next higher than the series of the previous survey. Their areas will be calculated in strict conformity with the principles heretofore discussed; that is, by deduction of the returned and verified mineral area (which need not appear upon the plat) from the nominal area of the legal subdivision, where the section is in reasonable agreement with its record and requires no field subdivision, or, in the case of defective sections, by balanced traverses, based upon the actual field returns of the combined subdivisional and segregation surveys.

15. Upon completion of the office work and approval of the survey, the duplicate plat and transcript of field notes will be transmitted to the General Land Office for examination and acceptance.

16. Inquiries as to procedure in special cases, and the requests for instructions or explanation covering minor items of practice not herein noted, should be addressed to the Commissioner of the General Land Office in connection with the specific survey to which they are referable.

Very respectfully,

CLAY TALLMAN, Commissioner.

SURVEYS OF RECLAMATION LANDS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, March 23, 1916.

The COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

DEAR MR. COMMISSIONER: I have your communication of February 19, 1916, recommending, in concurrence with the Director of the Reclamation Service, that the surveys required to segregate lands reserved for reclamation purposes be made by officers under your direction and paid for out of the regular appropriation for the surveying of public lands, and also that the subdivision of tracts into areas of less than 40 acres, which are to be irrigated, shall be surveyed and the cost thereof made and paid for in like manner.

The act of June 27, 1906 (34 Stat. 519), provides that—> Whenever, in the opinion of the Secretary of the Interior, a lesser area than 40 acres may be sufficient for the support of a family on lands to be irrigated under the provisions of the reclamation act, he may fix a lesser area than 40 acres as the minimum entry and may establish farm units of not less than 10 acres.

It further provides:

> That wherever it may be necessary, for the purpose of accurate description, to further subdivide lands to be irrigated under the provisions of said reclamation act, the Secretary of the Interior may cause subdivision surveys to be made by the officers of the Reclamation Service, which subdivisions shall be rectangular in form, except in cases where irregular subdivisions may be necessary in order to provide for practicable and economical irrigation. Such subdivision surveys shall be noted upon the tract books in the General Land Office, and they shall be paid for from the reclamation fund.

Departmental regulations of June 1, 1912, provide in section 1, as follows:

> Whenever it may be necessary for the purpose of accurate description or economic irrigation to further subdivide the public lands to be irrigated or to segregate lands to be reserved or appropriated for reclamation purposes under the provisions of the reclamation act, the director of the Reclamation Service shall cause such surveys to be made under the following regulations.

The director states, with reference to the lands surrounding completed reservoirs, that in many instances only small portions of the regular survey subdivisions are used or needed for reclamation purposes, and the remaining portions should be restored to entry, but that the settlers in the several projects object to having the expense of such surveys placed upon them, as it is no benefit to the project to have the lands restored. The director, therefore, desires that these surveys be made by surveyors under your direction and the cost thereof paid from the appropriation for the survey of public lands.

It will be observed that the law provides that lands which are to be irrigated may be further subdivided by officers of the Reclamation Service, and that the cost thereof shall be paid from the reclamation fund. Therefore, the department has no authority to provide for payment for such surveys out of any other fund, but the law does not require the cost of surveys for segregating lands reserved for reclamation purposes, as distinguished from lands to be irrigated, to be paid out of the reclamation fund. The act is silent as to such lands. Hence, it will be proper for you to cause such surveys to be made and paid for out of the regular appropriation for surveying public lands. This arrangement will be provided for by amendment of paragraphs 1 and 5 of the regulations of June 1, 1912, and they are accordingly hereby amended to read as follows:

1. Whenever it may be necessary for the purpose of accurate description or economic irrigation to further subdivide the public lands to be irrigated under the provisions of the reclamation act, the Director of the Reclamation Service shall cause such surveys to be made under the following regulations.

5. Necessary retracement and restoration work shall be performed for the location of corners to which connections are to be made.

You will advise the director hereof.

Very truly yours,

Andrieus A. Jones,
First Assistant Secretary.

Circular No. 520

REGULATIONS GOVERNING APPLICATIONS FOR RESURVEYS UNDER THE ACT OF MARCH 3, 1909

Department of the Interior,
Washington, D. C., January 13, 1917.

The following regulations are issued to govern applications for resurveys under the act of March 3, 1909 (35 Stat. 845), as amended by the joint resolution of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 884), authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to cause to be made such resurveys of the public lands as after full investigation he may deem essential to properly mark the boundaries of the public lands remaining undisposed of. They are prompted by a desire to conserve the funds now available for the execution of resurveys and to insure their expenditure in the manner most advantageous to the general public interest, and further to eliminate petitions which possess no intrinsic merit, without prejudice to the legitimate demands for resurveys contemplated by the said act.

The application when perfected under the following requirements should be submitted to the United States surveyor general of the district in which the lands are situated, or in case the United States surveyor general's office for that district has been abolished the petition may be transmitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office at Washington, D. C.

The regulations are as follows:

1. As a general rule, and in the absence of any particular governmental purpose to be subserved, no township is eligible for resurvey unless title to at least 50 per centum of the area of the lands embraced therein remains in the United States. For the purpose of determining the eligibility of a township under this rule, lands covered by approved selections, school sections, and entries upon which final certificates or patents have been issued are to be considered as alienated lands. Townships within the primary limits of railroad land grants are generally ineligible.

2. The applicants for the resurvey of any township are required to present satisfactory prima facie evidence of the necessity for such action, based either upon general obliteration of evidences of the original survey or upon conditions so grossly defective as to preclude the possibility of a reasonably certain identification of the subdivisions of the subsisting survey or a satisfactory local restoration thereof.

3. A majority of the settlers in each township are required to join in the application and in addition there must appear the indorsements of the entrymen and owners, including the State, whose holdings represent the major part of the area entered or patented, with a description opposite each name of the lands actually occupied, entered, or owned, and a statement as to whether the applicant is a settler, entryman, or owner thereof. Where an entryman or owner, including the State, has failed for any reason whatsoever to join in the application, evidence of service of notice upon him for at least 30 days in advance of the filing of the application is required in order that he may be afforded ample opportunity to make timely protest against the granting of such resurvey if in his opinion such action is undesirable.

4. Applications for the resurvey of each township must be supported by evidence in the form of an affidavit, preferably from the county or other competent surveyor, showing in detail that the evidences of the original survey have been obliterated to such an extent as to make it impracticable to apply the suggestions of the circular issued by this office for the necessary restoration of the lines and corners in the proper identification of the legal subdivisions occupied by the present or prospective entrymen or that the original survey is so grossly defective as to preclude the possibility of identifying or restoring the boundaries of the sections.

5. In general, no resurvey will be undertaken unless the preliminary examination of the township develops evidence of existing settlement and agricultural possibilities sufficient to support the presumption that the unappropriated lands therein are such as to attract bona fide entrymen, thus eliminating townships which, although theoretically eligible, are of such a physical character that the resurvey thereof would serve no useful purpose.

If upon receipt of the application the necessity for the resurvey is made apparent and the township is shown to be eligible therefor, a United States surveyor will be assigned under appropriate instructions to make an actual field examination to verify the correctness of the applicants' allegations upon which the resurvey petition rests, and if the report of his investigation establishes the necessity for an official resurvey the matter will then be laid before the Secretary of the Interior with a request for authority to proceed with the actual field work.

GENERAL

In the application of the terms of this act it is not intended that there shall be undertaken any work involving the mere reestablishment of lost or obliterated or misplaced corners in a limited area of a township, such work being within the province of the local surveyors, and the authority of the surveyor general's office will be limited to the giving of advice in accordance with the circular for the restoration of lost or obliterated corners. Employees of the Government are prohibited from participating in the resurvey of a township, the reestablishment of lost corners, or in the subdivision of sections for private parties, even if the expense is borne by the county or municipal authorities or by individuals. To permit any such procedure would bring the Government into controversy with parties who feel aggrieved at the conclusions reached and would make the Government a party to various suits involving lands in private ownership in which it was not a real party in interest by virtue of ownership in the lands affected, and would ultimately extend to such calls for assistance from owners of private lands in settling their disputes as could not be met without detriment to the purpose for which the appropriations under the control of this office are made.

The Government's real interest in the resurvey of the public lands is well stated in the said act of March 3, 1909, "to properly mark the boundaries of the public lands remaining undisposed of." Its duty being thus defined, this office has consistently refrained from attempting to do more in the location of corners of privately owned lands in townships being resurveyed than to place such corners where the surrounding evidences of survey unquestionably point to one conclusion as to the proper place for the reestablishment of a lost corner and, if conflicts arise out of the undisputed location of such corners, to survey out the claims by metes and bounds, showing the resulting conflicts and leaving the adjudication of the question to the local courts having jurisdiction over the lands involved.

The duty of this office in making resurveys may therefore again be stated to be the proper marking of the boundaries of the public lands remaining undisposed of, and this only after full investigation as to the necessity therefor.

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

First Assistant Secretary.

Circular No. 629[4]

REGULATIONS GOVERNING APPLICATIONS FOR RESURVEYS UNDER THE ACT OF SEPTEMBER 21, 1918

Department of the Interior,
Washington, D. C., December 20, 1918.

The act of Congress approved September 21, 1918 (40 Stat. 965), provides authority for the resurvey by the Government of townships heretofore held to be ineligible for resurvey under existing departmental regulations by reason of disposals in excess of 50 per cent of the total area thereof.

Briefly, the act provides that upon the application of the owners of three-fourths of the privately owned lands[5] in any township previously surveyed, or upon the application of a court of competent jurisdiction, accompanied by a deposit of funds sufficient to cover the estimated cost, inclusive of the necessary office work, of the resurvey of all of the privately owned lands in such township, the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall be authorized, in his discretion, subject to the supervisory authority of the Secretary of the Interior, to cause to be made a resurvey of the township in question in accordance with the laws and regulations governing surveys and resurveys of the public lands; the cost of the resurvey of the residue of the public lands in such township to be paid by the Government from the current annual appropriation for the survey and resurvey of the public lands in addition to the portion thereof made available for resurveys and retracements by the provisions of the act of March 3, 1909 (35 Stat. 845), as amended by joint resolution of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 884). The total cost of the resurvey of the township is thus divided between the Government and the petitioners in proportion to the extent of their respective holdings.

It is further provided that any portion of such deposit in excess of the actual cost of the field and office work incident to such resurvey of privately owned lands shall be repaid pro rata to the applicants for resurvey or to their legal representatives.

Attention is directed to the fact that the legislation contained in this act is supplemental to, and is in no sense a repeal or a modification of, similar legislation heretofore enacted, and, consequently, applications for resurvey under the provisions of the act of March 3, 1909, will, when submitted in accordance with the regulations (Circular No. 520) of January 13, 1917 (45 L. D. 603), be received and acted upon as usual.

Applications for resurvey based upon the provisions of the act of September 21, 1918, should, when perfected under the following requirements, be submitted to the United States surveyor general for the district in which the lands are situated, or in case the United States surveyor general's office for that district has been abolished, the petition may be transmitted to the Commissioner of the General Land Office at Washington, D. C. An exception to the foregoing rule occurs in the case of the State of Nebraska, where applications should be filed with the assistant supervisor of surveys at Neligh, Nebr. Prior to filing formal application, however, the interested parties should obtain from the proper officer, as above designated, an estimate of the cost of the proposed resurvey. (See sec. 4.)

[5] For the purpose of the administration of this act, lands embraced in school sections, in approved State and railroad selections, and in entries upon which final certificates or patent has issued are regarded as alienated lands.

In general, all preliminary correspondence and all requests for information as to status and progress should be addressed to the proper surveyor general, and such inquiries should not be referred to the Commissioner of the General Land Office unless the district is one in which the office of the United States surveyor general or its equivalent is no longer maintained.

The regulations are as follows:

SECTION 1. The applicants for resurvey are required to preface their petition by the statement that the extent of privately owned lands within the township is in excess of 50 per cent of the total area thereof. If necessary, information in this connection may be obtained by the petitioners from the register and receiver of the district land office having local jurisdiction.

Failure to comply with the foregoing condition, or material error in the showing made, will not only result in delaying action upon the petition, but may require its rejection if it is found that the township is not properly subject to resurvey under the terms of the governing act.

SEC. 2. The applicants for the resurvey of any township are required to present satisfactory prima facie evidence of the necessity for such action. In general, it must be shown that the evidences of the original survey are so widely obliterated or that the prevailing survey conditions are so grossly defective as to preclude the satisfactory identification of the subdivisions of the subsisting survey or that the evidences of the original survey are in such an advanced state of deterioration that action looking to their preservation and perpetuation is expendient as in the public interest.

SEC. 3. The owners of three-fourths of the privately owned lands within the township are required to join in the application, and all petitioners in whom ownership is vested, either individuals, the State, or corporations such as railroad companies whose interests are involved, are further required to supply, following their respective signatures, an accurate description by legal subdivision, section, township, and range, of the lands to which title is claimed. Moreover, it must appear that notice of the proposed resurvey has been served upon all owners who have for any reason failed to join in the petition, and, in addition, it is highly desirable that all record entrymen who, under the terms of the act are not required to become parties to the petition, be similarly informed to the end that their objections, if any, may be heard and subsequent protest based upon the plea of ignorance may, in so far as possible, be avoided.

SEC. 4. The deposit required of the petitioners by law must accompany the application and must be made in the amount, at the place and in the manner prescribed by the instructions which will accompany the estimate previously secured from the surveyor general or other appropriate officer.

Upon receipt by the proper district officer of an application conforming to the foregoing requirements, he will, after due consideration, transmit the same to the General Land Office with such recommendations as he may deem appropriate. In general, a preliminary field examination will be authorized by the commissioner in order to verify the correctness of the allegations upon which the resurvey petition rests and for the further purpose of determining the technical procedure which should properly be adopted under the existing field conditions, and the probable effect thereof upon the rights involved, unless the showing made by the petitioners, when considered in connection with the information made available by the records of this office, is such as to indicate that field examination may properly be waived. Inasmuch, however, as the purpose of such investigations is largely administrative, the expense thereof, when authorized, will be defrayed from the current annual appropriation for surveying the public lands, and no portion thereof will be charged against the deposit made by the applicants.

GENERAL

The cost of resurvey procedure is as a rule considerably in excess of that incident to the execution of original surveys and may range between rather wide limits. Where the obliteration is not excessive and the evidences of the original survey are harmoniously related, extensive verifying retracements will be unnecessary and ordinary dependent methods of resurvey can usually be applied. In such cases, the expense involved will probably not exceed $1,200 per township. If, however, the obliteration is general or total, many miles of preliminary retracement may be required in order to obtain technical control, and where, by reason of errors in the original survey, the existing evidences thereof are discordant and conflicting locations have resulted, the procedure required may, in the case of densely entered townships, involve an expense of $3,000 or more per township.

The applicants for resurvey should understand, therefore, that although the estimate supplied by the surveyor general will be as nearly correct as the available information will permit, its accuracy can not be guaranteed, and, consequently, all such estimates are subject to revision, if necessary, as the work proceeds and the field conditions are more fully developed. Any deposit in excess of actual cost will be returned to the applicants as provided by law, but in cases where the cost exceeds the deposit made in accordance with the estimate, an additional deposit will be required, failing which, operations will be suspended.

In the application of the terms of this act it is not intended that there shall be undertaken any work involving the mere reestablishment of lost or obliterated or misplaced corners in a limited area of a township—such work being within the province of the local surveyor—and the authority of the surveyor-general's office will be restricted to the giving of advice in accordance with the circular for the restoration of lost or obliterated corners. Employees of the Government are prohibited from participating in the resurvey of a township or the reestablishment of lost corners or in the subdivision of sections for private parties, even if the expense is borne by the county or State authorities or by individuals, except as such action is specifically authorized by the Commissioner of the General Land Office in accordance with the provisions of the existing statutes.

Attention is directed to the fact that whereas the expressed purpose of the resurveys authorized by the act of March 3, 1909, supra, is primarily "to properly mark the boundaries of the public lands remaining undisposed of," the evident intent of the legislation now enacted is to reestablish the boundaries of those lands title to which has passed from the United States. The technical process and the results attained are substantially identical under either act, but the administrative procedure and the regulations necessary to safeguard the interests of the Government and those of the petitioners are dissimilar, and, consequently, it is important that the foregoing distinction should be clearly recognized by the applicants for resurvey to the end that the petition may be based upon the legislation under which the township is eligible.

ORDER IN RE ISSUANCE OF PATENTS FOR LANDS EMBRACED IN TOWNSHIPS THE SURVEYS OF WHICH HAVE BEEN SUSPENDED IN CONTEMPLATION OF RESURVEYS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, March 1, 1920.

To Chiefs of Divisions of the General Land Office.

Sirs: By a circular of this office promulgated under date of December 28, 1914 (No. 369), it was directed that, where an entry had been made of lands in a township the survey and plat of which had been subsequently suspended pending a resurvey, and where the entryman had, prior to such suspension, fully earned title to said land, patent would be granted, notwithstanding such suspension, but that in all other cases final certificate only would issue, indorsed in manner so as to refer to the pendency of a resurvey, patent to be delayed to await completion of such resurvey.

Following further and recent consideration of the subject matter of said instruction, it has been determined that the actual and certain prejudice resulting to entrymen of such lands from long delayed issuance of patents is more to be avoided than are such apprehended or real difficulties as may arise from abrogation of the practice prescribed by the above-mentioned circular.

Said Circular No. 369 is, therefore, now and hereby canceled and vacated. In all cases now pending or hereafter presented in which an entry has been made pursuant to a recognized public land survey and plat thereof, suspension of such survey shall not be permitted to delay procedure by the entryman for the perfection of his said entry, nor the issuance to him of a patent, whenever and as soon as he has otherwise established his right to such patent. In all such cases any patent so issued will describe the granted land in accordance with the plat of survey pursuant to which entry was made.

CIRCULAR NO. 880

USE OF IRON POSTS IN FOREST HOMESTEAD ENTRY SURVEYS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, March 10, 1923.

United States Surveyors General.

GENTLEMEN: Provision was made for the use of iron corner posts for homestead entry surveys by letter " E," dated February 10, 1916, addressed to the Forester, Forest Service, but details as to marks were omitted. As the use of the standard iron corner post, with concrete core and brass cap, for monumenting such surveys, is becoming general, it becomes necessary to devise a system of marks to furnish a ready identification of the character and position of the monument which bears the marks. Obviously the marks must be in harmony with the requirements of Circular No. 235, sections 7, 9, 12, 13, 14, and 16.

The markings upon the brass cap on an iron post should always be made to read from the south side of the monument, and all posts should be marked with the year number at the date when established, which should appear in the south segment of the cap. Above the date will be cut a diagram representing the lines of the survey involved. The numbers, designating the corner and the survey, will be cut, with appropriate steel dies, in that sector of the cap's diagram which faces and represents the tract of the survey.

The accompanying diagram illustrates the desired markings for all the corners of entry surveys.[j] Where, due to a road-exemption strip, two or more tracts are involved in the survey, it will be unnecessary to add to the marks the alphabetical designation of the tract, as all corners are numbered serially regardless of tracts.

Some confusion exists as to the placement of pits (the mound of earth is no longer required) when used as accessories for closing corners. To avoid this, it is only necessary to remember that the closing line is always the line of the entry survey, which closes upon, or is projected from, the section line. Three pits, 18 inches square, 12 inches deep, are required; one on the closing line and one each to the right and left of the corner monument on the section line (or whatever line is closed upon) at a distance of 3 feet, measuring from the nearest side of the pit; the removed earth will be scattered. No pit should be dug in a roadway, or in ground where the surface conditions are such as to insure their destruction, or where suitable stone for a mound is at hand.

[j] The diagram which accompanied Circular No. 880 has not been reproduced. Instructions governing the marking of corner monuments are contained in secs. 255 to 315 of the Survey Manual of 1919.

While the Forester, in his letter of August 28, 1915, suggested an iron pipe, 3 feet long, 2 inches in diameter, filled with concrete, with 2¼-inch bronze cap, the use of such a post 1 inch in diameter, set three-fourths its length in the ground, will be satisfactory, the Forest Service concurring.

Very respectfully,

HOMESTEAD SURVEYS UNDER THE ACT OF JUNE 11, 1906

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, June 13, 1924.

United States Surveyors General.

Gentlemen: (1) Future special instructions issued for homestead entry surveys under the act of June 11, 1906, and the current appropriative act, for the segregation of entered land, will include a statement from the register and receiver of the proper land office, to be furnished, with two carbon copies, at your request, describing the land as entered and giving the status of the adjoining land.

(2) When a boundary of patented land, designated by the legal subdivisions of existing surveys, is identical with a boundary of the entry survey, it is necessary that the corners of the sectional subdivision defining such common boundary be actually established upon the ground. In addition to the proper marks as the corner of the legal subdivision, such corner will receive the serial corner number of the entry survey, nothwithstanding a change of direction is not involved.

REGULATIONS GOVERNING SURVEY OF UNSURVEYED LANDS APPLIED FOR UNDER THE ACT OF OCTOBER 2, 1917 (40 STAT. 297), AUTHORIZING EXPLORATION FOR AND DISPOSITION OF POTASSIUM—AMENDATORY OF CIRCULAR NO. 594

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, September 24, 1924.

Registers and Receivers, United States Surveyors General, Supervisor of Surveys.

Gentlemen: In order to establish a uniform procedure for the survey of unsurveyed lands to be included in any potash patent under authority of the act of October 2, 1917 (40 Stat. 297), the following regulations will be observed and all existing regulations in conflict therewith are hereby rescinded and rendered of no effect to the extent to which they conflict:

(1) When application for patent is approved, involving unsurveyed public lands, the United States surveyor general of the State or district in which the lands are situated will be requested to prepare an estimate of the cost of surveying the sections in which the claim will probably be situated, notify the General Land Office and the applicant thereof, and instruct the latter to make a deposit, conformable to the estimate, with the surveyor general.

(2) The surveyor general will receive and receipt for the deposit when made and hold the money as a trust fund. He will thereupon prepare and submit to the General Land Office for approval special instructions providing for the subdivision of the township in its entirety in which the claim is situated, the expense of the field work to be paid from the regular appropriation for surveying the public lands.

(3) When the survey is accepted and the plat filed in the local land office, the claim will be adjusted to the resulting subdivisions as shown upon said plat. The cost of surveying the particular lands included within the claim thus adjusted will be ascertained by prorating the total cost of surveying the township to the area thereof. The amount thus ascertained will be deducted from the claimant's deposit and credited to the appropriation for surveying the public lands and the balance of the deposit, if any, returned to the depositor, his assign, or legal representative. An additional deposit will be required when necessary.

Thus each claimant will be required to pay for surveying only the lands to be included in his patent and at the same time the survey of the public lands will be carried forward under the rectangular system, township by township, as contemplated by law.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

> The office of surveyor general is hereby abolished, effective July 1, 1925, and the administration of all activities theretofore in charge of surveyors general, including the necessary personnel, all records, furniture, and other equipment, and all supplies of their respective offices, are hereby transferred to and consolidated with the Field Surveying Service, under the jurisdiction of the United States Supervisor of Surveys, who shall hereafter administer same in association with the surveying operations in his charge and under such regulations as the Secretary of the Interior may provide.
> Surveying public lands.—For surveys and resurveys of public lands, examination of surveys heretofore made and reported to be defective or fraudulent, inspecting mineral deposits, coal fields, and timber districts, making fragmentary surveys, and such other surveys or examinations as may be required for identification of lands for purposes of evidence in any suit or proceeding in behalf of the United States, under the supervision of the Commissioner of the General Land Office and direction of the Secretary of the Interior, $840,290: Provided, That the sum of not exceeding 10 per centum of the amount hereby appropriated may be expended by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, for the purchase of metal or other equally durable monuments to be used for public-land survey corners wherever practicable: Provided further, That not to exceed $10,000 of this appropriation may be expended for salaries of employees of the field surveying service temporarily detailed to the General Land Office: Provided further, That not to exceed $15,000 of this appropriation may be used for the survey, classification, and sale of the lands and timber of the so-called Oregon and California Railroad lands and the Coos Bay Wagon Road lands: Provided further, That not to exceed $50,000 of this appropriation may be used for surveys and resurveys, under the rectangular system provided by law, of public lands deemed to be valuable for oil and oil shale.

By this legislation the entire surveying service of the General Land Office is brought under the immediate jurisdiction of the supervisor of surveys, who is charged with the administration of all matters pertaining to that service under the supervision of the commissioner and direction of the secretary.

In furtherance of the consolidation of the surveying service, the secretary has directed that the Division of Surveys of the General Land Office be under the general supervision of the supervisor of surveys, who, under the commissioner, shall prescribe the methods and procedure to be followed.

PUBLIC LAND SURVEYS

With this single surveying organization to perform all field and office duties—administrative, engineering, fiscal or otherwise—ranging from the inception of a survey to its acceptance, the following regulations will govern:

Applications by settlers for original surveys will be the subject of appropriate investigation by the direct cadastral engineer (formerly the assistant supervisor of surveys), and if the survey is found to be merited special instructions will be prepared at once. Other surveys to cover lands of known agricultural value, or deemed advisable from an administrative standpoint, will also be made the subject of original consideration by the district cadastral engineer, and covered by appropriate special instructions to be prepared at once. All special instructions must be submitted to the General Land Office for examination. The approval of the special instructions by the General Land Office will carry with it the authorization for the survey.

Upon completion of the surveys in the field, township by township, formal report will be made to the General Land Office of that fact, in lieu of the monthly progress report system now in use.[7]

Under the corps of competent engineers now constituting the field surveying service, and the close supervision exercised by the supervisor of surveys and the district cadastral engineers, the resulting surveys should be of a high standard, requiring but a single examination and review to test the sufficiency and accuracy of the work. This examination will be made under the supervision of the district cadastral engineer, and will cover both the field and office features of the accomplished work.

All surveying returns now prepared for the approval of the surveyor general, or ex-officio surveyor general, will, after June 30, 1925, be prepared for the approval of the supervisor of surveys, and when so approved will be forwarded to the General Land Office.

Upon receipt of the returns by the General Land Office, the survey will be formally accepted without further examination, unless, by reason of special or unusual conditions attending any particular case, the commissioner deems it advisable to further scrutinize the returns or test the accuracy of the work.

The existing practice and procedure of handling resurveys and special surveys will be continued.

MINERAL SURVEYS

The appointment of United States mineral surveyors is under the jurisdiction of the supervisor of surveys, and all such appointments will be made by him under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe.

Orders for the survey of mining claims will be issued by the office cadastral engineers (formerly the technical and administrative head of the surveyor general's office force) who will be authorized by the supervisor of surveys to administer the work in connection therewith and approve plats and field notes of such surveys, and otherwise to perform the duties prescribed by the mining regulations to be performed by the surveyors general in connection with the survey of mining claims, including certification as to expenditures made upon the claims.

ACCOUNTS [8]

The discontinuance of the office of surveyors general on July 1, 1925, necessitates a change in the method of handling accounts, allotments, and disbursements.

Subject to the provisions of the appropriation act that 10 per cent of the amount appropriated may be expended for the purchase of metal monuments, $10,000 for salaries of employees of the field surveying service temporarily detailed to the General Land Office, $15,000 for the survey, classification, and sale of the lands and timber of the so-called Oregon and California Railroad lands, and $50,000 for surveys and resurveys of oil and oil-shale areas, and deducting

$3,500 for stationery, as provided for elsewhere in the act, all matters pertaining to the accounts, allotments, and disbursements will be handled in the office of the supervisor of surveys, at Denver, with the single exception of Alaska.

The administration of all activities assigned by law to the surveyors general must continue until the close of business on June 30, 1925, but it is believed that the other duties now discharged by these officers, especially in the matter of the disbursements and accounts incident to the execution of the public land surveys in the field, should be taken over by the supervisor of surveys at the earliest opportunity in order that difficulties may be avoided at the end of the fiscal year.

Until June 30, whether vouchers are paid in Denver, or by the respective surveyors general, they will be posted on the cost records in the office of the surveyor general. Thereafter, vouchers to be paid by the special disbursing agent under the centralization plan will be sent to the district cadastral engineer, through the office cadastral engineer, in whose office the vouchers will be posted on his cost-keeping record, and the fact of such posting evidenced by the office cadastral engineer's initials over the space for the district cadastral engineer's signature as approving officer.

To the end that prompt payment may be made of the many vouchers coming to a central office, it will be expected that each district cadastral engineer will, before approving a voucher, give it such an examination, or require such an examination to be given by some one under his supervision, as shall insure that the voucher is in proper form, properly signed by the claimant and certified, extensions carefully carried out, and that it represents duly authorized and unpaid expenses, or, if not already authorized, that a full statement of the facts and a specific recommendation in the matter is attached.

Any special deposits that are not to go into the Treasury and be advanced therefrom as an appropriation, such as special deposits for resurveys (act of September 21, 1918, Circular No. 630), special deposits for potash surveys (act of October 2, 1917, Circular No. 961), and deposits for oil lease surveys (act of February 25, 1920), will be made with the special disbursing agent, who will deposit them with the Treasurer to his official credit (Form 6599) and disbursed or otherwise disposed of in accordance with instructions.

Each office cadastral engineer will be required to file a bond and will receive and receipt for moneys tendered for office work (transcripts, copies of records, plats, etc.), including office work in connection with mineral surveys, and for sales of Government property. Such moneys, together with the duplicate receipts, will be forwarded to the special disbursing agent at Denver. At the end of each month the special disbursing agent will be furnished with an abstract of all collections and of moneys to be returned or applied on account of office work not in connection with mineral surveys. No other accounting will be required of the office cadastral engineer.

The special disbursing agent at Denver will account for the moneys received for office work not in connection with mineral surveys in accordance with Circular No. 483, and for proceeds of Government property in accordance with paragraphs 156, 187, and 188 of Circular No. 616. Moneys received on account of office work in connection with mineral surveys will be deposited by the special disbursing agent to his personal credit, and refunds will be made on direct settlement, as at present, in accordance with the act of February 24, 1909 (35 Stat. 645).

Very respectfully,

Approved April 7, 1925.

Circular No. 996 (Supplemental)[9]

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, June 16, 1925.

To all District Cadastral Engineers and Division Inspectors, General Land Office.

Gentlemen: Circular No. 996, approved April 7, 1925, which deals generally with the subject of reorganization, provides, in that portion which relates to the execution of original official surveys, that:

> Upon completion of the surveys in the field, township by township, formal report will be made to the General Land Office of that fact, in lieu of the monthly progress report system now in use.

In reporting under the foregoing paragraph, the district cadastral engineer will prepare his letter of advice in triplicate, the original and one carbon to be forwarded to the Commissioner of the General Land Office and the third copy to be transmitted directly to the division inspector having appropriate local jurisdiction. Where less than a full township is involved the report will list any and all school sections embraced therein.

Upon receipt of such notification the division inspector will take appropriate action looking to examination and report with a view to classification of the lands, with particular reference to the school sections affected, subject, however, to such instructions as may be received from the General Land Office with reference to forest or other withdrawals which would render field examination unnecessary.

Very respectfully,

Circular No. 1042[10]

INSTRUCTIONS RELATIVE TO PROCEDURE IN PUBLIC SURVEY OFFICES—APPOINTMENTS OF UNITED STATES MINERAL SURVEYORS—MINERAL SURVEYS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, November 13, 1925.

To the Surveying Service of the General Land Office:

For administrative purposes, each local or branch office under the jurisdiction of the supervisor of surveys—former office of the surveyor general—will be designated " public survey office " at the place in which the office is located.

[10] See Circular No. 39, p. 1442.

The returns of all classes of surveys executed by the surveying service of the General Land Office will be prepared for the approval and certification of the supervisor of surveys at Denver, Colo. All classes of surveys executed by other agencies, such as mineral surveys, forest homestead entry surveys, and all records prepared from the files of the public survey offices which are not the direct result of field operations but require certification, such as supplemental plats, segregation diagrams of mineral surveys, certified copies of records, etc., will be approved or certified to as the case may be by the office cadastral engineer. This procedure will relieve the supervisor of surveys at Denver and the district cadastral engineers from attention to matters which are handled by the public survey office from the beginning and to which the office cadastral engineer is competent to certify.

PROCEDURE RELATIVE TO MINERAL SURVEYS

Application for appointment as United States mineral surveyor should be addressed to the public survey office in the district for which appointment is desired. Here a through examination will be made of the applicant's technical qualifications to fill the position, and if passed in a satisfactory manner, the application will be forwarded to the division inspector for report as to the applicant's general reputation and fitness. Upon receipt of favorable report, recommendation for appointment will be made to the supervisor of surveys, who will issue the appointment through the public survey office and the applicant will be called upon to file the customary bond. The bond, if executed in proper form, will be forwarded to the supervisor of surveys for approval, together with the report of the division inspector, and these papers passed on to this office for acceptance of the bond. Notice of acceptance will be mailed to the public survey office, with copy to the supervisor of surveys, and the surveyor advised at once by the public survey office. Adverse report, as heretofore, will be sent direct to this office by the division inspector, but with notice at the same time to the public survey office.

In the matter of reappointments, notification should be given the surveyor 60 days prior to the expiration of his bond, with request that he signify his intentions regarding its renewal. If answered in the affirmative, the division inspector will be called upon for the customary report. Favorable report will be followed by notice to file renewal bond, the approval and acceptance of which will follow the regular procedure for original bonds.

With proper notation retained in each public survey office, the biennial report as to sufficiency of sureties and calls for renewal of expiring bonds can be made by the office cadastral engineer. In case of failure to file renewal bond, resignation, or death, the name of the deputy should be dropped from the list in any district, and this office notified of the action through the office of the supervisor of surveys.

Application for the survey of a mining claim, accompanied by the necessary certified copy of location certificate and requisite deposit, should be made to the public survey office for the district in which the claim is located. The office cadastral engineer will receipt for the deposit, issue the order for survey, if appropriate, administer all work in connection therewith, approving plat and field notes of such survey, and otherwise perform the duties prescribed by mining regulations to be performed by the former surveyor general, including certification as to expenditure made upon the claim.

Very respectfully,

CIRCULAR No. 1102

REGULATIONS GOVERNING SURVEY OF UNSURVEYED LANDS APPLIED FOR UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF THE ACT OF FEBRUARY 25, 1920 (41 STAT. 437), RELATING TO THE LEASING OF LANDS CONTAINING VALUABLE DEPOSITS OF PHOSPHATES, OIL OR GAS, OIL SHALE OR SODIUM

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, November 18, 1926.

United States Supervisor of Surveys, Registers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: Under the provisions of section 10 of the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 440), relating to the leasing of public lands containing deposits of phosphates, of section 14 of said act relating to the leasing of lands embraced in any prospecting permit therefor upon which valuable deposits of oil or gas have been discovered, of section 21 of said act relating to the leasing of lands containing deposits of oil shale or land adjacent thereto, and of section 24 of said act relating to the leasing of lands embraced in any prospecting permit therefor upon which valuable deposits of sodium have been discovered, it is provided that in case the lands in question are unsurveyed, they shall be surveyed by the Government at the expense of the applicant for lease, in accordance with rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior.

In order that uniform procedure may be established in case of application for lease of unsurveyed lands under the provisions of any of the above-enumerated sections of said act the following regulations will be observed:

When the application for lease shall have received favorable consideration by the department, the applicant will be required to file with the district cadastral engineer of the public survey office of the State or district in which the lands are situated an application for an estimate of the cost of surveying the sections in which the claim will probably be located and upon receipt of such estimate, the applicant will be required to deposit with such cadastral engineer the estimated cost of surveying such sections, the deposit to be held as a trust fund. Upon receipt of such deposit, the district cadastral engineer shall prepare and submit to the General Land Office for approval special instructions providing for the subdivision of the township in its entirety in which the claim is located, the expense of the field work to be paid from the regular appropriation for surveying the public lands.

When the survey is accepted and the plat filed in the local land office, the claim will be adjusted to the resulting subdivisions as shown upon said plat. The cost of surveying the particular lands included within the claim thus adjusted will be ascertained by prorating the total cost of surveying the township to the area thereof. The amount thus ascertained will be deducted from the claimant's deposit and credited to the appropriation for surveying the public lands and the balance of the deposit, if any, returned to the depositor or his legal representative.

Very respectfully,

Thos. C. Havell, Acting Commissioner.

SWAMP LANDS

UNITED STATES SWAMP LAND REGULATIONS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., March 17, 1896.

As soon as practicable after the passage of the swamp land grant of September 28, 1850, viz, on the 21st of November, 1850, the commissioner transmitted to the governors of the respective States to which the grant applied copies of office circular setting forth the provisions of said act, giving instructions thereunder, and allowing the States to elect which of two methods they would adopt for the purpose of designating the swamp lands, viz:

1. The field notes of Government survey could be taken as the basis for selections, and all lands shown by them to be swamp or overflowed, within the meaning of the act, which were otherwise vacant and unappropriated September 28, 1850, would pass to the States.
2. The States could select the lands by their own agents and report the same to the United States surveyor general with proof as to the character of the same.

The following States elected to make the field notes of survey the basis for determining what lands passed to them under the grant, viz: Louisiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin. Later the State of Minnesota adopted this method of settlement.

The authorities of the following States elected to make their selections by their own agents and present proof that the lands selected were of the character contemplated by the swamp grant, viz: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Mississippi, Missouri, and Ohio. Later Oregon adopted this method.

The States of Alabama, Arkansas, Indiana, Mississippi, and Ohio adopted the second method at the beginning, but they changed to the first method, i. e., to the field notes of survey, as a basis of settlement, in recent years.

The authorities of California did not adopt either method, and the passage of the act of July 23, 1866, rendered such action on their part unnecessary.

In Louisiana the selections under the grant of March 2, 1849, forming the bulk of the selections in said State, are made in accordance with the terms of said act by deputy surveyors, under the direction of the United States surveyor general, at the expense of the State.

All lands properly selected and reported to this office as swamp are placed of record in books especially prepared for that purpose. Thereafter the selections are compared with the other records of the office, and lists of such lands as are shown to be swamp or overflowed, within the meaning of the act, and that are otherwise free from conflict are made out by this office and submitted to the Secretary of the Interior with the recommendation that the same be approved.

When the lists have been approved by the Secretary and returned to this office duplicate copies of the same are made out, one of which is transmitted to the governor of the State, with the statement that on receipt of his request patent will issue to the State for the lands. The other list is transmitted to the register and receiver of the land office in which the lands are situated, and they are requested to examine the same with the records of their office and report any conflicts found.

Upon receipt of reply to the letters of this office as above, patents issue to the State for all the lands embraced in said lists so far as they are free from conflict.

Under the provisions of the act of March 2, 1849, granting swamp lands to the State of Louisiana, a certified copy of the list approved by the Secretary of the Interior, transmitted to the governor, has the force and effect of a patent.

The "list" referred to in section 2 of the act of September 28, 1850, is held to be the copy of the list approved by the Secretary of the Interior sent to the governor, upon which his request for patent is based.

The following are the swamp land regulations and decisions:

* * * * * * *

The grant of swamp lands, under acts of March 2, 1849, and September 28, 1850, is a grant in presenti. See United States Supreme Court decisions Railroad Co. v. Fremont County (9. Wall. 89); Railroad Co. v. Smith (id. 95); Martin v. Marks (7 Otto 345); decisions of the Secretary of the Interior, December 23, 1851 (1 Lester's L. L. 549), April 25, 1862, and opinion of Attorney General, November 10, 1858 (1 Lester's L. L. 564).

The act of September 28, 1850, did not grant swamp and overflowed lands to States admitted into the Union after its passage. See decision of Secretary Interior, August 17, 1858; Commissioner General Land Office, May 2, 1871 (Copp's L. L. 474), affirmed by Secretary June 1, 1871, and Commissioner General Land Office, January 19, 1874 (Copp's L. L. 473), affirmed by Secretary July 9, 1875.

A State having elected to take swamp land by field notes and plats of survey is bound by them, as is also the Government. See Secretary's decisions, October 4, 1855 (1 Lester's L. L. 553), August 1, 1859 (id. 571), December 4, 1877 (4 Copp's L. O. 149), and September 19, 1879.

The claim of the State for indemnity for swamp lands sold or located subsequent to September 28, 1850, and prior to March 3, 1857, is not barred by failure of said States to have selected the lands prior to March 3, 1857. See Attorney General's opinion of April 20, 1866 (2 Lester, p. 382), adopted by the department April 23, 1866.

Under provisions of act of Congress approved March 2, 1855, as extended by act of March 3, 1857, indemnity proof must be taken by the State before an agent from the General Land Office, after the land for which indemnity is claimed shall have first been examined in the field by said agent. See Secretary's decision June 6, 1878 (5 Copp's L. O. p. 125).

Rules and regulations adopted by the General Land Office, with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, in regard to the proof required in claims for indemnity, under the act of March 2, 1855, extended by the act of March 3 1857 (sections 2482, 2483, and 2484, Revised Statutes of the United States), for "swamp and overflowed lands" sold by the United States prior to March 3, 1857

Department of the Interior,
Washington, D. C., August 12, 1878.

In order to dispose of the claims for indemnity provided for by the act of Congress approved March 2, 1855, entitled "An act for the relief of purchasers and locators of swamp and overflowed lands," which act was extended by the act of March 3, 1857 (as revised, now secs. 2482, 2483, and 2484 of the Revised Statutes of the United States), the following rules and regulations in regard to the "due proof" to be made to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, under the second section of said first-mentioned act (as revised, now sec. 2482, Revised Statutes of the United States), in order to obtain the indemnity aforesaid, are adopted:

The governor, or other duly authorized officer or agent, of the State claiming indemnity will be required to furnish this office with a list of the lands for which indemnity is claimed. As soon as practicable after the receipt of this list an agent will be appointed to make an examination in the field of each of the tracts therein described, and secure such reliable information as to the character thereof as can be obtained from personal examination and observation, and by inquiry of the owner or resident thereon, if any there be, and of persons residing in the vicinity having personal knowledge of the past and present character of the land. Upon the completion of this examination at least 30 days' notice will be given the State, or claimants under the State, of the time and place when and where testimony will be received touching the character of the lands described in the list filed in this office.

At the times and places thus fixed the agent of this office will attend for the purpose of examining witnesses and adopting such other measures as may be necessary to protect the interests of the Government.

The evidence offered by the State, or its agent, as to the character of the land, must be the testimony of at least two respectable and disinterested persons who have personal and exact knowledge of the condition of the land during a series of years extending to the date of the swamp grant (September 28, 1850).

Where the testimony of witnesses having a knowledge of the condition of the land at the date of the grant can not be obtained, the evidence of at least two respectable and disinterested persons, who have a knowledge of the land during a series of years extending as near to the date of the grant as possible, may be presented; but before presenting this secondary evidence the State agent should file his own affidavit setting forth fully and satisfactorily the reasons for the failure to present the testimony of the first-mentioned class of witnesses, and also setting forth that the witnesses whose testimony he offers have the best knowledge of the land extending nearest to September 28, 1850, of any that can be obtained.

The testimony of each witness should not only show that at the time when he first knew the land the greater part of each 40-acre tract, or other smallest legal subdivision, was swamp or overflowed within the meaning of the grant, but it must be full and explicit on the following points:

The cause of the swampy character or overflow, with the time of the year and the length of time such was the condition of the land, and how much or what proportion of the tract was thus rendered unfit for cultivation in its natural condition.

The nature and extent of the means necessary to reclaim the land.

The kinds of timber, plants, shrubs, grasses, etc., growing on the land, and whether or not plowing and the removal of timber or other natural growth would not have caused the land to become dry enough for cultivation without ditching, draining, or protection from overflow.

The names of water courses, lakes, etc., on or near the land, with a description of the size of the same, and, where not on the tract, the direction and distance from it.

The general character of adjacent and surrounding lands.

The present condition of the land, and in case any changes have taken place within the knowledge of the witnesses the nature and cause of such changes, with a full description of such artificial means of reclamation as have had any effect on the character of the land, and all other facts known to the witnesses which may tend to show the true condition of the land.

The witnesses should be required to state facts, not opinions, and their testimony should be as full and complete as to every fact within their knowledge as if it were needed to establish the character of the land to the satisfaction of a judge or jury.

Ex parte affidavits will not be considered, and all testimony must be taken in the presence of the agent of this office.

Depositions may be taken before any officer authorized by law to administer oaths; provided that if taken before an officer other than the clerk of a court of record having a seal, the official character of such officer shall be established by the certificate of the clerk of the proper court of record under the official seal thereof.

In all cases the disinterestedness of the witnesses must be established under oath, and the credibility of the witnesses must be certified to by the officer taking the depositions, or established by the oath of witnesses to whose credibility he certifies.

In cases where the agent of this office shall be satisfied, from the previous examination in the field, that any tract or tracts are of the character contemplated by the swamp grant, the testimony of two witnesses, as above mentioned, will be deemed sufficient proof; but in cases where said agent shall not be so satisfied from the previous examination in the field, he will take measures to secure such additional evidence as may be necessary to fully determine the character of the land, by obtaining the testimony of the owner or occupant of the land, or, if those persons have testified, other well-informed persons residing in the vicinity of the land, allowing the agent of the State full opportunity to cross-examine such witnesses should he desire to do so.

If the agent of this office shall be in doubt as to the amount of a particular tract which is swampy or overflowed, he will have a survey and plat made of the tract by a competent surveyor, in order that the exact amount of swampy or overflowed land in the tract may be shown.

After the testimony is taken the agent will make a full report to this office upon each of the tracts upon which testimony is taken, together with his opinion as to the real character of each of said tracts.

These regulations will supersede all former regulations; but cases where proof has heretofore been taken and filed in this office will be examined and determined upon such proof, if it is found to be in strict accordance with the regulations existing at the time of taking the same.

Circular in relation to proof required to obtain relief for actual settlers upon rejected swamp lands in the State of Missouri

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
March 23, 1875.

GENTLEMEN: Annexed is an act of Congress approved February 23, 1875, "for the relief of actual settlers on lands claimed to be swamp and overflowed lands in the State of Missouri."

In order to enable persons entitled thereto to avail themselves of the provisions of this act the following regulations are prescribed, with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior.

In addition to compliance with existing regulations governing entries under the preemption and homestead laws, claimants must establish the following facts:

First. That the land was duly selected as swamp land and withheld from market in consequence of such selection.

Second. Purchase in good faith from the State or county, with settlement upon and improvement of the land to the value of $100.

Third. That the purchaser from the State or county, or his heirs, assigns, or legal representatives, has continued to reside thereon.

All preemption settlements and homestead entries made prior to February 23, 1875, where the requirements of law have been fully complied with, will take precedence of claims presented under this act.

Entries and filings of selected swamp lands

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., December 13, 1886.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

GENTLEMEN: The rules heretofore in force relative to the admission of entries and filings on lands selected (and prior to their approval and certification by the Secretary of the Interior) as "swamp and overflowed and rendered thereby unfit for cultivation," are hereby modified as follows:

1. When any settler upon such lands or applicant to enter the same under the public-land laws of the United States shall apply to make a filing or entry under said laws, accompanied by a statement under oath corroborated by two witnesses, that the land in its natural state is not swamp and overflowed and rendered thereby unfit for cultivation, the register and receiver will allow such filing or entry "subject to the swamp land claim."

2. Upon the admission of any such filing or entry the register will at once notify the governor of the State thereof, and allow him 60 days within which to object to the perfection of the entry and to apply for a hearing in behalf of the State to prove the swampy character of the land.

3. When a hearing is ordered between the State and claimant under the public-land laws, the burden of proof will be upon the State to establish the character of the land.

4. When no protest or application for a hearing is presented on the part of the State, as herein provided, the State will be deemed concluded from thereafter asserting a claim to the land under the swamp-land grant.

5. The foregoing applies only to those States whose claims are adjusted by examinations in the field.

6. Where swamp land selections are based upon the field notes of survey, and the land is alleged not to have been in fact swamp and overflowed, and rendered thereby unfit for cultivation at the date of the swamp-land grant, the burden of proof will be upon the contestant or adverse claimant under the public-land laws.

7. You will promptly advise this office when notice is given the governor in any case, stating the date of such notice, and the description of the land involved. You will also duly report the governor's action in each case.

[From 13 L. D. 301]

Rules and regulations adopted by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, relative to the presentation and adjustment of claims under the swamp land laws

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., September 19, 1891.

The numerous lists of swamp-land selections heretofore presented to this office as claims for lands in place and for cash and land indemnity under the acts of March 2, 1849, September 28, 1850, and March 12, 1860, relating to swamp lands in place, and the acts of March 2, 1855, and March 3, 1857, relating to cash and land indemnity in lieu of swamp lands sold and located with warrants and scrip, and the continued presentation of numerous selection lists in which additional claims for large quantities of land situated in the same townships or counties as were the previous selections, and the necessity for putting a term to the work of examining such selected lands in the field by special agents and of repeatedly adjusting claims in this office, have suggested the following rules and regulations for the closing and adjustment of all claims under the swamp land laws:

1. Preference in the order of consideration will be given to the adjustment of conflicts between homestead, preemption, and cash entries and warrant locations and the swamp-land claims of the States over other claims arising under the same laws.

2. Claims for swamp lands in place will be taken up for consideration in preference to cash or other indemnity claims.

3. Cash-indemnity claims will be adjusted in the third order, i. e., after cases of conflict and claims for lands in place.

4. Land-indemnity claims will not be adjusted when there are no public lands with which to satisfy such claims in the States in which the warrants or the scrip were located.

5. The surveyors general when constructing and approving segregation maps and surveys or approving selection lists of swamp and overflowed lands must, in their certificates, find and recite, affirmatively, facts showing that the principal conditions required by the swamp land act to establish the character of the lands, as swamp and overflowed, existed at the date of the passage of the granting act. All evidence taken by surveyors general to establish the character of the land must be transmitted with the maps or lists approved. This office will not approve maps or accept lists in which it does not affirmatively appear in the surveyor general's certificate that the lands reported as swamp and overflowed were in reality of that character at the date of the grant.

6. Before final action is taken on the claim of a State for swamp lands in place, or cash or land indemnity, a certificate should be required of a duly authorized agent of the State reciting that the lands selected in each and every township involved in the selection list constituting the claim represents the full and final claim of the State to lands under the swamp land acts in the said townships, and that the State waives all claims or rights, under the said acts, if it have any, to all other lands not selected in the said townships. Such a certificate will be accepted as evidence that the claim of the State to swamp lands in the particular townships to which it applies is final and complete; and it will be recorded in a book kept for that purpose, and as far as practicable all such completed claims will be acted upon as promptly as possible and in the order of their completion.

7. In the case of cash and land-indemnity claims now pending or which may hereafter be presented for the benefit of counties a certificate of a duly authorized agent of the county, of the character and effect of that provided for in the sixth section of these instructions relating to claims of States, will be required of county agents, covering the entire area of the county.

8. Waivers must be unconditional, and a copy of the authority from the State legislature or from the county authorities to act for the State or the county and to make certificates of waiver must be filed in this office by the State and county agents.

THOS. H. CARTER, Commissioner.

Approved.

JOHN W. NOBLE, Secretary.

SWAMP LANDS—PROCEDURE IN CERTAIN CASES UPON FILING OF PLATS OF SURVEY

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, January 23, 1929.

Chiefs of Divisions, General Land Office.

SIRS: Under a decision of the department dated January 2, 1929, under G. L. O. serial 01721 and a letter of the same date relating thereto, certain holdings were made and directions given as to action to be taken where supplemental plats of survey of erroneously meandered areas are accepted and filed and the field notes show the land to be swamp in character as contemplated by the act of September 28, 1850 (9 Stat. 519), and in cases where the field notes show the land to be nonswamp in character.

The decision and letter of instructions are definite, but it is thought advisable to indicate the procedure to be followed in this office.

Upon the acceptance of a plat of survey of erroneously meandered areas or of any other areas regularly surveyed in the State of Wisconsin where the field notes indicate the land to be swamp, Division E will advise both Division C and Division F thereof. Division F will then immediately determine from the field notes whether the lands passed to the State under the swamp act, and if so will immediately notify Division C in order that the notice prepared for the filing of the plat may contain a statement to the effect "that the field notes indicate the land to be swamp within the meaning of the act of September 28, 1850." Division C will withhold action looking toward the filing of the plat until it has such notice from Division F.

At the expiration of a period of 91 days from the filing of the plat within which any adverse claims may be filed, and if none be filed within that time, a list of the swamp lands should be prepared and submitted to the department for approval as stated in the decision and letter referred to. All applications filed in conflict with the State's rights should be rejected by this office subject to the right of appeal, unless accompanied by a prima facie showing of nonswamp character of the land, in which case action will follow the usual procedure.

In cases where the field notes of survey do not indicate the land to be swamp, applications therefor will be acted upon without the necessity of notifying the State thereof, such action being based upon the merits of the applications themselves and without regard to possible State claim, in the absence of a specific protest by the State.

As stated in the departmental decision, the showing made by the field notes as to the swamp or nonswamp character of the land may be overcome by proof by the State or other applicants.

It is thought that "any recently surveyed areas" as stated by the Secretary may well include only those made since 1925, when the offices of the surveyors general were abolished, leaving any tracts theretofore surveyed to be taken up for adjudication as occasion may arise.

Since the States of Alabama, Indiana, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, and Ohio make the field notes of survey the basis for determining what lands passed to them under the swamp grant, the foregoing instructions will apply to those States as well.

The same procedure will be followed in cases arising in the State of California, attention being called to section 4 of the act of July 23, 1866 (14 Stat. 218).

Very respectfully,

THOS. C. HAVELL,
Acting Commissioner.

TIMBER AND STONE ENTRIES

[Reported, 51 L. D. 365]

Circular No. 851

REGULATIONS UNDER TIMBER AND STONE LAW

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., February 25, 1926.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: The regulations under the act of June 3, 1878 (20 Stat. 89), and amendatory acts, commonly known as the timber and stone law, which were revised September 20, 1922 (49 L. D. 288), are hereby revised and modified, as follows:

PROVISION FOR APPRAISEMENT

1. Any land subject to sale under the foregoing acts may under the direction of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, upon application or otherwise, be appraised by smallest legal subdivisions, at their reasonable value, but at not less than $2.50 per acre, and hereafter no sales shall be made under said acts except as provided in these regulations.

CHARACTER OF LANDS SUBJECT TO ENTRY

2. All unreserved, unappropriated, nonmineral, surveyed public lands within the public-land States, which are valuable chiefly for the timber or stone thereon and unfit for cultivation at the date of sale, may be sold under this act at their appraised value, but in no case at less than $2.50 per acre, in contiguous legal subdivisions upon which there is no existing mining claim or the improvements of any bona fide settler claiming under the public land laws. The act specifically prohibits the making of entries thereunder for land containing valuable deposits of gold, silver, cinnabar, copper, or coal, but entries thereunder may be allowed under the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509), for land withdrawn or classified as valuable for phosphate, nitrate, potash, oil, gas, or asphaltic minerals, or which are valuable for those deposits, provided the applicant files his consent, witnessed by two persons or acknowledged before an officer having an official seal, to have the entry stand subject to the provisions and limitations of said act.

All applications for timber and stone entries for lands which are also embraced in applications for oil and gas prospecting permits or permits granted or in applications for phosphate, sodium, oil shale, or potash permits or leases or in permits or leases granted, if accompanied by the required consent under the act of July 17, 1914, and a satisfactory waiver of claim to compensation, should be received, noted upon the records and the applicant for prospecting permit or the permittee or lessee as the case may be should be advised that he will be allowed 30 days from receipt of notice within which to show why the nonmineral application should not be allowed subject to the reservation to the United States of the minerals sought to be acquired by the mineral claimant and with a waiver of claim to compensation in accordance with section 29 of the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), except in cases of applications for potash permits or leases or permits or leases granted, in which case the waiver should be in accordance with section 6 of the act of October 2, 1917 (40 Stat. 297); which showing must bear evidence of service of notice on the nonmineral applicant hereunder. You will reject all applications for lands in areas which have been designated by the department as within the geological structure of producing oil or gas fields, or within a naval petroleum reservation or within oil or gas leases, and otherwise proceed in accordance with the instructions in Circular No. 1021. (51 L. D. 167.)

The terms used in the first paragraph of this section (2) may be defined substantially as follows for the purpose of construing and applying this law:

(a) Unreserved and unappropriated lands are lands which are not included within any military, Indian, or other reservation, or in a national forest, or in a withdrawal by the Government for reclamation or other purposes, or which are not covered or embraced in any entry, location, selection, or filing which withdraws them from the public domain.

(b) Unoccupied lands are lands belonging to the United States upon which there are no improvements belonging to any person who has initiated and is properly maintaining a valid mining or other claim to such lands under the public land laws. Abandoned and unused mines, shafts, tunnels, or buildings occupied by mere trespassers not seeking title under any law of the United States do not prevent timber and stone entries if the land is otherwise capable of being so entered.

(c) Nonmineral lands are such lands as are not known to contain any substance recognized and classed by standard authorities as mineral, in such quantities and of such qualities as would, with reasonable prospects of success in developing a paying mine thereon, induce a person of ordinary prudence to expend the time and money necessary to such development.

(d) Timber is defined as trees of such kind and quantity, regardless of size, as may be used in constructing buildings, irrigation works, railroads, telegraph and telephone lines, tramways, canals, or fences, or in timbering shafts and tunnels or in manufacturing, but does not include trees suitable for fuel only.

(e) Lands valuable chiefly for timber, but unfit for cultivation, are lands which are more valuable for timber than they are for cultivation in the condition in which they exist at the date of the application to purchase, and therefore include lands which could be made more valuable for cultivation by cutting and clearing them of timber. The relative values for timber or cultivation must be determined from conditions of the land existing at the date of the application to purchase.

3. Lands may be entered under the timber and stone acts, except as denied by special laws, in all of the public-land States; but such entries may not be made in Alaska.

BY WHOM ENTRIES MAY BE MADE

4. One timber and stone entry may be made for not more than 160 acres (a) by any person who is a citizen of the United States, or who has declared his intention to become such a citizen, if he is not under 21 years of age, and has not already exhausted his right by reason of a former application for an entry of that kind, or has not already acquired title to or is not claiming under the homestead or desert land laws through settlement or entry made since August 30, 1890, any other lands which, with the land he applies for, would aggregate more than 320 acres; or (b) by an association of such persons; or (c) by a corporation, each of whose stockholders is so qualified.

5. A married woman may make entry if the laws of the State in which she applies permit married women to purchase and hold for themselves real estate, but she must make the entry for her own benefit and not in the interest of her husband or any other person.

METHOD OF OBTAINING TITLE

6. Any qualified person may obtain title under the timber and stone law by performing the following acts: (a) Personally examining the land desired; (b) presenting an application and sworn statement, accompanied by a filing fee of $10; (c) depositing with the register the appraised price of the land; (d) publishing notice of his application and proof; (e) making final proof.

7. Examination of the land must be made by the applicant in person not more than 30 days before the date of his application, in order that he may knowingly swear to its character and condition.

APPLICATION AND SWORN STATEMENT: DEPOSIT

8. The application and sworn statement (Form 4–522) must contain the applicant's estimate of the timber, based on examination, and his valuation of the land and the timber thereon, by separate items. It must be executed in duplicate, after having been read to or by the applicant, in the presence of the officer administering the oath, and sworn to by him before such officer, and may be either the register of the land district in which the land is located, a United States commissioner, a judge or a clerk of a court of record in the county or parish or land district in which the land is situated, or before any officer of the classes named who resides nearest or most accessible to the land, although he may reside outside the county and land district in which the land is situated. If the application is executed before a qualified officer within the boundaries of either the county or land district in which the land is located, no additional showing as to nearness or accessibility of such officer need be made, but if executed outside of both the county and land district the applicant must show by affidavit satisfactory to the Commissioner of the General Land Office that the officer before whom the application was executed was, because of topographic or geographic conditions, nearer or more accessible to the land. An application is not acceptable if executed more than 10 days before its deposit in the mails for filing in the local land office. Each applicant must, at the time he presents his application and sworn statement, deposit with the register a filing fee of $10.

As there is no local land office in the States of Kansas, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio, and Wisconsin, the application and sworn statement covering land in any of those States must be mailed directly to this office within the specified time.

9. Applications by associations or corporations must, in addition to the facts recited in the foregoing statement, show that each person forming the association or holding stock in the corporation is qualified to make entry in his own right and that he is not a member of any other association or a stockholder in any other corporation which has filed an application or sworn statement for other lands under the timber and stone laws.

DISPOSITION OF APPLICATION

10. After application and deposit have been filed in proper form, as required by these regulations, the register will at once forward one copy of the application to the division inspector having jurisdiction of the land described, who, if he finds legal objection to the allowance of the application, will return it to him with report thereon. The register will, if he concurs in an adverse recommendation of the division inspector, dismiss or deny the application, subject to the applicant's right of appeal; but if he disagrees with the recommendation he will forward the record to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, with his report and opinion thereon, for such action as the commissioner may deem advisable.

If the division inspector finds no such legal objection to the application, he shall cause the lands applied for to be appraised by an officer or employee of the Government, using Form 4–526.

APPRAISEMENT: METHOD

11. The officer or employee designated to make the appraisement must personally visit the lands to be appraised and thoroughly examine every legal subdivision thereof, and the timber thereon, and appraise separately the several kinds of timber at their stumpage value, and the land independent of the timber at its value at the time of appraisement, but the total appraisement of both land and timber must not be less than $2.50 per acre. He must, in making his report, consider the quantity, quality, accessibility, and any other elements of the value of the land and the timber thereon. The appraisement must be made by smallest legal subdivisions, or the report must show that the valuation of the land and the estimate of the timber apply to each and every subdivision appraised.

APPRAISEMENT: MANNER OF RETURN: APPROVAL

12. The completed appraisement must be mailed or delivered personally to the division inspector under whose supervision it was made, and not to the applicant. Each appraisement upon which an entry is to be allowed must be approved, respectively or conjointly, as provided in these regulations, by the division inspector under whose supervision it was made, by the register who allows the entry, or by the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

APPRAISEMENT: DISAGREEMENT BETWEEN APPRAISING AND APPROVING OFFICERS: HOW DETERMINED

13. The division inspector will return to the appraiser, with his objections, an appraisement which he deems materially low or high, and the appraiser shall within 20 days from the receipt thereof resubmit the papers, with such modifications or explanations as he may deem advisable or proper, upon receipt of which the division inspector will either approve the schedule as then submitted or forward the papers to the register with his memorandum of objection. The register will thereupon consider the case. If he approves the appraisement he will sign the certificate appended thereto and advise the division inspector thereof. If the register approves the objection of the division inspector he will so indicate, and if the appraising officer is an employee of the Interior Department, under the supervision of the division inspector, he will return the papers to the division inspector, who will thereupon order a new appraisement by a different officer. If, however, the register approves the objection of the division inspector when the appraiser is an officer of another bureau of this department or of another department, he will forward the record of the case to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, who will then determine the controversy.

APPRAISEMENT: NOTATION AND EFFECT THEREOF

14. When the appraisement is completed the register will note the price on his records, and for one year after the date of the appraisal the land may be sold at such price. After the lapse of one year an application under the act will be referred to the division inspector for report and recommendation as to whether the conditions then existing demand a new appraisal.

NOTICE OF APPRAISEMENT: PAYMENT OR PROTEST

15. If the appraisement shows the land, or any subdivision thereof, to be subject to entry, the register will note its appraised price on his records, and will immediately inform the applicant (using Form 4–524) that he must, within 30 days from service of notice, deposit with the register, either in lawful money, in post-office money orders payable to the register, in certified checks drawn in favor of the register which can be cashed without cost to the Government, or as provided in paragraph 34 hereof, the appraised price of the land, or of said part, and timber thereon, or within said time file his protest against the appraisement, depositing with the register a sum sufficient to defray the expenses of a reappraisement (which sum, not less than $100, must be fixed by the register and specified in the notice to the applicant), together with his application for reappraisement at his own expense.

16. If the register rejects the application as to part or all of the land, upon the ground that the appraisement shows it not to be subject to timber and stone entry, applicant may within 30 days submit a showing by affidavit, corroborated by at least two witnesses having actual knowledge of the character of the land, setting forth facts which tend to disprove the appraisement and that it is chiefly valuable for the timber and stone thereon, and if a prima facie showing is made, thereupon a hearing shall be ordered to determine the facts, after a date has been fixed for the same by agreement between the division inspector and the register. Notice must be given by registered letter and the envelope should be marked for return if not delivered within 30 days. If notice be returned after being held in the post office for 30 days, such proceedings will constitute constructive notice for 30 days. After 30 days' notice has been had, if no deposit of the price has been made or protest against the appraisement has been filed, as to lands found subject to entry, and no application for hearing or appeal has been filed as to lands found not subject to entry, the register shall close the case on his records, all rights under the application being terminated without notice.

OBJECTION TO APPRAISEMENT: APPLICATION FOR REAPPRAISEMENT

17. Any applicant filing his protest against an appraisement, and his application for reappraisement, must support it by his affidavit, corroborated by two competent, credible, and disinterested persons, in which he must set forth specifically his objections to the appraisement. He must indicate his consent that the amount deposited by him for the reappraisement, or such part thereof as is necessary, may be expended therefor, without any claim on his part for a refund or return of the money thus expended.

REAPPRAISEMENT

18. Upon the receipt of a protest against appraisement and application for reappraisement conforming to the regulations herein, the register will transmit such protest and application to the division inspector, who will cause the reappraisement to be made by some officer other than the one making the original appraisement. The procedure provided herein for appraisement will be followed for reappraisement, except the latter, if differing from the former, must, to give it effect, be approved both by the division inspector and the register, or, in case of disagreement between them, by the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

NOTICE OF APPRAISEMENT

19. When a reappraisement is finally effected, the register will note the reappraised price on his records and at once notify the applicant (using Form 4–525) that he must, within 30 days from the date of notice, deposit with the register the amount fixed by such reappraisement for the sale of the land, or thereafter, and without notice, forfeit all rights under his application.

COST OF MAKING REAPPRAISEMENT

20. The officer or employee of the United States making the reappraisement shall be paid from the amount deposited with the register by the applicant therefor, the salary, per diem, and other expenses to which he would have been entitled from the Government, in the case of an original appraisement, for his services for the time he was engaged in making and returning the reappraisement. The register will, out of the money deposited by the applicant, pay such compensation including reasonable expenses for subsistence, transportation, and necessary assistants; and the officer will deduct from his expense account with the Government the amount which he has received from the register for such services. The register will return to the applicant the amount, if any, remaining on deposit with him after paying the expenses of said reappraisement.

FINAL PROOF

21. After the appraisement or reappraisement and deposit of purchase money and fee have been made the register will fix a time and place for the offering of final proof[1] and name the officer before whom it shall be offered and post a notice (Form 4–348e) thereof in the land office and deliver a copy of the notice (Form 4–348f) to the applicant, to be by him and at his expense published in the newspaper of accredited standing and general circulation published nearest the land applied for. This notice must be continuously published in the paper for 60 days prior to the date named therein as the day upon which final proof must be offered.

TIME, PLACE, AND METHOD OF MAKING FINAL PROOF

22. Final proof (using Form 4–370a) should be made at the time and place metioned in the notice, and, as a part thereof, evidence of publication, as required by the previous paragraph, should also be filed. If final proof is not made on that day or within 10 days thereafter, the applicant may lose his right to complete entry of the land. Upon satisfactory showing, however, explaining the cause of his failure to make the proof as above required, and in the absence of adverse claim, the Commissioner of the General Land Office may authorize him to readvertise and complete entry under his previous application.

23. If an applicant dies after the filing of an allowable application hereunder, his heirs will be permitted to make proof and payment, but patent will issue to the heirs of the applicant.

[1] Similar action will be taken by the General Land Office on applications for land in those States having no local land office.

FINAL ENTRY

24. After an appraisement or reappraisement has been approved, the payments made, and satisfactory proof submitted in any case as required by these regulations, the register will, if no protest or contest is pending, allow a final entry.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

CONTESTS AND PROTESTS

25. Protest may be filed at any time before an entry is allowed, and contest may be filed at any time before patent issues, by any person who will furnish the register with a corroborated affidavit alleging facts sufficient to cause the cancellation of the entry, and will pay the cost of contest.

FALSE SWEARING—FORFEITURE

26. If an applicant swear falsely in his application or sworn statement, he will be liable to indictment and punishment for perjury; and if he be guilty of false swearing or attempted fraud in connection with his efforts to obtain title, his application and entry will be disallowed and all moneys paid by him will be forfeited to the Government, and his rights under the timber and stone acts will be exhausted.

EFFECT OF APPLICATION TO PURCHASE

27. The filing of an application hereunder, for land subject thereto, and to the completion of which the Government interposes no obstacle, exhausts the right of the applicant under the act.

28. After an application has been presented hereunder no other person will be permitted to file on the land embraced therein under any public-land law until such application shall have been finally disposed of adverse to the applicant.

29. Lands appraised or reappraised hereunder, but not sold, may, upon the final disallowance of the application, be entered by any qualified person, under the provisions of the timber and stone laws, at its appraised or reappraised value, if subject thereto.

30. Lands applied for but not appraised and not entered under these regulations may, when the rights of the applicant are finally terminated, be disposed of as though such application had not been filed.

31. Any lands which have not been reappraised may be reappraised upon the request of an applicant therefor under these regulations who complies with the requirements of section 17 hereof.

32. An applicant securing a reappraisement under these regulations shall acquire thereby no right or privilege except that of purchasing the lands at their reappraised value, if he is qualified, and if the lands are subject to sale under his application; and he must otherwise comply with these regulations, but shall not, in any event, be entitled to the return of any money deposited by him and expended in such reappraisement.

33. The Commissioner of the General Land Office may at any time direct the reappraisement of any tract or tracts of public lands, when, in his opinion, the conditions warrant such action.

34. Unsatisfied military bounty land warrants under any act of Congress and unsatisfied indemnity certificates of location under the act of Congress approved June 2, 1858, properly assigned to the applicant, shall be receivable as cash in payment or part payment for lands purchased hereunder at the rate of $1.25 per acre.

35. The forms mentioned herein shall be a part of these regulations.

ENTRY OF STONE LANDS

36. The foregoing regulations apply to entries of lands chiefly valuable for stone, and the forms herein prescribed can be modified in such manner as may be necessary to the making of entries of stone lands.

FORMER REGULATIONS REVOKED

37. All former regulations, decisions, and practices in conflict with these regulations are hereby revoked.

Very respectfully,

William Spry, Commissioner.

Approved.

E. C. Finney,
First Assistant Secretary.

(Acts omitted.)

33. The Commissioner of the General Land Office may at any time direct the reappraisement of any tract or tracts of public lands, when, in his opinion, the conditions warrant such action.

34. Unsatisfied military bounty land warrants under any act of Congress and unsatisfied indemnity certificates of location under the act of Congress approved June 2, 1858, properly assigned to the applicant, shall be receivable as cash in payment or part payment for lands purchased hereunder at the rate of $1.25 per acre.

35. The forms mentioned herein shall be a part of these regulations.

ENTRY OF STONE LANDS

36. The foregoing regulations apply to entries of lands chiefly valuable for stone, and the forms herein prescribed can be modified in such manner as may be necessary to the making of entries of stone lands.

FORMER REGULATIONS REVOKED

37. All former regulations, decisions, and practices in conflict with these regulations are hereby revoked.

Very respectfully,

TIMBER CUTTING, SALE, AND USE

[Reported, 36 L. D. 73]

TIMBER CUTTING—PERMITS TO CUT TIMBER BY AGENT FROM NONMINERAL PUBLIC LANDS

INSTRUCTIONS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., August 21, 1907.

Chiefs of Field Divisions, General Land Office.

SIRS: Hereafter applications for permit to cut timber by agent from the nonmineral public lands under the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1093), as extended by the act of February 13, 1893 (27 Stat. 444), and the act of March 3, 1901 (31 Stat. 1436), will be filed directly with you instead of with the register and receiver as heretofore. On receipt of such an application you will at once have the same taken up and made special for investigation as follows:

(1) Examine the records of the proper local land office to see if the lands described in the petition are vacant public lands.

(2) Ascertain by field examination or otherwise that the applicants are bona fide residents of the State and that they urgently need the amounts of timber set opposite their respective names for the purposes indicated in the act.

(a) That the petitioners are not in position to go upon the public domain and cut and get out said timber for themselves.

(b) That the agent who is to procure the timber for them is in every way reliable and that the price agreed upon is only a charge for the necessary time, labor, and legitimate expense in getting it out, plus a fair price per thousand feet for sawing logs into lumber, and that he does not make any charge for the timber itself.

(c) That the removal of the timber will not interfere with, lessen, or damage the water supply or injuriously affect any public interest and that said timber is for the actual use of the petitioners and is not to be sold nor bartered; also give county and State where timber is to be used.

(d) That the land is nonmineral in character.

(e) Whether or not there are private dealers who will supply timber or lumber to the petitioners; and if so, at what rate.

(f) If after your investigation is completed you find that the petitioners, or any of them, are entitled to the free use of timber under the terms of law, you will grant said petition with the amounts of timber required, placing your initials after the name of each petitioner whose permit is granted. You will not initial the names of any petitioners who, in your opinion, are not entitled to the use of timber and in your report you will state the reasons for rejecting the petition as to them.

Very respectfully,

FRED DENNETT,
Acting Commissioner.

Approved August 21, 1907.

G. W. WOODRUFF,
Acting Secretary.

CIRCULAR No. 222

RULES AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE FREE USE OF TIMBER UPON VACANT MINERAL PUBLIC LANDS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., March 25, 1913.

To settlers and residents of Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Wyoming, North Dakota, South Dakota, Idaho, and Montana, and the chiefs of field divisions and special agents of the General Land Office:

By the act of June 3, 1878, chapter 150 (20 Stat. 88), it is provided:

> That all citizens of the United States and other persons, bona fide residents of the State of Colorado or Nevada, or either of the Territories of New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Wyoming, Dakota, Idaho, or Montana, and all other mineral districts of the United States, shall be, and are hereby, authorized and permitted to fell and remove, for building, agricultural, mining, or other domestic purposes, any timber or other trees growing or being on the public lands, said lands being mineral, and not subject to entry under existing laws of the United States, except for mineral entry, in either of said States, Territories, or districts of which such citizens or persons may be at the time bona fide citizens, subject to such rules and regulations as the Secretary of the Interior may prescribe for the protection of the timber and of the undergrowth growing upon such lands, and for other purposes: Provided, The provisions of this act shall not extend to railroad corporations.

The act of June 3, 1878, supra, expressly declares that the Secretary of the Interior may prescribe rules and regulations for the protection of the timber upon the land of the character referred to in the act and an implied power is, therefore, conferred upon him to designate the sections or tracts of land where timber may be cut.

The following instructions shall govern with reference to timber cutting on vacant mineral public lands in the States named above.

1. Qualified persons, that is, bona fide residents of the States above named, may cut and remove timber free of charge from unoccupied, unreserved, mineral public lands within said States strictly for their own use for building, agricultural, mining, or other domestic purposes, but not for sale or disposal, nor for use by other persons, nor for export from the State in which the timber is situated and where the cutting or removal of timber or lumber does not exceed in stumpage value the amount of $50 in any one continuous period of 12 months, the person desiring to cut and remove the timber may do so without making any previous application therefor: Provided, however, That he shall first notify the proper chief of field division by registered letter, in which he shall set forth the kind and quantity of timber which he intends to cut, and the use for which cut; and he shall also describe the land on which said cutting is to be done by township and range and by section and sectional subdivision thereof, if it be surveyed, or by natural objects sufficient to identify the land if it be unsurveyed.

2. Where a greater quantity of timber than that specified in the preceding paragraph is desired by any one person, or, where an agent, appointed for such purpose by one or a number of persons, desires to cut or remove more than $50 worth of timber in any one continuous period of 12 months, application must first be made to the Commissioner of the General Land Office for the purpose of determining whether or not the cutting of the timber should be confined to any particular sections or tracts of land, and further for the purpose of according the Commissioner of the General Land Office in the event he should so desire an opportunity of directing how the tops and other refuse may be disposed of for the protection of the timber remaining and the prevention of forest fires. This regulation must be observed in every case wherein the amount of timber to be cut in any one continuous period of 12 months exceeds $50 in stumpage value, whether the person doing the cutting is acting for himself or as an agent for another or others. Whether or not an application must be filed is to be determined by the fact as to whether or not the aggregate amount of timber to be cut in any one continuous period of 12 months, together with all amounts previously cut by or for the said person or persons during the same period exceeds $50 in stumpage value. This rule shall be applicable where the agent cuts for a number of persons under individual contracts entered into between him and them.

3. Where one or more persons desire to procure timber under this act through the services of an agent appointed for that purpose and the quantity to be procured in any one continuous period of 12 months exceeds $50 in stumpage value, the amount to be paid the agent for his services shall not exceed a fair recompense for the time, labor, and money expended by him in the undertaking, and said compensation must be determined at the time of the appointment and must be set forth in the contract between the parties, a copy of which must be presented with the application.

4. The proper protection of the timber and undergrowth necessarily varies with the nature of the topography, soil, and forests. No timber not matured may be cut, and each tree must be utilized for some beneficial purpose. Persons taking timber for specific purposes will be required to take only such matured trees as will work up to such purpose without unreasonable waste. All brush, tops, lops, and other forest débris made in felling and removing timber under these rules and regulations shall be disposed of as best adapted to the protection of the remaining growth and in such manner as shall be prescribed by the Chief of Field Division, and failure on the part of an applicant or an agent cutting for an applicant to comply with this requirement will render him liable for all expenses incurred by the Chief of Field Division in putting this regulation into effect.

5. Permits granted under these instructions shall limit the area of the cutting so as to embrace only as much land as is necessary to produce the quantity of timber applied for and the lands to be cut over shall be so described in the application that they may be identified from the description set forth. Waste of timber will be discountenanced. Stumps will be cut so as to cause the least possible waste, and all trees will be utilized to as low a diameter in the tops as possible.

6. In every case where timber is to be procured through the medium of an agent and said agent is a sawmill operator and the amount of timber applied for exceeds $50 in stumpage value, a bond equal to the amount of the triple stumpage value of the timber applied for will be required conditioned to the faithful performance of the requirements contained in these rules and regulations and of the above referred to agreement entered into between the special agent and the beneficiary or beneficiaries of the cutting relative to the disposal of the refuse.

7. Applications filed under the above act shall set forth the names and legal residence of persons applying to fell and remove timber thereunder and the names and legal residence of persons who are to use the same. If the applicant be a corporation, the application shall set forth the State in which the corporation was incorporated. It shall also contain the amount of timber required by each applicant, the use to be made thereof, a description of the land from which the timber is to be cut, the date it is desired to begin cutting, and, where the cutting is to be done through the medium of an agent, the contract price to be paid to said agent. The application must be verified by an applicant.

8. Blank forms for making applications may be procured from the chief of field division for the division in which the land on which the cutting is to be done is situated. The application when executed is to be filed with that chief of field division. Immediately upon receipt of said application the chief of field division shall cause an investigation to be made of the lands and of material statements in the application. With this respect he shall be guided by the instructions contained in circular of August 21, 1907 (36 L. D. 73). Said instructions as promulgated were intended to be applicable to investigations upon applications for the free use of timber on vacant, unreserved, nonmineral, public lands. They are hereby declared to be also applicable to investigations relative to the application for free use of timber upon vacant, unreserved, mineral, public lands. Whenever they are to be applied to the latter mentioned class of applications the term mineral will be used instead of the term nonmineral.

9. Upon completion of an investigation the chief of field division may, if he considers the facts warrant it, grant a license, subject to revocation or revision by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and he shall transmit the application, together with a report thereupon, and a copy of the license if one be granted. The report shall show:

(1) The description of the land to be cut over.

(2) Whether the lands are mineral.

(3) Whether the applicants are: (a) Qualified to fell and remove, and (b) authorized to use the timber applied for.

(4) What percentage of the matured timber may be taken consistent with proper protection of the remaining timber and undergrowth.

(5) The method prescribed for the disposition of the tops, lops, and other débris.

10. The above-referred-to act and the rules and regulations contained herein authorize the cutting of timber from vacant, unreserved lands subject to mineral entry only. Lands subject to mineral entry are such lands as are known to contain such deposits of mineral as warrant a prudent person in expending his time or money in the reasonable expectation of developing a mine thereon, but where cutting is done in good faith by a qualified person supposedly in compliance with these instructions, and it is subsequently determined that the land on which the cutting is done is nonmineral in character, he may set up as a defense the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1093), in such States as are covered by that act.

11. A permit granted by a chief of field division under these instructions shall be subject to annulment or revision by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and all rights and privileges thereunder shall terminate at the expiration of the period of one year from the date of the granting of the permit by the chief of field division. Persons who commence cutting upon receipt of a permit from a chief of field division before final approval by the Commissioner of the General Land Office will be liable to the Government for a reasonable stumpage value for timber so taken in the event that the permit is not finally approved by the commissioner because improperly granted. Where permits are secured by fraud, or immature trees are taken, or timber is not taken or used in accordance with the terms of the law or these rules and regulations, the Government will enforce the same civil and criminal liabilities as in other cases of timber trespass upon public lands.

12. These rules and regulations shall be in force from and after March 25, 1913, and supersede the rules and regulations contained in circular of March 16, 1909 (37 L. D. 492).

Very respectfully,

FRED DENNETT, Commissioner.

Assistant Secretary.

CIRCULAR No. 223[1]

RULES AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE FREE USE OF TIMBER ON UNRESERVED VACANT NONMINERAL PUBLIC LANDS UNDER THE ACT OF MARCH 3, 1891 (26 STAT. 1093), AS EXTENDED BY THE ACTS OF FEBRUARY 13, 1893 (27 STAT. 444), JULY 1, 1898 (30 STAT. 618), AND MARCH 3, 1901 (31 STAT. 1436)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., March 25, 1913.

To settlers and residents of Colorado, Montana, Idaho, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, California, Oregon, and Washington, and to chiefs of field divisions and special agents of the General Land Office:

By the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1093), as extended by the acts of February 13, 1893 (27 Stat. 444), July 1, 1898 (30 Stat. 618), and March 3, 1901 (31 Stat. 1436), it is provided that in the States of Colorado, Montana, Idaho, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, California, Oregon, and Washington:

> In any criminal prosecution or civil action by the United States for a trespass on such public timberlands, or to recover timber or lumber cut thereon, it shall be a defense if the defendant shall show that the said timber was so cut or removed from the timberland for use in such State or Territory by a resident thereof for agricultural, mining, manufacturing, or domestic purposes, under rules and regulations made and prescribed by the Secretary of the Interior, and has not been transported out of the same; but nothing herein contained shall operate to enlarge the rights of any railway company to cut timber on the public domain: Provided, That the Secretary of the Interior may make suitable rules and regulations to carry out the provisions of this act, and he may designate the sections or tracts of land where timber may be cut, and it shall not be lawful to cut or remove any timber except as may be prescribed by such rules and regulations; but this act shall not operate to repeal the act of June 3, 1878, providing for the cutting of timber on mineral lands.

The act of March 3, 1891 (supra), originally extended to the District of Alaska, but it has been superseded in that respect by section 11 of the act of May 14, 1898 (30 Stat. 414), under which separate regulations are prescribed for that district.

The act of March 3, 1891 (supra), does not confer upon anyone the right to cut and remove timber from nonmineral public lands but, on the contrary, merely provides that such timber may be cut and removed for agricultural, mining, manufacturing, or domestic purposes as the Secretary of the Interior may permit and from such lands as he shall designate, in accordance with suitable rules and regulations which he may from time to time promulgate. The aforesaid act did not intend to provide a defense to anyone who cuts and removes timber on nonmineral public lands, unless the cutting and removal was in accordance with prescribed rules and regulations, otherwise the cutting must be considered a trespass.

In accordance with the authority expressly conferred upon the Secretary of the Interior by the terms of the act of March 3, 1891, supra, settlers upon public lands and other residents of the States above named are hereby granted the privilege of cutting and removing, free of charge, timber from unoccupied, unreserved, nonmineral public lands within said States, strictly for their own use when actually needed for firewood, fencing, building, or other agricultural, mining, manufacturing, and domestic purposes, under the following conditions:

[1] Amended by Circulars of Nov. 3, 1919, pp. 1510 and 1511.

1. Timber not to exceed $50 in stumpage value in any one continuous period of 12 months may be cut and removed without the previous filing of an application therefor, provided that the person desiring the timber shall first notify the proper chief of field division of the General Land Office by registered letter that he intends to cut timber on vacant unreserved, nonmineral public lands, and shall set forth therein the kind and quantity of timber to be cut and a description of the land on which the cutting is to be done, by township and range and by section and sectional subdivision thereof, if it be surveyed, or by natural objects sufficient to identify the land, if it be unsurveyed.

2. Where a greater quantity of timber than that specified in the preceding paragraph is desired during any one continuous period of 12 months, an application must first be filed with the chief of field division on a form to be furnished by him on request, and permission to cut the timber applied for may be granted by him, subject to revocation or revision by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, if in his opinion the applicant is a qualified beneficiary under the act of March 3, 1891, and actually needs the timber applied for; provided, however, that a license shall not be granted by a chief of field division permitting the cutting of timber exceeding $200 in stumpage value during any one continuous period of 12 months.

3. Permission to cut an amount of timber exceeding $200 in stumpage value during any one continuous period of 12 months shall be granted only upon showing of special necessity therefor and upon direct approval by the Secretary of the Interior.

4. Where one or more persons desiring timber under the provisions of the act of March 3, 1891, are not in a position to procure the same for themselves, an agent or agents may be appointed for that purpose. Such agent or agents shall not be paid more than a fair recompense for the time, labor, and money expended in procuring the timber and manufacturing the same into lumber, and no charge shall be made for the timber itself; and where the aggregate amount of timber to be cut during any one continuous period of 12 months exceeds $50 in stumpage value, said compensation must be set forth in a written contract to be entered into by the parties, and a copy thereof must be filed with the application.

5. Where a number of qualified persons combine and employ the same agent or agents to cut or manufacture the timber applied for, an application must be filed if the aggregate amount of timber to be cut in any one continuous period of 12 months together with all amounts previously cut by or for any one or more of the said applicants during the same period exceeds $50 in stumpage value. This rule shall also be applicable where the agent or agents cut for a number of persons but under individual contracts with them.

6. The proper protection of the timber and undergrowth necessarily varies with the nature of topography, soil, and forests. No timber not matured may be cut, and each tree taken must be utilized for some beneficial domestic purpose. Persons taking timber for specific purposes will be required to take only such matured trees as will work up to such purpose without unreasonable waste. All brush, tops, lops, and other forest débris made in felling and removing timber under these rules and regulations shall be disposed of as best adapted to the protection of the remaining growth and in such manner as shall be prescribed by the chief of field division, and failure on the part of an applicant, or an agent cutting for an applicant, to comply with this requirement will render him liable for all expenses incurred by the chief of field division in putting this regulation into effect.

7. In every case where timber is to be procured through the medium of an agent, and said agent is a sawmill operator, and the amount of timber applied for exceeds $50 in stumpage value a bond equal to three times the amount of the stumpage value of the timber applied for will be required, conditioned on the faithful performance of the requirements contained in these rules and regulations and of the above-referred-to agreement entered into between the special agent and the beneficiary or beneficiaries of the cutting relative to the disposal of the refuse.

8. Permits granted under these instructions shall limit the area of the cutting so as to embrace only as much land as is necessary to produce the quantity of timber applied for, and the lands to be cut over shall be so described in the application that they may be identified from the description set forth. Waste of timber will be discountenanced. Stumps will be cut so as to cause the least possible waste, and all trees will be utilized to as low a diameter in the tops as possible.

9. Applications filed under the above act shall set forth the names and legal residences of persons applying to fell and remove timber thereunder and the names and legal residences of persons who are to use the same. If the applicant be a corporation, the application shall set forth the State in which the corporation was incorporated. It shall also contain the amount of timber required by each applicant, the use to be made thereof, a description of the land from which the timber is to be cut, and the date it is desired to begin cutting. The application must be verified by an applicant.

10. The application when executed is to be filed with the chief of field division for the division in which the land on which the cutting is to be done is situated. He shall note upon the application the date when said application was filed in his office and immediately cause an investigation to be made in compliance with the instructions contained in circular of August 21, 1907, (36 L. D. 73). He shall also set forth in his report the stumpage value of the timber applied for. If the cutting is to be done by a sawmill operator he shall require a bond to be filed with him as above set forth. Upon the completion of an investigation the chief of field division shall note upon the application the action taken by him and shall then transmit the application and bond, if a bond be required, together with a report thereupon, and a copy of the license, if one be granted, to the Commissioner of the General Land Office. The report shall contain the agreement relative to the disposition of the tops, lops, and other débris, and when a bond is required said agreement shall be incorporated into the bond.

11. A permit granted by a chief of field division shall be subject to annulment or revision by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and all rights and privileges thereunder shall terminate at the expiration of the period of one year from the date of the granting of the permit by the chief of field division. Persons who commence cutting upon receipt of a permit from a chief of field division before final approval by the Commissioner of the General Land Office will be liable to the Government for a reasonable stumpage value for timber so taken in the event that the permit is not finally approved because improperly granted. Where permits are secured by fraud, or immature trees are taken, or timber is not taken or used in accordance with the terms of the law or these rules and regulations, the Government will enforce the same civil and criminal liabilities as in other cases of timber trespass upon public lands.

12.[2] Timber cut under these rules and regulations is not to be exported from the State in which it is cut, except as authorized by the act of July 1, 1898 (30 Stats. 618), providing for the export of timber from a specified area in the State of Wyoming into the State of Idaho, and by the act of March 3, 1901 (31 Stat. 1439), providing for the export of timber from a specified area in the State of Montana into the State of Wyoming.

13. The cutting of timber for sale and speculation or for use by others than those who apply for the same is strictly prohibited by these rules and regulations.

14. These rules and regulations shall be in force from and after March 25, 1913, and supersede the rules and regulations contained in circular of February 10, 1900 (29 L. D. 572).

Respectfully,

CIRCULAR No. 306

SUGGESTIONS REGARDING THE CUTTING OF TIMBER BY ENTRYMEN ON THEIR HOMESTEAD CLAIMS

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., March 7, 1914.

1. Homestead claimants who have made bona fide settlements upon public land, and who are living upon, cultivating, and improving the same in accordance with law and the rules and regulations of this department, with the intention of acquiring title thereto, are permitted to cut and remove, or cause to be cut and removed, from the portion thereof being cleared for cultivation, so much timber as is actually necessary for that purpose, or for buildings, fences, and other improvements on the land entered.

[2] See amendments, pp. 1510 and 1511.

2. In clearing for cultivation, should there be a surplus of timber over what is needed for the purposes above specified, the entryman may sell or dispose of such surplus; but it is not allowable to denude the land of its timber for the purpose of sale or speculation before the title has been conveyed to him by patent.

3. It is not permissible to cut timber for sale, even when the money procured therefrom is to be used for improving or cultivating the land or supporting the claimant or his family.

4. The abandonment of a settlement claim after the timber has been removed is presumptive evidence that the claim was made for the primary purpose of obtaining the timber.

5. A bona fide settler upon unsurveyed public land who intends to acquire title to the land under the homestead laws as soon as he is allowed to do so after survey, and who, in good faith, is complying with the rules and regulations relative to residence, cultivation, and improvements, is permitted the same privileges with regard to the cutting of timber upon his claim as are allowed to the bona fide homesteader, and is subject to the same restrictions.

6. Under the act of March 4, 1913 (37 Stat. 1015), certain timber which was killed or seriously damaged by forest fires prior to the date of the passage of the act may be disposed of by the Secretary of the Interior under such rules and regulations as he shall prescribe. The act applies to the disposition of this class of timber upon certain unperfected claims, including claims initiated under the homestead laws. The rules and regulations governing the disposition of such timber are contained in Circular No. 258,[a] approved August 1, 1913 (42 L. D. 300), a copy of which may be obtained upon request from the Commissioner of the General Land Office, Washington, D. C., or from the Chief of Field Division of the General Land Office of the division in which the land is situated.

Very respectfully,

Clay Tallman, Commissioner.

RULES AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE FREE USE OF TIMBER UPON OIL AND GAS PROSPECTING PERMITS AND LEASES BY PERMITTEES AND LESSEES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,

To Oil and Gas Prospecting Permittees and Lessees and Division Inspectors of the Interior Department:

In accordance with the authority conferred upon the Secretary of the Interior by section 32 of the act of February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), the following rules and regulations shall govern the free use of timber for fuel in drilling operations by oil and gas permittees and lessees:

1. Any oil and gas prospecting permittee, lessee, or their assignees, desiring timber to be used for fuel in drilling operations on a prospecting permit or lease not within a national forest, shall file application therefor, with the division inspector for the division within which the permit or lease is situated, upon a form furnished by him on request.

2. Upon the filing of an application required by the preceding paragraph the division inspector will cause investigation to be made, and permission to cut the timber applied for may be granted by him, Provided the timber is not taken from lands occupied by a settler or embraced in an unperfected homestead entry.

3. The applicant shall be notified by registered mail of the decision by the division inspector, in all cases where the permit applied for is not granted and he shall be allowed 30 days from service of notice within which to appeal from such decision to the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

4. Where the land involved in the oil and gas prospecting permit or lease is occupied by a settler or is embraced in an unperfected homestead entry, the applicant must serve notice by registered mail, on the settler, or entryman, showing the amount and kind of timber he has applied for.

(a) Evidence of service of such notice must be furnished the division inspector.

(b) The settler or entryman shall be allowed 30 days from service of notice within which to show cause why the permit should not be granted.

(c) The division inspector will transmit the application to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, together with any protests against the issuance of the permit that may be filed by the settler or entryman, and his report and recommendation as to the issuance of said permit.

(d) Permits in such cases will be issued only where there is an abundance of timber on the land, and the removal thereof; will not materially affect the use of the land by the agricultural claimant.

5. The applicant shall be notified by registered mail of the decision of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, in all cases where the permit applied for is not granted and the settler or homestead entryman shall be notified in a like manner before the issuance of the permit in all cases where protests are filed against the issuance of such permit. An appeal to the Secretary of the Interior from the commissioner's decision may be filed within 30 days from service of notice.

6. No permit will be issued where title to the surface has passed from the United States.

7. A permit granted under these regulations, shall embrace no land not included in the oil and gas prospecting permit or lease, issued or assigned to the applicant.

8. All rights and privileges under a permit issued under these instructions, shall terminate upon the expiration or cancellation of the oil and gas prospecting permit or lease, or upon the discovery of oil in sufficient quantity for use as fuel in drilling operations.

9. Timber cut under a permit issued under these instructions may be used for fuel in drilling operations conducted on the land embraced in the oil and gas prospecting permit or lease, used as a basis for such permit only, and all brush, tops, lops, and other débris made in felling and removing the timber shall be disposed of as best adapted to the protection of the remaining growth, and in such manner as shall be prescribed by the division inspector and failure on the part of the permittee to comply with this requirement will render him liable for all expenses incurred by the division inspector in putting this regulation into effect.

10. Where permits are secured by fraud or timber is not used in accordance with these rules and regulations, the Government will enforce the same civil and criminal liabilities as in other cases of timber trespass upon public lands.

11. The cutting of timber for sale and speculation, or for use by others than the permittee, is strictly prohibited by these rules and regulations.

Circular No. 1093 [3] (Superseding Circular No. 258)

REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE SALE OF DEAD OR DOWN TIMBER OR TIMBER KILLED OR SERIOUSLY DAMAGED BY FOREST FIRES

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, September 11, 1926.

Division Inspectors.

Sirs: The act of July 3, 1926 (44 Stat. 890), amended the act of March 4, 1913 (37 Stat. 1015), to read as follows:

> That the Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized, under such rules as he may prescribe, to sell and dispose of to the highest bidder, at public auction or through sealed bids, dead or down timber, or timber which has been seriously or permanently damaged by forest fires, on any lands of the United States, outside the boundaries of national forests, including those embraced in unperfected claims under any of the public land laws, also upon the ceded Indian lands, the proceeds of all such sales to be covered into the Treasury of the United States: Provided, That such dead, down, or damaged timber upon any lands embraced in an existing claim shall be disposed of only upon the application or with the written consent of such claimant, and the money received from the sale of such timber on any such lands shall be kept in a special fund to await the final determination of the claim.
> Sec. 2. That upon the certification of the Secretary of the Interior that any such claim has been finally approved and patented, the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized and directed to pay to such claimant, his heirs, or legal representatives, the money received from the sale of such timber upon his land, after deducting therefrom the expenses of the sale; and upon the certification of the Secretary of the Interior that any such claim has been finally rejected and canceled, the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized and directed to transfer the money derived from the sale of such timber upon the lands embraced in such claim to the general fund in the Treasury derived from the sale of public lands, unless by legislation the lands from which the timber had been removed had been theretofore appropriated to the benefit of an Indian tribe or otherwise, in which event the net proceeds derived from the sale of the timber shall be transferred to the fund of such tribe or otherwise credited or distributed as by law provided.

This act permits the sale of all dead or down timber and timber seriously or permanently damaged by forest fires on vacant public lands outside of national forests, including ceded Indian lands, and including lands in the Territory of Alaska, and also lands embraced within unperfected or unapproved claims, grants, or selections over which the Department of the Interior has jurisdiction.

Pursuant to the authority granted by the above act, the following rules and regulations are hereby prescribed:

1. Where such dead or down or fire-killed or damaged timber is found, or upon receipt of an application to purchase any of such described timber, upon vacant, unreserved Government lands, including ceded Indian lands, the division inspector of the division within which the timber is situated will cause a reconnaissance cruise to be made in order to obtain an approximate scale of the timber to be offered for sale, and will cause to be blazed, or otherwise marked, the outside boundaries of the areas from which the timber is to be sold so that they may be readily distinguishable on the ground. Reports on such cruises, with appropriate recommendations, should be promptly submitted to this office and should contain the following information:

(a) Description of the land upon which the timber is situated by township and range and legal subdivisions thereof, if surveyed, or by natural objects sufficient to identify the land if unsurveyed.

(b) Approximate percentage of the timber on the described area that is dead, down, or damaged by fire.

(c) The approximate scale in thousand feet board measure of timber subject to sale.

(d) The approximate market value thereof per thousand feet board measure and the prospects of a sale in its present condition and location, and fixing a minimum stumpage price per thousand feet board measure for the timber to be cut; and

(e) The method and approximate expense of disposing of the brush, tops, lops, and other forest débris which will result from the felling and removing of the timber.

2.[4] Upon consideration of the report, the Commissioner of the General Land Office will, if the amount or the value of the timber warrants it, instruct the division inspector to offer the same for sale under sealed bids, by advertisement covering a period of not less than thirty (30) days, if in a daily paper to be published at least twice a week, and if in a weekly paper at least four consecutive weeks, next preceding the time set for the opening of the bids, in two representative newspapers of general circulation in each field division wherein the timber to be sold is situated, and if the proposed sale be for 20,000,000 feet board measure or more of timber available by location to a single logging operation, the division inspector will also cause an advertisement of the proposed sale to be inserted once in two lumber-trade journals of general circulation. The division inspector will also, during the period of the advertising, post copies of the advertisement where they will attract the notice of the general public.

3. The notice of sale must announce the time and place of filing bids; contain a careful description of the land on which the timber is situated, giving the township and range and legal subdivision, or approximate legal subdivision, whether surveyed or unsurveyed, and shall also designate the location with reference to water courses, mountain tops, or other well-known natural objects; the approximate amount in board feet and minimum stumpage value of the timber to be sold; the sum required to be deposited with the bid; the conditions by which the purchaser will be bound; and the name and address of the division inspector from whom full information can be obtained. It shall also be stated that bidders offering a sum based on a rate less than the minimum stumpage price of the timber mentioned therein will not be considered and that the right to reject any or all bids is reserved.

4. Each bid submitted must be sealed and transmitted to the division inspector having jurisdiction of the timber sale for which the bid is submitted.

Each bid must state whether it is for the whole of the timber offered for sale in the advertisement or for only a part thereof, and, if the latter, it should designate how much, and describe the land from which the timber is to be taken. No bid will be accepted for less than all the timber offered on a legal subdivision. Each bid must state the amount per thousand feet which the bidder will pay for the timber.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a certified check for at least 20 per cent of the amount bid, said certified check to be made payable to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and to be retained by the division inspector and disposed of as provided in rules 7 and 8.

5. The division inspector will number the bids consecutively in the order in which they are received, and indorse thereon the date and hour of receipt and will on the day and at the hour set therefor open said bids and award said timber, either in one lot or in separate lots, located upon definitely described areas of land, in such manner as shall afford the greatest amount of revenue therefrom, to the highest bidder or bidders. Should two or more bids in the same amount be received for the same timber, the award will be made to the bidder whose bid was first received. In such case the award may be made with due regard to other timber purchased by the same persons, and also with a view to preventing a monopoly. The division inspector will, immediately upon the acceptance of said bid or bids, notify the bidder or bidders thereof, and shall also promptly forward a report thereon to the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

6. Upon notice from a division inspector to a bidder that his bid has been accepted, he must, within 30 days from the receipt of such notice, enter into a contract with the Government through the Commissioner of the General Land Office acting as its agent, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, and shall execute and file therewith a bond with proper sureties thereupon, the penalty of the bond to be of an amount which shall be 50 per cent of the stumpage value of the timber estimated in accordance with the provisions contained in subdivision (c), section 1, of these regulations; blank forms to be used in executing contracts and bonds under the act governing the sale of timber herein have been approved by the Secretary of the Interior and copies of the same will be furnished by the division inspector. The bond shall be conditioned for the payment for said timber, and for the faithful performance of the above referred to contract, and for the observance of the regulations hereinafter set forth. Bonds should be prepared and executed in accordance with the regulations of the department governing the same.

In the event that the bidder whose bid has been accepted shall fail to submit the required bond within the specified time, the division inspector shall cause his action in accepting said bid to be revoked by written notice to the bidder (see rule 7 as to the check), and he shall then accept the bid received by him next in order of time should the bids be equal, otherwise the next highest bid. If the bid accepted was the only bid received, the timber will be readvertised for sale.

7. Immediately upon the execution of the contract and bond the division inspector shall transmit the same, together with the certified check originally deposited, to the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Upon receipt of such certified checks in the General Land Office, they shall be immediately deposited for collection and the moneys derived therefrom placed in his special account in the United States Treasury to remain there subject to final disposition as provided in the act of Congress, and the receiving clerk of the General Land Office shall issue his receipt to the purchaser for the amount deposited in each case.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office will execute the contract and transmit it with the bond to the Secretary of the Interior for his approval or rejection. The division inspector will be notified of the action taken thereon, and will, in turn, notify the bidder. Upon approval of the contract and bond by the Secretary of the Interior, the amount paid shall be credited as part payment of the purchase price.

8. Should a bidder or bidders whose bid or bids have been accepted by a division inspector fail to submit a bond or bonds, as herein provided, the division inspector will at once transmit said certified check or checks to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and the amount or amounts called for therein will be collected and retained by the United States as a forfeit.

Upon the acceptance of a bid or bids by a division inspector, the certified checks of the bidders whose bids were rejected shall be returned to them.

9. Immediately upon notification of the approval of a sale by the Secretary of the Interior, the division inspector will cause an inspector to go over the area from which the timber is to be removed, with the purchaser or his representative, and designate the timber subject to be taken under the act, and shall also point out the boundaries of the land as blazed or otherwise marked by the inspector who made the appraisal. Cutting and removal of the timber may then be commenced.

10. All settlements for timber cut pursuant to this act shall be based upon an actual scale made after the timber has been cut. The timber shall be scaled by an inspector designated by the division inspector, on the banking ground, landing, or skidway, and before it is placed on cars or put into the water. When the timber shall be ready for removal the purchaser shall submit a written notice thereof to the division inspector. The scale must be made within 30 days after receipt of such notice. It will not be necessary, however, to wait until all of the timber covered by the contract has been cut before a scale may be made. The scale shall be made in accordance with Scribner's rules, and each log or stick scaled shall be stamped "U. S." on at least one end. The inspector shall keep a record in board feet of all timber scaled and file the same with the division inspector.

11. No timber shall be removed until it has been paid for. Although permission may be granted for the removal of installments of timber, yet the sale is not to be considered a sale by installments, and failure on the part of the purchaser to cut and remove all of the timber covered by the terms of the sale will be considered a violation of the terms of the contract and render the obligors in the bond liable for whatever damage shall be incurred by the Government. The amount originally deposited shall be credited as an advance payment and installments of timber up to that amount may be removed without requiring a further deposit. When the stumpage value of an installment of timber, together with the installments previously cut, exceeds the sum originally deposited, a further deposit in a sum sufficient to equal the difference will be required before permission to remove that installment can be granted. All deposits must be made by certified check, payable to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and all checks thus deposited shall be transmitted to him at once by the division inspector.

12. The purchaser shall keep a record of the amount in board feet of timber cut and shall submit a monthly report to the division inspector.

13. All brush, tops, lops, and other forest débris, made in felling and removing the timber, shall be disposed of in such manner as shall be set forth in an agreement entered into between the purchaser and the division inspector. If the purchaser fails to comply with the requirements contained in said agreement, then the division inspector shall cause said débris to be disposed of and charge the expense thereof to the purchaser, provided, however, that written notice shall first be given by the division inspector that such action will be taken if said instructions are not complied with within 30 days from the service of such notice. The aforesaid bond shall be conditioned to this requirement.

14. The division inspector shall see that so far as practicable all branches of the logging operations keep pace with each other, and the piling or burning of the brush and other débris shall not be allowed to fall behind the cutting and removing of the logs.

15. The division inspector shall determine the period within which all of the timber embraced within a sale shall be cut and removed, and completion of the cutting and removing within such period as shall be thus fixed shall be made a condition in the contract and in the bond. The action of the division inspector shall be governed by the quantity of timber involved, the topography of the land, the accessibility of the timber, and any other circumstances that may have an influence on the cutting and removing. Owing to the nature of the timber subject to disposal under these rules and regulations, the cutting should be done as rapidly as possible and the final time limits should be restricted as far as practicable logging conditions will permit. Any extension of the period fixed in the contract will be granted only upon a showing that the completion of the cutting was unavoidably delayed by causes over which the purchaser had no control and that the interests of the Government will not be prejudiced thereby and must be approved by the Secretary of the Interior.

16. Timber of the character described in the above act, located upon existing unperfected claims and upon unapproved selections and grants, may be disposed of in the same manner and under the same conditions as set forth in the preceding paragraphs, provided, however, that an application shall first be filed with the proper division inspector by such claimant, selector, or grantee, or by a prospective purchaser, with the written consent of such claimant, selector, or grantee, requesting that the timber on said claim, selection, or grant be offered for sale. Nothing herein shall prohibit such claimant, selector, or grantee from bidding for the timber thus offered.

17. Nothing in the aforesaid act or these regulations shall be construed to abrogate or in any way modify the rights of settlers or homestead entrymen to cut and dispose of timber on their homestead claims, as explained in Circular No. 306, approved March 7, 1914, or the rights of miners to the enjoyment of the surface embraced within the area of their mining claims, as provided by section 2322, United States Revised Statutes.

18. If it shall be shown that there are settlers or residents within the vicinity of the vacant lands involved, who are in urgent need of timber for domestic purposes and it shall be necessary to procure the same from said lands, permits may be granted under applications filed in accordance with the provisions contained in the acts of June 3, 1878 (20 Stat. 88), or March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1093), as extended by the acts of July 1, 1898 (30 Stat. 618), and March 3, 1901 (31 Stat. 1439); provided, however, that said applications shall be filed prior to the advertising of the timber for sale as hereinbefore set forth. The amounts of timber thus applied for shall be deducted from the amount offered for sale and the advertisement shall state that the sale shall be subject to the rights of such applicants to procure the amounts of timber applied for.

19. The above act specifies the manner of disposition of the proceeds from the sale of the timber authorized thereby. Where the timber is on ceded Indian lands, disposed of in trust for the Indians, or the timber is on unperfected claims, or unapproved selections and grants, the division inspectors shall render to the Commissioner of the General Land Office expense accounts showing in each case all costs incident to the administration of the law with reference to such sales in order that the net proceeds therefrom may be ascertained and deposited in the appropriate fund.

20. Division inspectors shall cause investigations to be made from time to time and submit a final report at the expiration of the period allowed for the cutting and removing, showing whether or not the law and rules and regulations have been complied with and setting forth any infraction of the same.

21. The cutting or removing of the timber referred to herein in any other manner than that authorized by these regulations, will be considered a trespass.

Very respectfully,

THOS. C. HAVELL, Acting Commissioner.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,

TOWN SITES

TOWN SITES RESERVED BY THE PRESIDENT

RESERVATION OF LAND

1. Under section 2380, United States Revised Statutes, public land may be reserved by the President for town-site purposes on his own motion, or petitions may be addressed to him therefor, setting forth facts warranting his action under said section duly verified by the affidavit of one or more persons, such petitions to be filed with the President, the department, the General Land Office, or with the district land office for transmission to the General Land Office.

SURVEY AND APPRAISAL

2. Town sites reserved under section 2380, or under any other law directing their disposition under section 2381, will be surveyed, when ordered by the department, under the supervision of the General Land Office, into urban, or urban and suburban, lots and blocks, and thereafter the lots and blocks will be appraised by such disinterested person or persons as may be appointed by the Secretary of the Interior. Each appraiser must take his oath of office and transmit the same to the General Land Office before proceeding with his work. Said office must be notified by wire of the time when such appraiser or appraisers enter on duty. They will examine each lot to be appraised and determine the fair and just cash value thereof.

[1] There have been printed under this title the general regulations relating to town sites, parks, cemeteries, recreational sites, etc., and the regulations of greatest importance at the present time relating to particular town-site sales.

Improvements on such lots, if any, must not be considered in fixing such value. Lots or blocks reserved for public purposes will not be appraised.

SCHEDULE OF APPRAISEMENT

3. The schedule of appraisement must be prepared in triplicate on forms furnished by the General Land Office, and the certificates at the end thereof must be signed by each appraiser, and on being so completed they must be immediately transmitted to said office, and when approved by the Secretary of the Interior one copy will be sent to the district land office. In the case of reclamation town sites, one copy of the schedule will be sent to the Commissioner of Reclamation.

NOTICE OF SALE

4. Each sale will be given such publicity as may be deemed proper in the particular case. Appropriate instructions in this connection will be given in the order for sale.

TIME, PLACE, AND TERMS OF SALE

5. Special regulations will be issued in each case prescribing the time when, the place where, and the terms under which the lots will be offered.

QUALIFICATIONS AND RESTRICTIONS

6. No restriction is made as to the number of lots one person may purchase. Bids and payments may be made through agents, but not by mail, or at any time or place other than that fixed in the notice of sale.

COMBINATIONS IN RESTRAINT OF THE SALE

7. All persons are warned against forming any combination or agreement which will prevent any lot from selling advantageously, or which will in any way hinder or embarrass the sale, and all persons so offending will be prosecuted under section 59 of the Criminal Code of the United States, which reads as follows:

> Whoever, before or at the time of the public sale of any of the lands of the United States, shall bargain, contract, or agree, or attempt to bargain, contract, or agree with any other person, that the last-named person shall not bid upon or purchase the land so offered for sale, or any parcel thereof; or whoever by intimidation, combination, or unfair management shall hinder or prevent, or attempt to hinder or prevent, any person from bidding upon or purchasing any tract of land so offered for sale, shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars, or imprisoned not more than two years, or both.

CERTIFICATES

8. All lots purchased at the same time, for cash, in the same town site, and by the same person should be included in one certificate, in order to prevent unnecessary multiplicity of patents.

Where cash certificates can not immediately issue, because payment for the lots has not been made in full, and where the regulations authorize the issuance of nontransferable memorandum certificates. more than one lot should not be included in the same certificate.

REOFFERING AT PUBLIC SALE—PRIVATE ENTRY

9. In the absence of special instructions in a particular case, an offering at public sale may be adjourned or closed, in the discretion of the officer conducting the sale. If adjourned, the unsold lots will be held for future disposition at public sale. If closed, the unsold lots will become subject to private entry at the appraised price.

Lots sold at public sale and forfeited because of nonpayment of the purchase price, or for any other reason, will be held for further offering at public sale, unless reentry of the lots at private sale, at a designated price, is authorized by the regulations under which the lots are sold.

Lots sold at private sale should be accompanied by an application therefor, signed by the applicant.

Town Sites Platted by or for Occupants

* * * * * * *

In a town site platted and disposed of under sections 2382 to 2386, inclusive, United States Revised Statutes, the procedure is as follows:

SURVEY AND PLAT

1. The occupants, at their own expense, must cause a survey of the land into lots, blocks, streets, and alleys to be made, and the plat and field notes thereof to be filed with the recorder of the county in which the land is situated. The plat must show (1) that the land does not include an area in excess of 640 acres, unless the lots, buildings, and improvements cover a greater area, and then only to the extent so occupied and improved; (2) that the boundaries of the land are correctly shown and described thereon according to the lines of the public surveys, or if not so surveyed, then that the exterior lines of the town-site survey are tied to a designated, permanent, and thoroughly identified monument; (3) that the streets, squares, blocks, lots, and alleys, the dimensions of the same, with measurements, courses, and area of each municipal subdivision, and the name of the town are correctly delineated thereon; and (4) the exterior lines of all existing railroad rights of way and station grounds. The lots should not exceed 4,200 square feet, except in cases where the configuration necessitates a different area. The above required facts should be verified by the oath of the surveyor entered upon the margin of the plat.

A statement of the extent and general character of the improvements on the land must be filed with the plat and field notes, and such plat and statement must be verified by the oath of the party acting for and in behalf of the occupants of the land.

TRANSCRIPT OF PLAT AND STATEMENT

2. Within one month after filing such plat, field notes, and statement, a transcript thereof in duplicate, each duly verified by the certificate of the county recorder, and accompanied by the testimony of two witnesses that such town has been established in good faith, and showing the number of inhabitants thereof, and when it was so established, shall be filed with the register of the land district in which the town site is located, who will immediately transmit the same to the General Land Office for consideration, and upon the approval thereof one of said duplicate plats and statements will be returned to the register for his files.

NOTICE OF FILING PLAT

3. On filing such plat and statement the register will prepare and conspicuously post in his office a notice to the effect that the official plat of such town site has been filed and that he is ready to receive applications by lot occupants to make proof for and purchase the lots occupied by them, respectively. The newspapers in the vicinity should be given copies of the notice as an item of news, and such other publicity should be given it as can be done without expense.

ADJUSTMENT TO LINES OF PUBLIC SURVEY

4. When the town site is upon land over which the township surveys have not been extended the district cadastral engineer will be notified of the town-site survey and be furnished by the General Land Office with an outline plat showing the exterior lines thereof, with courses and distances, the date of the survey and the approval thereof, and thereafter when the township surveys have been extended over the land the exterior lines of the town site may be adjusted thereto where it can be done without impairing vested rights.

DEPARTMENT MAY MAKE TOWN-SITE SURVEY

5. Refusal or failure to file such transcript, plat, field notes, and statement, with the testimony, as above required, within twelve months from the establishment of a town on the public domain, will authorize the Secretary of the Interior to cause a survey and plat to be made thereof, the lots in which shall be disposed of at an increase of 50 per centum on the minimum price.

PRICE OF LOTS

6. The minimum price for all lots of 4,200 square feet or less is $10 per lot, except in cases where the Secretary of the Interior causes the survey into lots and blocks to be made by the Government, in which case the minimum price is $15 per lot for such lots. The minimum price for all lots in excess of 4,200 square feet will be computed by adding to said minimum price of $10 or $15, as the case may be, the sum of $4 for each additional 1,000 square feet or fractional part thereof in excess of 4,200 square feet, in the absence of special provisions in a particular case.

PREEMPTION CLAIMS

7. A preemption right of purchase at the minimum price, at any time before the day fixed for the public sale, of not exceeding two lots, is accorded an actual resident, to secure which he must file in the district office his application therefor, and therein state the date of settlement, the value and character of his improvements thereon, that he is 21 years of age or over or the head of a family, and that he is a citizen of the United States or has declared his intention to become such. The notice of intention to make proof must be filed and the notice for publication must be issued, published, and posted at the applicant's expense as in ordinary cases and in manner and form and for the time as provided in the act of March 3, 1879 (20 Stat. 472).[a] (See 38 L. D. 131, 40 L. D. 459, and 43 L. D. 216.)

Where a husband and wife are joint settlers, and the husband purchases two lots, as stated, the wife may also purchase an "additional lot" upon which she has placed substantial improvements. (39 L. D. 516.)

PREEMPTION PROOF

8. Preemption proof may be made before the register, or any officer duly authorized by law, and must show by record or documentary evidence where such evidence is usually required, and where not so required by the testimony of witnesses, (1) due publication of the register's notice; (2) the claimant's age; (3) his citizenship; and (4) his actual residence upon one lot and substantial improvements on the second lot, if two lots be included in the application. The proof must embrace the testimony of the applicant and of at least two of his advertised witnesses. The purchase price for the lot or lots must be paid when the proof is made. Entry of public lands under other laws, or in other town sites, or ownership of more than 320 acres, will not disqualify an applicant from making such entry. No entry can be made of an improved lot on which the claimant does not reside unless his residence lot is included in the same or a previous entry.

HEARINGS

9. Hearings will be ordered and conducted in accordance with the Rules of Practice where two or more adverse applications are filed for the same lot, or where a sufficient contest affidavit is filed against an application, on or before the day fixed for making proof, but no purchase money will be collected from the applicants until the final determination of the case, whereupon the successful applicant will be required to pay the purchase price within 30 days from notice thereof.

CONFLICTING MINERAL CLAIMS

10. Mineral surveys, locations, applications, and entries covering lots in such town sites will not prevent the entry of such lots hereunder and the issuance of patent thereon, but such mineral claims, if held under prior and valid mineral rights, are amply protected by the law from prejudice by the allowance of such town-lot entries and patents, and paramount patents may be issued thereafter to such mineral claimants.

MINERAL PATENTS

11. Lots wholly covered by outstanding mineral patents are not subject to entry under the town-site law, and applications therefor will be rejected. Lots partly covered by mineral patents may be entered at the price fixed for the whole lot, but the certificate and receipt must contain at the end of the description an exception clause as follows: "Excepting and excluding the portion of said lot (or lots) embraced in mineral patent (or patents) heretofore issued."

MILL SITES

12. The continued use and occupation within a town site of a duly located mill-site claim under section 2337, United States Revised Statutes, from a time prior to a settlement and occupation thereon for town-site purposes, will defeat the rights of the claimant under the town-site laws to any part of the land within such mill site.

RAILROAD RIGHTS OF WAY

13. Railroad rights of way and station grounds, when approved by the department, are subject to all valid rights existing at the date of filing the application for such rights of way or station grounds.

FORFEITURE OF PREEMPTION RIGHT

14. All right to preempt and purchase occupied and improved lots for which no entry has been allowed prior to or on the date fixed for the public sale will be forfeited unless a contest be pending thereon as hereinbefore provided, and such lots will be offered for sale together with the unoccupied lots. When notified of the date fixed for the public sale, the register will refuse to receive or consider any such application for entry where due publication could not be had and proof made thereon prior to the date so fixed for the public sale.

PUBLIC SALE

15. The public sale will be conducted in the form and manner herein provided for the sale of town lots under section 2381, United States Revised Statutes, except that no lot shall be sold for less than the minimum price herein fixed therefor, and such lots as may not be so disposed of shall thereafter be liable to private entry at such minimum, or at such reasonable increase or diminution as the Secretary of the Interior may order from time to time after at least three months' notice.

TOWN SITES ENTERED BY TRUSTEES

SEGREGATION BY TOWN-SITE SETTLEMENT

1. Public lands settled upon and occupied as a town site are thereby segregated from entry under the agricultural land laws, and may be entered under sections 2387 to 2389, subject to the restrictions contained in sections 2386 and 2391 to 2393, inclusive, United States Revised Statutes.

BY WHOM ENTRY MAY BE MADE

2. If the town is incorporated the entry must be made by the corporate authorities or by the mayor or other principal officer authorized so to do by resolution or ordinance of the town board or city council. If the town is not incorporated, the entry must be made by the judge of the county court upon petition addressed to him therefor, signed by such number of actual occupants of lots therein as may be required by the laws of the State or Territory in which the town is situated. Private individuals, organizations, or corporations are not authorized to make such entries.

TRUST

3. The entry must be made in trust (1) as to the occupied lots, for the several use and benefit of the occupants thereof according to their respective interests, and (2) as to the unoccupied lots, for the use and benefit of the municipality, the public, or the occupants collectively as a community. Such entries can not be made for the benefit of one individual, or organization, or corporation, but only for the benefit of the actual inhabitants and occupants of an established town. Prospective town sites can not be so entered.

EXECUTION OF TRUST

4. The execution of the trust as to the disposal of the lots and the proceeds of sales is to be conducted under regulations prescribed by the State or Territorial laws. Acts of trustees not in accordance with such regulations are void.

AREA THAT MAY BE ENTERED

5. The amount of land that may be entered under this act is proportionate to the number of inhabitants. One hundred and less than 200 inhabitants may enter not to exceed 320 acres; 200 and less than 1,000 inhabitants may enter not to exceed 640 acres; and where the inhabitants number 1,000 and over, an amount not to exceed 1,280 acres may be entered; and for each additional 1,000 inhabitants, not to exceed 5,000 in all, a further amount of 320 acres may be allowed. When the number of inhabitants of a town is less than 100 the town site shall be restricted to the land actually occupied for town purposes, by legal subdivisions.

ENTRY OF UNSURVEYED LAND

6. Unsurveyed public land upon which a town has been established may be entered hereunder. In such case a special survey should be procured by application to the district cadastral engineer therefor, the cost of which survey will be paid out of the general appropriations for public surveys. When the plat of such survey is filed in the district office, application may be made to enter the land described therein.

DECLARATORY STATEMENTS

7. Declaratory statements may be filed as the initiatory step for the entry of the land in all cases where the occupants are not ready to apply for entry, and should be so filed in order to protect their rights. The statement should be signed and filed by the officer entitled to make entry under the law, and should show the number of inhabitants, that the land is occupied for trade, business, and other town-site purposes, and the date when first so occupied, and declare the purpose of the occupants to enter it under the town-site laws. It should include only such lands as the town is entitled to enter by Government subdivisions where surveyed, and if not surveyed the land should be described so it may be easily identified.

PROOF

8. The notice of intention to make proof must be filed and the notice for publication must be issued, published, and posted at the applicant's expense as in ordinary cases, and in manner and form and for the time provided in the act of March 3, 1879 (20 Stat. 472). (See 38 L. D. 131; 40 L. D. 459, and 43 L. D. 216.) The proof may be made before the register or any officer duly authorized by law, and must show, by record or documentary evidence, where such evidence is usually required, and where not so required, by the testimony of at least two of the advertised witnesses, (1) due publication of the register's notice; (2) if an incorporated town, proof of incorporation, which should be a certified copy of the order of incorporation, or if by legislative enactment, a citation to such act; (3) certified record evidence of the election, qualification, and the authority of the officer making entry; (4) the number of town-site occupants and claimants on each occupied Government subdivision; (5) the number of inhabitants in the town site; (6) the character, extent, and value of town-site improvements located on each Government subdivision; and (7) the date when the land was first used for town-site purposes.

AREA ENTERABLE

9. Entry can not be made hereunder of a greater quantity of land than 2,560 acres, unless the excess in area is actually settled upon, inhabited, improved, and used for business and municipal purposes.

CONFLICTING MINERAL CLAIMS

10. Under said sections 2386, 2392, and section 16 of the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1101), the title to lands acquired hereunder will be subject to all valid prior rights to unpatented mining claims or possessions held under existing law, and paramount patents may be issued thereafter to such mineral claimants, notwithstanding the prior town-site patent.

All lands covered by patented minerals claims must be omitted from town-site entries hereunder. Government subdivisions of land, made fractional by the omission of such patented claims, will be designated by lot numbers on segregation diagram prepared by the district cadastral engineer.

PUBLIC RESERVATIONS

11. Reservations for the use of the United States Government are not subject to entry hereunder.

MILL SITES

12. The continued use and occupation within a town site of a duly located mill-site claim under section 2337, United States Revised Statutes, from a time prior to a settlement and occupation thereof for town-site purposes, will defeat the rights of the claimant under the town-site laws to any part of the land within such mill site.

RAILROAD RIGHTS OF WAY

13. Railroad rights of way and station grounds, when approved by the department, are subject to all valid rights existing at the date of filing the application for such rights of way or station grounds.

CHANGE IN METHOD OF ENTRY

14. Where proceedings have been had for the entry of lots under sections 2382 to 2386, inclusive, United States Revised Statutes, but no patent has issued thereunder, the occupants may avail themselves, if the town authorities choose to do so, of the provisions of said sections 2387 to 2389 and make proof and entry thereunder; provided, however, that in addition to the minimum price for the land applied for there shall be paid, before patent issues therefor, by the parties applying for such change of entry, all costs of surveying and platting such town site and expenses incident thereto incurred by the Government under the provisions of said sections 2382 to 2386. On application to this office the applicants will be informed of the amount of said expense to be paid in excess of the purchase price of the land in order to effectuate such change of entry.

ADDITIONAL ENTRIES

15. Where town-site entry has been or may hereafter be made, under the provisions of said sections 2387 to 2393, additional entries may be made, under the provisions of section 4 of the act approved March 3, 1877 (19 Stat. 392), of such contiguous tracts as may be occupied for town-site purposes, but such additional entry shall not, together with all prior entries made for such town site, be in excess of the area to which the town may be entitled at date of the additional entry by virtue of its population as prescribed in said section 2389; provided, however, that such area shall not exceed 2,560 acres. Such additional entries will be made in the same manner and under the same regulations as are herein provided for entries under said sections 2387 to 2393, inclusive.

ENTRY AND PAYMENT

16. When town-site proof has been submitted hereunder the register will, if he approves the same, forward it to the General Land Office with his recommendation thereon, without collecting the purchase money and without issuing the final papers. If the proof so submitted is found satisfactory the register will be notified thereof, and if no objections exist in his office he will notify the applicant thereof, and on payment of the minimum price fixed by the law for the purchase of the land he will issue the final papers.

TOWN SITES IN RECLAMATION PROJECTS

WITHDRAWALS—SURVEYS

1. The Commissioner of Reclamation shall from time to time recommend to the Secretary of the Interior, through the Commissioner of the General Land Office, the withdrawal and reservation of such lands for town-site purposes, under the acts of April 16 and June 27, 1906 (34 Stat. 116 and 519), as he may deem advisable. He shall, when in his judgment the public interests require it, from time to time, cause not less than a legal subdivision, according to the official township surveys, of the lands so reserved to be surveyed into town lots, with appropriate reservations for public purposes. The plats and field notes of such surveys shall be prepared in triplicate for each town site, and shall be submitted for the approval of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, who, after such approval, shall submit the original plat for the approval of the Secretary of the Interior.

TIME AND PLACE OF SALE, APPRAISEMENTS, ETC.

2. The Commissioner of Reclamation shall from time to time recommend to the Secretary of the Interior the sale, the time and place of sale, the appraisement, the appraisers to be appointed, the officer to superintend the sale, and the compensation of the appraisers and superintendent, and the newspapers for the publication of the notice of sale, of such portions of the surveyed lots as in his judgment the public interest may then require to be appraised and sold. The recommendations in this regulation above required shall be submitted through the Commissioner of the General Land Office for his concurrence or dissent. The Commissioner of the General Land Office shall prepare and submit to the Secretary of the Interior the details and appointments of the appraisers and the superintendent of sale in accordance with the approved recommendations, and when detailed or appointed he shall give them all necessary instructions; and he shall also prepare and transmit the notice of sale for publication. The report of the appraisers shall be transmitted to the Secretary of the Interior through the Commissioner of the General Land Office. The sale will be conducted in accordance with the general regulations under section 2381, United States Revised Statutes, and subject to the special regulations herein prescribed.

INSTALLMENT PAYMENTS

3. Whenever the Secretary of the Interior, in the exercise of the discretion conferred upon him by section 2 of the act of June 11, 1910 (36 Stat. 465), shall order the payment of the purchase price of lots, sold in town sites created under the laws in said act mentioned, to be made in annual installments, the same will be done under such regulations as may be issued in each particular instance.

REAPPRAISEMENTS

4. In all cases where the Secretary of the Interior shall direct the reappraisement of unsold lots under the first section of the said act of June 11, 1910, the reappraisement will be conducted under the regulations provided for under the original appraisement of lots in town sites created under the laws in said act mentioned. The lots to be reappraised will not, from the date of the order therefor, be subject to disposal until offered at public sale at the reappraised value, which offering will be conducted under the regulations providing for the public sale of lots in such town sites.

ADDITIONAL TOWN SITES

5. The Commissioner of Reclamation from time to time in like manner may cause one or more additional legal subdivisions of the lands so reserved for town-site purposes to be so surveyed into town lots, with appropriate reservations for public purposes; and he shall submit such further recommendations for appraisal and sale, in accordance with these regulations, as he may deem necessary or advisable; and he may in like manner submit recommendations for the reappraisal and sale of lots previously offered for sale and remaining unsold, as authorized by act of June 11, 1910 (36 Stat. 465).

PUBLIC RESERVES

6. The public reservations in each town shall be improved and maintained by the town authorities at the expense of the town; and upon the organization thereof as a municipal corporation, said reservations shall be conveyed to such corporation in its corporate name, subject to the condition that they shall be used forever for public purposes. To secure such conveyances the municipality shall apply through its proper officer for a patent to such reservations, and furnish proof in manner, form, and substance as required under the regulations in this circular for patents to public reserves in Oklahoma town sites under section 22 of the act approved May 2, 1890 (26 Stat. 91).

GRANT OF LANDS IN RECLAMATION TOWN SITES FOR SCHOOL PURPOSES

At any time after the approval of the survey of any Government reclamation town site and the subdivision thereof into town lots, with appropriate reservations for public purposes, a school district. in order to obtain title under the act of October 31, 1919, should file, through its proper officers, its application for patent to the unreserved, unappropriated, undisposed of lands it may desire, not exceeding 6 acres in area, therein specifically describing the same by lot and block numbers, as delineated and designated on the approved town-site plat; submit sufficient and satisfactory reasons showing that the area applied for is needed for its use; that the land is unappropriated and subject to disposition under the act, in order that this department may be fully advised that there is no adverse claim for the land applied for; and therewith furnish the certificate of the superintendent of public instruction, or other officer performing such function, having jurisdiction over the county in which the town site is situate, showing that the district is a duly organized district under the laws of the State and entitled to hold real estate in its corporate name.

The applicant must also procure and file with the application, at the time of the filing of the same or as early as practicable after the filing of such application, a statement by the project manager of the Reclamation Service having charge of the project in which the land is located, showing that the disposal of the land applied for will not in any manner interfere with said project, such statement having been previously approved by the Commissioner of Reclamation.

There is no limit to the number of applications which may be filed by a qualified school district, the only limitation being that the total acreage which may be patented to such a district shall not exceed 6 acres in area within any Government reclamation town site situated within such school district. Whenever, therefore, more than one application is filed by the same applicant, such applicant should refer by serial number, to all previous applications filed by it.

The application and proof must be filed in the district land office wherein the land applied for is situate, and if the register thereof finds the same sufficient under these regulations, and if the Reclamation Service makes favorable report upon the said application; the register will issue certificate entry, the same to provide that if any land so conveyed cease entirely to be used for school purposes title thereto shall revert to and revest in the United States.

TOWN SITES IN FORMER INDIAN RESERVATIONS IN OKLAHOMA

TOWN-SITE ENTRIES

1. The entry of lands in former Indian reservations in Oklahoma for town-site purposes is governed by section 22 of the act of May 2, 1890 (26 Stat. 81, 91), and the act of March 11, 1902 (32 Stat. 63).

Town-site entries made under section 22 of the act of May 2, 1890, must conform to the applicable regulations herein provided for entries under sections 2380 to 2394, inclusive, United States Revised Statutes, but in addition proof of the requirements made in the said section 22 and in the special regulations issued thereunder approved August 7, 1909 (38 L. D. 92, 115), must be furnished. The regulations are not reprinted here because there is but little present need for reference thereto.

ENTRY OF PUBLIC RESERVES IN EXISTING OKLAHOMA TOWN SITES

2. Applications for patents to the tracts reserved for public purposes, in all towns in Oklahoma created under said section 22 or under any other act where tracts have been reserved for such purposes under said section 22, may be filed on behalf of the municipalities whose corporate limits cover the land in which such reservations are situated. The application should be made by the mayor or other proper municipal officer and describe the reservations to be patented according to the approved plats of said town site, and the same should be accompanied with the proof of the municipal organization of the town similar to that above provided for the disposition of the proceeds derived from the commutation of homestead entries for town-site purposes under said section 22, and proof must also be filed therewith of the authority of the officer filing the application to make the same with the proper record evidence of his election and qualification as such officer. The application and proof must be filed in the district land office; and if the register thereof find the same sufficient under these regulations, he will issue the certificate of entry in the form provided therefor.

ENTRY OF PUBLIC RESERVES IN VACATED OKLAHOMA TOWN SITES

3. Under the act approved May 11, 1896 (29 Stat. 116), where a town site or an addition to a town site in a homestead commuted to a town-site entry under the second proviso of section 22 of the act approved May 2, 1890 (26 Stat. 91), has been vacated under the laws of Oklahoma and patents for the public reservations therein have not been issued, such reservations will be disposed of in the following manner:

(1) Application and proof by the original entryman.—Application for a patent to such reservations may be filed by the original entryman within six months from the vacation of the town site, and proof must be filed by him, with the register, of the due vacation of such town site in accordance with the requirements of the laws of Oklahoma, which proof must consist of a copy of the record evidence of such vacation duly certified. Such proof must also be accompanied with evidence that the corporate authorities of the municipality, if one be organized, in which the reservations were situated prior to such vacation, have been personally served 30 days prior to making such proof with notice of the application and of the date the proof will be made. If the proof be found sufficient the entry will be allowed for the reservations as described in the town-site plat upon receipt of the payment of the homestead price. If the municipality is represented at the time of making proof, it may be heard in opposition to the application and decision be rendered thereon subject to appeal as in other cases.

(2) Reservations disposed of as isolated tracts.—In case of the failure of the original entryman to apply for patent to such reservations within six months from the vacation of such town site, or in case such reserves have been patented to the municipality and it has ceased to exist by reason of such vacation, the reservations will be disposed of as isolated tracts under the provisions of section 2455, United States Revised Statutes, and the acts amendatory thereof, and the regulations issued thereunder.

SALE OF PATENTED PUBLIC RESERVES IN VACATED OKLAHOMA TOWN SITES

4. Reservations may be sold by an existing municipal corporation, upon the vacation of the town site, where patent has been issued to such municipality therefor, the proceeds of such sale to be covered into the school fund of such corporation. (See City of Enid, 30 L. D. 352.)

Town Sites on Mineral Lands

The general town-site laws, comprised in sections 2380 to 2394, United States Revised Statutes, authorize the entry of town sites, or the sale of lots therein, upon public lands which may include unpatented mineral claims, but the rights of mineral claimants upon any land entered or sold under said town-site laws are expressly protected by sections 2386 and 2392. These two sections recognize the superior rights, as against any town-site claimant—whether corporate, community, or individual—of all claimants for mineral veins possessed agreeably to local custom, or for any valid mining claim or possession held under existing law. The precedence and superiority so accorded to mineral claims, however, depend in final analysis upon the question of fact whether, at date of town-site entry or lot sale, the lands claimed under the mining laws were "known to contain minerals of such extent and value as to justify expenditures for the purpose of extracting them" (39 L. D. 356). Where an affirmative showing in such behalf is made in due course by the mineral claimant, his right to a patent for the land (subject to the distinction hereinafter noted as to incorporated towns), will not be prejudiced by any previous town-site entry, deed, or patent covering the same land (26 L. D. 144; 29 L. D. 426; 32 L. D. 211; 34 L. D. 276 and 596).

Under said general town-site laws, as construed by the department and the courts, an entry including unpatented mineral lands may be made for an incorporated town as well as for an unincorporated town, the law requiring that in the former case the entry shall be made by the corporate authorities, and in the latter by the county judge (34 L. D. 24). While such general right of entry by or for incorporated towns and cities is therefore independent of anything contained in section 16 of the act of March 3, 1891 (26 Stat. 1095), it will be seen that that section in terms announces the right to enter mineral lands. The protection afforded to mineral claims by the body of section 16 is similar to that given generally in said sections 2386 and 2392, Revised Statutes, but the proviso to section 16 is as follows:

> Provided, That no entry shall be made by such mineral-vein claimant for surface ground where the owner or occupier of the surface ground shall have had possession of the same before the inception of the title of the mineral-vein applicant.

The department has never viewed said proviso as warranting, under any circumstances, the allowance of entry for a mineral vein independently of "the surface ground appertaining thereto," nor is such an entry provided for in the general mining laws. But said proviso creates one distinction between unincorporated and incorporated towns as regards the relative rights of town-site occupants and mineral claimants; which is, that whereas the town-site patent will, in either case, carry absolute title to any mineral not known to exist at the date of town-site entry, the adverse rights of mineral and town-lot claimants within incorporated towns are hinged upon priority of initiation. That is to say, that after entry is made for such town, no entry by a mineral-vein applicant will be allowed for any land owned and occupied under the town-site law by a party whose possession antedated the inception of the mineral applicant's claim, even though such land was known, at date of the town-site entry, to contain valuable minerals.

Subject to the distinction above noted, the foregoing principles apply to all mineral claims within town sites entered or disposed of under any of the laws above mentioned, and also to mineral claims within town sites disposable under special acts containing no reference to the rights of mining claimants.

The law does not require that town-site entries shall exclude any mineral claim or possession except such as may have been patented (29 L. D. 21). Mineral claims which have not been patented may be excluded from a town-site entry at the option of the town-site applicant, who must, in that event, furnish satisfactory proof that the exclusion covers a "valid mining claim or possession held under existing law" (33 L. D. 542). The exclusion of a mill-site claim from a town-site entry is necessary only in cases where the mill-site claimant shall have been in occupation of the ground, under regular location, from a time antedating its occupation for town-site purposes. The issue of priority in such cases may be raised by the town-site applicant, the mill-site claimant, or the Government.

County-Seat Town Sites

The instructions contained in circular of August 7, 1909 (38 L. D. 92, 107), will be followed in connection with applications for county-seat town sites.

* * * * * * *

* * * * * * *

The purchaser of a town lot, which is sold on the installment plan, may transfer his equitable interest in the lot, prior to the payment of the last installment of the purchase price, but the Government will not recognize anyone but the original purchaser and will issue all necessary papers and also the patent in his name. By such course, the Government is relieved of all unnecessary responsibility and the patent, when issued, inures to the benefit of the transferee.

Formerly patents were issued to transferees, but based on departmental instructions of October 11, 1911, patents are now issued only in the names of the original purchasers, except where their issuance to transferees is authorized by the act of July 9, 1914 (38 Stat. 454), and instructions thereunder approved August 5, 1914 (43 L. D. 361).

ENTRY OF SURVEYED LAND

1. The right of entry under the act approved September 30, 1890, (26 Stat. 502), is restricted to incorporated cities and towns, and each of such cities and towns shall be allowed to make entries of tracts of unreserved and unappropriated public land, including land in Alaska, by Government subdivisions, not exceeding, in all entries hereunder by such city or town, a quarter section in area, all of which must lie within 3 miles of the corporate limits of the city or town for which the entries are made.

ENTRY OF UNSURVEYED LAND

2. If the public surveys have not been extended over the land sought by any city or town under the provisions of said act, it shall first be necessary for the proper corporate authority to apply to the district cadastral engineer of the district in which the tract in question is located for a special survey of the outboundaries of such tract. The application should describe the character of the land sought to be surveyed and, as accurately as possible, its area and geographical location. Tracts covered by such special surveys must be as nearly as practicable in square form, and entries of the same will not be allowed until after the surveys shall have been approved by the district cadastral engineer and accepted by the Commissioner of the General Land Office. The current appropriation for " surveying the public lands " being applicable to the survey of lines of reservations, as well as to the extension of the ordinary lines of the system of public-land surveys, the cost of the surveys of all unsurveyed lands selected under the provisions of said act of September 30, 1890, will be paid for out of said appropriation, the same as the special surveys of the outboundaries of town sites and for like reasons (see case of Fort Pierre, 18 C. L. O. 117), and the surveyors who execute such special surveys will report whether the land is either mineral in character or within an organized mining district.

APPLICATION AND PROOF

3. An application for the purposes indicated herein can only be made by the municipal authorities of an incorporated city or town; and in all cases the entries will be made and patents issued to the municipality in its corporate name, for the specific purpose or purposes mentioned in said act.

The land must be paid for at the Government price per acre, after proof has been furnished satisfactorily showing—

(1) Thirty days' publication of notice of intention to make entry, in the same manner as in homestead and other cases.[b] (38 L. D. 131, 40 L. D. 459, and 43 L. D. 216.)

(2) The official character and authority of the officer or officers making the entry.

(3) A certificate of the officer having custody of the record of incorporation, setting forth the fact and date of incorporation of the city or town by which entry is to be made, and the extent and location of its corporate limits.

(4) The testimony of the applicant and two published witnesses to the effect that the land applied for is vacant and unappropriated by any other party, and as to whether the same is either mineral in character or located within an organized mining district or within a mining region.

(5) In case the land applied for is described by metes and bounds, as established by a special survey of the same, that the applicant and two of the published witnesses have testified from personal knowledge obtained by observation and measurements that the land to be entered is wholly within 3 miles of the corporate limits of the city or town for which entry is to be made.

CERTIFICATES

4. Where the proof shows that the land is mineral in character, located in a mining district, or is within a region known as mineral lands, the certificate of entry shall contain the following proviso:

> Provided, That no title shall be hereby acquired to any mineral deposits within the limits of the above described tract of land, all such deposits therein being reserved as the property of the United States.

SALE OF PUBLIC LANDS TO ASSOCIATIONS AND CORPORATIONS FOR CEMETERIES

ENTRY OF SURVEYED LAND

1. Under the act approved March 1, 1907 (34 Stat. 1052), the right to purchase public land for cemetery purposes is limited to religious, fraternal, and private corporations or associations, empowered to hold real estate for cemetery purposes by the laws under which they are organized. Such corporation or association shall be allowed to make but one entry of not more than 80 acres of contiguous tracts by Government subdivisions of nonmineral, unreserved, and unappropriated public land, including public land in Alaska.

ENTRY OF UNSURVEYED LAND

2. If the public surveys have not been extended over the land so sought to be entered, the corporation or association should first apply to the proper district cadastral engineer for a special survey of the exterior lines of the tract desired, describing the topographical character of the land and its area and geographical location as accurately as possible. Such tracts must be as nearly as practicable in a rectangular from, and after the survey and plat thereof has been made, approved by the district cadastral engineeer, accepted by the General Land Office, and filed in the district office, application may then be made for the entry of the land under said act. The cost of such surveys will be paid out of the current appropriation for "surveying the public lands," and the deputies employed will report whether the land is mineral in character.

3. The proof must satisfactorily show—

(1) The filing of a notice of intention to make proof, the issuance, in manner and form so far as possible as in other cases provided, of the publication notice, to be published and posted for the time and in the manner provided by the act of March 3, 1879 (20 Stat. 472), and the regulations thereunder (38 L. D. 131, 40 L. D. 459, 43 L. D. 216).

(2) The official character of the officer or officers applying on behalf of the association or corporation to make the entry, and his or their express authority to do so conferred by action of the association.

(3) A copy of the record, certified by the officer having charge thereof, showing the due incorporation and organization and date thereof of the association or corporation and its location and address. The law under which it is organized and by which it derives its authority to hold real estate for cemetery purposes must also be cited.

(4) That the land applied for its nomineral, vacant, and unappropriated public land, and the extent to which it is used for cemetery purposes, and when first so used, if it is so used, which must be shown by the testimony of the applicant and two of the advertised witnesses.

PRICE

4. The land must be paid for at such price per acre as shall be determined by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, provided that in no case shall the price be less than $1.25 per acre.

PROCEDURE

5. Entries under this act must issue to the association or corporation in its corporate name, and the granting clause in the certificate should state that the patent to be issued for the tract desrcibed is "for cemetery purposes, subject to reversion 'to the United States should the land or any part thereof be sold or cease to be used for the purpose' in said act provided." Inasmuch, however, as the Commissioner of the General Land Office determines the amount of the purchase price under the existing conditions in each particular case, the register will, when proof is made to his satisfaction, immediately forward such proof to the General Land Office with his recommendation thereon without collecting any money as the purchase price and without issuing the final papers. If said office finds the proof satisfactory, the commissioner will fix the purchase price, and the register will, on being notified thereof and no objection appearing thereto in his office, notify the applicant of the amount required and allow him 30 days from service of such notice to pay such purchase price, and on receipt thereof cash certificate will be issued.

RECREATIONAL SITES, ETC.

ACQUISITION OR USE OF PUBLIC LANDS BY STATES, COUNTIES, OR MUNICIPALITIES FOR RECREATIONAL PURPOSES [c]

LANDS SUBJECT TO WITHDRAWAL

1. Unreserved nonmineral public lands not desired for Federal administration, surveyed or unsurveyed, exclusive of those situated in the Territory of Alaska, may be withheld from appropriation in aid of the classification and disposition or use authorized by the act of June 14, 1926 (44 Stat. 741), upon a proper petition therefor. Any withdrawal for such purpose will, however, be subject to valid existing appropriations under the public land laws legally maintained. The land must be surveyed before title may be acquired. The duration of these withdrawals will depend upon the good faith shown by the petitioners in prosecuting the necessary preliminary work in connection with the recreational project involved.

PETITIONS

2. Petitions for such withdrawal should be addressed to the Secretary of the Interior and filed in duplicate in the proper district land office, should describe the land desired withdrawn by legal subdivisions, if surveyed, or by metes and bounds in conformity with the regulations approved November 3, 1909 (38 L. D. 287), if unsurveyed, and contain a statement that the area is unoccupied and nonmineral and chiefly valuable for recreational purposes. Such petitions should set forth the plan of recreational development proposed, giving details as to any contemplated improvements, state whether acquisition is sought through exchange or purchase, or whether a lease is desired, and should contain proof or a citation of the authority of the official or officials signing the petition to act for the State or county or counties when a State or county recreational project is involved, or of the authority of either State or county officials to submit the petition in behalf of a municipality when a municipal project is concerned. In event that acquisition is sought through exchange, the petition of the State seeking the exchange should contain a description of the State land proffered as a basis therefor. The registers of the district land offices will not assign serial numbers to these petitions and will upon receipt forward them by special letter to the Commissioner of the General Land Office for action.

---

ACTION BY DIVISION INSPECTORS

3. In event of favorable action upon such a petition, the proper division inspector will, if necessary, be instructed to cause an examination to be made to determine whether the withdrawn land is nonmineral and chiefly valuable for recreational purposes and will thereafter submit report to the Commissioner of the General Land Office. The report submitted will also contain information as to the comparative values of the public and State lands involved when an exchange is proposed. In order that the department may determine a proper charge in case purchase or lease is desired the division inspector will ascertain and report what is a fair and reasonable price per acre or annual rental for the area, taking into consideration the purpose for which it is to be used. The Commissioner of the General Land Office will forward such reports to the Secretary of the Interior with recommendation.

APPLICATIONS

4. The Commissioner of the General Land Office will notify the register of the district land office in which the land is situated of the findings of the department and the register will then advise the State, county, or municipality which has requested the withdrawal thereof. Thereafter, in event the land has been found subject to use or acquisition under the law, such State, county, or municipality may file formal application for the land in the district land office, and all such applications will be given current serial numbers, noted upon the records, and transmitted with the returns from that office. No fixed forms of applications have been prepared, but these instructions should be followed as nearly as possible.

The application of a State for an exchange should follow in so far as applicable the form used by the State in making application for indemnity for losses in its school grant where the land tendered as a basis has been granted to the State by the United States for school or other purposes and has thereafter remained the property of the State. A deed of relinquishment of the base land must be executed by the proper State officer or officers and duly recorded. Such deed must be accompanied by a certificate of the officer, or officers, of the State charged with the care and disposal of the land reconveyed, showing that same has not been alienated or contracted to be alienated in any way by the State, that the said land is not in the possession of, or subject to the claim of any third party under any law or permission of the State, and that except for such conveyance the title of the State is unimpaired, together with a certificate of the recorder of deeds or official custodian of the records of transfers of real estate in the proper county, or a duly authenticated abstract of title, showing that at the time the reconveyance was recorded the title was in the State making the conveyance and that the land was free from encumbrances of any kind.

There should be tendered with the application of a State, county, or municipality to purchase or lease lands withdrawn under this law the amount fixed as the purchase price or as annual rental therefor. Such application should contain proof or a citation of the authority of the official or officials signing the application to represent the State, county, or municipality in the transaction. In so far as applicable the general regulations of the department governing the execution of contracts will be followed in the preparation of leases issued. The proceeds from sales or leases will be credited to "Sales of public lands" except in those instances in which other provision has been made in the laws authorizing disposition of the land.

Applications presented under these regulations not in substantial conformity with the requirements herein made and not accompanied by the prescribed proof will be rejected subject to appeal or curing the defect where possible.

RESERVATIONS AND CONDITIONS

5. Any patent or lease issued to a State, county, or municipality will contain the mineral reservation and forfeiture provision prescribed by the law. No provision is made at this time for development of the reserved mineral deposits in lands to be conveyed or leased under the terms of this law, and until such regulations shall have issued the reserved deposits will not be subject to disposition.

Leasing of Public Lands Near Springs for Erection of Bathhouses, Hotels, or Other Improvements [d]

* * * * * * *

The filing of applications under the act of March 3, 1925 (43 Stat. 1133), and action on such applications will be governed by the following regulations:

LESSEES

1. Leases may issue under the act to any responsible persons or associations, which words are construed to include private corporations and municipalities.

LANDS TO WHICH APPLICABLE

2. Leases may issue for surveyed or unsurveyed unreserved public lands in the several States and in Alaska, situated near or adjacent to mineral, medicinal, or other springs, which are located upon unreserved public lands, and for public lands which have been withdrawn for the protection of such springs.

APPLICATION FOR LEASE

3. An application for lease should be made in duplicate, should be under oath, and should cover or include the following:

(a) Applicant's name and address.

(b) If applicant is a private corporation, a certified copy of the articles of incorporation.

[d] The instructions under this heading were originally issued as Circular No. 1034, dated Oct. 6, 1925.

(c) If applicant is a municipality, the law or charter and procedure taken by which the municipality has become a legal body corporate.

An application by a private corporation or municipality should show that it is legally qualified to take the lease requested and that the taking of such lease has been duly authorized by its governing body.

(d) An accurate description of the land desired. If the land is surveyed it should be described with reference to the public-land surveys. A lease may be granted for part of a legal subdivision or for more than one legal subdivision, in the discretion of the Secretary of the Interior. If the land is unsurveyed, the description thereof should conform to requirements set forth in circular of November 3, 1909 (38 L. D. 287).

(e) The names and addresses of three persons to whom reference may be made as to applicant's reputation and business standing and as to his ability, both from a financial standpoint and otherwise, to carry out the contemplated project.

(f) The period of time for which the lease is desired, not to exceed 20 years, and the purpose for which the lease is sought, whether for the erection of a bathhouse, hotel, or other improvement for the accommodation of the public. It is important that the application should specify all purposes for which it is intended or desired to use the land, as a lease, if issued, will authorize the use of the land only for the purposes specified in the application, and its use for any other purpose will not be permitted. Thus, if an applicant for a hotel, in addition to using the land for ordinary hotel purposes, wishes to operate a billiard hall or moving-picture theater, etc., on the land, that fact should be disclosed in the application.

(g) Details as to the proposed improvements, including the estimated cost of construction and of subsequent maintenance; also the time when construction work will begin and when it will be completed, if the proposed lease is granted.

FIXING OF RATES

4. All leases issued hereunder will contain stipulations authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to fix the rates and prices for accommodations and services whenever this is deemed necessary. The charges which may be made may or may not be regulated by the Secretary of the Interior, as may be deemed proper in the particular case.

FILING OF APPLICATION

5. An application for lease should be filed in duplicate in the district land office, should be given a current serial number, and should be duly noted on the district land office records. If it appears that the land applied for is not subject to lease, the application should be rejected subject to the usual right of appeal. Otherwise, after notation, the register should attach to each copy of the application a statement as to the status of the land as shown by the district land office records and should transmit the original copy of the application to the Commissioner of the General Land Office by special letter for notation on the General Land Office records and the duplicate copy to the division inspector for report.

ACTION BY DIVISION INSPECTOR

6. Upon receipt of an application the division inspector will cause a field examination to be made, if necessary, and thereafter he will submit report to the Commissioner of the General Land Office. The report should include the following information, if it will be of service in the consideration of the case, together with any other information which may be deemed essential:

(a) A topographic map of the areas adjacent to the spring or of the area applied for. If in the opinion of the division inspector the area should be divided, to enable the issuance of more than one lease, a proposed division should be shown.

(b) A determination of the quantity of water available from the spring and a plan of the work that should be done to develop and increase the flow, as well as to protect the spring from pollution or silting with an estimate as to the cost.

(c) An analysis of the water, which may be procured from the Bureau of Chemistry.

(d) Whether the contemplated use of the land is the highest or best use to which the land may be put under the act of March 3, 1925.

(e) A statement as to the distance of the land from centers of population and as to its accessibility.

(f) A statement as to whether the contemplated project will require closer supervision than can be given by the division inspector.

The report should show whether in the opinion of the division inspector, all things considered, the application should be allowed or rejected. It should also show the amount of the annual rental which in the opinion of the division inspector should be charged, if the lease is granted. In order to ascertain a proper charge, the division inspector should determine what is a fair and reasonable rental of the area, taking into consideration the purpose for which it is to be used and the probable value of the lease to the applicant. The report should also state any conditions or restrictions which in the opinion of the division inspector should be incorporated in a lease, if issued. In so far as applicable, the general regulations of the department governing the execution of contracts will be followed in the preparation of leases issued hereunder.

CONFLICTING APPLICATIONS

7. From and after the filing in the district land office of an application for lease, the lands applied for will not be subject to other appropriation under the public land laws. However, applications under other laws may be received and such applications will be suspended pending final action on the application for lease, unless a prior right to the land is claimed by settlement or otherwise, in which case the subsequent applications should be transmitted to the General Land Office for consideration. If the application for lease is subsequently approved, the conflicting suspended applications will be rejected. On the other hand, if the application for lease is rejected, the conflicting suspended applications will be relieved from the suspension and will be disposed of as though the application for lease had not been filed.

FURTHER ACTION ON APPLICATION FOR LEASE

8. When a report has been received from the division inspector, the Commissioner of the General Land Office will make report to the Secretary of the Interior either recommending the allowance or the rejection of the application for lease. If the allowance of the application is recommended, the commissioner will submit a form of a proposed lease for consideration. Thereafter, the department will take such further action and will give such further directions as are considered proper.

DISCRETIONARY AUTHORITY OF THE SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR

9. The granting of an application for lease is discretionary with the Secretary of the Interior, and any application may be granted or denied in part or in its entirety as may appear to be warranted in the particular case.

FURTHER SALE OF LOTS AT CHESTERFIELD, IDAHO, AUTHORIZED—FORMER SALES AT CHESTERFIELD AND MINIDOKA, IDAHO, CLOSED

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, May 15, 1926.

Register, Blackfoot, Idaho.

Sir: Sales of lots in the town sites of Chesterfield and Minidoka, Idaho, were conducted under your supervision in accordance with regulations contained in Circulars Nos. 1019 [e] and 1020, and by letters dated September 21 and October 26, 1925, you reported as to the lots sold. These reports do not state whether the sales were closed or adjourned. No reason appears, however, why the sales should not be closed, and they are hereby declared to be closed. Under the said regulations such lots as were offered at public sale and not sold may be sold at private sale, at the appraised values.

There are a few lots in the town site of Chesterfield, Idaho, now undisposed of, which were not included in the former offering, for the reason that at the time of such offering they were covered by preemption applications. The lots have since become subject to disposition, by reason of the relinquishment of the preemption claims. There are no such lots in the town site of Minidoka.

The following is a list of such lots in the town site of Chesterfield, as shown by the records of this office:

Lot No.	Block No.	Area	Valuation
		Acres
1	11	2.50	$37.50
2	11	2.50	37.50
2	15	2.77	41.55
3	15	2.77	41.55
1	28	2.50	37.50
4	28	2.50	37.50
1	29	2.50	50.00
4	29	2.50	50.00

Before any lot of the class indicated may be disposed of at private sale, it must be offered at public sale.

You will cause all lots in the town site of Chesterfield, of the class indicated, to be offered at public sale, for cash, at your office at not less than the appraised values on Thursday, July 8, 1926, the sale otherwise to be in accordance with the regulations contained in Circular No. 1019. You will report promptly at the close of the sale whether or not the lots are sold and whether or not the sale has been closed. At the close of the sale the lots, if unsold, will become subject to private entry for cash at the appraised values.

Very respectfully,

Circular No. 1086

REGULATIONS FOR THE SALE OF TOWN LOTS IN THE FIRST ADDITION TO THE TOWN SITE OF FORD, CALIF.

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, July 26, 1926.

Register, Visalia, Calif.

Sir: By Executive order No. 4225 of May 16, 1925, the S. ½ NW. ¼ and S. ½ NW. ¼ NW. ¼, sec. 12, T. 32 S., R. 23 E., M. D. M., were eliminated from Naval Petroleum Reserve No. 2 and reserved for town-site purposes under section 2380, United States Revised Statutes. By the terms of the order all oil and gas deposits therein are retained in said reserve for the use and benefit of the Navy.

The subdivisional survey thereof was made under section 2381, Revised Statutes, and accepted May 15, 1926. The unreserved lots in said town site will be disposed of under the provisions of section 2381, Revised statutes, in accordance with regulations herein prescribed and subject to the conditions and limitations of the act of July 17, 1914 (38 Stat. 509).

Four drilling sites of approximately 2 acres each on each 40-acre tract within the town site have been reserved from disposition under the town-site laws for the future development of the oil and gas deposits. Such sites have been marked upon the approved plat and will be reserved from the sale.

Date of sale.—On Monday, November 8, 1926, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m., a sale at public auction to the highest bidder will be held at the town site, of all unreserved lots, the sale to be conducted from day to day until all such lots shall be offered under the supervision of the Commissioner of the General Land Office or his representative. No lots will be sold for less than the appraised price and on the terms herein stated. After all unreserved lots have been offered, the sale will not be closed, but it will be indefinitely postponed, pending a reappraisement of the remaining lots before being made subject to private sale.

Manner.—Bids may be made either in person or by agent, but not by mail nor at any time or place other than the time and place when and where the lots are offered for sale hereunder, and any person may purchase any number of lots for which he is the highest bidder. Bidders will not be required to show any qualifications as to age, citizenship, or otherwise. If any successful bidder fails to make the payment required on the date of sale, the lot awarded to him shall be reoffered for sale on the following day.

Terms.—No lot will be disposed of for less than its appraised value; one-fourth of the bid price shall be paid on the day the bid is accepted and the balance of the purchase price may be paid in three equal installments in one, two, and three years after the date of sale, without interest. No entry will be allowed until payment has been made in full for the lot, but in case of partial payment there will be issued to the purchaser a nontransferable memorandum duplicate certificate as per Form 4–014; the register in such case will issue an official receipt (Form 4–131) for the money paid. Nothing herein will prevent the transfer of interest secured by the purchase and the partial payment of the lot, by deed, but the assignee will acquire no greater right than that of the original purchaser and the final entry and patent will issue to the original purchaser when all payments are made.

Forfeiture.—If any person who has made partial payment on the lot purchased fails to make any succeeding payment, required under these regulations, at the date such payment becomes due, the money deposited by such person for such lot will be forfeited and the lot after forfeiture is declared will be subject to disposition. Lots remaining unsold at the close of the sale, or thereafter declared forfeited for nonpayment of any sum of the purchase price, under the terms of the sale, will not be subject to private entry for cash until they are reappraised.

All persons are warned against forming any combination or agreement which will prevent any lot from selling advantageously, or which will in any way hinder or embarrass the sale, and all persons so offending will be prosecuted under section 59 of the Criminal Code of the United States.

Owners of buildings who do not purchase the lots on which said buildings are located will be allowed 60 days from the date of sale in which to remove their improvements.

The newspapers in the vicinity should be given copies of a notice of the sale as an item of news and such other publicity should be given it as can be done without expense.

The commissioner, or his representative conducting the sale, is authorized to reject any and all bids for any lot, and at any time suspend, adjourn, or postpone the sale of any lot or lots to such time and place as he may deem proper and to reappraise any lot or lots.

Very respectfully,

REGULATIONS FOR THE SALE OF TOWN LOTS IN THE TOWN SITE OF HARDING, FLA.

Department of the Interior,
Washington, D. C., October 30, 1923.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Sir: By virtue of Executive Ordor No. 3480, dated June 10, 1921, under the provisions of sections 2380 and 2381, United States Revised Statutes, you are directed to cause the unreserved lots in the town site of Harding, Fla., to be offered for sale at said town site at public outcry to the highest bidder, at not less than their appraised value, respectively, in the manner and on the terms hereinafter described and under the supervision of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, beginning on Tuesday, February 12, 1924, at 10 o'clock a. m. and continuing thereafter from day to day as long as may be necessary, Sundays and holidays excepted.

Manner.—Bids may be made either in person or by agent, but not by mail nor at any time or place other than the time and place when and where the lots are offered for sale hereunder, and any person may purchase any number of lots for which he is the highest bidder. Bidders will not be required to show any qualifications as to age, citizenship, or otherwise. If any successful bidder fails to make the payment required on the date of sale, the lot awarded to him shall be reoffered for sale on the following day.

Terms.—No lot will be disposed of for less than its appraised value; one-fourth of the bid price shall be paid on the day the bid is accepted and the balance of the purchase price may be paid in three equal installments in one, two, and three years after the date of sale.

No entry will be allowed until payment has been made in full for the lot, but in case of partial payment there will be issued to the purchaser a nontransferable memorandum duplicate certificate as per Form 4–014; the receiver in such case will issue an official receipt (Form 4–131) for the money paid. Nothing herein will prevent the transfer of interest secured by the purchase and the partial payment of the lot, by deed, but the assignee will acquire no greater right than that of the original purchaser and the final entry and patent will issue to the original purchaser when all payments are made.

Forfeiture.—If any person who has made partial payment on the lot purchased fails to make any succeeding payment, required under these regulations, at the date such payment becomes due, the money deposited by such person for such lot will be forfeited and the lot after forfeiture is declared will be subject to disposition. Lots remaining unsold at the close of the sale, or thereafter declared forfeited for nonpayment of any sum of the purchase price, under the terms of the sale will be subject to private entry for cash at their appraised value.

All persons are warned against forming any combination or agreement which will prevent any lot from selling advantageously, or which will in any way hinder or embarrass the sale, and all persons so offending will be prosecuted under section 59 of the Criminal Code of the United States, which reads as follows:

> Whoever before or at the time of the public sale of any of the lands of the United States shall bargain, contract, or agree, or attempt to bargain, contract, or agree with any other person that the last-named person shall not bid upon or purchase the land so offered for sale, or any parcel thereof; or whoever by intimidation, combination, or unfair management shall hinder or prevent, or attempt to hinder or prevent, any person from bidding upon or purchasing any tract of land so offered for sale shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars or imprisoned not more than two years, or both.

The commissioner, or his representative conducting the sale, is authorized to reject any and all bids for any lot, and at any time suspend, enjoin, or postpone the sale of any lot or lots to such time and place as he may deem proper.

Very truly yours,

E. C. FINNEY,

AMENDMENT OF REGULATIONS RELATING TO HARDING TOWN SITE, FLA.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, February 2, 1924.

The COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

MY DEAR MR. COMMISSIONER: I have your letter of February 1, 1924, recommending certain amendments to the regulations issued October 30, 1923, relating to the sale of town lots in the town site of Harding, Fla., and after careful consideration the regulations are hereby amended as follows:

Under the title "Forfeiture" the second sentence will read:

> Lots remaining unsold at the close of the sale will be subject to private entry for cash at their reappraised value, or lots thereafter declared forfeited for nonpayment of any sum of the purchase price, under the terms of the sale, will be subject to private entry for cash at the price bid at the sale for such lots.

Further, the last paragraph of said regulations is hereby amended by adding thereto—> and to reappraise any lot or lots remaining unsold at the close of sale.

Very truly yours,

E. C. FINNEY,
First Assistant Secretary.

PAYMENTS FOR LOTS IN HARDING TOWN SITE

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, August 21, 1929.

The Secretary of the Interior.

Sir: At the sale of lots in Harding, Fla., held February 12, 1924, 128 lots were sold for approximately $386,000, of which amount about three-fourths has been paid.

One Lewis G. Norton was living on the land and asserting claim thereto and suit was instituted to eject him from the land.

This department was not advised until July 11, 1929, of the final judgment entered in favor of the Government in said suit. Because of the long delay, the Secretary directed that the payment of installments due on lots would be deferred until further notice and that 90 days' notice would be given when payments were required.

On July 20, 1929, the register at Gainesville was directed to notify purchasers that they would be required to pay the balance due within 90 days from receipt of notice.

Two applications have been received for an additional extension of time in which to meet such payments. It is probable that there will be many such applications.

One of the applicants states that she was not expecting to be called on to pay until near the next anniversary of the sale, which will be in February, 1930. She states that she will be able to pay by January 1, 1930, and asks an extension of time until then. The other applicant asks until the anniversary of the sale, February 12, 1930.

In view of the unusual delay in granting patents, caused by the pending suit, and the inconvenience and hardship caused many purchasers, it is recommended that an extension of time be granted until February 15, 1930, to all purchasers who ask for such extension.

Very respectfully,

C. C. Moore, Commissioner.

Approved August 24, 1929.

John H. Edwards,
Assistant Secretary.

Circular No. 1017

REGULATIONS FOR THE SALE OF TOWN LOTS IN THE TOWN SITES OF HAYS AND LODGE POLE, IN THE FORT BELKNAP INDIAN RESERVATION, MONT.

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, June 16, 1925.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Sir: Under the provisions of the act of March 3, 1921 (41 Stat. 1355), and R. S. 2381, you are directed to cause the unreserved lots in the town sites of Hays and Lodge Pole, Mont., to be offered for sale in the town site of Hays on Monday, August 24, 1925, and in the town site of Lodge Pole on Wednesday, August 26, 1925, at public outcry to the highest bidder at not less than their appraised value, respectively, in the manner and on the terms hereinafter described and under the supervision of the Commissioner of the General Land Office continuing from day to day as long as may be necessary.

Manner.—Bids may be made either in person or by agent but not by mail nor at any time or place other than the time and place when and where the lots are offered for sale hereunder, and any person may purchase any number of lots for which he is the highest bidder. Bidders will not be required to show any qualifications as to age, citizenship, or otherwise. If any successful bidder fails to make the payment required on the date of sale the lot awarded to him shall be reoffered for sale on the following day.

Terms.—No lot will be disposed of for less than its appraised value. One-third of the bid price shall be paid on the date the bid is accepted and the balance of the purchase price may be paid in two equal installments in one and two years from the date of the sale. Interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum will be charged on deferred installments from the date of sale. No entry will be allowed until payment has been made in full for the lot, but in case of partial payment there will be issued to the purchaser a nontransferable memorandum duplicate certificate as per Form 4–014; the receiver in such case will issue a receipt (Form 4–131) for the money paid. Nothing herein will prevent the transfer of interest secured by the purchase and the partial payment of the lot, by deed, but the assignee will acquire no greater right than that of the original purchaser and the final entry and patent will issue to the original purchaser when all payments are made.

Preference right.—The act of March 3, 1921, section 5, provides:

> That any person who, at the date when the appraisers commence their work upon the land, shall be an actual resident upon any one such lot and the owner of substantial and permanent improvements thereon, and who shall maintain his or her residence and improvements on such lot to the date of his or her application to enter, shall be entitled to enter, at any time prior to the day fixed for the public sale and at the appraised value thereof, such lot and any two additional lots of which he or she may also be in possession and upon which he or she may have substantial and permanent improvements: And provided further, That before making entry of any such lot or lots the applicant shall make proof, to the satisfaction of the register and receiver of the land district in which the land lies of such residence, possession, and ownership of improvements, under such regulations as to time, notice, manner, and character of proofs as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of the General Land Office, with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior: And provided further, That in making their appraisal of the lots so surveyed, it shall be the duty of the appraisers to ascertain the names of the residents upon and occupants of any such lots, the character and extent of the improvements thereon, and the name of the reputed owner thereof, and to report their findings in connection with their report of appraisal, which report of findings shall be taken as prima facie evidence of the facts therein set out.

The application for preference right should be presented before the date of the public sale, accompanied by proof in support thereof in the form of a corroborated affidavit, setting forth the facts as to residence, showing when it began and the length thereof, ownership and value of improvements, and any other pertinent facts.

Forfeiture.—If any person who has made partial payment on the lot purchased fails to make any succeeding payment, required under these regulations, at the date such payment becomes due, the money deposited by such person for such lot will be forfeited and the lot after forfeiture is declared will be subject to disposition. Lots remaining unsold at the close of the sale will be subject to private entry for cash at their reappraised value, or lots thereafter declared forfeited for nonpayment of any sum of the purchase price, under the terms of the sale will be subject to private entry, for cash at the price bid at sale for such lots.

All persons are warned against forming any combination or agreement which will prevent any lot from selling advantageously, or which will in any way hinder or embarrass the sale, and all persons so offending will be prosecuted under section 59 of the Criminal Code of the United States, which reads as follows:

> Whoever, before or at the time of the public sale of any of the lands of the United States, shall bargain, contract, or agree, or attempt to bargain, contract, or agree with any other person, that the last-named person shall not bid upon or purchase the land so offered for sale, or any parcel thereof; or whoever by intimidation, combination, or unfair management shall hinder or prevent, or attempt to hinder or prevent, any person from bidding upon or purchasing any tract of land so offered for sale, shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars, or imprisoned not more than two years, or both.

The commissioner, or his representative conducting the sale, is authorized to reject any and all bids for any lot and at any time suspend, enjoin, or postpone the sale of any lot or lots to such time and place as he may deem proper, and to reappraise any lot or lots remaining unsold at the close of sale.

Very truly yours,

E. C. FINNEY,

The SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

SIR: Requests have been made for the public sale of the forfeited, unreserved, and unsold lots in the town site of Sanish, in the former Fort Berthold Indian Reservation, N. Dak., and it appears that a sale should be held.

It is therefore recommended that the forfeited, unreserved, and unsold lots in said town site be offered for sale at public outcry, at not less than their appraised value at the time and place, in the manner, and under the terms hereinafter prescribed, as provided in section 6 of the act of June 1, 1910 (36 Stat. 455), which section requires 20 per cent of the net proceeds of the sale to be set apart and expended under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior in the construction of school houses or other public buildings or improvements in the town site.

Time and place of sale.—Beginning on May 5, 1926, and continuing thereafter from day to day, Sundays and holidays excepted, as long as may be necessary, at Sanish, N. Dak.

Manner.—Bids may be made either in person or by agent, but not by mail or at any time or place other than the time and place when the lots are offered for sale hereunder, and any person may purchase any number of lots for which he is the highest bidder. If any successful bidder fails to make the payment required on the date of the sale, the lot awarded to him shall be reoffered for sale on the following day.

Terms.—Payments will be required as follows: No lot will be disposed of for less than $10, and any lot sold for $10 must be paid for on the day it is sold; the minimum of $10 and at least 25 per cent of the bid price of each lot sold for more than $10 must be paid on the date of the sale, and the remainder, if the price bid is $50 or less, within one year from the date of the sale; if the price bid be over $50 and less than $100, 75 per cent of the cost may be divided into two equal payments due, respectively, one and two years from the date of the sale; if the price bid be $100 or more, the 75 per cent remaining unpaid may be divided into three equal payments, due, respectively, one, two and three years from the date of sale. No entry will be allowed until payment has been made in full for the lot, but in case of partial payment the register will issue a nontransferable memorandum duplicate certificate showing the amount of the bid and the terms of the sale, and reciting the right of the purchaser to make entry upon completing the payments; and will issue a memorandum receipt for the money paid. Nothing herein will prevent the transfer of the interests secured by the purchase and the partial payment of the lot by deed, but the assignee will acquire no greater right than that of the original purchaser, and the final entry and patent will issue to the original purchaser when all payments are made.

Forfeiture.—If any person who has made partial payment on the lot purchased by him fails to make any succeeding payment required under these regulations at the date such payment becomes due, the money deposited by such person for such lot will be forfeited and the lot, after forfeiture is declared, will be subject to disposition.

> Whoever, before or at the time of the public sale of any of the lands of the United States, shall bargain, contract, or agree, or attempt to bargain, contract,

The officer who conducts the sale will be, and he is hereby, authorized to appraise any unappraised lot, or to cause any lot to be reappraised which in his judgment is not appraised at the proper amount, and he may reject any and all bids for any lot and at any time suspend, adjourn, or postpone the sale of any lot or lots, to such time and place as he may deem proper.

If some but not all of the lots are sold and if the sale is suspended, the unsold lots, and lots subsequently forfeited, will not become subject to private entry but will be held for further offering at public sale. If, however, the sale is closed, the lots remaining unsold or thereafter declared forfeited will become subject to private entry for cash at their appraised value.

Sir: Requests have been made for the public sale of the forfeited, unreserved, and unsold lots in the town site of Sanish, in the former Fort Berthold Indian Reservation, N. Dak., and it appears that a sale should be held.

It is therefore recommended that the forfeited, unreserved, and unsold lots in said town site be offered for sale at public outcry, at not less than their appraised value at the time and place, in the manner, and under the terms hereinafter prescribed, as provided in section 6 of the act of June 1, 1910 (36 Stat. 455), which section requires 20 per cent of the net proceeds of the sale to be set apart and expended under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior in the construction of schoolhouses or other public buildings or improvement in the town site.

A portion of the lots which you were directed to withhold from future sales by instructions of June 23, 1926 (1222477 "K" CGF), are included in the list of those to be offered for sale as they do not appear to be desired by the North Dakota State Highway Commission for a right of way for the approach to the new bridge across the Missouri River. However, lots 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5, block 38, and lots 7, 8, 9, and 10, block 39, are being withheld from sale until the county authorities have had an opportunity to indicate that they are in a position to purchase same.

Time and place of sale.—Beginning on August 6, 1927, and continuing thereafter from day to day, Sundays and holidays excepted, as long as may be necessary, at Sanish, N. Dak., under your supervision.

Manner.—Bids may be made either in person or by agent, but not by mail nor at any time or place other than the time and place when the lots are offered for sale hereunder, and any person may purchase any number of lots for which he is the highest bidder. Bidders will not be required to show qualifications as to age, citizenship, or otherwise. If any successful bidder fails to make the payment required on the date of the sale, the lot awarded to him shall be reoffered for sale on the following day.

Terms.—Payments will be required as follows: No lot will be disposed of for less than $10, and any lot sold for $10 must be paid for on the day it is sold; the minimum of $10 and at least 25 per cent of the bid price of each lot sold for more than $10 must be paid on the date of the sale, and the remainder, if the price bid is $50 or less, within one year from the date of the sale; if the price bid be over $50 and less than $100, 75 per cent of the cost may be divided into two equal payments due, respectively, one and two years from the date of the sale; if the price bid be $100 or more, the 75 per cent remaining unpaid may be divided into three equal payments, due, respectively, one, two, and three years from the date of sale. No entry will be allowed until payment has been made in full for the lot, but in case of partial payment the register will issue a nontransferable memorandum duplicate certificate showing the amount of the bid and the terms of the sale; and reciting the right of the purchaser to make entry upon completing the payments; and will issue a memorandum receipt for the money paid. Nothing herein will prevent the transfer of the interests secured by the purchase and the partial payment of the lot by deed, but the assignee will acquire no greater right than that of the original purchaser, and the final entry and patent will issue to the original purchaser when all payments are made.

Forfeiture.—If any person who has made partial payment on the lot purchased by him fails to make any succeeding payment required under these regulations at the date such payment becomes due, the money deposited by such person for such lot will be forfeited and the lot, after forfeiture is declared, will be subject to disposition.

All persons are warned against forming any combination or agreement which will prevent any lot from selling advantageously or which will in any way hinder or embarrass the sale, and all persons so offending will be prosecuted under section 59 of the Criminal Code of the United States, which reads as follows:

> Whoever, before or at the time of the public sale of any of the lands of the United States, shall bargin, contract, or agree, or attempt to bargin, contract, or agree with any other person, that the last-named person shall not bid upon or purchase the land so offered for sale, or any parcel thereof; or whoever by intimidation, combination, or unfair management shall hinder or prevent, or attempt to hinder or prevent, any person from bidding upon or purchasing any tract of land so offered for sale, shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars, or imprisonment not more than two years, or both.

You are hereby authorized to appraise any unappraised lot, or to cause any lot to be reappraised which in your judgment is not appraised at the proper amount, and you may reject any and all bids for any lot. At the conclusion of the offering the undisposed of and the reserved lots will be reappraised and the sale will be closed.

If some of the lots are not sold the reserved lots, the unsold lots, and lots subsequently forfeited will become subject to private sale.

Very respectfully,

REGULATIONS FOR THE SALE OF TOWN LOTS IN TABOR, MONT.

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, September 26, 1928.

Register, Great Falls, Mont.

Sir: Under the provisions of the act of June 21, 1906 (34 Stat. 354), you are directed to cause the unreserved and undisposed of lots in the town of Tabor (formerly Charlot), within the former Flathead Indian Reservation, Mont., to be offered for sale at public auction under your supervision at not less than their appraised value on Saturday, October 27, 1928, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m., at Tabor, in the manner and under the terms hereinafter prescribed:

Manner.—Bids may be made either in person or by agent, but not by mail nor at any time or place other than the time and place when the lots are offered for sale hereunder, and any person may purchase any number of lots for which he is the highest bidder. Bidders will not be required to show any qualifications as to age, citizenship, or otherwise. If any successful bidder fails to make the payment required on the date of the sale, the lot awarded to him shall be reoffered for sale on the following day.

Terms.—No lot will be sold for less than the appraised value, and any lot sold for $10 or less must be paid for in cash on the day of sale. A minimum of $10 and at least 25 per centum of the bid price of each lot sold for more than $10 must be paid on the date of the sale, and the remainder, if the price bid is $50 or less, within one year from the date of the sale; if the price bid be over $50 and less than $100, 75 per cent of the cost may be divided into two equal payments due, respectively, one and two years from the date of the sale; if the price bid be $100 or more, the 75 per cent remaining unpaid may be divided into three equal payments, due, respectively, one, two, and three years from the date of sale. No entry will be allowed until payment has been made in full for the lot, but in case of partial payment the register will issue a nontransferable memorandum duplicate certificate showing the amount of the bid and the terms of the sale, and reciting the right of the purchaser to make entry upon completing the payments; the register in such case will issue a memorandum receipt for the money paid. Nothing herein will prevent the transfer of the interests secured by the purchase and the partial payment of the lot, by deed, but the assignee will acquire no greater right than that of the original purchaser and the final entry and patent will issue to the original purchaser when all payments are made

Forfeiture.—If any person who has made partial payment on the lot purchased by him fails to make any succeeding payment required under these regulations at the date such payment becomes due, the money deposited by such person for such lot will be forfeited and the lot, after forfeiture is declared, will be subject to disposition. Lots remaining unsold at the close of sale or thereafter declared forfeited for nonpayment of any part of the purchase price under the terms of the sale will be subject to private entry for cash at their appraised value.

The division inspector has recommended that provision be made for the purchase of blocks 30 to 35, inclusive, at the appraised value, in case the town should incorporate or form a legal association qualified to make such purchase. Said blocks have, therefore, been withheld from the sale in order that the town may purchase them if it so desired and becomes qualified to make the purchase.

All persons are warned against forming any combination or agreement which will prevent any lot from selling advantageously or which will in any way hinder or embarrass the sale, and all persons so offending will be prosecuted under section 59 of the Criminal Code of the United States.

The newspapers in the vicinity of Tabor should be given copies of the notice of the sale as an item of news, and such other publicity should be given thereto as can be done without expense.

You are authorized to cause any lot to be reappraised which in your judgment is not appraised at the proper amount, and you may reject any and all bids for any lot and at any time suspend, adjourn, or postpone the sale of any lot or lots to such time and place as you may deem proper. A schedule of lots showing the appraised price is attached.

Very respectfully,

Circular No. 1180

REGULATIONS FOR THE SALE OF LOTS IN THE SECOND ADDITION TO WOLF POINT, MONT.

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, December 27, 1928.

Register, Great Falls, Mont.

Sir: The plat of survey of the second addition to Wolf Point townsite, Mont., was accepted February 11, 1922.

---

[g] Circular No. 945 which authorized sales of lots in the townsite of West Yellowstone, for cash, on Aug. 25, 1924, is not carried in this publication.

A photolithographic copy of this plat is inclosed, which you will officially file in your office.

The lots within said addition to the townsite were appraised October 24, 1928, and the appraisal approved December 6, 1928. A duplicate copy of the appraisal list is also inclosed.

Block 64 of said townsite was set aside and reserved for the Reclamation Service by departmental order of May 1, 1922. Block 75 is designated on the plat as a "public reserve."

The remaining lots and blocks within said townsite, as shown on said plat of survey and on the attached list, will be offered for sale at public auction June 1, 1929, under the terms and conditions of the act of May 30, 1908 (35 Stat. 558, 563), and section 2381, Revised Statutes, in your office and under your supervision at not less than the appraised value thereof, in the manner and under the terms hereinafter prescribed.

After all unreserved and undisposed of lots have been offered you will close the sale and report to this office the result of same.

Thereafter the unsold and unreserved lots will be subject to private sale for cash at their appraised prices.

The lots in block 8 and block 67, on which a public highway was laid out, under authority of the act of March 4, 1915 (38 Stat. 1188), which highway is not shown on said plat of survey, will be sold, subject to such right of way.

Preemption proof.—Prior to the date of public sale, and on the day these lands become subject to disposal after the filing of the plat, a preemption right of purchase at the appraised price of not exceeding five lots, of which the purchaser may be in possession and on which he or she has substantial improvements, is accorded to any person who at the date the appraisers commenced their work upon the land was an actual resident upon any one lot, to secure which he must file in your office his application therefor and therein state the date of settlement and the value and character of his improvements, and that such residence and improvement has been maintained on the lot to the date of his application to enter.

The notice of intention to make proof must be published twice consecutively in a weekly newspaper (or fourteen times if in a daily newspaper), of general circulation in the townsite prior to the date set for proof, at the applicant's expense.

In order that all bona fide preemption rights may be determined prior to the date of public sale, claimants will give notice in time to submit proof in advance of the public sale.

Proof may be made before you or before any officer duly authorized by law, and must show by record or documentary evidence, where such evidence is usually required, and where not so required by the testimony of witnesses: (1) Due publication of the register's notice; (2) claimant's age; (3) his citizenship; (4) his actual residence upon one lot and substantial improvements on the other lot or lots included in the application. The proof must embrace the testimony of the applicant and of at least two of his advertised witnesses. The purchase price of the lot or lots must be paid when proof is made.

Qualifications.—To qualify as a preemption claimant for lots at the appraised price settlement must be shown at the time of the commencement of the appraisal and maintained to date of proof. A claim is not necessarily forfeited by the settler transferring his interest to another subsequently to the approval of the right, but patent, if issued, will be in the name of the settler and not of the transferee.

Manner.—Bids may be made either in person or by agent, but not by mail, nor at any time or place other than the time and place when the lots are offered hereunder, and any person may purchase any number of lots for which he is the highest bidder. Bidders will not be required to show any qualification as to age, citizenship, or otherwise.

If any successful bidder fails to make the payment required on the date of the sale, the lot awarded to him shall be reoffered for sale on the following day, or if the sale has been closed, then such lot will be considered as offered and unsold.

Terms.—Payments will be required as follows: No lot will be disposed of for less than $10, and any lot sold for $10 must be paid for on the day it is sold. The minimum of $10 and at least 25 per cent of the bid price of each lot sold for more than $10 must be paid on the date of the sale, and the remainder, if the price bid is $50 or less, within one year from the date of the sale. If the price bid be over $50 and less than $100, 75 per cent of the cost may be divided into two equal payments, due, respectively, one and two years from the date of the sale. If the price bid be $100 or more, the 75 per cent remaining unpaid may be divided into three equal payments, due, respectively, one, two, and three years from the date of sale.

No entry will be allowed until payment has been made in full for the lot, but in case of partial payment you will issue a nontransferable memorandum certificate in duplicate showing the amount of the bid and the terms of the sale, and reciting the right of the purchaser to make entry upon completing the payments; in such case you will issue a receipt for the money paid, and assign a current serial number thereto. Nothing herein will prevent the transfer of the interests secured by the purchase and the partial payment of the lot, by deed, but the assignee will acquire no greater right than that of the original purchaser and the final entry and patent will issue to the original purchaser when all payments are made.

Forfeiture.—If any person who has made partial payment on the lot purchased by him fails to make any succeeding payment required under these regulations at the date such payment becomes due, the money deposited by such person for such lot will be forfeited and the lot, after forfeiture is declared, will be subject to disposition.

All persons are warned against forming any combination or agreement which will prevent any lot from selling advantageously or which will in any way hinder or embarass the sale, and all persons so offending will be prosecuted under section 59 of the Criminal Code of the United States.

On the filing of the plat of survey and on receipt of these regulations you will forward a copy hereof to the postmaster at Wolf Point and conspicuously post a copy hereof in your office and a notice to the effect that the official plat of such town site has been filed in your office and that you are ready to receive applications by the occupants of lots to make proof for and purchase the lots occupied by them.

You will also forward such notice to the persons shown on the appraisement schedule attached to be occupying or claiming lots in the town site.

The newspapers in the vicinity should be given notice of this sale as an item of news and such other publicity should be given it as can be done without expense to the Government.

All lots purchased at the same time by the same person for cash should be included in one certificate with one serial number in order to prevent unnecessary multiplicity of patents.

Lots sold at private sale after this sale is closed should be accompanied by an application therefor. Certificate should issue upon payment of the purchase price.

Mimeographed copies hereof will be forwarded you for distribution when available.

Very respectfully,

[Reported, 49 L. D. 484]

CIRCULAR NO. 881.[1]

INSTRUCTIONS AS TO MEASURE OF DAMAGES IN TRESPASS CASES UNDER THE SUPREME COURT DECISION IN MASON ET AL. v. UNITED STATES

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, March 14, 1923.

Chiefs of Field Divisions.

SIRS: I inclose herewith for your information a photographic copy of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in Sam W. Mason et al. v. United States, decided January 2, 1923.

You will observe that the court holds that the measure of damages for the oil trespass involved is within the controlling scope of State legislation, and that the court stated:

> Here, while the suit is one in equity, the statute and decisions relied upon have nothing to do with the general principles of equity or with the Federal equity jurisdiction, but simply establish a measure of damages applicable alike to actions at law and suits in equity.

Hereafter the rule of damages to be applied in cases of timber, coal, oil, and other trespass will, in accordance with said decision, be the measure of damages prescribed by the laws of the State in which the trespass is committed.

In view of the foregoing you will, both as to your pending trespass cases and cases that may arise in the future, ascertain the laws of the State in which the trespass was committed as to measure of damages, and make your demands for settlement and your recommendations to this office in accordance therewith, citing in your reports to this office the book and page of the State statutes and the decisions on which your recommendations are based.

If a trespass is committed in a State where there is no State law governing such trespass, the measure of damages will be as follows:

TIMBER

1. Where the trespass is willful, the full value of the property at the time and place of demand, or of suit brought, with no deduction for labor and expense.

---

[1] Amended by Circular No. 909, p. 1573.

2.[2] In case of an unintentional or mistaken trespass, or an innocent vendee from such trespasser, the value at the time of conversion, less the amount which the vendor has added to its value.

3. In case of a purchase without notice of wrong from a willful trespasser, the value at the time of purchase. Woodenware Co. v. United States (106 U. S. 432).

TURPENTINE

1. Innocent trespass: Value of the gum and injury done to the trees. United States v. Taylor (35 Fed. 484).

2. Willful trespass: Value of the product manufactured from the crude turpentine by the settler, or any person into whose possession same may have passed, without credit for labor bestowed on the turpentine by the wrongdoer. Union Naval Stores Co. v. United States (240 U. S. 284).

COAL

1. Innocent trespass: Value of the coal in place, before severance. United States v. Homestake Mining Co. (117 Fed. 481).

2. Willful trespass: Full value of the property at time of conversion, without deduction for the labor bestowed or expense incurred in removing and preparing it for market. United States v. Ute Coal and Coke Co. (158 Fed. 20).

ORES

Measure of damages is the same as in the case of coal. Benson Mining and Smelting Co. v. Alta Mining and Smelting Co. (145 U. S. 428); Durant Milling Co. v. Percy Consolidated Mining Co. (93 Fed. 166).

OIL

1. Innocent trespass: Value of oil taken, less amount of expense incurred in taking the same.

2. Willful trespass: Value of the oil taken without credit or deduction for the expense incurred by the wrongdoers in getting it. Mason v. United States (173 Fed. 135).

The cases now pending in this office for action will be adjudicated in accordance with the above instructions.

Respectfully,

UNLAWFUL INCLOSURES OR OCCUPANCY

[Reported, 36 L. D. 142]

INSTRUCTIONS TO SPECIAL AGENTS UNDER THE ACT OF FEBRUARY 25, 1885 (23 STATS. 321), ENTITLED "AN ACT TO PREVENT UNLAWFUL OCCUPANCY OF THE PUBLIC LANDS"

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., January 18, 1907.

Registers and Receivers and Special Agents of the General Land Office:

The following instructions are issued under the act of February 25, 1885 (23 Stats. 321), entitled "An act to prevent unlawful occupancy of the public lands," a copy of which is hereto attached.

These instructions will supersede any instructions in conflict therewith, and must be faithfully followed in all matters to which they relate. These instructions must be given the widest publicity and must be faithfully and rigidly enforced. Any unlawful inclosure or obstruction existing after April 1, 1907, must be summarily destroyed in the manner provided for by the act.

1. The law declares any inclosure of public lands made or maintained by any party, association, or corporation who "had no claim or color of title made or acquired in good faith, or an asserted right thereto, by or under claim, made in good faith with a view to entry thereof at the proper land office under the general laws of the United States at the time any such inclosure was or shall be made" to be unlawful and prohibits the maintenance or erection thereof.

2. It provides that it shall be the duty of the district attorney of the United States for the proper district on affidavit filed with him by any citizen of the United States that such unlawful inclosure is being made or maintained, showing the description of the lands inclosed with reasonable certainty so that the inclosure may be identified, to institute a civil suit in the proper United States district or circuit court or territorial district court in the name of the United States and against the parties named or described who shall be in charge of or controlling the inclosure complained of.

3. The execution of this law devolves primarily upon the officers of the Department of Justice, but as it is the purpose to free the public lands from unlawful inclosures and obstructions and to open the same to bona fide settlement, it is deemed incumbent upon the officers of the land department to furnish the officers of the Department of Justice with the evidence necessary to a successful prosecution of the law.

4. All charges or complaints against unlawful inclosures or obstructions upon the public lands must be carefully considered and investigated. The name and addresses of the party or parties making or maintaining such inclosure or obstruction should be obtained by the special agent, who will keep a record thereof.

5. It shall be the duty of the special agent on receipt of any charge or complaint or upon information being acquired by him from any source that an unlawful inclosure is being maintained by any person or persons, association, or corporation, to at once proceed to secure sufficient data, including a description of the lands inclosed, with reasonable certainty not necessarily by metes and bounds nor by governmental subdivisions of surveyed land, but only so that the inclosure may be identified and the person or persons guilty of the violation, as nearly as may be, and by description if the name can not on reasonable inquiry be ascertained, and to at once submit such case with the data thus obtained to the United States attorney for prosecution.

6. It shall be the duty of the special agent to be alert and vigilant to detect the existence of unlawful inclosures in his district, and to proceed in accordance therewith as hereinabove directed, and that he is not to construe his duties as requiring that before proceeding in the matter of an unlawful inclosure there must first be filed with him a formal complaint by some person or persons acquainted with the facts, but it shall be his duty, as hereinabove stated, to take the initiative himself.

7. If an inclosure is upon surveyed land a reference to the section, township, and range should be made; if upon unsurveyed land it may be described in any manner that will disclose with reasonable certainty the location thereof. A survey of the land is not necessary to sustain proceedings under the law, but cases may arise in which a survey may be desirable, in which event application therefor must be first submitted to this office.

8. If after investigation it is found that an unlawful inclosure is being maintained the special agent will make report in duplicate on Form 4–495, one of which will be forwarded to this office and the other to the United States attorney for the district in which the land is situated, accompanied by the requisite affidavit.

9. The special agent must make the affidavit required by law if no other person can be found to make the same, and a copy thereof must be submitted with the report to this office. The affidavit must state all material facts relating to the unlawful inclosure.

10. If after investigation no unlawful inclosure is found to exist, a statement to that effect to this office, giving the names and addresses of the parties charged therewith and the description of the land alleged to be unlawfully inclosed, will be sufficient.

11. In any report submitted to this office it must be shown whether there are any fraudulent entries upon the lands alleged to be unlawfully inclosed; and if so, they must be reported to this office upon the provided Form 4–480.

12. The question, what constitutes a claim or color of title, is one especially for the courts to determine, but special agents are expected to report every case coming to their attention in which the claim or color of title included in such inclosure is not clearly established and defended.

13. The law provides that no person by force, threats, intimidation, or by any fencing or inclosing or any other unlawful means shall prevent or obstruct or shall combine or confederate with others to prevent or obstruct any person from peaceably entering upon or establishing a settlement or residence upon any tract of public land subject to settlement or entry under the public land laws of the United States or shall prevent or obstruct free passage or transit over or through the public lands.

14. Any fence or other obstruction upon any portion of public land, whether entirely inclosing public land or only partially so, must be reported to this office upon the form herein provided for.

15. Special agents will consult with the United States attorneys with regard to any case in which the question of the legality of the inclosure is raised.

CIRCULAR NO. 1163

RELIEF OF OCCUPANTS AND CLAIMANTS OF CERTAIN LANDS IN UTAH

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., September 8, 1928.

REGISTER, UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE,
Salt Lake City, Utah.

SIR: The act of Congress approved April 15, 1920 (41 Stat. 553), entitled "An act for the relief of occupants and claimants of unsurveyed public land in township eight north of range two west of Salt Lake meridian, Utah," provides:

> That on the survey of any areas of public land in sections ten, fifteen, twenty-two, and twenty-seven, in township eight north, range two west of the Salt Lake base and meridian, in the State of Utah, which may be found to have been erroneously omitted from the official survey, plat of which is now on file in the General Land Office, the Commissioner of the General Land Office be, and he is hereby, authorized to cause such areas to be surveyed and platted in such a manner as will segregate the several holdings of the bona fide occupants of such areas as shown by their occupation and improvements.
> SEC. 2. That under such rules and regulations as the Secretary of the Interior shall prescribe all such bona fide occupants as shall have had adverse possession by themselves or their grantors for seven years prior to the approval of the plat of survey provided for herein shall have a preferred right at any time within six months after the approval of such plat of survey to purchase at the rate of $2.50 per acre the lands so occupied and improved in such parcels as the same are so held and possessed by each of them, not to exceed in any one case one hundred and sixty acres.
> SEC. 3. That in lieu of any portion of such areas which may be found to lie within the limits of a grant to any railroad company and to have been for the period of seven years mentioned in the preceding section in the possession of a bona fide occupant or occupants claiming otherwise than through such company, such railroad company shall be entitled to select other lands in accordance with the terms and restrictions of the act of Congress approved June 22, 1874: Provided, That the land described in one certain patent of the United States, dated September 16, 1884, to the Central Pacific Railroad Company as lot five of the northwest quarter of section fifteen of the township and range aforesaid, containing thirty-three and nineteen one-hundredths acres, shall not form the basis for any such lieu selection; but the survey hereinbefore provided for shall be so made as to identify said tract; and title to said tract is hereby confirmed in said railway company and its grantees.

Attention is invited to that portion of the act in which it is stated:

> All such bona fide occupants as shall have had adverse possession by themselves or their grantors for seven years prior to the approval of the plat of survey provided for herein shall have a preferred right at any time within six months after the approval of such plat of survey to purchase at the rate of $2.50 per acre the land so occupied and improved.

Said lands are not subject to disposal until the plats of survey thereof shall have been officially filed in the district land office. It is evident that it was the intent of Congress to grant bona fide occupants a period of six months from the date of the filing of the plat of survey within which to assert their preference right to purchase the lands, rather than from the date of the approval of the plat.

The following regulations are for the guidance of your office and the public in regard to the above-quoted act.

Applications to purchase under this act must be sworn to and may be executed before any officer having a seal and authorized to administer oaths in the land district in which the lands are located and must be filed in your office within six months from the filing of the plats of survey. The applicant must show that he is bona fide occupant of the land applied for; must describe the land which he desires to purchase; the kind, character, and value of the improvements on the land covered by the application; when they were placed thereon, the extent of the cultivation, if any, and how long continued, and that he has had adverse possession by himself or his grantors for seven years prior to the approval of the plat of survey. This application must be supported by affidavits of two persons having personal knowledge of the facts alleged in the application. Upon receipt of such application you will assign a current serial number thereto and promptly forward same to the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

If, upon consideration of the application in the General Land Office, it shall be determined that the applicant is entitled to purchase the lands applied for, you will be authorized to notify the applicant at once, by registered mail, that he must, within 30 days from service of notice, deposit with you the purchase price, or thereafter and without further notice forfeit all rights under his application.

Upon payment of the purchase price of the land except as to lands covered by the last paragraph of these regulations, you will issue notice of publication. Such notice shall be published at the expense of the applicant in a newspaper of general circulation designated by you in the vicinity of the lands once a week for five consecutive weeks immediately prior to the date of sale, but a sufficient time should elapse between the date of last publication and date of sale to enable the affidavit of the publisher to be filed in the district office. The notice will advise all persons claiming adversely to the applicant that they should file any objections or protests against the allowance of the application within the period of publication, otherwise the application may be allowed. Any objections or protests must be under oath, corroborated, and a copy thereof served upon the applicant. You will cause a notice similar to the notice for publication to be posted in the district land office, such notice to remain posted during the entire period of publication. The publisher of the newspaper must file in the district land office prior to the date fixed for the sale, evidence that publication has been had for the required period, which evidence must consist of the affidavit of the publisher, accompanied by a copy of the notice published.

Upon submission of satisfactory proof, you will, if no protest or contest is pending, allow a final entry and issue final certificate, transmitting same to the General Land Office with your regular monthly returns.

Should any application be filed for lands in the odd sections which are within the limits of the grant made to the Central Pacific Railroad Co. by persons claiming under the act mentioned, you will forward same to this office without requiring publication but making your recommendations. This office will then consider the application in connection with the right of the railroad company to make a selection in lieu of the land applied for by the occupant. Publication will thereafter be required if the application is found to be allowable.

Thos. C. Havell,
Acting Commissioner.

Circular No. 994

INSTRUCTIONS UNDER THE ACT OF CONGRESS, APPROVED FEBRUARY 27, 1925

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, April 7, 1925.

Register and Receiver,
Wausau, Wis.

Gentlemen: The act of February 27, 1925 (43 Stat. 1013), entitled "An act granting to certain claimants the preference right to purchase unappropriated public lands" provides:

That the Secretary of the Interior, in his judgment and discretion, is hereby authorided to sell, in the manner hereinafter provided, any of those lands situated in the State of Wisconsin which were originally erroneously meandered and shown upon the official plats as water-covered areas, and which are not lawfully appropriated by a qualified settler or entryman claiming under the public land laws.

Sec. 2. " That any owner in good faith of land shown by the official public land surveys to be bounded in whole or in part by such erroneously meandered area, and who acquired title to such land prior to this enactment, or any citizen of the United States who in good faith under color of title or claiming as a riparian owner has, prior to this act, placed valuable improvements upon or reduced to cultivation any of the lands subject to the operation of this act, shall have a preferred right to file in the office of the register and receiver of the United States land office of the district in which the lands are situated, an application to purchase the lands thus improved by them at any time within 90 days from the date of the passage of this act if the lands have been surveyed and plats filed in the United States land office; otherwise within 90 days from the filing of such plats. Every such application must be accompanied with satisfactory proof that the applicant is entitled to such preference right and that the lands which he applies to purchase are not in the legal possession of an adverse claimant under the public land laws.

Sec. 3. In event such eroneously meandered land is bounded by two or more tracts of land held in private ownership with apparent riparian rights indicated by the official township plat of survey at date of disposal of title by the United States, the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall have discretionary power to cause such meandered area, when surveyed, to be divided into such tracts or lots as will permit a fair division of such meandered area among the owners of such surrounding or adjacent tracts under the provisions of this act. In administering the provisions of this act, where there shall exist a conflict of claims falling within its operation, if any claimant shall have placed valuable improvements upon the land involved, or shall have reduced the same to cultivation, then to the extent of such improvements or cultivation, such claimant shall be given preference in adjustment of such conflict: Provided, That no preference right of entry under this act shall be recognized for a greater area than one hundred and sixty acres, in one body, to any one applicant, whether an individual, an association, or a corporation: Provided further, That this act shall not be construed as in any manner abridging the existing rights of any settler or entryman under the public land laws.

SEC. 4. That upon the filing of an application to purchase any lands subject to the operation of this act, together with the required proof, the Secretary of the Interior shall cause the lands described in said application to be appraised, said appraisal to be on the basis of the value of such lands at the date of appraisal, exclusive of any increased value resulting from the development or improvement thereof for agricultural purposes by the applicant or his predecessor in interest, but inclusive of the stumpage value of any timber cut or removed by the applicant or his predecessor in interest.

SEC. 5. That an applicant who applies to purchase lands under the provisions of this act, in order to be entitled to receive a patent, must within thirty days from receipt of notice of appraisal by the Secretary of the Interior pay to the receiver of the United States land office of the district in which the lands are situated the appraisal price of the lands, and thereupon a patent shall issue to said applicant for such lands as the Secretary of the Interior shall determine that such applicant is entitled to purchase under this act. The proceeds derived by the Government from the sale of lands hereunder shall be covered into the United States Treasury and applied as provided by law for the disposal of the proceeds from the sale of public lands.

SEC. 6. That the Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized to prescribe all necessary rules and regulations for administering the provisions of this act and determining conflicting claims arising hereunder.

The following regulations are for the guidance of your office until the close of the business hour on April 30, 1925, after which applications to purchase under the act in conformity with these regulations must be filed with the Commissioner of the General Land Office.

Applications to purchase under this act must be sworn to and may be executed before any officer having a seal and authorized to administer oaths in the State of Wisconsin, and must be filed with the register and receiver of your office, or with the Commissioner of this office, within ninety days from the passage of this act, if the lands have been surveyed and plats filed in your office, otherwise within ninety days from the filing of such plat. The applicant must show that he is a native-born or naturalized citizen of the United States, and if naturalized, file record evidence thereof; must describe the land which he desires to purchase, together with the land claimed as the basis of his preference right to the lands applied for, if he applies as a riparian owner, or, if claiming otherwise, under what color of title his claim is based, and that the applied for lands are not lawfully appropriated by a qualified settler or entryman under the public land laws, nor in the legal possession of any adverse applicant; the kind, character, and value of the improvements on the land covered by the application; when they were placed thereon; the extent of cultivation had, if any, and how long continued. This application must be supported by the affidavits of two persons having personal knowledge of the facts alleged in the application. Upon receipt of such application a proper serial number will be assigned thereto.

If the land applied for is surveyed and vacant the local officers, after noting the application on their records, will suspend action thereon and will promptly forward same to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, whereupon same will be forwarded to the assistant chief inspector for investigation and appraisement of the land in accordance with the provisions of the act. If for unsurveyed land, the local officers will note the application and suspend same, transmitting it to this office for consideration as to whether or not the lands applied for are vacant public lands and of the class contemplated by the act under which title is sought. During such suspension the lands described in the application shall not be disposed of.

When an application is received by the assistant chief inspector, he will cause an investigation and appraisement of the land to be made in accordance with the provisions of the act. The inspector making the investigation and appraisement will make a report as to the development or improvement of the land for agricultural purposes, and as to the evidence obtained as to whether or not the lands are of a class contemplated by the act, recommending the allowance or rejection of the application, which report will be returned to this office through the assistant chief inspector.

If upon consideration of the application in this office, with report and appraisement, it shall be determined that the applicant is entitled to purchase the lands applied for, this office will notify the applicant at once, by registered mail, that he must within 30 days from service of notice deposit with the receiving clerk of this office the appraised price, or thereafter and without further notice forfeit all rights under his application.

Upon payment of the appraised price of the land this office will issue notice for publication. Such notice shall be published at the expense of the applicant in a newspaper of general circulation, designated by the commissioner of this office, in the vicinity of the lands, once a week for five consecutive weeks (or 30 consecutive days if in a daily paper[a]) immediately prior to the date of sale, but a sufficient time shall elapse between the date of last publication and date of sale to enable the affidavit of the publisher of be filed in this office. The commissioner of this office will cause a notice similar to the notice of publication to be posted in this office, such notice to remain posted during the entire period of publication. The publisher of the newspaper must file in this office, prior to the date fixed for the sale, evidence that publication has been had for the required period, which evidence must consist of the affidavit of the publisher, accompanied by a copy of the notice published.

Upon submission of satisfactory proof, if no protest or contest is pending, final certificate will issue.

Very respectfully,

WITHDRAWALS

[Reported, 39 L. D. 544]

WITHDRAWALS—SURFACE RIGHTS—ACTS OF JUNE 22 AND 25, 1910, AND MARCH 3, 1909

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, March 6, 1911.[1]

The COMMISSIONER OF THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

SIR: The act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 847), provides that the President may at any time in his discretion temporarily withdraw from settlement, location, sale, or entry any of the public lands of the United States, including Alaska, and reserve the same for water-power sites, irrigation, classification, or other public purposes to be specified in the orders of withdrawal, such withdrawal to remain in force until revoked by him or by an act of Congress.

Section 2 of the act provides that lands so withdrawn shall at all times be open to exploration, discovery, occupancy, and purchase under the mining laws, excepting those relating to coal, oil, gas, and phosphates, there being a further provision, however, to the effect that the order of withdrawal shall not impair or affect the rights of any person who, prior to the date of the withdrawal, is a bona fide occupant or claimant of oil or gas bearing lands and who at such date is in diligent prosecution of work leading to the discovery of oil or gas. No hard or fast rule can be established fixing the amount of work which must have been done by the occupant prosecuting work leading to the discovery of oil or gas. Each case must rest upon its own showing of diligence when application for patent is filed.

The chief of field division should be advised of all such applications and should be prepared to submit showing, if possible, before the issuance of final certificate of entry.

This section contains further provision to the effect that there shall be excepted from the force and effect of any withdrawal all lands which are on the date of withdrawal embraced in any lawful homestead, or desert-land entry theretofore made or upon which any valid settlement has been made, and is at that time being maintained and perfected pursuant to law. Applications to make nonmineral entries by settlers claiming the benefits of the above-mentioned provisions of section 2, will be referred to the chief of the appropriate field division for investigation and report before final action is taken thereon.

Withdrawals provided for under this act include those made for the purpose of classifying coal lands, and it seems that after the passage of this act the previous coal withdrawals were renewed thereunder.

The act of March 3, 1909 (35 Stat. 844), is for the protection of surface rights of nonmineral entrymen where the lands were subsequently classified, claimed, or reported as being valuable for coal, and the act of June 22, 1910 (36 Stat. 583), provides for the allowance of certain nonmineral entries for land having been withdrawn or classified as coal lands. These acts have separated the surface from the coal deposits for the purpose of allowance of certain nonmineral entries, and it is not believed that the act of June 25, 1910, under consideration, was intended to repeal said acts. Therefore, where applications are presented to make final proof on nonmineral entries made prior to withdrawal, for the purposes of classifying the coal deposits, the disposition of such applications should be made with especial reference to the provisions of the act of March 3, 1909, supra, and as to such lands certain nonmineral entries may be allowed, as provided for by the act of June 22, 1910, supra, notwithstanding their withdrawal under act of June 25, 1910.

Mineral applications for mining claims perfected upon oil, gas, or phosphate lands prior to withdrawal, or for such claims upon lands chiefly valuable for other minerals, whether perfected before or after withdrawal, or for claims of the latter class within power-site withdrawals, and applications to submit final proof upon homestead, desert-land, and settlement claims initiated prior to a withdrawal, will be referred to the chief of field division, with the appropriate notation of the character of the withdrawal involved, in accordance with the practice under paragraphs 5 et seq. of the circular of April 24, 1907 (35 L. D. 681), for field examination and full report of all facts touching the character of the land and affecting the validity of the location, claim, or entry, as the case may be, including the possibility of water-power development, if any.

In the administration of the act hereunder, you will also be governed by the circular approved January 27, 1911, relative to cooperation between the Geological Survey and the General Land Office.

It is believed that the foregoing will enable you to properly advise the local officers in all matters necessary to put this act into operation; and where an application is received not specifically provided for herein, you will act upon the same, affording aggrieved parties the usual right of appeal.

Very respectfully,

R. A. Ballinger, Secretary.

MODIFICATION OF OUTSTANDING ORDERS OF WITHDRAWAL

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, October 21, 1912.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices.

Sirs: Your attention is called to the act of Congress approved August 24, 1912 (37 Stat. L. 497), amending section 2 of the act of Congress approved June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 847).

You will note that the provision of the said act of June 25, 1910, that all lands withdrawn under the provisions of that act shall, at all times, be open to exploration, discovery, occupation, and purchase under the mining laws of the United States, "so far as the same apply to minerals other than coal, oil, gas, and phosphates," is changed by the amendment, so as to provide that such lands shall, at all times, be open to exploration, discovery, occupation, and purchase under the mining laws of the United States, "so far as the same apply to metalliferous minerals." By the approval, on August 24, 1912, of the said act, all outstanding orders of withdrawal under the act of June 25, 1910, were modified to conform to the act approved June 25, 1910, as amended by the act of August 24, 1912; and, upon the approval of said last-named act, the lands embraced in such orders of withdrawal ceased to be and are not open to exploration, discovery, occupation, or purchase under the mining laws of the United States, except for metalliferous minerals.

These instructions are in addition and supplementary to instructions of March 6, 1911 (39 L. D. 544).

You will exercise care in the enforcement of this important modification of the withdrawal orders.

Very respectfully,

FRED DENNETT, Commissioner.

Approved.

First Assistant Secretary.

ADJUSTMENT TO SURVEY OF LANDS WITHDRAWN WHILE UNSURVEYED

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, August 12, 1913.

Hereafter, upon receipt of the returns of a survey, the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall cause the tract books in his office to be examined and if it appears that any part of the area stands withdrawn in advance of survey upon any recommendation of any bureau of this or another department, he shall ascertain whether the lands so withdrawn are capable of adjustment by reference to the legal subdivisions shown upon the plats of survey and if so, upon acceptance of the survey, he will advise the proper local land officers of such adjustment, in order that notation thereof may be made upon their records.

If there is doubt as to the lands intended to be withdrawn, the Commissioner of the General Land Office shall at once notify the appropriate bureau, through the proper channel, with a request for description according to the survey of the area which should be held withdrawn and a draft of a new order to that effect, if found necessary, shall be submitted for the approval of the Secretary of the Interior. Upon such approval, proper notation shall be made upon the tract books of the General Land Office and the local land officers shall be duly informed, in order that proper notation may be made upon their records. Any withdrawal otherwise valid shall be valid notwithstanding any failure to make the notation on the tract books, or to give to local land officers the information, or otherwise to follow the procedure required by this order.

First Assistant Secretary.

INSTRUCTIONS UNDER ADMINISTRATIVE ORDER OF APRIL 23, 1921—STATE, RAILROAD, AND LIEU SELECTIONS, ETC.—WITHDRAWALS

CIRCULAR NO. 768

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Washington, August 4, 1921.

Registers and Receivers, United States Land Offices, and Chiefs of Field Divisions.

SIRS: Attention is directed to the administrative order of April 23, 1921 (48 L. D. 96), as follows:

> The Supreme Court of the United States in Payne v. Central Pacific Railway Company, on February 28, 1921, decided that the railroad indemnity selection there involved should be disposed of "on its merits unaffected by the withdrawal" of the land made after perfection of the selection for a water-power site under the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 847). On March 7, 1921, in the case of Payne v. New Mexico the court concluded that the Land Department should dispose of the State's school-land indemnity selection "in regular course unaffected by the elimination of the base tract from the reservation" for forestry purposes after the completion of the selection. In the case of Payne v. United States ex rel. Newton, on March 14, 1921, the court referred to the departmental instructions issued April 25, 1914 (43 L. D. 294), and said:
> "The Secretary stated that the lapse of two years after the issue of the receiver's receipt will bar a contest or protest based upon any charge whatsoever, save where the proceeding is sustained by some special statutory provision."
> In Wyoming v. United States, decided on March 28, 1921, the court held that the conditions obtaining at the date of the completed school-land indemnity selection, with respect to the character of the land, whether known or believed to be mineral, were controlling and that the Land Department was without authority to cancel the selection on the ground that the selected land was subsequenly included in a petroleum withdrawal and proven to be mineral land.
> The administrative ruling of July 15, 1914 (43 L. D. 293), is not in harmony with said court decisions, and in so far as said ruling is in conflict therewith the same is hereby modified to conform to the holdings of the court. All departmental decisions based on said ruling which are not in harmony with those decisions among which are State of California et al. (44 L. D. 118), State of California et al. (44 L. D. 468), State of Utah (45 L. D. 551), and State of New Mexico (46 L. D. 217), are hereby overruled.
> The future adjudication of cases controlled by the decisions mentioned will be in harmony with the principles announced in those decisions.
> This order will not affect the disposition of the question of the mineral character of land claimed under the railroad-land grants, either within the place or the indemnity limits, or under the swamp-land grants. The well-established practice and procedure now prevailing as to such lands will continue to be followed.

In accordance with said order, chiefs of field divisions will report to this office, without investigation or further examination, and close on their books all matters involving State, railroad indemnity, lieu selections, and other like claims to land which have been completed and perfected and are now merely awaiting field examination solely for the purpose of determining whether or not the lands claimed are of value or watering places or for power or reservoir purposes.

Field investigation with respect to minerals of lands involved in State selections, lieu selections, and other like claims is to be made for the purpose of determining their character—whether nonmineral or known or believed to be mineral—at the time of the perfected selection or claim, and hearings proceedings are to be conducted for the same purpose.

Field investigations and hearings with respect to minerals will proceed as heretofore in connection with railroad and wagon-road place and indemnity lands and with lands claimed by States as swamp and overflowed in character.

If doubt is entertained as to whether any particular selection or claim to land is to be returned without field examination or hearing heretofore ordered, advice from this office should be sought in the particular case, and action taken in accordance therewith. The purpose of these instructions is to indicate procedure broadly and in general terms, rather than to formulate specific rules to be held applicable in any possible case which may arise.

The regulations governing selections by States of indemnity school lands and of lands under quantity grants for specific purposes (39 L. D. 39) require publication of notice of the selections to be made by the State and proof thereof filed in the local land office within 90 days after receipt by the State officials of the notice for publication as prepared by the register at the time of the acceptance of the selection. Such selections, regular in all respects when filed, and perfected by the timely filing of the requisite proofs, are effective from the date filed. If defective when presented, or not perfected by timely filing of proofs, they are effective only from the time the defect is cured or the required proofs are filed.

Final action on pending selections coming within the rule announced in the administrative order, supra, made for lands, which after selection were embraced within the boundaries of mineral withdrawals, and in connection with which mineral waivers or elections have been filed, in the absence of request for present action on the record, will be suspended for a period of six months from the date hereof, in order that opportunity may be afforded for the filing of formal motions for readjudication in the light of said order. Notice is given, however, that should such motion be filed, it may be necessary to have a field investigation made for the purpose of ascertaining the known character of the land as of the time of the perfection of the selection.

Respectfully,

WITHDRAWAL OF LAND FOR RESURVEY

INSTRUCTIONS [1]

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, January 19, 1923.

FINNEY, First Assistant Secretary:

The department has considered your [Commissioner of the General Land Office] letter ("F"–M. D. H.), of January 2, 1923, requesting instructions as to whether, in view of the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in Cox v. Hart, rendered December 11, 1922, the rule announced in Hughes v. Greathead (43 L. D. 479), should still be followed.

The Supreme Court of the United States in the decision referred to held that—> to justify the application of the term "surveyed" to a body of public land something is required beyond the completion of the field work and the consequent laying out of the boundaries, and that something is the filing of the plat and the approval of the work of the surveyor. If, pending such approval or, still more, if after disapproval of the survey, the lands in contemplation of law are unsurveyed, it is difficult to see why the same result may not follow when the survey originally approved and platted is subsequently annulled or abandoned because the lines and marks established have become obliterated.

The court held that the act of July 1, 1902 (32 Stat. 728), directing the resurvey of the land, was in effect and intent a legislative declaration that the lands therein described were, when the act was passed and for all purposes of settlement and sale, unsurveyed lands.

In Hughes v. Greathead, supra, Hughes claimed the right to make desert-land entry for a tract of 160 acres in a township which had been on July 22, 1911, suspended from all forms of entry or disposal, pending resurvey. Hughes alleged that his claim had been initiated on February 23, 1912. The plat of resurvey was filed March 10, 1913. The department held that the land was not unsurveyed on February 23, 1912, as it had been previously surveyed and plat filed, and that the claim of Hughes did not come within the provisions of the act of March 28, 1908 (35 Stat. 52).

In making resurveys of land, whether the surveys be "dependent" or "independent," prior valid claims are never jeopardized, and in making independent surveys all valid claims, such as "school sections" and entries or selections, are segregated and designated by numbered tracts.

The department has uniformly held that public land in a township which has been suspended for resurvey is subject to settlement under the homestead law, and in view of the holding of the court in the case cited, the department is of opinion that the rule announced in Hughes v. Greathead, supra, should no longer be followed.

Experience has demonstrated that good administration demands that lands in process of resurvey should be reserved not only from location, sale, and entry, but from occupation with a view to making desert-land entry under the proviso to section 1 of the act of March 28, 1908, supra. You will, therefore, when it has been determined that it is necessary to resurvey a township in a State where the desert-land law is operative, submit a draft of an Executive order withdrawing the public land in the township from all forms of appropriation except settlement under the homestead law until the plat of resurvey is filed in the local office.

TEMPORARY WITHDRAWALS PENDING RESURVEYS TO PREVENT HOMESTEAD SETTLEMENTS—INSTRUCTIONS OF JANUARY 19, 1923 (49 L. D. 413) MODIFIED

Instructions

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, D. C., May 19, 1923.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office:

I am returning herewith a proposed Executive order submitted with your letter of May 3, 1923, providing for temporary withdrawal of certain townships under the act of June 25, 1910 (36 Stat. 847), as amended by the act of August 24, 1912 (37 Stat. 497).

It is stated that the townships mentioned have been examined relative to the necessity for a resurvey and that it is found that the majority of the original corners are lost and there is an overlap extending through three of the townships. Also that the original plats are utterly defective in representing areas and conditions as they really exist.

The proposed order is drawn in accordance with instructions of January 19, 1923 (49 L. D. 413), which directed that when it has been determined that it is necessary to resurvey a township in a State where the desert-land law in operative, the land should be withdrawn by Executive order from all forms of appropriation except settlement under the homestead law until the plat of resurvey has been filed in the local land office.

That order was designed to obviate the effect of the Supreme Court decision in the case of Cox v. Hart rendered December 11, 1922 (Sup. Ct. Rep. 154; 260 U. S. 427), which held that lands in townships suspended for resurvey have the status of unsurveyed lands and that desert-land claims may be initiated thereon under the act of March 28, 1908 (35 Stat. 52).

To allow the initiation of such claims during the process of resurvey would seriously embarrass the Land Department in the equitable adjustment of existing claims, and therefore it was deemed necessary to withdraw the land from appropriation until the resurveys were completed. An exception was made, however, in case of homestead settlement.

Further consideration of the said instructions has convinced the department that no exceptions should be made; but that in such cases the land should be withdrawn from homestead settlement as well as all other forms of appropriation. The same reasons which make it necessary to prevent the initiation of desert-land claims apply in respect to homestead settlements. Experience in adjudication of conflicts arising under resurveys has shown the evil effects of allowing settlers to further confuse the situation by making settlement in townships where the existing claimants are in controversy and doubt respecting the lines of their holdings. Such settlements become a source of embarrassment in making equitable adjustments by way of amendment of existing entries or conformation to the lines of the resurvey. No new claim should be allowed to be initiated until the lines have been definitely reestablished.

The said former instructions are modified to agree herewith and you are directed to formulate the withdrawal order accordingly.

In this connection it may be added that it is the desire of the department that lands be not withheld from appropriation longer than necessary to accomplish the object of the withdrawal, and that withdrawals for the purpose of resurvey be not made long in advance of the commencement of the contemplated resurvey.

E. C. Finney,
First Assistant Secretary.

Circular No. 1160

AMENDMENT, PARAGRAPH 15 OF CIRCULAR NO. 523 RELATING TO DRIVEWAYS FOR STOCK—WITHDRAWALS

Department of the Interior,
General Land Office,
Washington, August 10, 1928.

Registers, United States Land Offices.

Gentlemen: On August 8, 1928, the Secretary of the Interior amended paragragh 15 of the regulations contained in Circular No. 523 under the stock-raising homestead act of December 29, 1916 (39 Stat. 862), to read as follows:

DRIVEWAYS FOR STOCK

15. (a) Upon the receipt in the proper district land office of a duly executed application, in duplicate, for the withdrawals of public lands for a stock driveway by responsible parties in interest, the lands described therein shall be segregated from disposition temporarily, pending field investigation and report and final action thereon by the Secretary of the Interior. The register will assign a current serial number to the application, and at once forward one copy to the division inspector and the other copy to the General Land Office, accomanying each copy with a report as to the status of the affected land as shown by the records of his office.

(b) Pending and during such temporary segregation, applications to enter or select any affected lands may be received and suspended. If the stock driveway be not created as to the lands covered by suspended applications, the same will be allowed, if otherwise regular. If the application to make the stock-driveway withdrawal be approved, all suspended applications will be rejected.

(c) Lands withdrawn for driveways for stock or in connection with water holes can not thereafter be entered or filed upon, and all applications affecting lands so withdrawn will be rejected.

You will give special attention to such applications and immediately furnish the division inspector a duplicate copy thereof, and report without delay to this office, with the other copy, the status of each of the tracts involved, and carry out strictly the instructions contained in the amended regulations.

Very respectfully,

Thos. C. Havell,
Acting Commissioner.
